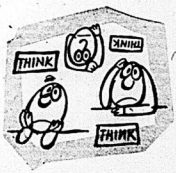
people compete in the oil business

Did you know there are more than 10,000 people engaged in the search for oil in Canada? We know it, because we run into plenty of them each time we try to lease promising oil lands.



Did you know there are hundreds of skilled chemists and engineers in Canada's 42 refineries? We know it, because our own technical people have to work hard to stay ahead of the others in producing better products at lower cost.

Did you know Canada's oil companies employ thousands of salesmen to market their products? We know it, because every day our own sales people are competing with salesmen from other companies.

Canada's hundreds of oil companies wage vigorous competition. The result is increased efficiency, and benefits to the consumer.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

—WIENER" SIGNS WITH THE MACS

Some, the most, will agree with Wayne "Wiener" Brown —others will form, the opinion that he was wrong.

You've seen him cavorting around a softball diamond. He's a mere will o' the wisp (185 pounds in his birthday suit) but a bumble-bee with a bat.

He can run like a scared cheetah—and skate faster. As a goal-getter and playmaker there were few better in the old Pacific Coast League, better known today as the Western Professional Hockey League.

Professional hockey with all its color, glamor and headlines, is a tough way to make a living. And when a guy, who has yet to see his 27th birthday, has a lovely wife with three winsome kiddies, it's about time he started looking ahead.

So says Wayne—and he should know.

Professional hockey was far from being through with Wayne Brown. He is approaching his athletic peak, as the experts would say. They opine any athlete is at his pinnacle of form at 27. He was not fired—he decided to retire for his family's sake.

"I have three children, Wayne, 8; Richard, four and Brian, a year old," the western puck star said. "Wayne is going to school and it won't be long before Richard will become of age. I do not like traipsing my family all over the country, changing friends, environment and school teachers. I decided a nice settle down and native district is good enough for me. I told the powers-that-be I was through with professional hockey."

Wayne signed a contract with the Belleville McFarlands the other day after the management had waded through a mountain of red tape and the usual procedure involved when the release and reinstatement of a pro is required.

That he will fit in with the Mac's scheme of things goes without saying. He is a left winger, not right as the records have it. He compiled an envious record while playing professional hockey.

This department first saw "Wiener" back in 1946 when he was the idol of Madoc's minor hockey fandom. We saw him later in a playdown game at St. Catharines when he stole the show, even from the Niagara district's youthful stars. St. Kitts' officials were quick to recognize puck talent and they practically signed "Wiener" or rather got parental permission before he left the ice that night.

He played with the St. Catharine's juvenile the next year (1947) and helped that stanley aggregation win the OMHA All-Ontario title. The next year saw him up with the St. Kitts junior "A" team, with which he starred for the next three years.

Then he made the big move. "Wiener" hopped from junior "A" ranks to the professional school boy ranks—intermediate experience. He signed with Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League and immediately made his mark. His record the first time out was 29 goals and 29 assists. Not bad for a green rumber from the Ontario sticks.

He played the next season with Tacoma with a record of 27-24. In the 1953-54 season he went to Seattle where he set the loop afire with a sensational record. He scored 49 goals and 32 assists to lead the league in points. Later that year he was called by the Boston Bruins and played in four games of the National Hockey League play-offs.

The next season saw him with Victoria but here disaster struck. He fractured a leg and played only three games, but managed to score a goal and assist. The next season with the same club he had 21 and 26 for 47 points and last year he scored 27 and 34 assists for 61 points.

CATS-MARINES TONIGHT

This evening in an all-important softball battle the Goyer Marines and Bobcats clash at the CNRA Park in what should be a thriller. The squads are all even in their quest for OASA "AA" honors and tonight's winner will have a distinct advantage in this best-of-five series. Wednesday's night's game in which the Cats edged the Marines 3-2 was a thriller down to the wire and tonight's bit should be even better. Game starts at 6.30 sharp.

You will still be in time for the six-man battle at Memorial Arena when Yukon Eric and Farmer Boy will attempt to dust off the Miller Brothers with two referees in the background. This has all the earmarks of a grudge battle and there probably will be fireworks before the smoke is cleared.

Braves up Lead, Cards Lose As Giants Clobber Dodgers; Nats Blast Bombers, Sox Win

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer

What are those other National League contenders trying to do, lure Milwaukee Braves into a false feeling of security?

Any way you look at it, the scramble suddenly has opened up and Braves are on top with a "whopping" 2½ game lead—their largest of the season. They made it as Cincinnati rolled over again, 5-3, Thursday and the seventh-place Chicago Cubs bopped the second-place St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 for a three-game sweep.

Third-place Brooklyn is five games back, skidding with a 12-3 clobbering from New York Giants. Cincinnati and Philadelphia now are tied for fourth, seven games behind, after Phillies defeated Pittsburgh 6-3 while Redlegs lost for the 11th time in 13 games with Milwaukee this season.

SERIES WITH CARDS

If this is the break-up in the big jam Braves should know by Sunday night—after a three-game set at St. Louis.

This isn't the first time Braves have led by six games this year. They held that big a spread for a few hours after winning the first game of a doubleheader at Philadelphia June 16, but then lost the nightcap. St. Louis is the only club that has led by more. Cards led by three for one day July 19.

Just 10 days ago only four games separated the first five clubs, with St. Louis in first by two percentage points over Milwaukee. Since then, Braves have won five of six. St. Louis has been 3-4, Brooklyn and Cincinnati 2-5, and Philadelphia 2-4.

RED DOES IT

Red Schoendienst, the second baseman who was supposed to have brought the Braves the pennant along with his bat and glove when the Giants traded him to Milwaukee June 15, got the job done Thursday. He lined a two-run single in the eighth, knocking in 3-2 ite and bringing Lew Burdette his 10th victory of the season.

Ex-Brave George Crowe hammered his 24th home run (ninth against Milwaukee) and Frank Robinson swatted his 18th in the eighth to junk a 3-1 Milwaukee lead. Reliever Raul Sanchez lost it.

Cubs won six in a row for the first time since 1955 with a two-run seventh against southpaw Wilmer Mizell that cracked a 2-2 tie. Moe Drabowsky won his eighth.

BACK IN LEAD

Del Ennis had a two-run home run for St. Louis while Stan Musial had two singles and regained the batting lead at .334, one point ahead of Milwaukee's Hank Aaron and Pittsburgh's Dick Groat.

Giants completed a sweep of the last three games in the four-game set with Dodgers by scoring four runs in the first against loser Don Bessent. They had 14 hits in all, counting home runs by Willie Mays (30) and Hank Sauer (16).

Ruben Gomez gained his 12th complete game, tops in the league, and won his 12th on the fifth try with a seven-hit job.

Philadelphia gave Curt Simmons a 6-0 lead with three runs in the sixth, two on Gran Hamner's home run, but the southpaw needed relief help in the ninth to win his 11th. Bob Miller nailed it, after Jim Skinner's home run triggered a three - run Pirate rally. Vern Law lost it. He had beaten Philadelphia six times without defeat since June 30, 1954.

AMERICAN YACHT WINS

COWES, Isle of Wight (AP)—The American yacht Figaro, sailed by W. T. Snaith of Westport, Conn., Thursday won the 19-mile handicap race for cruising yachts of 30 feet and upwards at the Cowes Regatta. After deduction of time on a handicap basis, Figaro won in a time of 3:33:38. The English yacht Evelcke came second.

"Must've been stung by a bee. He just gave the signs for the hit-an'-run, double steal, sacrifice, and pitchout!"

Unknowns Oust Junior Tennis Seeded Stars

By JACK VAN DUSEN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Many of the pre-tournament favorites weren't around today as the Canadian junior tennis championships reached the final stages of competition for closed — Canadians-only—titles.

Eight high-seeded players were dropped Thursday, most of them by comparative unknowns, as final berths were decided in two events.

Mike Carroll of Ottawa and Mike Belkin of Montreal will battle for the juvenile boys singles championship while Karin Lukk of Sarnia and Judy Shakespeare of Halifax will fight for the juvenile girls title. The juvenile class is for players under 13.

Semi-finals will probably be played in the boys and girls singles and quarter - finals and semi-finals in the junior men's and junior women's. These finals will be played Saturday.

OPEN STARTS

Early-round matches of the open section of the tournament, originally scheduled to finish today, will begin today.

Carroll, seeded, ousted second-ranked Rick Borland of Winnipeg 6-1, 6-3 to enter today's finals. Belkin is top-seeded.

Karin Lukk upset top-seeded Nicole Gagnon of Montreal 6-3, 6-4 in her semi-final. Seconded Judy Shakespeare trounced Eleanor O'Connell of Winnipeg.

Lanky Joel Glynn, a comparative unknown from Windsor, pulled the biggest upset to date in the boys' singles when he ousted second seeded Don McKnish of Winnipeg.

IN QUARTER-FINALS

Glynn later defeated Derek Penner of Montreal 6-4, 6-4 to enter today's quarter-finals.

Tom McCarthy of Toronto, fifth seeded in the junior men's and Ontario champion, was eliminated by another underdog. Bob Everett of Fort William, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4. Everett entered the quarter-finals with a 6-4, 7-5 decision over Keith Acheson of Toronto.

John Bassett of Toronto and Ann Barclay of Vancouver, top-seeded in the junior men's and women's, each won two matches.

American Golfer Favored To Wear Ladies Open Crown

By W. E. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Marjorie Burns, 19-year-old golfer from Greensboro, N.C., is fast becoming a favorite to walk off with the Canadian Ladies' Open amateur golf championship.

She is the lone American contender left in the semi-finals. Today she meets Mary Guy of Calgary, while Betty Stanhope of Kingston and Rona Neundorf of Toronto meet in the lower half.

The pleasant, easy talking southern girl has shown her golfing prowess through three rounds of the tournament.

She got on her best performance Thursday in the quarter-finals with a convincing 3 and 2 defeat of Rae Milligan of Calgary. The power-hitting western star marched to the lead with nine fours play and sharp putting. She won only two holes from there on the back nine. Marjorie piled up a four-hole lead on the outward trip and picked up another well down the home stretch.

This is the Greensboro girl's first appearance in the Canadian Open. She has won the North Carolina state championship four times, including this year, and was low amateur in the women's National Open.

Marjorie lost little time in running up a lead over Rae. She sank birdie putts of 25 and six feet at the fourth and fifth holes and won the sixth with a par. She had an easy birdie four at the ninth.

Marjorie's game slipped a bit on the back nine. She put her second shot into a creek at the 11th and hit a trap at the 15th, losing both holes, but won the par-four 14th with a five while Rae took a six.

Mary Gay couldn't shake off Elva Carrel of Hamilton until the seventh hole. Mary was two holes up at the turn and finally lost the advantage at the 14th.

Neundorf blew her chance at the 20th when she three-putted from 15 feet, but at the 22nd Mary calmly ran down a six-foot birdie putt while Elva's seven-footer missed by inches.

In the other quarter - final matches Betty Stanhope knocked out Janet MacWha of nearby St. Lambert, 3 and 1, and Rona Neundorf eliminated Mrs. C. F. Spalding of Greenwich, Conn., on the 19th.

Miss Stanhope, whose game has been improving steadily throughout the tournament, had to make a strong finish down the back nine to pull out her match with Miss MacWha.

Betty was one down after nine holes. She took the 10th with a par but lost the 11th to Janet's bogey. Both went over par the next two and Betty moved into the lead by a hair.

Miss Neundorf rolled up a three hole lead over Mrs. Spalding on the front nine. Rona lost the 11th but put the match dormie three at the 15th, winning it with a par four.

Mrs. Spalding sank a short putt for a birdie four at the 16th and won the 545-yard 17th with a par five.

Romak made a great recovery at the 18th to end the match. Her drive was a true, the ball bouncing to the first fairway. Two shots with a spoon left her just in front of the green. She chipped up 12 feet from the pin. Meanwhile, Mrs. Spalding was 15 feet from the pin with her fourth and missed the putt. Rona sank her 12-footer.

Legion Gives $20,000 for Young Athletes

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A $20,000 cheque, to help 250 young athletes throughout Canada to complete under the Canadian Olympic Training Plan at Toronto's Canadian National Exhibition, was presented by the Canadian Legion Thursday to George Dubbie, Ottawa director.

The athletes are to be coached by Percy Stampfl of the University of Melbourne, who has trained such runners as Dr. Roger Bannister, Chris Chataway and Merv Lincoln.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP) — Hunch players had a chance to cash in at Thursday night's featured $3,200 pace at Richelieu Park.

The race, the Diplomat Pace, was won appropriately, by Barney Diplomat, a seven-year-old bay gelding owned by Hector Coutier of Pembroke, Ont.

Keith Waples reined Barney Diplomat over the mile in 2:04 4-5 to beat out Smokey Online and Excellent Chief. Barney Diplomat returned $7.40, $3.80 and $2.60.

The only other Ontario horse to come home on top was Dr. Holden, from Aultsville driven in a mile in 2:09 3-5.

TORONTO (CP)—Two of Canada's greatest pacers meet for the first time at Old Woodbine Raceway Saturday night in a special one-mile dash for $1,800.

One is Ezra Dean, the star of Montreal's two raceways. Blue Bonnets and Richelieu. The other is Captain Wright, who holds the track record at Old Woodbine's three-quarter mile track—a mile in 2.03 flat.

Others in the field are Harry Armley's Sharon Counsel, Vern Evans' Richard Hanover and the import from Batavia Downs, Howard Rosecrans.

The meeting's largest daily double was a feature Thursday night, a payoff of $266.60. Miss Judy Todd in the second race returned $55 for $2. She was coupled in the double with Al Harbor, owned and driven by Jack Stratford, which returned $14 to win the first race.

In the featured seventh race, Margaret Johnston, a four-year-old mare owned by Loros Johnston of Dresden and driven by his son, Ross, stayed off a dazzling finish by 11-year-old States Attorney to return $30.80. Billy De Luxe, owned by Harold North of Florence, also edged out States Attorney for place money — only a head separated the first three finishers.

ELECTED GOLF CAPTAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Jack Burke, Jr., of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., has been elected captain of the 1957 United States Ryder Cup team, the Professional Golfers' Association announced Thursday.

Gary Schrieder Stars in Rider Win Over Sasky

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders made two first-half touchdowns stand up to edge Saskatchewan Roughriders 14 - 7 Thursday night in a closely contested exhibition football game before about 9,000 fans.

Halfback Gary Schreider paced the Ottawa attack with a touchdown and two converts and quarterback Tom Dimitroff got the home team's other touchdown. Both came in the second quarter.

Sam Wesley, formerly of Texas University, picked up the lone Saskatchewan six-pointer on a pass from quarter Frank Tripucka in the third quarter. It was not converted but a single point was earned on Larry Isbell's 57-yard kick - when Doo Watts missed.

The Saskatchewan club showed a more potent passing attack, particularly in the last half, as they ran up 176 yards through the air on 21 completions in 37 attempts. Ottawa got 122 yards on seven completions in 17 passes.

The two club rushed for 171 yards to Saskatchewan's 134.

Hamilton Wins Over St. Kitts

HAMILTON (CP) — Led by Ross Powless with five goals, Hamilton Thursday night defeated St. Catharines in their Ontario Lacrosse Association senior windup engagement. The game left Hamilton in third place and St. Catharines in the league basement.

The leaders are Peterborough, (11 wins, five defeats), and Long Branch (11-6).

Hamilton, which completed the season with a 6-12 record, won with three goals each from Roger Smith and Max Wilson, two each from Gord Burton, Jerry Fitzgerald and Harry Cuming; and a singleton by Bev Bennett.

St. Catharines' tallies were two each by Joe McNulty, Mike D'Amico, and Ron Roy, and singletons by Al Frick, T. Kirby, Doug Smith and G. Moore. The peninsula team's season tally is 5-18.

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP) — E. P. Taylor's Nearctic, reputed the fastest colt ever foaled in Canada, makes his first start of the Ontario racing season at the Fort Erie race track today in the featured five-furlong Sheraton Hotel Purse.

He will meet such distinguished rivals as Sunday Star, Red Sandy and Senor Teddy and Lad Ator.

Thursday's feature race, the Buffalo City Club Purse, was won by Intonation, owned by the New Valley Farm of Toronto and ridden by 51-year-old Pat Remillard. It covered his 11th victory of the meeting.

Royals Blanked Three in Row; Leafs Trim Jets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If Richmond Virginians succeed in the Interstate Baseball Association and win the International League pennant they can point to their final three games with Montreal Royals as the turning point.

Virginians wound up their season's series with Royals Thursday night with a 1-0 victory for their 17th triumph in 22 games. It was the third straight shutout turned in by Richmond pitchers against Royals.

Bill Bethel applied the whitewash with the help of Johnny Jacisk's home run. Jacisk also got the only other hit off Montreal's Bob Darnell, a triple.

Preceding Bethel's shutout for his 12th victory in 14 decisions was a 1-0 blanking posted by John James and a 3-0 triumph over Buffalo Bisons.

SHUT OUT MIAMI

Bisons refused to give ground as the win put Toronto up in a shutout on the four-hit pitching of Walter Craddock in the first game. Marlins 5-0 and remain 1½ games in front of Richmond. Ray Castignola and Dave Pope each collected three hits in the 15-hit attack.

Third - place Toronto Maple Leafs stayed 3½ games off the pace in the Jets-to-be 13-9 victory Columbus Jets and Havana edged Rochester 4-3.

The Toronto - Columbus game was no contest after the third inning. Maple Leafs scored five times for a 4-2 advantage. Jets held a short lead as the result of Howie Goss' two-run homer in the second. Leafs added four more in the fifth on the strength and five in the seventh before Ed Bressoud put out the fire. Bill Morton contributed two homers to Toronto's 20-hit attack.

Hiram Constantino's ninth inning single sent Angel Scull home with the run that gave the Columbus their margin over Rochester.

Bar Pigeons From New York Fight Arena

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York State Athletic Commission has taken a stern stand against pigeons at St. Nicholas Arena.

Monday night somebody let loose a covey of pigeons at the old fight club while Eddie Lynch, a pigeon fancier, was fighting Danny Russo in the main event.

In the ensuing confusion somebody threw two eggs into the ring and two fans were taken to hospital from injuries received when hit by a flying chair.

Promoter Teddy Brenner was advised by the commission to hire extra police for the next expected any crowd that was likely to be exceptionally partisan. Lynch's fans gave in New York attend all his fights with pigeons, firecrackers and horns.

Brazilian Tennis Star Takes Three Matches in Ont. Open

By TOM VIRANT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Brazil's Armando Vieira won three matches Thursday in the Ontario Open tennis championship. But the one that taxed his nerves most was one he "played" as a spectator.

He sat, blanky and sometimes acknowledging a good shot, as his fiancee, blonde Anne Boge of Denmark, defeated Mrs. Benita Senn of Toronto, 0-6, 6-3, 7-5 in the quarter-finals of the women's singles play.

He grimaced, grabbed his head, and gave unsolicited, if not unwelcome advice to Anne, as she missed some of the "simple, stupid" shots.

He was in better spirits as he defeated Canadian Davis Cupper Lorne Main of Toronto 6-3, 6-4 in the men's singles quarter-finals.

Vieira was leading all the way and gave a preview of a shot he is expected to use more as the tournament goes along. The shot is a spectacular lob-return which he developed.

Instead of returning lobs high, he hits them back hard and flat, beside his face, without turning around.

Main started slowly, perked up at the beginning of the second set, but lapsed again and lost as Vieira's beautifully-placed shots whizzed by.

Vieira moves today into the semi - finals, meeting another Canadian Davis Cup player, Paul Willey of Vancouver. Willey disposed of Jim Bentley of Toronto 6-2, 5-7, 6-2.

Mrs. Hilda Doleschell of Toronto, seeded second, defeated Mrs. Anne Freedhoff in the semi-finals, 6-3, 6-4.

Her opponent in the finals is to be decided today, when Mrs. Louise Brown of Toronto, seeded first, meets Miss Bagge.

Hockey Brass To Hold Confab

MONTREAL (CP) — The officers of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and the presidents of all branches will meet in Toronto Aug. 24-25, president Robert LeBel said Thursday.

A brief session will deal with playoffs and the need for more entries in both the Allan and Memorial cups, LeBel said.

LeBel said he understands the president of each branch will call a special meeting to discuss this matter before attending the Toronto meeting.

Deodorant Firms Have Rough Time Dramatizing Sales Talks

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—If television is the great sales medium its merchants claim, most women are applying the roll-on, stream-on, squirt-on deodorants exclusively to their wrists — except when, about to leap into steam cabinets, they apply them to their foreheads.

The reason it, of course, that TV's artificial aides and dopes taste have declared milady's underarm out of bounds visually—although it is not held to be unmentionable.

In fact, the deodorant people have a rougher time dramatizing their sales message than their electric razor rivals. Television may show a lady's leg below the knee even when nothing worked over electronically.

TV men try hard to exclude from their cameras' eye matter-fal which—as the TV code says—is generally regarded as unsuitable conversational topics in mixed social groups."

IN GOOD TASTE

This effort, combined with the general wording of the code, has resulted in some fascinating interpretations of just what constitutes good taste and proper conversation in mixed groups.

For instance, I don't know how much time you spend in your living room looking at pictures of the human digestive tract. We don't spend much, which is probably the reason I have been assuming lately that it is a series of metal pipes, funnels and hinges, all held together by nuts and bolts.

Now we are opposed to clinical diagrams," said one censor for a major deodorant firm, "but those innards when they animated—geometrical or mechanical—illustrations."

NO SIPS FOR LADIES

If you look closely, you'll find that women are never shown "squatting" (deodorant's euphemism for this word instead of "drinking") beer.

You'll find rugged men, tired men, enthusiastic men downing a beer and wiping their lips, but the little lady is permitted only to bring in a tray, bottles and glasses. She may never take a sip.

For a long time, manufacturers of such intimate articles of apparel as girdles and brassieres were deprived of a TV commercial time.

Then, of them, however, finally managed to get through the lines of good taste with a filmed bit showing first a fully clothed female as comfortable a s a kitten. Then, in the same setting, an animated girdle and bra—without visible support — performing in much the same free and easy way. This passed the taste muster and everybody got the idea.

Anyhow, if you know some of the taboos, it makes watching commercials almost as much fun as washing dishes.

Los Angeles — George Berry, 155½, Chicago, outpointed Kid Centeno, 137½, Nicaragua, 10.

Jeanette, Pa.—Bobby Gordon, 166½, Akron, Ohio outpointed Johnny Morris, 163, Pittsburgh, 8.

FIGHT DATE SET

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore will defend his title against Tony Anthony of New York Sept. 20 at the 10,400-seat Olympic Auditorium here.

Promoter Cal Eaton said the bout will be televised nationally. The ticket top will be $25 and the house scaled for a $110,000 gross.

Slammin' Sam Has Slim Lead In Golf's Big Treasure Hunt

CHICAGO (AP) — The locker room banter at Tam O'Shanter Golf Club—Kerry Barber and Tony Lema—spent this way:

"To have Sam Snead breathing enough. But to have the guy in front—oh, man!"

Snead, 45, is supposed to be the richest golf pro. He held a one-stroke lead as he swung today into the second round of the $101,200 "World" golf championship, the game's biggest treasure hunt.

Snead fired a seven-under-par 65 Thursday to gain the front-runner spot he has been known to maintain through a tournament. The payoff in golf's biggest—$50,000 in cash and a $50,000 exhibition contract.

ONE STROKE BACK

But Snead wasn't away and flying after the first round. One stroke away at 66 was Barber, third with 67.

Others in the Canadian contingent are Gerry Kesserling of Kitchener with 71; Stan Leonard of Lachute, Que., with 75 and Rudy Horvath of Windsor, who shot 76. Par at Tam is 72, bedeviled by 32 players Thursday.

Bracketed at 68 were Shelly Mayfield, Mike Souchak and Dow Finsterwald, who has finished in the money in 58 consecutive tournaments.

The 69 shooters included Earl Stewart, Jack Fleck, Tony Holguin, Ken Venturi, Bob Rosburg, Bo Wininger and Ernie Vossler.

ALSO CLOSE

Other leaders in the "World" bunched:

Bob Ross Jr., 20-year-old state amateur champion from Springfield, Ohio, shot 71 for a one-stroke edge over defending champion Ward Wettlsuler, Buffalo, Cherry.

Clifford Ann Creed of Opelousas, La., topped the women two major amateur events, U. S. Women's Open and Titleholders Championship.

Marilyn Smith, playing one of the longest rounds in two years, notched a five-under-par 71 to lead the women's pro chase to the a $6,000 first prize. Two strokes away was Mary Lena Faulk.

The 35-year-old Balding, a two pro at Bigwin Inn, accounted for his five-under-par 65 Thursday on the back nine, including birdies on the last three holes. Out-stroke par 36, he came back in 31.

A five-foot putt gave him a one-stroke win over the 215-yard 16th, another five-footer put him down in three on the next, and a cool birdie three on the last hole.

Norris Holdings In Sport Aired To Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Emmanuel Celler (Dem., N.Y.) says sports promoter James D. Norris' holdings in more than one team of the National Hockey League might make the public suspicious "of possible outward situations."

And Rep. Kenneth Keating (Rep. N.Y.) echoed that feeling Thursday, saying it seemed the arrangement could create in the public mind the "possibility of agreements" that might not be good.

The remarks came at the closing session of a house subcommittee, headed by Celler, which has been studying the applicability of anti-trust 'laws to professional team sports.

TV THREE TEAMS

Norris told the group he and his family had an interest in three hockey teams.

Celler asked if partial dual ownership might not violate league rules.

Commissioner Campbell, president of the league, said there was no rule 'against it. He said that the league's governors had approved the plan. Campbell added he feels the Norris family's conduct of hockey has always been good.

Norris testified (1) that he and Arthur M. Wirtz hold a little less than 40 per cent of the stock of Madison Square Garden Corp., which operates the New York Rangers hockey team and that he and Wirtz own the Chicago Black Hawks team and that his half brother and half sisters own more than 90 per cent of the Detroit Olympia Stadium and the Red Wings team.

IN LEAGUE INTEREST

Norris said the ownership plan was well known, explaining that the league governors had urged Norris to acquire the Black Hawks in the interest of the league.

Two players, Ted Lindsay of the Black Hawks and Doug Harvey of Montreal, said there was no shortage of competition among hockey players.

"I think we're pretty lucky to have a man like Mr. Norris in the league," Harvey said.

The session marked the end of seven weeks of hearings.

Earlier, spokesmen for baseball, football and basketball had presented their views.

Pt. Anne, Batawa Win Quinte Tennis Playoffs

Point Anne Tennis Club edged Quinte "Q" and Batawa shaded Trenton 7-6, 7-6, to win Quinte Tennis League playoffs last night The scores were 3-2.

Point Anne won its semi-finals bracket by six matches to four. Winners of this series will compete for the Thomas A. Bata Trophy, emblematic of the league championship.

Yesterday's Stars

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching — Russ Kemmerer, Senators: Shut out Yankees for eight innings on five singles and wound up with a 6-1, seven-hit victory.

Batting—Earl Torgeson, White Sox: Drove in five runs with two home runs, a double and a sacrifice fly in 7-4 victory over Athletics.

FANS DRY AND HUNGRY

DETROIT (AP)—A crowd of 12,000 baseball fans, including 4,000 youngsters admitted free, had to do without hotdogs and drinks at the Cleveland Indians-Detroit Tigers game in Briggs Stadium Thursday.

Russ Narrowly Misses World Jump Record

MOSCOW (AP) — Igor Kashkarov, Russian army physical and technical engineering student scored over the record barrier in the high-jump Thursday for the second time in 10 days. Again he barely missed the world mark.

The Moscow student leaped seven feet, ¼ inch in a minor track and field meet between the Soviet Union and East German athletes. The present world mark is seven feet, ¼ inch set by Charlie Dumas of Los Angeles for the U.S. Olympic trials June 29, 1956. This mark was bettered last July 20 by Valeri Brumsel, Yury Stepanov, who registered seven feet, one inch In a meet at Leningrad.

HOLD SWIM MEET

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—This weekend will see 12 teams compete here in the Canadian open synchronized swimming championships.

Entries have been received from as far west as Vancouver and as far east as Quebec City. Two American teams, from Fort Worth, Texas and Detroit also have entered. The Quebec City team will defend the championship it won last year.

David Nelson Given Green Light by Ozzie and Harriet

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What is a red-blooded all-American boy like David Nelson doing amid the lurid crowd in Peyton Place?

That seemed like a pertinent question as I hunted out to 20th Century-Fox where they are filming the controversial "steaming soap" novel. I found David looking as any red-blooded all-American boy should—loafers, blue jeans and untucked shirt. I put the question to him.

"I'm not sure," he replied blandly. "But it's not so bad, really. I'm still red-blooded and all-American. In fact, I'm the only normal character in the picture."

But what will his parents think of it?

"Oh, them," he replied. "Why, it was their idea that I do it."

PARENTS FAMOUS

As any television viewer knows, David's parents are Ozzie and Harriet Nelson, who are about as homey as apple pie and then some. So if they gave the green light to David's venture into lurid cinema, I guess it must be all right.

Matter of fact, this is David's first venture into movies of any kind, discounting Here Come the Nelsons, which served as virtually a pilot film for their ABC TV series. For the first time, he's playing someone besides David Nelson. He enacts Ted Carter, a regular guy and boy friend of the ill - starred Selena, played by Hope Lange.

"I'm anxious to see how this turns out," said David. "It might open up a whole new field."

Besides Peyton Place, he's got to make 29 TV films with his family this year. He takes a full-time course thishby mail from the high school at the University of Southern California. And he hopes to make the football varsity as a quarterback this year. Yet he doesn't seem harried by it all.

TIGHT SCHEDULE

"The TV schedule isn't so bad," he commented. "We do six or seven in a year and then get off for a week to let dad catch his breath (Ozzie produces and directs). My shooting is in the morning or afternoon, according to when I have classes. When I'm out for the team, they write me out of the script and my brother Rickey carries the load.

"I manage to stay ahead in my studies most of the time, but sometimes it's hard. It's kinda tough to go to the school in the morning, shoot the TV show the rest of the day and have to hit the books at night."

If he succeeds as an actor, it will be a triumph of naturalness. Neither he nor Rickey has had dramatic training. Their careers started when they heard that young Lindsay Crosby was appearing on father Bing's radio show. The young Nelsons demanded equal time.

Result: The two actors playing Rickey and David on the Nelson radio show lost their jobs.

Mustangs to Try New Look In Football

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The University of Western Ontario football Mustangs will try a "new look" this year in an effort to regain some of their old prestige in the interfaculty league.

As he sent out notices to some 48 varsity prospects to report Sept. 2, head coach John Metras hinted that he would convert his offence to the double-fullback attack which Pop Ivy is using successfully with Edmonton Eskimos.

Western has been using the split-T, with variations.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, August 10, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Restraint, a serene disposition and reasonableness are urged for today. Why irritate others and yourself? It is as much wiser and more profitable to be compatible, cooperative, understanding.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — A day of quiet when you can reflect, calculate and evaluate things clearly is often more profitable in the end a busy one. Today is such a day; go slowly, with faith.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Control enthusiasm and a possible "rarin'-to-go" feeling. Most matters will require keen judgment, calmness and careful manipulation for best results.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Avoid needless anxiety, doubt, fear but at the same time, be sensibly careful and think before you act, sign documents or promise that which you may not be able to fulfill.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Don't seek or grant favors without due thought but don't refuse to cooperate, encourage and help where you can, where deserved. A good period for study, planning.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Take stock of yourself and of matters under your supervision. Do not ignore astute professionals of the past but profit by them. Don't fret; be cheerful.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — It may be difficult to go along as easily as you would like now but, with patience and your fine sense of balance work in full time, and by putting forth your best efforts, all should go well.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Today's duties may require extra effort and you may have to control tendencies toward moodiness, but you will find all's worthwhile. You have the talents needed for success; use them.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Uncertainties always exist. Go carefully and slowly; count ten before you act. Beneficent influences for personal, domestic, family affairs. Take things philosophically; don't worry. And don't go to extremes.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — It is never a day in which some good cannot be accomplished. Present influences, while not particularly stimulating, can nevertheless, bring a pleasant—okay if you do your best and are not unreasonable in your demands.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — All situations may not be as you would like this day. You can salvage much, however, by being careful, channelling your activities wisely. Don't gripe; rather double your efforts.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — A good day for study, research, all mental work. But be careful in legal, financial and business matters, and be tactful in conversation. Enjoy wholesome recreation in free time.

You born today are exuberant, impulsive, idealistic, generous and very courageous; will usually meet adversity or opposition with strong resolution. Leo folks make wonderful soldiers. There is strong intuition in this Sign. You can be highly successful in any field you choose if you fit yourself for it. You must reason calmly and recognize your faults. Don't listen to flattery, or be too self-opinionated. Truly great people are usually humble and quietly gracious. Birthdate: Herbert Hoover, 31st U.S. pres.

DIED SAVING PUPS

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A little mongrel dog died Tuesday when she raced into a burning house to save her four pups which had already been removed to safety. Mrs. Louis Latlen said her dog, Zinv, apparently did not know the pups had been moved to a shed behind the house.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

IT'S 150 YEARS OLD!

ALMOST EVERYONE LOVES AN OLD STONE HOUSE, and we have one For Sale on the outskirts of Picton. Over 150 years old, it has been lovingly restored by an old Dutch couple who have left many of the original features, including stone inset, large living room, and dining room with fireplaces. Basement, Henry duty wiring, and oil heat. Three bedrooms upstairs, and a den or fourth bedroom on a promontory with a twenty-mile view of the Bay of Quinte. We believe the escarpment is a small piece of property that has a couple of hundreds of feet of hard clean beach, and a boat dock. Also a nice duck shooting. Extra garage, and sandpits surround the home. Asking price is $18,900. Terms can be set at a terrific bargain. $2,500 will do.

P.S.—WE ARE GIVING about 100 acres of land along with it!

BALLPLAYERS SHOT AT

DADE CITY, Fla. (AP) — A shotgun fired by an unknown assailant at an automobile in which two white and three Negro baseball players were riding peppered the pitching arm of Minnie Tarrones pitcher Richard Colgan late Wednesday night. Colgan's injuries were not serious. The shooting occurred while the players were returning from a Florida State League game with Leesburg at the latter team's home grounds.

NINE BOMBS EXPLODE

HAVANA (AP)—At least nine bombs went off in this uneasy Cuban capital Thursday night. Five persons were injured by two explosions in small movie houses. The army said four rebels were killed in a clash with forces of insurgent leader Fidel Castro on the eastern end of the island. Several other encounters with small groups of rebels in the area were reported.

Sunday School Lesson

We Must Keep Painful Vows

By ROY L. SMITH

It has been a long time since we have been asked to study a more practical lesson than the one assigned to us for this week's consideration in the Sunday school.

According to the story, an old time Israelite was married to two wives, one of whom was the mother of numerous children, the other one, and the older, being childless.

As happens so many times in the Orient, in polygamous families, the peace of the household is wrecked by jealously. Each wife seeks by all the clever little stratagems at her command, to maintain herself as her husband's favorite.

The childless woman in our story suffered tortures beyond description because of her childlessness, and the young wife used her advantage at every opportunity to humiliate her rival. The situation provides a plot for the cinema.

ALL PRAYERS NOT PIOUS

According to our story the childless wife, inconsolable, prayed desperately that her reproach might be removed and that she might be rewarded with a son. According to the popular belief of the setting, this would insure the immortality of the father. Without a son he was doomed to extinction when he died, and he had a right to expect his wife to present him with a manchild, in order that he might achieve a life in the next world.

In hope that a vow might add urgency and effectiveness to her prayers, the wife promised God that she would give her son back, if she could but give him birth.

There was nothing particularly generous, or pious in the promise. Indeed as we read it today, it sounds just a little as if she were driving a good bargain with the Almighty, and that is not such an unusual thing either.

The only prayer that represents real devotion is that one which says, "Not my will but thine." As a matter of fact, it can almost be said that we do not really pray until we are willing to append those words to our petition.

AS WE KEEP OUR VOWS

There is a very serious phrase in the Lord's prayer which we usually slip over quite glibly: "Forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us." It is more than a little dangerous to pray that prayer. God might take us literally, and in the case of some of us that could be disastrous.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for August 11: "HANNAH, A WOMAN WHO KEPT HER PROMISE" I SAMUEL 1; 2:1-11, 18-21.

But suppose we were to say, "Now Lord, please keep your promise to me with the same faithfulness that I keep my promises to thee." In the hour of stress and strain we make large promises, and then when we feel the strain lessening we are apt to say, "Surely God wouldn't hold me to a promise made under such circumstances."

A woman who thought she had a considerable amount of money called on her pastor, asking him to pray that she might be able to recover it. In the strain and anxiety of the loss she said, "Preacher, if we find that money I'm going to give a tithe of it to the missionaries."

But when the money was found (in her own purse) she said, "Brother pastor, you don't really believe God expects me to give all that money away, do you? Surely he must know how worried I was when I promised it. He is a kind God, and isn't going to take advantage of me, in any such fashion as that, I'm sure."

ACHIEVED IMMORTALITY

Hannah, the mother of Samuel, achieved immortality, not because she became the mother of a son, but because she kept a difficult and painful vow.

Any mother knows how. her mother heart must have yearned for the child during those tender years when he was in the temple, attending the old priest. And most of us can appreciate the trembling tenderness with which she came up every year with the little suit she had made for him with her own hands.

It is a fact, of course, that Samuel's birth removed Hannah's stigma, but it is also true that her faithfulness in keeping her vow saved her soul.

One of the psalmists, in describing a righteous man, said "He is one who swears to his own hurt, and changes not." The only way to get out of a bad bargain is the best way—the way of honor and of the unbroken word.

CANNIFTON BOY DIES IN NORWOOD CRASH

Three Deaths Baffle Police; No Violence Signs

Badly Decomposed Bodies Found in Toronto Home

This Could Make Bustles Popular Again

LONDON (Reuters)—A harrowing tale—with a moral—appeared in the quarterly scientific journal of the British Dental Association this week—and it has nothing to do with teeth.

The story was told in a letter by dentist Warren Harvey, who wrote:

"A lady recently entered my showroom and complained that when she slid across the PVC (a plastic, poly-vinyl-chloride) seat of her car her nylon pants disintegrated.

"The sales manager suggested a test, and the lady said she had come prepared for five tests.

"Under suitable chaperonage she reproduced the above results without difficulty."

The moral of the story, which Harvey earnestly pointed out to his colleagues, was to think twice when choosing fabrics for refurbishing dental waiting rooms.

A lady spokesman for British nylon spinners said she never had any trouble of that kind because she always sits on her skirt.

TORONTO (CP) — Assistant Coroner Morton Shulman said today asphyxiation from carbon monoxide probably caused the deaths of three members of a family whose bodies were found in their home Friday night.

However, Mr. Shulman said, he has ordered an inquest to remove confusion surrounding the case. An autopsy disclosed blood discoloration of a type found in asphyxiation but no signs of violence. The fumes were thought to have been from a water heater with a faulty vent.

Neighbors, alarmed by sickly-sweet odors emanating from the Arnold Kirk family's Vaughan Road home, had summoned the police.

In upstairs bedrooms of the tidily-kept two-storey home were found:

Arnold Vernon Kirk, 63, trust-company employee;

His wife, Amelia, 60;

Their son, David, 24, a supermarket clerk.

On the clerk's body, face upward, was on the bed of a front bedroom. Mrs. Kirk's body, face down, was on the bed of the middle bedroom on the same floor, while David's was face down on the floor of that room.

DIED 3 DAYS AGO

Investigators said all appparently had been there for days. There were maggots in and around the bodies, and the stench forced police to don gas masks before entering. The fumes were wafted from the inside.

There was no evidence of struggle or foul play and autopsies conducted shortly afterward on the father and son also disclosed no apparent cause of death.

The vital organs of all three bodies were to be examined today at the Queen's Park laboratories of the attorney-general's department.

Searchers found no weapon of any kind that might have been used to cause the deaths.

The house was equipped with a gas water-boiler and a gas cooking stove, but Consumers Gas Company of Toronto said the boiler's flame was slight when police entered, and the range's pilot jet was going and the taps were closed.

Deputy chief John Nimmo of the detective bureau was reluctant as saying it still is too early to say whether death was accidental, a triple slaying or was a double murder and suicide.

Besides the medical evidence still to be uncovered the investigation revealed the weird goings-on about the Kirk house during the last few days.

Rescue Teams Try to Reach Four Alpinists

GRINDELWALD (AP)—Rescue columns started in Switzerland's 13,035-foot Eiger Mountain today with only slim hope of helping four alpinists trapped on the mountain's treacherous north wall.

Three of the four mountaineers could be seen through telescopes 1,200 feet below the summit. The fourth man could not be seen.

Heavy snow fell during the night. A gale lashed the almost vertical rock face on which the men have been trapped since Monday.

The fact that the three men were not covered by snow was believed by guides that they themselves were still able to move. They climbed up about 1,200 feet Friday after spending motionless 2,500 feet from the summit for four days.

The fourth man remained behind Friday, lashed unroped to the steep rock. Guides said they are certain the man is dead. His body never left after he moved to a ledge.

A pilot who circled the wall.

The plight of the four men—two Germans and two Italians—launched the largest rescue operation ever seen on the Eiger. Nearly 100 men set out Friday with ropes, pulleys, sleds, medical supplies and food.

RUBBER FOR REDS

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Two British freighters, the 2,852-ton Hanyang and the 2,801-ton Hupeh, arrived here Friday with large cargoes of rubber from Malaya, Singapore and Indonesia bound for the Communist Chinese ports of Shanghai and Tientsin.

Today's Chuckle

A violin without strings was displayed in a Chicago antique hand shop.

"This," said the sign, "is yours for $35 — and no strings attached."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synoptic: Slightly cooler but considerably drier air reached Southern Ontario Friday night. Cloudy skies will persist over Southern Ontario this morning with slow clearing this afternoon. Northern areas will enjoy mainly sunny skies today and Sunday.

THREE GUNMEN HOLD FAMILY HOSTAGE FOR DAY

Fail to Win Freedom With Threat to Child

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Using the life of a terrified nine-year-old farm girl as their bargaining point, three youthful gunmen made an unsuccessful bid for freedom from 100 policemen who surrounded them Friday night.

"If one shot is fired into the house I'll kill the little girl," one of the men shouted to policemen.

The officials answered with a barrage of tear gas as the three gunmen, who had robbed a grocery store and shot a policeman, fired random shots from the windows of the farm house.

While all the excitement was going on, one of the robbers kept telephoning the sheriff's office in Canton in between threats that women in the farmhouse would be shot.

NO ONE HURT

But after a two-hour siege in which no one was hurt, the three bandits surrendered.

An armored car convinced them. Canton police backed their shielded car up to the house and stationed an ultimatum. It worked.

Just before the surrender one of the robbers handed a roll of bills to 9-year-old Connie Fenstermaker. It proved to be $200.

The money was part of the proceeds of a $400 holdup at a grocery store late Thursday. In fleeing from the grocery the robbers shot and seriously wounded Constable patrolman Harris Lillie, 44. Then they took over the farm residence of Homer Fenstermaker and his family—six persons in all.

POLLUTION AIR REPORTS

Just over 24 hours later the surrender came. All the while the men listened to radio reports, apparently worried whether Lillie was going to die.

The bandits were identified as William Rhodes, 25, of Anderson, Ind., Robert L. Hayes, 23, of Phoenix, Ariz., and Walter J. Miller, 26, of Los Angeles.

Following their capture, the trio denied that there was a third member of the group, as earlier reported.

The Fenstermaker family said, however, that during their long capacity the gunmen talked about "Jim" and wondered how he was "making out."

Meanwhile, while the Fenstermakers were being held hostage was made by two policemen who investigated a report of a neighbor that a strange car was in the Fenstermaker garage.

LIVING COSTS UP

WIESBADEN, Germany (Reuters)—The West German cost-of-living index moved up 1.5 per cent from June to July this year, the federal statistics office announced today. The increase was mainly due to higher potato and fruit prices. Rents were up 0.9 per cent higher than in July 1956.

Bruce Cabot's Ex-Wife Offered To Have Affairs to Make Stories

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The injury in the Confidential magazine criminal libel trial has heard a little about Hollywood scandal. But the defense and the prosecution says it will blow the lid off Hollywood-gathered gossip next week.

Former Confidential editor Howard Rushmore testified Friday about many of the magazine's story-gathering methods.

He named a one-time figure in Hollywood movie circles as Confidential's "chief source" of information about the purported involvements of film stars.

Rushmore said she is actor Bruce Cabot's former wife, Mrs. Jacqueline de Scaffa. Miss de Scaffa was indicted in the case. She is in Mexico City and say they will start proceedings to extradite her.

Rushmore testified that Miss de Scaffa told him and Confidential's publisher, Robert Harrison, that she "had access to practically every home in Hollywood, had an almost unlimited number of friends and knew their secrets."

He added:

"She said smilingly, 'I can give you stories if I have to have an affair with whatever man you want.'

"I told Mr. Harrison," Rushmore testified, "that we had to be very careful with de Scaffa as she appeared to be dangerous and emotionally unstable.'

Rushmore said Los Angeles private detective Barney Ruditsky as another source of information.

Rushmore will be back on the witness stand when cross-examination by the trial resumes Monday.

The defence says it intends to call up to 100 movie personalities with the intent of proving that Confidential stories were true. The plan was bolstered Friday by Judge Herbert V. Walker's rejected actor Tab Hunter's plea to be spared testifying.

Being tried along with the magazines on grand jury indictments charging conspiracy to commit libel and publication of lewd and obscene matter are Publisher's Distributing Corporation and Fred and Marjorie Meade, operators of Hollywood Research, Incorporation.

Disarmament Talks Seen Nearing Point of No Return

WASHINGTON (CP)—The London disarmament talks are rapidly approaching the point of no return.

In the opinion of competent Washington observers, they are reaching the stage where the United States and the Soviet Union, the two principals in the London discussions, must come to some form of agreement or see the negotiations break down.

If either side says "no" to an agreement, the world may be in for a long and costly arms race. Unless the United States and Russia, along with Britain, a newcomer to the H-bomb community, agree to halt production of atomic weapons, the chance of such weapons falling into the hands of other nations will increase.

Another possibility, if negotiations fail, is that a fourth nation will unleash the secret of H-bomb manufacture.

Two months ago, official Washington entertained cautious hope that a limited first-step agreement might be possible.

However, some observers feel that State Secretary Dulles, with his plan for aerial inspection of all of the Soviet Union, Western Europe, the United States and Canada, may have bitten off more than even most Americans can chew—let alone Russians.

The internationally - minded Christian Science Monitor, taking a look at the new U.S. plan the other day, noted Dulles had offered it as something he was "sure the American people and the American Congress would accept."

However, commented the newspaper, "until the administration spells out just what this inspection would involve and impresses the country with the unquestioned need for it, the country and Congress are more apt to be both critical and cautious about letting the U.S.S.R. photograph the entire United States from their air bases, and stationing foreign agents to be stationed at United States ports, transportation centers and plants.

More than one congressman has been quoted as saying he is all for aerial inspection—but not over his state.

Soviet Leaders Split for Tour In East Germany

BERLIN (Reuters) — More workers promising to do more work, and more speeches piling full Russian support, seemed to be the order of the day as Soviet leaders today continued an East German tour.

The Soviet delegation has split into two parts, with Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev leading one and Trade Minister Anastas Mikoyan leading the other.

Western reporters, barred from following the Soviet leaders into East Germany, have had to rely for news on East German television and radio reports and the official ADN news agency.

The Khrushchev group toured Leipzig Friday. They attended a mass rally in the rain-soaked Central Stadium.

Speaking at the rally, Krushchev said the Communist states have everything needed to give unbidden guests a suitable reception," and that the West's practice of rattling the sabre is a "dangerous game."

The Mikoyan group, on a tour of the Baltic Sea coast, were all but engulfed by 20,000 persons in the market square of the town of Stralsund.

SAILORS END BOYCOTT

BOMBAY (Reuters) — Indian seamen Friday night called off their boycott of foreign ships in Bombay port following an agreement between them and foreign shipping lines on payment of a subsistence allowance. The boycott began Aug. 2 with rejection of the seamen's demand for an allowance of three rupees (about 63 cents) each per day, to be paid from the day of selection for service. Hitherto they had to wait for days before they could claim the allowance.

Think Missing Quebec Child, Age 2, Kidnapped

HEMMINGFORD, Que. (CP) — Police searching for little Lariviere, 2, missing since Friday morning from her farm home near here, have turned to the possibility she may have been kidnapped.

Some 200 volunteers and two bloodhounds spent most of the night combing a 25-square-mile patch of bush and timber near the home of her father, Alphonse Lariviere, without finding trace of the child.

Hemmingford, a village of 500, is about 25 miles south of Montreal. Mr. Lariviere, 32, reported the loss of his daughter missing about 11 a.m. when he couldn't find her around farm buildings where she was playing.

"What I can't understand is how she could have gone so far," he said. "After all, at that age she hasn't walk very far."

He said it was unlikely she was drowned because there are no lakes or streams near his farm. A search of wells did not produce a clue.

Two Polish Subs Head Out to Sea

LONDON (AP)—An admiralty spokesman said today the Royal Navy no longer is keeping track of two Polish submarines last reported heading into the stormy North Sea.

The last we saw of them," the spokesman said, "they were heading south out and around about 50 miles due east of Newcastle."

The navy tailed the subs with minesweepers Friday after they edged close to the Scottish coast, but outside the three-mile limit.

Speculation had arisen here that the crews of the two subs might be wanting to seek asylum in Britain or heading for delivery to Egypt as part of a Soviet arms deal.

RAF HITS HARD AFTER REBELS STALL TROOPS

Unexpectedly Stout Resistance Is Met

MANAMA, Bahrein (AP) — RAF bombers today hit rebel strongholds in Oman with more than 100 20-pound fragmentation bombs.

A ground controller reported having seen warriors of the rebellious Imam of Oman flushed from their well-prepared positions near Firq.

The combined ground force of British troops and supporters of the sultan of Muscat and Oman was stalled Friday by unexpectedly stout resistance at Firq. Air Vice-Marshal Lawrence Sinclair, who announced the air raid, said an attack on Firq was being prepared.

The ground force commander, Brig. J. A. D. Robertson, flew to British Persian Gulf headquarters here Friday night to request the all-out air assault. A spokesman said "there is no political bar to using whatever force is necessary to overcome this opposition."

When British forces first went to the aid of Sultan Said bin Taimur, the rebellion which started four weeks ago they sought to avoid bombing villages at all costs. A member of the ground party was reported killed by his own bomb.

Sam Pope Brewer, New York Times correspondent representing the combined American press with the ground party, reported a withdrawal from Firq under fire to nearby Kershe to regroup for attack.

Firq lies a few miles from Nizwa, which is believed to be the imam's headquarters. Reports said the imam's brother, Taleb bin Ali, has 200 well-trained men at Firq.

A column of Muscat forces was reported to be about 30 miles northeast of Kersha, closing in on Nizwa from the opposite side.

Elsewhere in the Middle East, confirmation of the British charge that Russian arms and advisers have been pouring into the northeast Arabian frontiers of Yemen has come from European travellers reaching Cairo.

Yemen's undemarcated border with the British East Aden protectorate has been recently with sporadic fighting. The medieval little Red Sea kingdom claims border areas of Aden that Britain considers vital hinterland for the port of Aden.

Shirley Platt To Change Sex

MANCHESTER, England (Reuters) — Shirley Platt, 26, who has been living as a man for her sex says she will marry a 17-year-old girl friend "within the next few months."

Miss Platt talked to reporters Friday at her home where she and her three-year romance with Joyce Schofield, who lives at the same address.

Canadian Living Standards Change, Cultural Satisfactions Now Sought

GEN EVA PARK (CP) — Changes in the Canadian standard of living, says a political economist, have led to changed ideas in the mind. More cultural satisfactions are being sought.

Professor Ian H. MacDonald of the University of Toronto told the opening of the week-long Couchiching conference on International Affairs at Lake Couchiching, near Orillia:

"Our standard of living . . . has changed considerably over the years in size and relative content; it is tending to include more non - material, security-oriented services such as life and health insurances and soul-satisfying services such as travel and education."

There are signs, he said, that consumers are attempting to "keep ahead of the Joneses" — the recent minority markets of foreign-built cars, Scandinavian furniture and high-fidelity record players.

Professor MacDonald suggested the greatest gains in the Canadian standard of living are to be made in the area of things which are consumed or valued in common, such as protection of wild life, conservation of resources and countryside, beautification of cities and provision of areas for recreation.

Professor MacKenzie, a Toronto business executive, said comfort and leisure-giving qualities of the most important characteristics of Canada's standard of living.

"This would seem to be the reason that formality in clothes, in entertainment and in all our living arrangements has given way to the casual approach," Mr. MacKenzie said.

Don Jarrell, 9, Killed Instantly, 4 Others Hurt

Car Leaves Road, Hits Tree, On Way Home From Fair

A nine-year-old boy was instantly killed and four other persons seriously injured in a car crash one mile west of Norwood on Highway 7 at one o'clock this morning.

Dead is Don Jarrell, 9, eldest son of Lorne Jarrell, well known Canniton pure-bred cattle breeder, and Mrs. Jarrell.

In Peterborough Civic Hospital suffering with a fractured pelvis is Douglas Jarrell, 8, a brother; Allan Jones, 17, Canniton, and Leslie Haight, R. R. 1 Corbyville.

Robert E. Boyd, 20, R. R. 1 Belleville, said to be the driver of the car, was rushed to Toronto General Hospital shortly after eight o'clock this morning with undetermined but critical injuries.

According to investigating police officers, the Boyd car was proceeding in a easterly direction, when it is believed to have gone out of control, careened across the highway and crashed into a tree.

Both Jones and Haight, who was stated, had taken two of the younger sons of Mr. Jarrell to the Peterborough Fair where he was showing prize Jerseys. He was bringing the two eldest boys home when the accident occurred.

The injured persons were treated at the scene of the accident and later taken to the Peterborough hospital. Boyd's injuries were found to be critical and he was rushed to Toronto by ambulance.

Police said the car was badly damaged with the front practically slaved in.

Provincial police officers, Corporal J. A. Cutter and Constable John Grey of the Peterborough detachment investigated the accident.

Donald Gerrard Jarrell was a member of Holy Rosary Catholic Church and besides his parents is survived by three brothers, Douglas, Robert and Glen, and one sister Diane, all at home.

Douglas Jarrell, 8, injured, and Don Jarrell, 9, killed instantly.

Four Members Of Family Die In Car Accident

WINNIPEG (CP)—Four members of one family were killed and two others were severely injured Friday in a head-on collision near here between a truck and a car.

Dead are Fred Gilbert, about 50, his wife Sarah, and two sons, Ronald, 17, and Fred Gilbert, Jr., who was Billy Gilbert, 15, and David, 10.

Truck driver Herman Berman, 40, was not injured.

Golden Wedding Present Could Be Interesting

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — It was a special day—their 50th wedding anniversary—for Mrs. John Semach presented her husband Friday with something special: three new sons.

The Semachs have two other sons, one of whom was 6 today.

Medical Experts Defend Theory Of Department

COBOURG (CP) — Two medical experts Friday defended a theory held by the provincial attorney-general's department that 15 parts alcohol in 1,000 parts of blood are sufficient to impair a person's driving.

The theory had been challenged earlier in the impaired-driving trial of William Cowle, 26, of Bowmanville, charged following a December 21 fatal accident on Highway 2.

Cowle's automobile was involved in a collision with a second automobile and a truck. Mrs. Malcolm Logie of Brockville, a passenger in the second car, was killed.

Dr. Ward Smith, crime laboratory director, testified four bottles of beer before dinner and "six or eight" glasses later in the evening, would be sufficient to impair driving. Cowle had testified to drinking that much. A blood sample taken after the accident showed his alcohol content to be 1.2.

CONTRADICTS DEFENCE

Dr. Smith's evidence contradicted earlier testimony by Dr. H. M. Rabinovitch, a Montreal forensic medicine specialist, which suggested Cowle was more shocked than intoxicated.

Dr. W. J. Deadman, a Hamilton pathologist, disagreed with the theory advanced by the Montreal doctor that the food Cowle had eaten earlier would have slowed down the rate of absorption of alcohol into the blood-stream.

Magistrate R. B. Baxter adjourned the trial to August 21 for argument.

INVESTIGATE DEATH

HAMILTON (CP) — Albert Truckle, 50, who suffered a fractured skull during a brawl in front of a downtown hotel last Friday died Friday. An inquest is to be held.

Although it is a statistical fact that the price the average family spends for their medicines is now a lesser percentage of their total income than it used to be ten years ago, it is also a fact that their benefits are now much greater.

Modern prescriptions are really a great value because they help you get well so much more quickly that you are sick only days, instead of weeks. Their price is low compared to their value.

No Conclusion Reached in Milk Strike Talks

Management of Trenton and Belleville dairies met Friday in the Queen's Hotel with representatives of the milk truck drivers' union, but no conclusion was reached after 16 days.

Gordon Gary Butler, solicitor for dairy employers in the two communities, issued this statement today: "The meeting of the employers and representatives of the Teamsters' Union with the conciliation officer, Mr. R. Bradley, was inconclusive, as far as reaching a settlement. The meeting lasted from 4 p.m. to 12 (midnight) and many matters were discussed, but no conclusions were reached."

A spokesman at Reid's Dairy stated this morning that employers have been forced to swallow a "bitter pill," because they have spent years building up their clientele.

"I can't see how we can be expected to come to an agreement (with the union) at this late date. The damage has been done. We don't know how much business we have left," he said.

There have been cases of major violence either in Trenton or Belleville among strikers and workers, although last week in Belleville there was a minor incident.

Spokesmen at Roblin's and Reid's dairies said this morning many drivers wish to return to work. In fact, all drivers have returned to Roblin's for route work.

EWART SAMUEL BAILEY
Stirling

In ill health for the past two months, Ewart Samuel Bailey, lifelong resident of Stirling and district, died at his home on Friday, Mr. Bailey was born in Stirling township, where he died 59 years ago, being the son of the late James E. Bailey and Francis Eaton. He was educated in the public and high school of Stirling village.

The late Mr. Bailey was a successful farmer in Rawdon township and in early life took an active interest in municipal affairs. He was treasurer of the township at the time of his death, a position he had held for some years. He also took an active interest in educational matters, was chairman of the Stirling Area School Board. The Stirling fair was a pet hobby of Mr. Bailey and for some years he acted as treasurer and at one time was president of the Association. He was well known and highly respected in his community.

Mr. Bailey was a member of St. Paul's United Church and fraternally was a member of Stirling Lodge, No. 432, A.F. and A.M. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Gordon (Helen) Nelson of Stirling, two sons, James of Stirling, Allen of Belleville, one brother, Mrs. (Rev.) H. B. Neal of Millbrook; Mrs. R. R. Goldsmith of Wasaga Beach, one sister, Annabel Bailey of Belleville. Also surviving are six grandchildren, also the former Nellie Donnan, died eleven years ago.

Resident of Stirling home:

The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. IRA BRISTOL

STIRLING — The funeral of Mrs. Ira Bristol the former Sarah Maude Lidbetter was held in Springbrook United Church on Thursday afternoon and was largely attended. Rev. Grover Rev. H. E. Beare conducted the service and Mrs. H. Beare rendered a vocal selection.

The bearers were Messrs Arthur Sharpe, Roy Bateman, Orrie Barton, Delbert Fleming, Reg. McKeown and Percy Bateman.

The interment was held in Stirling cemetery with Rawdon township.

The funeral was under the direction of the Duffin Funeral Home Stirling.

MRS. JESSIE THOMPSON

The funeral of Mrs. Jessie Thompson was held from the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Home on Friday afternoon. Rev. Donald McInnes, supply minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Ridgetown, conducted the service in the chapel and also the committal rites in Belleville cemetery.

The bearers were Howard Bertram, Ernest Young, Jack Allin, Howard Heaton, David Thompson and Harry Pickard.

Parents Visit Scout Camp at Presqu'ile Point

On Wednesday evening last a number of parents and friends journeyed to Presqu'ile Point to visit the First Corbyville Troop of Boy Scouts who are in camp there under the direction of Scout Leader Stanley Kerr and Assistant Scout Leader Fred Furniss. They were taken on a tour of the camp and found it very interesting. At dusk all gathered around the campfire where the scouts put on numerous skits and all enjoyed a sing-along led by the Scout leaders. After the campfire, the campfire was very carefully put out, the visitors were invited to the dining hall where Scouters Kerr and Furmidge served cold chocolate and cookies. Mrs. Clayton Sullivan, of Carmel, moved a vote of thanks for this fine treat and on behalf of all the parents present moved a vote of thanks to the Scout leaders for their interest in the boys. Scouter Kerr said he and Scouter Furmidge was delighted to see so many parents present and said it showed their interest in their sons and the finer things of life in God's great outdoors.

'Marching Out' Parade of Recruit Corps Staged

One hundred and eight soldiers of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Militia Corps formed up last night inside Belleville Armouries for the climaxing ceremony of their basic training, eight weeks of military training.

Highlighting the parade was a minute inspection of the seven platoons by Major I. W. Hill, Commanding Officer, Corps Headquarters, Kingston.

Despite the rain, humid night with intermittent drizzle falling outside, parents of the high school-aged soldiers turned out in force to lend moral support to their sons.

With bayonets fixed on rifles, the 108-man recruit corps executed movements of drill so well that they drew high praise from the inspecting officer, with one "your performance here tonight is first class in every way. I am astounded that you have learned so much about drill and marching in just seven or eight weeks of training here."

After carrying out his inspection, accompanied by Lieutenant-Colonel E. S. Fairman, commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, and Major W. C. Burgoyne, officer commanding the Recruit Corps, Major Hill spoke briefly to the parade and assembly of the parents.

"you boys may choose to join the regular militia here or the reserve force army."

Lieut.-Col. Fairman, addressing the parade Major Hill, stressed the need for "at least a grade 12 education before joining the army" and urged that Major Hill, hoped some of the recruits would eventually step up to ones when they graduate from high school.

Lieut.-Col. Fairman extended thanks to Major Burgoyne and his staff of instructors for "the wonderful such a magnificent corps this year." In turn, the Hasty Pete commanding officer thanked the non-commissioned officers of the recruit corps for their help in the development of the corps.

NEED EDUCATED RECRUITS

The lieutenant-colonel underlided his remarks by echoing the words of Major Hill, stressing the need for educated recruits in the modern Canadian army.

"But remember, we don't want you in the Hasty Pete if the militia will interfere with your schooling," he said.

The finale of the parade came when Lieut.-Col. Fairman presented the following awards: For the best recruits platoons — Pte. J. Evans (Cpl. Wolfe-ville; Pte. K. J. Williams (No. 2), Picton and Pte. G. D. Deacon (No. 3), Belleville platoon. For the recruits howlfig the most improvement since the start of the course, Pte. D. J. Zebedee (No. 1), Belleville; Pte. W. H. Kelleher (No. 2), Belleville and Pte. A. B. Hollows (No. 3), Belleville.

Throughout the inspection exercises, the Quinte Highland Pipe Band provided background and marching music. After the parade had been dismissed, recruits joined their parents and girl friends at a dance and reception in the armouries.

But the recruits have not yet finished their summer course, for next week they must buckle down to the serious business of examinations, both written and practical.

Couch-Newton Store Sold to Toronto Firm

One of Trenton's oldest dry goods firms, Couch - Newton Ltd., has been purchased by A. Bradshaw and Sons, Ltd., Toronto, while Mr. Oswald M. Newton and Mayor Kennedy J. Couch, who have been partners in business for 38 years, will enter retirement.

Mr. A. Bradshaw said there will be no change in staff or stock of goods. His firm will address as much as possible, to the policies set up by the original owners.

The purchase of Couch-Newton's follows in line with Mr. Bradshaw tradition of operating a number of stores in central and southern Ontario, using only one name, Bradshaw's.

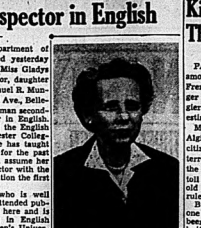
Mr. Newton entered the mercantile field as an errand boy with Wakely's in Lindsay some years ago, while his partner, Mayor Couch, started out also as a parcel boy at Scougal's in Cobourg and Colborne.

Mr. Bradshaw has been in the mercantile business for 37 years.

MAY BE TYPHOID

INDIANPOLIS (AP)—The state board of health reported Friday it is investigating a possible outbreak of typhoid fever among runs at the mother house of the Sisters of St. Francis at Oldenburg, Ind. Dr. A. C. Offutt, state health commissioner, said 18 persons are ill at the convent and "all symptoms point toward the possibility of typhoid fever."

Ex-Resident First Woman To Be Inspector in English



MISS GLADYS MUNNINGS

The Ontario Department of Education announced yesterday the appointment of Miss Gladys Munnings of Windsor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel R. Munnings, 138 McDonald Ave., Belleville, as the first woman secondary school inspector in English.

Formerly head of the English department at Forrester Collegiate in Windsor, she has taught in the Border City for the past 15 years. She will supervise the new duties as inspector with the department of education the first of September.

Miss Munnings, who is well known in the city, attended public and high school here and is an honor graduate in English and History at Queen's University. Following graduation she went directly to Windsor to teach.

Fortunes of Man, Who Slapped Peer, Take Mixed Turn

LONDON (CP) — Passions aroused by Lord Altrincham's controversial views on the functions of royalty are rapidly resolving into one of the prime ex-hibits of London's silly season.

The accused is Lord Altrincham's defenders and detractors are locked in enthusiastic battle recorded by newspapers anxious to brighten the midsummer doldrums with the latest manifestations of midsummer madness.

The fortunes of Philip Kinghorn Burbridge, who slapped Altrincham's face in the House, take a mixed turn. Several citizens congratulated him for his pluck for insulting behavior and hailed him as a hero. But his landlady gave him notice "because of the publicity."

Fancy dress man on Friday's front pages was Jim Wicks, manager of heavyweight boxer Henry Cooper, who burst into print by offering Altrincham a job as Cooper's sparring partner at £10 a round.

Wicks didn't bother explaining why he felt the literary Altrincham was qualified for the job.

He did just happen to be a magistrate Cooper has a date to fight British champion Joe Erskine in October.

And in Rome, Renato Marmiroli, a duelling enthusiast, said he would accept Lord Altrincham's choice of umbrellas for a challenge to a duel.

Marmiroli, a clerk in an Italian insurance company, issued the challenge to Altrincham because he said he considered the British nobleman's criticism of Queen Elizabeth an affront to all monarchists.

Altrincham, laughing it off, was not impressed by the duel challenged party he chose as a weapon the umbrella.

"I can't," Marmiroli announced. But he imposed a condition.

He said he would duel with an umbrella "if Queen Elizabeth herself takes part in it, too." Marmiroli insists that in sunny Italy he never has had occasion to bear an umbrella.

Market Prices Remain Firm

A sunny day brought a large group of buyers to the market this morning.

Apples, selling at 75 cents a six-quart basket, remained stable on the market. Prices for blueberries, $3 a six-quart basket, were the same as a week ago.

Eggs were on a slightly downward trend selling at 55 cents for extras, 48 to 50 cents for firsts, 42 to 45 cents for medium and 33 cents for pullets. Corn, priced at 30 to 50 cents a dozen, took a slight drop in price this week. Beans sold for $1 a six-quart basket. Midget watermelons were 20 cents each and potatoes sold for 50 cents a six-quart basket.

Yellow and green beans brought 15 cents a quart, five cents off last week's price. They were 50 cents a six-quart basket. Cucumbers, 10 cents each and cooking onions sold for 90 cents for six quarts.

Squash, the butternut and buttercup varieties, was priced at 10 to 30 cents. Small cucumbers were 25 cents for six quarts and the large ones were 5 cents each or six for 25 cents. Cauliflower sold for 20 to 35 cents apiece.

While the farmers up five cents over last week's price, selling at 45 cents a pound.

ARMED TOTAL

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany's Communist regime has 504,500 men under arms, says West Germany's ministry of All-German Affairs. It lists 17,000 soldiers, 172,500 police and 315,000 workers' militia.

Child Injured In Car Crash

An accident Friday night sent one child to hospital for treatment. A car, driven by P. W. McKay, 45, of 33 Crove Street, was proceeding west on Pine Street when police say it failed to stop before crossing Bleecker Ave. A taxi-driven by William John Burbridge, who slapped Altrincham, saw that the cave-in of the abandoned mine stope became apparent. He then alerted the pressing need for an alternative route into the Porcupine area.

He said he could see no reasonable explanation for the cave-in on a bypass planned by the department when a blind man could have suffered. Since I last spoke to you, Mother, I have been praying each night and day Sweetly, tender, fond and true. That I do not think of you. That I do not think of you.

—Sadly missed and remembered by wife Edna.

MARRIAGE — In loving memory of a dear father, Benson Marriage, who passed away one year ago today, August 10th. 1956.

More Africans Killed in Paris Than in Algiers

PARIS (Reuters) — Violence among North Africans in the French Capital is taking a bigger toll than terrorism in Algiers itself, according to latest estimates.

Mayor Jacques Chevallier of Algiers said this week that one Algiers or city killed in the terrorism every two days — on the average — as part of the toll in the nearly three-year-old insurrection against French rule in Algeria.

But in Paris an average of one North African a day has been killed in shooting and knife attacks in the first eight days of August.

Total for the whole of metropolitan France in the first week of August, counting the Algerian estimate based on police reports, is at least 18 killed.

French police attribute the upsurge of violence among the 350,000 North Africans employed in France to intimidation by Algerian nationalists against moderates who back reform and uprising, and to rivalry between nationalist groups in France.

Acting Mayor Wants Another Route Started

TIMMINS (CP) — Councillor A. G. Couture, acting mayor in the absence of Leo Del Villano, said Friday that the cave-in of the abandoned mine stope behind Timmins Square is another reason why a second road is necessary.

Residents in the McKay car at the time were Mrs. P. W. McKay and six-year-old Heather. She was treated in hospital for head lacerations. Mr. McKay was charged with failing to stop for a "Stop" sign.

CAR HITS POLE

Early this morning a car owned and driven by George Arthur Carson, 32, was travelling east on Dundas Street West in front of Patterson's service station. It suddenly swerved to the north side of the street, striking a utility pole. Damage to the front end of the car amounted to about $200. The driver received a cut over his right eye He was treated in hospital and released.

The Belleville area nearly spent the night in an insurance office. The reason was locked in the London Life Insurance office early last evening when she had gone there to pay a bill past closing time. Fortunately for her, someone discovered her and unlocked the door.

Gales Sweep English Coast

LONDON (Reuters) — Gales swept the English south coast Friday, after other storms struck at France and Italy during the night.

Two men sheltering from the rain in a mountain Italy were killed when their hut was carried away by a swollen mountain stream near Bolzano.

Also in Italy, the storm damaged corn, cut off away bridges, disrupted communications, and swept cars and tents from a camp site near Bolzano.

Apples, selling at 75 cents a six-quart basket, remained stable on the market. Prices for blueberries, $3 a six-quart basket, were the same as a week ago.

Eggs were on a slightly downward trend selling at 55 cents for extras, 48 to 50 cents for firsts, 42 to 45 cents for medium and 33 cents for pullets. Corn, priced at 30 to 50 cents a dozen, took a slight drop in price this week. Beans sold for $1 a six-quart basket. Midget watermelons were 20 cents each and potatoes sold for 50 cents a six-quart basket.

Yellow and green beans brought 15 cents a quart, five cents off last week's price. They were 50 cents a six-quart basket. Cucumbers, 10 cents each and cooking onions sold for 90 cents for six quarts.

Squash, the butternut and buttercup varieties, was priced at 10 to 30 cents. Small cucumbers were 25 cents for six quarts and the large ones were 5 cents each or six for 25 cents. Cauliflower sold for 20 to 35 cents apiece.

While the farmers up five cents over last week's price, selling at 45 cents a pound.

Dry Weather Affects Pastures

As result of the recent dry weather pastures in the Ivy and Quinte district are drying and milk production is down, according to Ivy Lea district report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The report indicated that good progress is being made on the combining and binding of grain with farmers saying they have never harvested better wheat and rye. In Hastings harvesting of oats is being held up in some instances because of heavy grain as result of storms.

Tomtoes, sweet corn and pastures require rain badly. Early tomatoes are now beginning to ripen.

MOTHER JAILED

JASPER, Ala. (AP)—A mother was ordered jailed for 60 days and fined $50 Friday after being convicted of leaving her 10-year-old daughter. A Jasper physician testified at the trial of Mrs. Kathleen Sivley that he found 42 lash marks upon the back of Margaret Sivley.

Provinces Will Oppose Hike of Telegraph Rates

OTTAWA (CP) — The governments of the four Atlantic provinces are getting set for an all-out fight against a railway proposal to change their system of telegraph rates. Under the proposal some rates would go up and some down.

The Maritime Transportation Commission claims the changes would bear more heavily on the Maritimes than on any other part of Canada—a charge admitted by the railway companies.

The railways now want to adopt a simplified plan already in use in the United States. Under it all messages would be charged for on a basis related directly to the airline distance involved.

The net effect would be to increase telegraph revenue for the railways.

The railways have told the board that for many years Maritime rates have been kept generally lower than those for the rest of Canada for "historical reasons."

No protests have been received from other parts of the country.

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B. POWELL

O GOD OF LOVE,
O KING OF PEACE

O God of love, O King of peace,
Make wars thro' out the world to cease:
The wrath of sinful man restrain,
Give peace, O God, give peace again!

Remember, Lord, Thy works of old,
The wonders that our fathers told:
Remember not our sin's dark stain,
Give peace, O God, give peace again!

Whom shall we trust, but Thee, O Lord?
Where rest but on Thy faithful word?
None ever called on Thee in vain,
Give peace, O God, give peace again!

Where saints and angels dwell above,
All hearts are knit in holy love;
O bind us in that heavenly chain!
Give peace, O God, give peace again!

In these days when the threat of war is over much of the world, this hymn of peace whose every verse is a prayer for the end of conflict and the return of good will among men has come back into wide use in the churches.

It was written somewhere near the middle of the eighteenth century by Sir Henry Williams Baker, a prominent English churchman and hymnist whose best verses, aside from those here discussed, were those in which he paraphrased the Twenty-third Psalm under the title "The King Of Love My Shepherd Is".

About the time the war between the states was beginning over here, Sir Henry who was serving as vicar of a church at Monkland, in Herefordshire, brought out a rather limited volume of religious music entitled "Hymns Ancient And Modern. As one of the collection, he planned an appendix for the volume several years later and it was for this section that his "King Of Love" hymn was written.

It was in London that Sir Henry was born in 1821 and, after being graduated 23 years later from Trinity College, Cambridge, he took holy orders and became vicar of the Monkland parish. He died on February 12, 1877 with the words of one of his hymns on his lips.

Women Settled Long Argument

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Wednesday, Aug. 14 — St. Anastasis herself is not much remembered or honored in these times, but when she was a soldier 1,100 years ago she had a hand, and apparently an important one, in the settling of an upheaval that tore the Christian Church apart for more than a century.

This great disturbance w a s called the iconoclastic controversy, which means a controversy about pictures and images in the churches. All of a sudden, in 725, the Emperor Leo outlawed images (icons, in Greek) after the Church had gone on taking them for granted for centuries.

A terrific outcry went up immediately. Icons were dear to the people and valuable to the Church's devotions. Their abolition would shake the foundations of Christian practice.

Nevertheless, Leo, and his successors in office for the next 113 years, went ahead with a program aimed at smashing every holy picture and statue they could find. Iconoclasm means "icon smashing." Resistance, of course, was strong, especially among the monks. Many were persecuted, and some even put to death in the struggle between Emperor and Church.

EACH HAD A CASE

There was a good deal to be said on both sides. Leo and the emperors who followed him were easterners, based in Constantinople, where Mohammedan influence was strong.

To the Mohammedans, as to the Jews, any picture or statue was an abomination, a violation of the commandment against making any graven image. The emperors were conscientiously convinced that icons were an obstacle to the conversion of Jews and Moslems.

The Church and the rank and file of her people, on the other hand, were used to the icons and found them a great help to piety. They did not worship the icons, any more than you and i give our love to the photograph of someone dear to us.

But the icons were, as we would put it today, important "visual aids" to worship, and the people could not lightly give them up. In this stand the Church supported the people. She called iconoclasm heresy.

And so it went until 842, when two women got together and put an end to the argument. One of the women was Theodora the Empress, the other was St. Anastasia. Anastasia was a Greek woman, who had started obscurely enough as a quiet housewife. Married first to an army officer who was killed in battle, she married a second time and soon found both she and her new husband were primarily interested in the religious life. By mutual agreement they separated — he to become a monk, she to found and head a convent.

From that point on Anastasia's obscurity changed to the greatest prominence. Her reputation for wisdom and goodness spread and reached its peak when she was called to Constantinople to be adviser to Theodora. There she remained for seven years.

BAPTISM AND CHRISTENING

Many people draw a false distinction between baptism and christening. The general — but mistaken — idea seems to be that one is baptized if he is immersed in water and christened if water is simply put on his head.

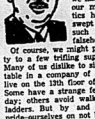
The fact is that anyone who is baptized, by any of the various forms, is at the same time christened. To christen someone is to make a Christian of him, and that is what happens when he is baptized. Baptism is the ceremony of formal admission into the Christian Church.

Anyone who understands the true meaning of the term would never be guilty of the proprieties of use of it in connection with naming and launching a ship. How could you make a Christian of a boat?

A Lift for Living

Still Victims of Propaganda

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN



Most of us would deny it. A superstition is a belief resting on emotion or fear rather than on reason. It is a kind of cobweb in the corner of the mind, and we like to think our mental attics have been swept clear of such cluttering falsehoods.

Of course, we might plead guilty to a few trifling superstitions. Many of us dislike to sit down at table in a company of 13, or to live on the 13th floor of a hotel. Some have a strange fear of Friday: others avoid walking under ladders. But by and large we pride ourselves on not being gullible or credulous. We no longer believe in ghosts or witchcraft.

And the feeling is widespread that religion, as well as ignorance has been responsible for keeping superstitions alive. The man on the street and the student on the campus are inclined to look upon the church as the home of many fears. The church must frankly confess to having harbored many an irrational idea which should have been discarded with the Dark Ages.

But how much freer from superstition is the street than the sanctuary? How much less tormented by fear are Europeans and Orientals in this day of dictators than were their ancestors in the time when Dante wrote his "Inferno"? And here in America if we could analyze the contents of a typical mind, would the proportion of falsehood found therein be much smaller than in the days of our grandfathers? We know more, but we also know so much more that isn't so.

BEDEVILED BY FEARS

Despite the spread of education, we are still the easy victims of subtle propaganda. We are bedeviled by a swarm of foolish ideas, stinging fears and false ideals.

With all respect to the amazing powers of the human mind, we have to admit its limitations. We can talk ourselves into believing almost anything. We can deceive ourselves with wishful thinking. We can be scientists in the laboratory one day and savages the next. We can fool ourselves with what Galsworthy called "cockeyed cocksureness." All these states of mind may be called "wisdom" at the time. And being thus "wise in our own conceits," we superstitiously call many things foolishness which God calls wisdom.

One of our superstitions is that we are afraid to trust the power of God. We fool ourselves as to what is weak and what is strong. Saint Paul said "God hath chosen the foolish things of this world to confound the wise." We think ourselves very expert in this matter of strength. We have become specialists in power.

We have learned how to invent the one blow forces of nature. We no longer have the faith of rivers to trust their natural pace; we change their channels. We dig millraces, we build Boulder Dams. We do not leave fruits and vegetables to ripen with the season; we speed them with hothouses. We try to put "punch" and "pep" into the processes of nature and human nature.

But there are some processes in the world which cannot be put. One can hardly speak of putting it into one's love, or friendship, or sympathy. No, in growing the fruits of the spirit, which are love, joy, peace and their like, the Creator has to keep to His old pace of "first the blade, then the ear, then the full corn in the ear."

There are some areas in life where we cannot say "step live-ly" to the Almighty. We may grow mushrooms in a hothouse, but we cannot rear oak trees overnight. Hence, we who have become so clever in generating horsepower and building time-saving devices often fold ourselves in discounting God's old-fashioned inner quiet forces.

Another superstition is that we are afraid to trust what is not yet established and recognized. We think we know what is real and what is not, and we are determined to be realists. We have seen so many foolish optimists disappointed that we are going to face facts. But in all this, we may forget that it is as possible to fool ourselves by believing too little as by believing too much. There are pessimistic fools as well as optimistic ones. I once heard it said, "A pessimist is a person who isn't happy unless he is miserable and even then he is not happy."

We should not cling to superstitious outrage reason. But we should remember that faith outruns reason. Woe is the man who knows the difference between superstition and faith.

Bulletins from Birdland

NORTHERN FLOCKING

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

Arctic's short summer is already coming to an end, and the birds that nested there are flocking for their annual journey to the south. Believe it or not, even in the unfriendly tundras many birds breed. It seems impossible that even some tiny wilson warblers, with an average length of barely 5 inches, should find their way to the shores of the Arctic Ocean, and now, when we think of this date as mid-summer, they must start on the long trip back to their winter holiday grounds in Central America or still farther south.

Snow buntings nest as far north as land is found; hoary redpolls breed on the tundra bordering the Arctic Ocean and down to the tree line. It must be difficult to bring up babies like these, because unlike the more birds that are born naked, so must be given careful attention in the cold north. We know these buntings and redpolls only from their habit of wandering this far in winter.

But many representatives of birds that pass here spring and autumn breed in the belt where the trees are stunted in growth except for the short summer season. The tree sparrow, the hand s o n e white-crowned sparrow, and the beautiful red brown fox sparrow all come into this group, as do the grey-cheeked thrush and the rough-legged hawk. An extra early start is necessary when the destination is South America, as is the case with blackpoll warblers that breed from the northern limit of trees yet migrate to Venezuela, and some individuals even to Brazil.

BREED IN ARCTIC

Several of our well known ducks breed as far north as the Arctic Ocean — like the mallard, pintail, old-squaw, elder, king elder, and red-breasted merganser, the other was St. Anastasia.

Anastasia was a Greek woman, who had started obscurely enough as a quiet housewife. Married first to an army officer who was killed in battle, she married a second time and soon found both she and her new husband were primarily interested in the religious life. By mutual agreement they separated — he to become a monk, she to found and head a convent.

From that point on Anastasia's obscurity changed to the greatest prominence. Her reputation for wisdom and goodness spread and reached its peak when she was called to Constantinople to be adviser to Theodora. There she remained for seven years.

FAIR DAYS HERE AGAIN

Belleville's annual fair opens Monday. For four days the fair grounds will attract young and old, rich and poor, men and women and children, from city and country.

Annual fairs are a feature of Ontario life. Most of them are called "fall" fairs. Belleville's is not - for the very sound reason that it is staged in mid-summer. There may be those who regard this difference as merely a matter of timing. We beg to differ. Although the purposes for which Belleville's fair is staged are, in the main, similar to those which prompt the directors of "fall" fairs to stage their shows, something new has been added in Belleville's case. There is a holiday atmosphere about our fair, which could not be contrived once vacation-time was a memory, school was in, fuel bills were looming on the horizon and thoughts were turning to bedtime down the hatches - - and the storm windows - - for the long winter just ahead.

The Belleville fair is sponsored by the Belleville Agricultural Society - - but it is much more than a farmers' fair. True, agriculture gets its rightful place, with top billing as the industry which is still the most important in this district, and in the country as a whole. But there are also displays by manufacturers, exhibits by merchants, and varied entertainment. Is this a concession to urban dwellers? Perhaps - - and yet it reflects the fact that the rural resident today is important for more than producing beef and milk and pork and vegetables; he also plays a vital role in our economy as a consumer of the goods that city-folk manufacture. And, like his city cousin, he likes to be entertained.

The date for the fair, mid-August, has its liabilities, as well as its assets. It is too early to permit the best possible display of some field crops, for example, but in the main, we feel that the wisdom of the fair directors in selecting this time has been amply proven. Indeed, this date has made the Belleville fair almost a preview of the mighty Toronto "Ex," with many exhibitors taking advantage of the opportunity of testing the competition before the big show at the C.N.E.

MUNICIPAL TAX FIGURES

Belleville's tax levy per capita was $80.94 in 1956. According to the annual report of municipal statistics for 1956, just released by the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs, this makes Belleville a middle-sized city, nowhere near as rich or as poor, as New Toronto, where the tax levy equals $130.13 per capita, but still a long way from being in Objibway's class, where the tax per capita is nil. In case any reader is thinking of leaving for Ojibway in the morning, we advise caution. First it might be well to discover how this "nil" is translated into mills. We have some suspicion that it is done with mirrors and that the only reason why the tax per capita is shown as "nil" is because the assessed population is also shown as "nil," leaving the total tax levy of $82,582 to be divided between no persons. If this makes one discard Ojibway as a likely place to live, the next best bet would seem to be Nesterville, where the tax per capita is $5.57 and total tax revenue is only $875.

Perhaps, though, the reader may be one of those realists who maintains that taxation per capita does not mean anything, since one municipality may have a high propoportion of industrial assessment, which may increase the tax per capita without actually increasing the tax burden on the average home-owner, in fact in many cases actually lightening his tax load. This seems to be the situation in New Toronto, which with the highest tax levy per capita has one of the lowest mill rates, 56.65 mills for public school supporters.

Readers who take this view will only be interested in comparing Belleville's figure with those for cities similar in size and character. Belleville is one of the eleven cities placed in "Group D" in the department's list, the others being Niagara Falls, Galt, Chatham, Stratford, St. Thomas, Owen Sound, Woodstock, Cornwall, Welland and Waterloo. Waterloo has the highest tax levy per capita, $96.99; Owen Sound the lowest, $71.21. Belleville's tax per capita is fourth highest, after Waterloo, Chatham and St. Thomas. Our mill rate in 1956, 78 mills, was the highest; lowest mill rate was listed as 12.70 for St. Thomas but this must be an error; Niagara Falls, though, had a mill rate of only 42 mills.

NOT FOR EXPORT

President Eisenhower has appointed Neil McElroy, described as "one of the leading soap salesmen in the United States," as defence secretary to succeed Charles E. Wilson. We understand, though, that usually well-informed sources at Washington do not believe that this should be interpreted to indicate that there will be a major shift in U.S. defence policies, featured by any attempt to soft-soap Messrs. Khrushchev and Bulganin.

THE EXCUSE

On highway broad or little street,
My driving must be very bad.
They call me names I won't repeat
A faithful friend I've never had.

With angry looks they pass me by—
Though to them I am still of use,
For as the other fellow I
Am careless drivers' best excuse.

Other Men's Fears

Montreal Gazette

Mrs. Benjamin Disraeli, the wife of the great Prime Minister of Victorian Britain, once disclosed a curious fact about her husband. "Dizzy", she said, had wonderful moral courage but no physical courage. I always had to pull the string of his shower-bath."

It was an intriguing disclosure. The man who saw the magnificent self-assurance of the great statesman in the House of Commons would have been amused to learn that this was the same man who cringed in the morning in his shower-bath, so that his wife had to send the water down upon him.

Yet those who might laugh at this weakness in a great man's strength are really laughing at themselves. For the only difference between persons in that they may have to be afraid of the same things.

In later times Stanley Baldwin was Prime Minister. Few men supported with more composure than he, with his plain and pleasant face, his broad shoulders, his heavy if rather ungraceful way of standing and his manner of speech. Yet under all this composure Baldwin had his own strange fears.

Mrs. Baldwin, in looking out the window saw something extraordinary in the street, and called in excitement for him to come quickly. The white anguish of his face, and the fearful look in his voice as he came hurrying was in memory of a fear that she always afterwards schooled herself never to call out him in any but the direst need.

This dread of disaster lay concealed beneath his usually unruffled surface. But the surface might be suddenly broken. "I have seen," she said, "fear in his face," his son, A. W. Baldwin, has written, "when during a dark foggy weather I have heard his groans of mental agony. I do not know what the reason could not suppress."

It is often true that what some fear, others face with ease. He is a wise man who knows the fear of facing the dark. For some dark holds no fears whatever. But to others the dark holds terror— not, perhaps, the dread of things known but the terrors that haunt the imagination. They would understand what Coleridge meant when he wrote the lines:

Like one that on a lonesome road
Doth walk in fear and dread
And, having once turned round walks on
And turns no more his head;
Because he knows a frightful fiend
Doth close behind him tread.

Yet there is a harshness in ridiculing other people's fears. There may be greater strength in showing sympathy with them; there certainly is greater cause for gratitude.

Lord Brabazon (a member of the British Cabinet during the Second World War) says that, as a boy, he was "simply terrified of the dark." And even in his room would make him start.

He got over that terror, not by being ridiculed but by being understood. At a private school he found, in a room to himself and one of the master's duties was to make the rounds to see that the boys were well.

"How he guessed I don't know," he says, "but he deliberately asked me if I was afraid of the dark. He must have realized the significance of my pitiable confession, for he showed wisdom and understanding for which I bless him to this day, he said, 'I will leave a small light on. You will not feel like it — you will one day'. Through that kindness I got over it, but I would have given my small life for that man."

To scorn the fears of others because we do not experience those who scorn the fears of others may be only trying to whistle down the wind. Dr. Samuel Johnson said, in a conversation with Boswell, that fear in others is also a man without truth.

And he went on to put the truth very well. "Fear," he said, "is one of the passions of human nature, and which it is impossible to divest it. You remember that the Emperor Charles V, when he read some of the writings of the Spanish nobleman, 'Here lies one who never knew fear', subtilly said, 'Then he never snuffed a candle with his fingers.'"

Stolen Tires Incorporated

Christian Science Monitor

Out in Monroe, Wisconsin, Alvin Stolen went up into the tire business under the trade name "Stolen Tires, Inc." catering, we would like to think, to the reincarnation rather than the baser instincts of his customers.

If he is granted permission to use his own name in this way, Mr. Stolen may encounter some unusual business problems.

For instance, he will probably find no use for slogans like "It's a steal!" too badly undercut to furnish publicity for those semi-annual sales that crop up about every two or three months in the tire business. And doubtless have to put up with jeshing whenever there is a rash of tire thefts in the area.

However, the fact that distinct most about Mr. Stolen is the thought that a lady we know once ran a beauty shop named her business. She has been saying for years that she would like to call it Scratch. Thanks box of ingredients for cakes, rolls, muffins and what not is called "Scratch". Then, she says, the busy housewife could pseudo-bake by opening a can or serving circle friends that she made the delicacies herself (or whatever) starting from Scratch.

If Mr. Stolen has any sense of success with his catch-name business, we're done for. The cook at our house is going to be too busy making Scratch for us to get anything made from scratch at dinner any more.

Could Plow From Veranda

The Washington Star

It seems now that we may be entering fast toward a time when the plowman will not homeward have to plod his weary way.

This promises, if it may be called that, is implicit in the announcement that the (U.S.) army has tested at Fort Belvoir a robot tractor that can be operated by remote radio control. That is to say, the machine can be made to do a good job, at ranges up to 15 miles from human contact, merely through a push button procedure.

Military speaking, it could be of great value in the form of enabling men in distant jeeps or helicopters to put it to work in radio-activated areas or combat zones.

Skunks Eat Lawn Grubs

Brockville Recorder and Times

If skunks seem to be a bit more plentiful than usual this summer, it may be due to the fact that they are finding the lawns are providing them with healthy nourishment through the little grubs that live just under the surface. House holders in the city neighborhood claim that little patches of grass have been disappearing from their lawns almost overnight, having been traced to the visiting skunks.

Actually, the small patches don't appear to be too harmful to the lawn, although they just could be quite beneficial if the skunks are eating cutworm grubs which might start a blight in the greenery. One resident reports about a dozen holes in front of her front lawn—one of which is new and more than two inches square. She has seen a number of skunks in the vicinity, and has a fair idea of how they do their scraping and eating sometime between midnight and dawn.

For the most part these skunk-holes are small, neat and munching away that they have. It followed their usual practice of spraying the surrounding territory with their own brand of perfume. But since the average people now realize, are really quite harmless, and actually keep their pungent smell unless scared by a menacing person or other animal, they are left to their fare animal. Skunks, if left to themselves, do much more good than harm scraping away a small patch of grass in order to get at the insects below—a much more desirable fault than rummaging around in garbage pails!

Constable And His Gun

Ottawa Journal

A Montreal man was noticed by a police constable attempting to sell an elegtric razor to workmen. Challenged, he ran away. The policeman fired, meaning to wound him in the leg. The bullet went high into the fugitive's head and he died. A coroner's jury which returned a verdict of accidental death, added that the constable of blame, made this comment:

There is nothing in the Criminal Code to indicate that police officers may fire warning shots before questioning or arresting a person who is trying to run away.

Now that the Code has been clarified, there will be no more shooting of a fleeing prisoner — just the kind that has been far too many instances — it is of interest to see just what it says.

The Code says specifically that a peace officer proceeding lawfully to arrest a person is justified "if the person to be arrested takes flight to avoid arrest, on using as much force as is necessary to prevent the escape by flight, unless the escape can be prevented by reasonable means in a less violent manner."

The Code then goes on to limit in subsection four of Clause 25 of the Criminal Code, which provides that no police officer is justified "in using force that is intended or likely to cause death or grievous bodily harm unless he believes on reasonable and probable grounds that it is necessary for the purpose of preserving himself or any person under his protection from death or grievous bodily harm". And there is, and we are thankful, Clause 26 which says specifically:

"Every one who is authorized by law to use force is criminally responsible for any excess thereof according to the nature and quality of the act that constitutes the excess."

Authority gives policemen to carry firearms was based on the belief that those weapons would be needed to deal with the hardened—when an armed criminal shows fight. Where a murderer or suspected murderer attempts to escape, when the protection of innocent people is involved, requires and justifies the most violent action.

The Code appears to us to read that petty criminals, even if they try to escape, should not be liable to summary conviction by police officers even to the extent of "winging" shots which all too often turn out to be fatal.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

QUITE SUFFICIENT SUCCESS

Have you ever pondered the fact that the best baseball players in the business only get one hit about every three times at bat? The other times they are either given out or fielded out. If anybody ever got a fifty per cent success or better in anything the world would go delirious over the greatest athlete of all times.

So why get discouraged and downcast because your batting average in daily success is not any better than professional baseball players. You regard yourself as a failure because you are not well along some lines you simply cannot attain a measure of success which is satisfactory. Perhaps you take music lessons and are aware of the fact that if you practiced still more a day you would never emerge out of the class of the amateur. Or you may write and have manuscripts returned from the publisher from time to time. Perhaps for years you have been trying to overcome some personal weakness and have not been able to do so.

Don't give up. If you must have one hundred per cent achievement to be satisfied then rest assured you will never be satisfied. But achievement in this world will never be one hundred per cent nor even near one hundred per cent.

Keep your eye on the ball and keep slugging. Your success will be quite sufficient.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Oh, Tell Me Will I Have a Harp?

One way the trick specialists and "clinic" racketeers who don't like me, combat my teachings is by complaining that I "harp" incessantly on a few pet theories, such as — I think — the ideas which tend to make their practices successful. Quite so.

I have to remind myself of this when a correspondent, obviously literate, asks me for an "encyclopedia" my column and asks my advice on arthritis.

When I finally quit stamping around kicking the flies and snarling at innocent bystanders who happen to get in the way, I do some hasty breathing and a few somersaults and console myself with the thought that what the correspondent "never misses" is probably the part in which I harped on the nature and exciting of chronic joint disability. How can he miss what isn't printed?

Even if every word of what I write were printed six or seven days a week my "harping" on this subject—chronic joint disability—would be about as inaudible whisper amidst the din made by medicine men exploiting victims of "arthritis."

I beg to tell you that genuine arthritis, a rare occurrence, does not come on insidiously. When arthritis (inflammation of joint tissues) does occur it is acute.

The all-too common chronic joint disability that comes on insidiously in persons who have attained or passed the peak of growth and development and, despite any and all the endless succession of miracle medicines with which the medical merchants exploit the "arthritis" customers, lasts and lasts—well, tell me, when you write, how long your joint disability has lasted.

I'm afraid casual readers with chronic joint disability resent the imputation when I call it rheumatic (not rheumatism) and define it as physical degeneration of joint tissues. The poor geeks associate degeneration with moral depravity. That's childish.

It has no more to do with morality than has gray hair, slowness of movement, weakness of eyesight, shortness of breath or brittleness of bones. Anyway, everybody who lives long enough to get gray, or acquire the moment he or she passes the peak.

A piece to follow will tell more about the peak.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

There are several ways to fillet a fish. The one I have employed for years is to, skin the fish, and then slice the fillet off the backbone and ribs, so exposed. But the much more efficient system appears to be to simply slice off the side, flesh and all, and then with a handy slab of fish to deal with, simply run the knife blade back along between the hide and the flesh, and produce a nice, neat, boneless fillet.

The slickest man I ever saw at this method was a Chinaman in an Indian guide on a recent fishing trip. Whether he was born with fine delicate hide, or pike or walleyes, with their tough, strongly scaled exteriors, I can't handle them all like a surgeon.

But the Chinaman handled filleting knife as sharp as a razor. Making a cut back of the gills, he slid skilfully and swiftly back and forth towards the tail the knife pressing close against the skin, as he liberated the flesh and hide both. From the broad strips of flesh he would then, with a rolling motion, smoothly separate the flesh from the hide. I timed him, and he could fillet a two pound trout in a matter of thirty seconds.

"I suppose," I said to him, as I squatted beside him during the operation, "that this art is handed down from father to son, from memorial. Did you learn this from your mother or from your father?"

"I learned it," said the Indian, simply and with his face set, "from there were no bones left, from a Chinaman. I was in town a few years ago, and I worked at the Chinaman's. It wasn't until I was done that I found out he had no money. So I went in back and stayed there until supper time. I see this old Chinaman with the whitefish. I watch him. After the dishes are done, I ask him to teach me how. So he taught me."

There are two secrets, as I noted about from continent to continent, in this wonderous age.

"How do you work?" I enquired, "fix your fish?"

"The first secret," said my guide, "is to cut them in chunks and boil them in the pot. You get the juice that way. So."

So the Indian taught me the Chinaman's way of filleting, and I am getting pretty good at it, too.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

NATURE REFUGE

We go1 closer to God, the Creator of all things, when we get close to nature, His laboratory and museum. In every creation in nature you see the eye and hand of God, what man makes is before the eye as the tiniest flower to the greatest of oaks and hemlocks, stand upon their sturdy feet and draw their earth for substance and assurance!

Never do I cease to wonder at the beauty, the perfection, and the wonderful work that nature and that are a part of all nature. I wish I knew why each shrub and tree has an amazing unique design of leaf and branch. And how wonderful that each casts its eyes toward the sky to get the sunlight. I wish I knew more about it. If you want to know about God, get into the arms of Nature, and look about you. You'll see God in every direction.

Nature is the refuge for the tired, in mind and spirit, for the troubled, also those who are hunting for the faith they have lost. Nature's arms have warmth and security to them. There is so much to the fragrance and odor of the earth. It is invigorating. Looking into the face of Nature you see God's love and power, and you see potential health and happiness.

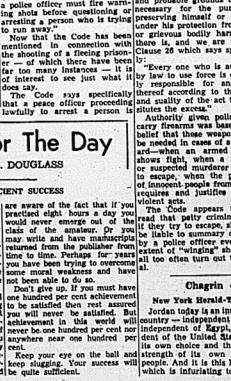
The medicines and curative remedies of Nature's pharmacy is a big man. The artist and poets go to Nature for inspiration. The streams and mountains, as well as the forest, to get their inspiration for their masterpieces. They are akin to them all. There is no place so kindly as that of Nature. No matter where we go in this expanding world there are secrets to be revealed, and discoveries to be made. And the more we love her the more we get inspiration and search, the greater the wonder and delight. Let your trust in God and His great world!

Thinkers in Danger

Kingston Whig-Standard

Danger lies in the dead weight of conformity which seems to exist among what is referred to as "the general run of people."

There will always be a conspicuous minority of independent thinkers and doers. But they are doomed in any society which does not encourage, or, to complement them, an audience with equally independent and thoughtful proclivities.



The Face on the Stamp

The Captain of Seven Seas

By Nicholas Mika

Two hundred years ago an English farmer's son entered the King's service in the Royal Navy. He was a husky looking man, courteous and straightforward. Ever since he was a boy he had dreamed of going to sea and the tales of sailors fanned the flame of his imagination about strange and far-off lands. He was sent to Portsmouth and joined the crew of the "Eagle." From that day on the sea became his home.

He sailed to the north and to the far south, to the east and west. From an unknown sailor he became one of the most celebrated seafarers and discoverers and one of the most beloved captains in English history. In the name of the king he claimed more newly-discovered land than any one before or after him. He was not merely an adventurer, but a man of learning and great wisdom. His courage and knowledge of navigation helped to conquer the City of Quebec.

His fantastic career, however, began when he was made the captain of a small coastal ship "Endeavour." Her official destination was Tahiti where some scientists were to observe the planet Venus. But the true reason of the journey was only known to the captain himself. To be correct, even the captain was not aware of his mission until his ship was out at sea. Shortly before his departure a heavily sealed envelope was handed to him by an officer of high rank. It was a top-secret message which he was not to open until three days after he left the harbor.

STIRRING MESSAGE

When the required time had elapsed he locked himself in his quarter, broke the seal of the envelope and read. It was the command to proceed south after his Tahiti task was fulfilled to discover a continent that was believed to exist. It was claim it in the name of the King of Great Britain. Several times he read the message. He was proud. At his county put this trust in him, he would fulfill his task, so help him, God.

America had been discovered long before and a new nation had been born. But there were still other unknown places to be discovered and explored and these places were in the deep south.

After a few weeks of rest on the beautiful island of Tahiti, he gave the order to his crew to lift anchor and sail into the unknown. Nights and days passed. At times the journey was pleasant with sunshine and calm seas. Other times the ship was tossed by giant waves, masts broken and sails torn. For weeks they sailed without seeing land. If the crew was discouraged, the captain knew how to spur them on. They liked him because he was not a slave driver but almost like a father to them. His wife's welfare was always on his mind. Although he could not possibly have known, marital discomfiture, he forced them to drink lime juice and eat cabbage every day. In the course of time, in the end they saw that he tried to protect them the sailor's worst enemy — scurvy. Not one of them suffered from this dreadful disease.

FINALLY SIGHT LAND .

Finally he sighted land with the most magnificent mountain he had ever laid his eyes on, Mount Egmont. When he had finished exploring the shores of the discovered land, the maps of the world were richer by two great islands, New Zealand. His ship continued the journey south until he discovered the shores of a vast new continent. It was Australia.

He made friends with the natives, planted seeds he had brought from Europe and left domestic animals behind that the natives did not know. In exchange they presented him with a strange looking creature. When he tried to find out its name, the natives kept saying "Kangaroo, Kangaroo." Little did he know that this merely meant that they did not understand him. Anyway he introduced this strange animal in his homeland as the Kangaroo.

Three times the captain went south. Legends were told and songs were sung about him. He was getting on in years but he did not want to rest. The far away lands were calling him. On Hawaii during his third visit, while trying to settle a quarrel between his crew and some natives, he was murdered. His countrymen were shocked when the news of his death reached England. But his glorious memory lived on as that of one of the greatest seafarers and explorers, Captain James Cook.

Good Servicing Saves on Gas

By EUGENE MILMOE

As often emphasized, top gas mileage depends greatly on sane driving practices — but good service habits deserve equal attention.

Ignition timing, for example, plays an important part, and a good general tune-up restored 5,000 miles pays off in better mileage. Often, the spark plugs will need more frequent attention.

The choke and carburetor should be cleaned and adjusted at 5,000-mile intervals, too. The air cleaner will normally require servicing at least every 2,000 to 4,000 miles, but in some areas it's necessary to clean it every 1,000 miles or less.

Always keep the chassis and suspension parts well lubricated, have wheel balance and alignment checked often, and don't spare those oil and filter changes.

From S.P.: "With new plugs and points installed and engine checked by my dealer, my engine still misses. Recently, a repair carburetor was installed. The car is a 1953 model and I am about to invest very much in repairs."

(A) Have all wiring connections checked, coil, distributor, spark plugs and starter switch cleaned. Also make sure distributor and ignition coil terminal sockets are checked for corrosion.

R.F. writes: "The body of my 1957 sedan now is covered by a finished in a new metallic paint color and it still has its bright showroom luster. I have been noticing what has happened to some metallic enders are adjacent, a damaged head gasket may be the only trouble.

SAFETY IS NO ACCIDENT

Be careful about your driving — Be sure about your car.

SPY JAILED

PRAGUE (Reuters)—Vladimir Vesely, a Czechoslovak television commentator accused of spying for an American espionage service, has been sentenced to 25 years imprisonment, the Czech radio announced Thursday. Vesely, arrested March 16, said he was first approached by American agents in Frankfurt, West Germany, where he was working as a press correspondent.

'Bertha' Fizzles Across Texas, Damage Slight

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tropical storm Bertha, a weak sister of the cruel hurricane that hammered the Carolinas coast six weeks ago, fizzled across eastern Texas today.

There was no report of loss of life, and property damage reports were surprisingly light from the season's second Gulf of Mexico storm. The weather bureau's final advisory on Bertha Friday night located the storm midway between Beaumont, Texas, and Lake Charles, La. Highest winds were estimated at 50 miles an hour—far below the 75 mile-an-hour lashings of a hurricane.

Bertha emerged from..fatney and grew into a full-blown hurricane for a brief period Friday as it rumbled in from the Gulf of Mexico. The southwest Louisiana coast, where hurricane Audrey claimed more than 500 lives in late June, was evacuated in the face of swelling tides and buffeting winds.

THIS TIME THEY LEFT

The area around Cameron, La., devastated when Audrey hit the coast June 27, felt winds of 65 miles an hour, but most residents had fled at Bertha's first warnings to Red Cross refuge centres in Lake Charles.

Tides of five feet, about four feet above normal, washed the coast, but diminished today.

The advent of Bertha brought to the people of Cameron the realization that evacuation too is a part of their lives. Many chose to battle the June hurricane and paid with their lives, but the area was practically deserted as Bertha's path became apparent.

WARNS OF HERESY

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Vatican Radio has warned Roman Catholics living in Communist-ruled countries it is heresy to agree to "a separate Catholic church detached from Rome and the Pope." The announcement came five days after a Catholic conference in Peiping organized a "patriotic association" pledged to maintain only "purely religious ties" with the Vatican.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Each Man Has a Different Answer For Happiness During Retirement

By THOMAS COLLINS

"Any man who works for 41 years and can't enjoy a little leisure for a few years surely has something wrong with him."

You might consider, if your retirement worries you, that the man who said this knows what he is talking about — you have something wrong with you. He ought to. He has been retired from government work since 1953 and has found the Golden Years in a city you may have underrated in this department — Pittsburgh, Penn.

His name: Joseph M. Shafer.

"I retired after 41 years of government service," Mr. Shafer says. "I took a trip to Florida and I found I didn't like mixing with old people and disabled ones all the time. I came back to Pittsburgh and I found the best place for me to live was a place that was handy to my three daughters, who are all married and live here, and to my old friends. We have five grandchildren and can visit them anytime we want to. . . ."

Mr. Shafer says he has a wife who isn't a naggre, and he thinks this is a vital factor in retirement . . . that neither husband nor wife nags. They live in a comfortable house with a yard and garden "and one of the most beautiful climates in the U.S." He says he helps with all the housework.

THREE FACTORS

Three factors govern their retirement life:

1. "We go out and mix with p people . . . in the church, schools and the lodges.

2. "We practise right thinking . . . we always try to keep good thoughts in our mind.

3. "We have made our partner in every minute of the day, and have faith that he will never fail us."

Mr. Shafer, who has long had a hobby of entertaining people as a cartoonist and a rag artist — making scenes out of colorful rags — has turned the hobby into a profession in retirement. He and his wife go around entertaining any local groups that call on them.)

Whether or not you would choose what Mr. Shafer chooses, and whether or not you would be satisfied on a government pension he has found to be "comfortable," you must concede he has found the answer to retirement.

And the answer, to every man, is different.

Men stay home after 65 because somebody else did. They go to Florida or California because somebody else did. They buy a camera or go fishing because those are things you are supposed to do in retirement.

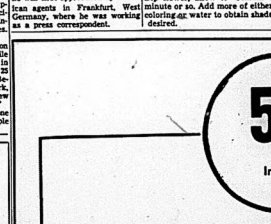
USED NO RULES

Mr Shafer has used nobody's rules. He has extended his life beyond retirement as he wanted to. He fits retirement to his own particular personality. Florida is not desirable because he didn't like it. Many people have never heard Pittsburgh was a fine retirement city until he said so. But these were his feelings. He acted accordingly. He is happy.

So if you are not happy in retirement, You're in the something wrong with you may be your fear to be yourself, to go forth calmly and deliberately to do what you really want. After all, a New Jersey man retired to Louisiana to study snakes, and it would be difficult to cook up a worse one to do that. But the man is happy.

There are basic problems to retirement. You've got to learn to get into a house out of the rain. You have to find some new old words to replace the demands a job made on your time. You have got to adjust your thinking so you can "belong" to some new cause or activity. The Humane Society or something.

Once these mechanics are taken care of, you can go out to be the barker of a carnival if you want to. Who cares? It's your life. And all you have to do to make it good is to do what you want.



The Medicine chest will supply material to tint flowers lovely shades of rose, red, blue and lavender. Try mercurochrome and gentian violet in water solutions. Dip flower, allow to remain a minute or so. Add more of either coloring or water to obtain shade desired.

EARNS REPUTATION

A second after this photo was taken, Johnny Dio lived up to his reputation for belligerence and smacked the photographer on the ear and called him a few choice underworld names. Dio was called before a senate investigating committee in Washington where several witnesses had implicated him as a racketeer in labor unions.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma handed pop his mail when he came down to breakfast, saying, These are for you, William. There's one thing that no self respecting woman ever does or ever should do, and that is open her husband's letters.

I never heard truer words better expressed, pop said. Real democracy starts in the home with privacy of mails and sanctity of mail, he said, and ma said, That is just how I feel. A man's letters are his castle, and nothing in them is strictly his own bizness for his own personel eyes. His wife shouldn't even ask questions unless it concerned in the most casual way, she said.

That's the idea, pop said. Divorces aren't caused by asking too many questions. They're the result of expecting too many answers, he said, he said. But naturelly mistakes will happen.

Sad but true, pop said. And now the question is, which of these letters have you already opened he said, and ma said, Why William, that's uncanny. How did you ever guess? she said.

I can't explain it, I must have a 6 cents, pop said. William Penn as a matter of fact the letter was practically for me. I mean his envelope just catch a yellow color I couldn't resist holding it up to me mouth, kiss her and before it actually was scested. So I jumped to the pardonably mistaken conclusion that it was a perfume avvertisement mistakenly addressed to Mr. William Penn instead of Mrs. But as you'll soon see, it's really a bizness letter about an insurance policy from a man who apologizes for using his wife's stationery. I'm sure you can pick it out with your eyes shut, just by sniffing your letters, he said.

And pop tried it, and it worked.

The Week's News

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An article in an English periodical about the Queen blew up into a terrific ruckus with overtones of humor as well as outrage.

A high spot came when a London magistrate levied a fine of £1 on a former merchant seaman who slapped Lord Altrincham, 32, writer of the article.

The slapper, Philip Kinghorn Burbridge, 64, small but mighty, said: "I did what Prince Philip wanted to do but couldn't."

All this happened although Altrincham himself protested he meant no disrespect to the Queen but just meant to criticize her advisers and speech writers. Phrases such as "pain in the neck" and "priggish" rankled, however.

The episode made headlines around the world.

CABINET APPOINTMENTS

Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced cabinet appointments.

Resources Minister Harkness was named agriculture minister and Paul Comtois, freshman Commons member from Quebec's Nicolet-Yamaska district, was appointed mines minister.

The prime minister indicated he will retain the portfolio of external affairs. Remaining vacant are the health, citizenship and defence production.

DESERT WAR

The pocket war across the sands of Aden gathered force. The fighting is about the attempt of a secondary sheikdom to unseat the sultan of Muscat and Oman. Britain, under treaty to defend the sultan's interests, put a battalion of the Cameronians into action against the rebels, who are reported supplied with foreign arms.

The RAF was in the fray with rocket-firing jet fighters.

CHURCH CALL

The World Council of Churches representing 165 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox bodies in 50 countries, called on the United States, Britain and Russia to halt the testing of nuclear weapons for a trial period.

The council, meeting in New Haven, Conn., said that failure of an international agreement the world would be called unfaithful in "the hope that the others will do the same.

MALAYA MILESTONE

An agreement was signed in Kuala Lumpur laying the foundation for Asia's newest democracy, Malaya, to become a self-governing nation Aug. 31, remaining within the Commonwealth.

Sir Donald MacGillivray, British high commissioner who signed the agreement, said the time has come for "an end to the old form of relations between Britain and Malaya. . . ."

The nine Malaya states have a prosperous export economy based on rubber and tin and a population of about 5,000,000, including Malays, Chinese and Indians.

SEVERAL WINTER

Tornado-like winds ripped through the Gravelbourg district in southwestern Saskatchewan, toppling buildings, uprooting trees and destroying crops.

All this happened within 45 minutes after a small but mighty thunderstorm that left a trail of destruction for 60 miles from Postrie to Gravelbourg, 100 miles southwest of Regina.

Damage was placed at $100,000 in Gravelbourg alone. One house was lifted from its foundations and landed in a river 55 feet away.

CHARGE THE BRASS

The secretary of the Victoria centennial committee unleashed a blast at the "brass hats" who, he said, will swarm around Princess Margaret if she makes a visit to British Columbia next year.

D. J. Proudfoot said that when Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip visited B.C. "my wife and I met Her Majesty five times in one day."

"About 90 per cent of the princess's time should be used in meeting and being seen by children," he said. "All those brass hats who want to lay their shoek lands with royalty should do it at a special hall . . . and pay through the nose."

COLLAPSING EARTH

A huge hole suddenly appeared in the earth when the roof of an abandoned mine collapsed beside busy highway near Cumming, Ont.

The crater, resulting from collapsing underground pillars, was estimated at 10,000 square feet in area and 60 feet deep.

No one was injured, but Mayor Leo Del Villano of Timmins, where driving past just before the collapse, reported:

"I just made it. The highway was beginning to crack. . . I stopped and it was so deep I couldn't see the bottom."

Houses 600 yards away trembled and creaked.

Weddings

SHETLER — SHULTZ

A very pretty summer wedding was solemnized in Zion Evangelical Church, Pembroke, on Saturday, July 20th at 2:30 p.m. by the Rev. Rupert Walsh of the Standard Church of Pembroke when Mildred Annabelle Schultz, of Belleville, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schultz, Pembroke, became the bride of Albert Milton Shetler of Belleville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Shetler, of Newburg. Mums and baby's breath were fern adorned the sanctuary.

The church organist, Mr. A. Lemke, rendered the wedding music accompanying the bride's sister-in-law, Ina Schultz of Pembroke, who sang "The Lord's My Shepherd", prior to the ceremony, and the "Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Joseph Schultz, the bride was radiant in her floor length gown of embossed nylon, styled with full, panelled skirt which fell in great folds to the floor. Sweetheart neckline was outlined with tiny seed pearls and the long, fitted sleeves ended in points over the wrists. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was gathered to a headdress of miniature nylon pompon daisies, trimmed with iridescent sequins, and she carried a white Bible crowned with red roses, from which cascaded satin streamers caught with beads.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Pearl Johnston of Forrester's Falls, and the bridesmaids Miss Dorothy Schultz and Miss Grace Schultz, both of Pembroke, all three, sisters of the bride, were gowned alike in turquoise crystalette with Peter Pan collars adorned with self-covered buttons centring the bodices which ended in V-points over the frill skirts. Each attendant wore a twin rose hair headband and carried a nosegay of pink carnations, circled with fluted daisies and centred with 'mums.

Mr. Bruce Cook, of Enterprise, was groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Doug Votery, of Kingston, and Mr. Glenn Schmidt, of Pembroke, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for 100 guests at the Plaza Hotel. The beautifully appointed bride's table was centred with the traditional wedding cake, flanked on either side with turquoise and yellow tapers and pencil vases of carnations and baby's breath.

The toast to the bride was proposed by the Rev. Jas. A. Spearman, of Belleville, to which the bridegroom ably responded.

After the reception, the bride gathered at the bride's home for

GRILLS — WODZAK

Tall standards of gladioli and snapdragons interspersed with ferns formed an attractive setting for a lovely wedding on Saturday, July 20, at 3.00 p.m. when the Reverend H. Lossing, of Kingston, united in marriage, at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, Sylvia Maxine Wodzak, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Wodzak, to Gerald Kenneth Grills, of Belleville, R. R. No. 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Grills.

Mr. Egerton Boyce, church organist, provided the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Judith Wodzak, sister of the bride, who rendered "The Lord's Prayer," before the ceremony, and "Because," during the signing of the register.

The lovely bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Max Wodzak, wore a traditional floor-length bridal gown of nylon tulle and imported lace, fashioned with molded bodice of lace, with lace neckline, scalloped trimmed, and long sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists. The bouffant skirt of tulle, worn over crinoline, was appliqued with sequin-trimmed lace. Her headdress, which held the tulle illusion veil, was studded with rhinestones and seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses, stephanotis and rosette streamers.

Miss Selma Wodzak, of Belleville, was maid of honor, was gowned in turquoise blue, the Misses Helen Ashley and Esther Maschke, as bridesmaids, were attired in shades of orchid. All wore French tulle crystalette fashioned with strapless empire bodices of crystalette with matching boleros and skirts of French tulle accented by folds of crystalette at the hips which were caught up with roses. Matching headdresses and bouquets in cascade style of carnations completed their ensembles.

Little Rata Roluf as flower girl, frocked in ankle-length green crystalette, held a dainty picture with her little basket of pastel-tinted sweet peas and snapdragons.

Mr. Gordon Grills, of Toronto, was groomsman, while those seated David Armstrong, of Toronto, James Jones, George Wodzak, and Kenneth Wodzak, all of Belleville, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

The reception which followed the ceremony, was held at the Masonic Temple, Foster Avenue, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, who was attired in blue linen and lace with sheath dress with white accessories, and corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother, wearing navy blue crystalette with white and pink accessories, and corsage of pink carnations assisted.

For the wedding trip around Lake Erie and to Muskoka, the bride travelled in silk bengaline with glitter overall white and blue featuring princess lines, with white accessories, and corsage of orchids. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Grills will reside in Belleville, R. R. No. 5.

Guests attended from Bermuda, England, Toronto, Oshawa, Peterborough; Western Ontario and Belleville.

World Guides Open Camp At Doe Lake

By MARY BURKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

DOE LAKE, Ont. (CP) — The first world guides' camp ever held in Canada opened here today with some 1,500 girl guides from 38 countries in attendance. Haile Selassie, Ethiopian Emperor, to open the camp officially this afternoon. Ceremonies included the breaking-out of the colors of all 38 countries. This evening all delegates will take part in a gigant campfire with songs in many languages. All five continents are represented.

Officials say the camp is to share in practice the girl guide laws, one of which is, "A guide is a friend to all and a sister to every other guide."

50,000 MEALS

For the estimated 50,000 meals that will be served during the 12-day camp the catering staff has acquired early 18,000 quarts of milk; 1,500 dozen eggs and 7,000 pounds of butter among other items. The staff will prepare them using charcoal stoves placed in front of each patrol tent.

The camp is organized into four camp sites named after the Mic Mac, Iroquois, Cree and Delaware Indian tribes. Activities will include overnight canoe trips, a hike to Algonquin Park, 15 miles away, and a sugar-bush trip.

CANADIANA EXHIBIT

The 400 Canadian delegates have assembled an exhibition of Canadiana named after Moose of Indian, Eskimo and French-Canadian culture.

Mrs. W. Rankine Nesbitt of Toronto, chief commissioner of the Canadian girl guides, is in charge of the camp—one of four being held in various parts of the world to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the birth of Lord Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the guides and scouting movement.

Fleming Reunion Attended By 65 Members

At Tweed Memorial Park, on August 4, the Fleming clan held its annual reunion with 65 present. A picnic dinner was served at 12.30.

After all had registered, the president, Mr. Donald Runnalls, of Tweed, called the gathering to order, and a short program followed, opening with "The Queen", the "Fleming Battle Hymn," and the chairman's welcome to all.

The secretary, Miss Bessie M. Fleming, of Ivanhoe, read the report and the acting treasurer, Mrs. Robert Woods, of Madoc, in the absence of the regular treasurer, Ray Grant, of Belleville, gave the financial report. The historian's report was given by A. Fleming in the absence of Mrs. Clarke Rodgers, historian.

A two minutes' silence was observed in tribute to those who had passed on during the year: Mrs. E. Blakely, Mr. Roy Thompson and Mr. Gardiner Brown.

Memorial secrets of the deaths of Owen Sound relatives, the late Howard and Albert Fleming, were also read by the secretary.

It was decided to hold the 1958 reunion on the first Wednesday in August at the same place, Tweed Park.

Short speeches were given by Dennis Fleming, Mrs. S. S. Rollins, Mrs. Robert Woods, Mrs. Peter McInroy and Robert Woods.

Arrangements were sent by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rollins, Belleville; Mrs. Harold Reid, Frankford; Mrs. Edith Hamm and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Grant, Belleville, who were unable to be present.

PRIZES PRESENTED

Prizes were presented to the oldest present, Mrs. Mary Mrs. S. B. 1957-58 OFFICERS ELECTED

The officers for the ensuing year are: Honorary president, Mrs. Fred Hanson, Chicago, Illinois; president, Don Runnalls; first vice-president, Delbert Francis, of Crookston; 2nd vice-president, Glenn Schmidt, of Pembroke; secretary, Miss Bessie Fleming, Ivanhoe; treasurer, Ray Grant, Belleville; and historian, Mrs. Clarke Rodgers, of Stirling.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent in swimming and in playing ball.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

"Grant me prudently to avoid him and flatters me, and to endure gladly him that contradicts me."

For this weekend thought we have got back over 500 years, when Thomas A Kempis wrote the above words. It is said that Thomas A Kempis wrote from the heart. He is supposed to have been born in the fourteenth century and to have died four hundred and eighty-six years ago this month.

As we mentioned last Saturday, we are on our holidays. Then what in the world would make us think of Thomas A Kempis. After all this is the twentieth century; this is summer and this is holiday time. This is Canada.

These are the reasons we turned back over four hundred years ago to come up with the twentieth century.

Momentarily 'I' & 'T' was flattered. Within the past month 'I' & 'T' has met a patient of Dr. Albert Schweitzer; 'I' & 'T' has met the sister of one of the centuries greatest men; 'I' & 'T' has talked with a lady from Japan who inherits and who carries on a great Christian tradition; 'I' & 'T' has talked with a man and woman of our own generation, who have lived in a wonderful folk, like you and I, and 'I' & 'T' is humbly enough to be prudent. It is the part of unwisdom to be secure in your own opinions. And all this has occurred within the Bay of Quinte district.

One of the world's greatest thinkers never lived more than forty miles beyond his native city. Take your summer trip to the north corners of Belleville, turn in it whatever direction you wish and within the area of this God blessed district, you will come up with the finest kind of world folk to produce and you will feel humble.

We mentioned meeting a lady from Japan. She was Mrs. Watari, a lay worker in the Christian Church in Japan, who was invited by the United Church Women to visit local Canada speaking to W.M.S. groups. This is in preparation for their study of Japan next year.

At a half way point in both time and distance of her tour, Mrs. Watari is having a few days rest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Elliott near Foxboro. She visited Camp Quin-Mo-Lac and will speak in the United Church in Tweed this Sunday morning.

Mrs. Watari is a teacher and writer. The teaching is done at the Freedom School, while the writing is for a magazine called "Friend," which follows the general pattern for women's magazines every where.

The school and magazine were the work of one woman, now dead, who was the first Japanese newspaper woman. She started the school when she wanted a different kind of school for her own children. Mrs. Watari attended the Freedom School and now teaches there.

The school's first building was designed by the American architect, Frank Lloyd Wright, and the courses go from kindergarten through college work. There are no janitors or office personnel or household staff at the school. The pupils and teachers co-operate to run the entire project; everyone learns how to do all phases of the work. Truly is co-operative and democratic effort.

Mrs. Watari's father introduced the work of the Salvation Army to Japan.

Older Children Can Assist To Ease Burdens of Long Trip

(A) What your husband thinks is generally illegal and always unsafe. Nearly all communities require that trailers be parked only in designated camp sites and or trailer parks. By parking in unprotected rural areas, you can be let yourself in for all kinds of trouble from prowlers, wild animals and perhaps the law.

Why gubble? There are plenty of trailer accommodations every place for even the most economical overnight fees.

(Q) "I'm thinking of going to Arizona in August? Is it too terribly hot to make the trip by car?"

— L. G. P., Topeka, Ind.

(A) We think so. Arizona is especially in winter resort.

(Q) "We are going by train to the Pacific Northwest. What type of clothing will we need for places like Yellowstone, Mt. Rainier, and Banff? Will sports outfits be acceptable for train travel?"

— A. L. W., Carlisle, Pa.

(A) You'll find it pretty cool up there even in summer, and especially at night. Sports outfits and anything comfortable — are all right for train travel, but your wife may feel a little out of place if she wears slacks instead of a skirt into the dining or lounge car.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

A SUBSTANTIAL EARLY LUNCHEON AT 11 O'CLOCK CEREMONY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are to be married at 11 A.M., and are both employed on the afternoon reception. We want to get an early start on our wedding trip, and also neither of us wants a reception where there is to be a lot of drinking. My fiance's family and relatives usually have early morning weddings followed by a breakfast, and then have an afternoon or evening reception; sometimes a large evening reception with a dinner, followed by dancing and drinking. Lately some of his friends have had a quite early ceremony, breakfast for the relatives, then an afternoon reception. I come from a Protestant family, and we've always had an afternoon or evening wedding followed by a reception, usually in the church parlors. I suppose we wanted a pretty reception, an informal affair where relatives and friends on both sides have a chance to visit. After our 11 o'clock ceremony would it be permissible to combine a reception and buffet lunch (cold meat, potato salad, rolls, punch and so forth) at about 1 o'clock? I think this could be done very nicely, and be more like an informal party.

My fiance says he'd like to have invitations sent to relatives and friends who live out-of-town, but doesn't think they should be invited unless we serve a dinner. My family doesn't feel it is necessary to have a dinner at all, and the expense would be too much for them and for me. But his mother would really like to have a dinner given, and has offered to pay part or even all of the expenses of a dinner. With all these circumstances to be considered, what is your suggestion? — S.

If I were you, I'd plan to have the wedding reception immediately after the ceremony and when all the guests have been received have an early-luncheon served. You can be, and should be, so wise in the choice of the menus that it can be a really substantial meal, satisfying to even the out-of-town guests. At that time of day it is good substantial-meal-planning to have a hot soup first, if the main course is to be a cold course, as doubtless would be most summertime. Consomme Madrilene is an excellent choice, festively colorful too, easy to have and prepare, inexpensive or serve another soup or hot tomato juice. Then sliced ham, tossed chicken too if you wish) potato salad (as you planned), perhaps stuffed olives and gherkins, generous supply of rolls (split, lightly-buttered, toasted). For dessert the Wedding Cake, also small cakes and ice cream. Coffee. Punch; ample supply of hot coffee.

IN TODAY'S WEDDING USUALLY NO RING-BEARER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper to have a flower girl and not a ring-bearer?

— Prospective Bride

Yes . . . indeed it is proper to have a flower girl and not a ring-bearer. As a matter of fact, today, in most communities, it is considered definitely passe to have a ring-bearer in the wedding party. Although of course it is proper to have a ring-bearer if the bride wishes to, nowadays a small boy is to be included in the wedding party, he is called a "page." It doesn't carry the ring, and often walks with the flower girl, preceding the bride and her father. This charming simplicity does away with the "dramatics" of carrying the ring . . . a procedure which all too often takes the wedding-spotlight from the bride to concentrate it on "that cute little boy."

GOOD IDEA: COOK BOOK AS A GUEST-PRESENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently I came across a very special cook book, with very interesting recipes and practical suggestions and directions. My husband and I have been invited to visit some friends of ours for the Labor Day weekend, and I'd like to take a copy of this cook book to the hostess as a guest-present. Would this be permissible, or do you think she might think we thought she needed a cook book? — Reader

I never knew a woman who was at all interested in cooking who did not give a most enthusiastic welcome to "another" cook book . . . particularly of the kind you describe as "special." I'll wager she'll bless you for your thought and kindness!

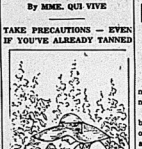
TAKE PRECAUTIONS — EVEN IF YOU'VE ALREADY TANNED



Though beautifully tanned, the smart girl still protects her skin against over-exposure to the sun.

So many times have we stressed the importance of skin care during the summer months, when sun, wind and salt water do so much damage to complexions, that you'll probably wonder why, at this late date, you may need to be reminded again. Well, there is a reason . . . a very important one.

Lots of women are under the impression that once they've tanned, they needn't worry any more. Nothing could be further from the truth. Your skin may be a beautiful golden brown today, and velvety soft as well. But if you neglect to take the same precautions you took while acquiring that look, you're taking on two beauty liabilities.

The first is the risk of leathery skin. Constant exposure to the sun, even if you're brown as the proverbial nut, will dry out your all-over complexion. And that means dryness, flakiness — and air-conditioning headaches later. The second risk is burn on top of tan. Yes, that can happen, too. Think of all the gals and guys you have seen in bathing attire who, from a distance, seemed to sport a beautiful tan but, on closer inspection, revealed red, raw-looking shoulders, nose and forehead just because they eventually passed caution to the winds.

Keep on using your lotions or creams — no matter how tan you are. We can't emphasize this too forcefully. And don't apply it just here and there. Protect all exposed parts of your body . . . face, arms, shoulders, legs. Don't neglect eyelids, the backs of your knees and feet — three frequently-overlooked spots which can become painfully burned. The area about the mouth is important, too. Over-exposure to sun often causes festering sores about the lips — a painful nuisance, and of serious infection.

If you're the type who doesn't want to tan and have managed to avoid it so far, keep on using the lotions which have proved successful. Even though the smart shops are, at this date, showing Fall and Winther clothes Summer's not over yet — not by a long way. There's still "danger ahead."

RECOVER BODY

GRAND BEND, Ont. (CP)— The body of Gaston Bolvon, 22, of Ingersoll was drowned Sunday while swimming in Lake Huron, was found Wednesday washed up on the shore 10 miles south of here. He apparently was caught in an undertow and swept out on the lake.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HE MAY THINK YOU'RE A VERY DUMB BUNNY

I'm a woman who has been married for ten years. We have never had any children.

For the past two years I've been seeing a married man two or three times a week. He's separated from his wife and has told me he's going to get a divorce and then we'll be married, but he never seems to make any move toward getting the divorce.

He has two children who live with his wife, and every little while he goes back to her and stays a week or two, then it's all off again.

I'm getting tired of this, and wonder if I should just tell him to let me alone and not get in touch with me any more, or if I should keep on seeing him and waiting for him to get his divorce. If he really loved me, though, as much as he says he does, I would think he wouldn't be so much delay in getting it.

Please help me.

Dear Mrs. M.B.:

What kind of an answer do you imagine I would give you? To keep right on seeing another woman's husband?

And what is a married woman like yourself doing in a situation like this anyway? If your husband hasn't found out yet about your monkeyshines, you're a very fortunate woman and you had better behave yourself before it's too late. You don't say there is anything wrong with your own marriage, and even if there were how would you feel if your husband discovered what you're up to and brought action against you?

Even if you were a single woman, I can't conceive why you would want to have anything to do with a man who gives you such a runaround. Quite obviously he has no intention of getting a divorce so why let him make a fool of you?

If you have no moral sense that tells you you're doing very wrong possibly you may be influenced by the unpleasant thought that this man may consider you a very, very dumb bunny who does not even know she's being played for a sucker.

YOUR PARENTS ARE RIGHT, ED

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm a fellow of 18 and in love with a girl the same age. We're anxious to get married this summer, and while her parents are willing, mine object. They seem to think I'm too young.

I know that this girl and I are in love, because we have known each other for nearly three months and have never had any desire to look at anyone else. If two people are in love, should not they be allowed to marry?

— Ed

Dear Ed:

I'm sorry, but I'm in complete agreement with your parents' view of this matter.

I'm aware that boys and girls as young as you two have been known to marry and make a success of the marriage. But I think this is only possible when two young people have known each other a great deal longer than three months. Three months may seem a long time to you, but as a preliminary to marriage, it's far too short a time to make the venture safe. This does not go into the question, either, of whether or not you, at your age, would be able to take on the support of a wife and possible children.

Do as your parents advise, Ed, and wait awhile before taking such an important step.

SET RAIL RECORD

LONDON (Reuters) — British Railways luxury train, The Caledonian, broke the Glasgow-London rail record Wednesday by making the 401-mile trip in six hours, 27 minutes. It reached a speed of more than 90 miles an hour. The previous record, six hours, 30 minutes, was set in 1937.

College Entry

By GRACE THORNCLIFF

To take back to college, we show an outfit that is made a hit with campus belles as they start to do some college-clothes-shop browsing. Black rib knit is used for the overbloune with the convertible neckline worn over a white knit pullover the sleeves of which extend below those of the overbloune. Gray flannel shorts, as shown here, or matching black rib long slacks, can be worn.

Mother's Helper

JUDGING the size of your children's appetites for pancakes isn't always easy. If you have batter left over, go ahead and make the extra cakes. When they are cold, wrap and seal them well, freeze them for later use. You can heat them in your toaster. Works for waffles, too.

Transition Frock

By TRACY ADRIAN

Perfect for the last hot days of summer and ready to take you right into the fall fashion picture are the flattering transition styles in their darker colors and chic silhouettes.

This one is a popular shirtwaist and is particularly appealing because of its distinctive dressmaker details. The unpressed pleats of the full skirt, closely set pearl button closing, yoke back and the new deep hem are a few. The colors are either gray or brown in muted plaid.

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

Note: Today I am killing two birds . . . in answering Jessie M's letter below I also give large quantity recipes I promised to provide every other week or so for a while.

Note 2: I would be grateful if the reader who wrote about preservative chemicals in flour would send me her address. I would also like the address of the reader who wrote a letter regarding breakfast at church on Good Friday morning.

Question: . . . one of the features I am interested in is your contribution . . . am particularly interested in large quantity recipes . . . in my work I plan menus for 70 to 75 people . . . supper dishes seem to be a special problem . . . will appreciate anything you offer . . . Jessie M.

Answer: As you can see Jessie, by Note above your request fits into my summer program for this column.

MUSHROOM CHEESE FONDUE (Serves 50).

Eggs separated 30; two 48-oz. tins condensed cream of mushroom soup, 8 cups milk, 4 lbs. shredded sharp cheese, 2 tablespoons dry mustard, 1¾ lbs. soft bread cubes. Beat egg whites until stiff. Beat yolks until thick; combine with soup, milk, cheese, mustard. Blend well. Add bread cubes. Mix well. Fold in beaten whites. Pour into 3 pans measuring 13 x 8 x 2 inches, filling them half full. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour or until surface is dry and fondue well puffed.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

SATURDAY

Cabbage Rolly; Frenched Green Beans; Creole Corn; Butter Tarts; Baumert Cheese; Coffee.

JAMBALAYA (serves 50 people one 1-cup portion each).

Five pounds ham, ends and trimmings, cooked, 1 lb. diced celery, ¾ lb. chopped onions, ½ lb. ham or bacon fat, 1½ lbs. raw, washed rice, 6 lbs. tomatoes, 1 gallon ham stock (from boiling ham), 10 oz. catsup, 3 tablespoons salt, ½ cup Worcestershire Sauce. Cut ham into ½ or ¾ inch cubes. Saute celery and onions in fat until delicately browned. Add ham, rice, tomatoes, stock, catsup, salt and Worcestershire Sauce. Heat to simmer about 25 to 30 minutes or until rice is tender and mixture thick.

FISH CAKES (50 5-oz. servings)

Fish cooked and flaked 7½ lbs. (or soaked and parboiled salt cod), 7½ lbs. unseasoned mashed potatoes, 12 eggs (2 cups), 3 oz. salt (less if salt cod is used), 1 tablespoon pepper, ½ lb. flour, 2 lbs. breadcrumbs. Add salt and pepper to eggs and beat slightly. Combine flaked fish and mashed potatoes. Mix in eggs very well. Shape into 5-oz. cakes about 1-inch thick. Dip in flour, then in egg wash (to 3 beaten eggs add 5 cups milk, 1¼ oz. salt, 2 teaspoons pepper) and then breadcrumbs. Deep-fry in 2 inches fat at 360 deg. F. until golden (about 2 or 3 minutes). Drain well. Keep hot in very low oven on pan lined with brown paper until all are fried and until serving time.

Wife Preserves

A shelf attached to the sunny side of the garage is convenient for setting out tomato plants in the early months. The elevation keeps them safe from pests and cats.

MADOC

Many Empeys Attend Family Reunion Held in Eldorado

MADOC — The home of Russell and Edgardo, was the setting for a pleasant gathering on Sunday when the "Empeys" from far and near met for a family reunion.

For many it was the renewing of old acquaintances; for others the meeting for the first time those aunts and uncles and cousins who before the reunion had been only names.

It was a beautiful day for the occasion. Around 11 a.m. cars started rolling in and for two hours families gathered in little groups on the spacious grounds getting reacquainted with one another.

Empey hospitality is a tradition and many could recall former occasions when they had driven many miles by horse and buggy or cutter to attend such functions — when it was the home of Jerbrand Empey and the former Margaret Madden.

About 1.30 p.m. dinner for 90 was served in the home of Mrs. Women's Institute. Richard Empey, elder son of Russell Empey, kept the dinner bell.

VISITOR FROM HOLLYWOOD

The dinner had been delayed for a short time as it awaited the arrival of William Empey, of Hollywood, California. He is a son of the late William E. Empey and grandson of Jerbrand Empey of Eldorado. This was his first visit to his father's old home and he was the guest of the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Dickinson (Margaret Empey, daughter of the late Levius Empey) flew from Toronto in their great-grandson's airplane, Gregory, a daughter of Lindsay Empey, of Leverne, Saskatchewan, was present also.

At the head tables were some of the surviving grandchildren of the late Levius Empey and Catherine Nudell. The oldest member present was Mrs. John Rupert (Elizabeth Wilmeland Empey), being in her 85th year; Mr. Arthur Empey, 84; Mrs. Hugh Empey, 83; and Mrs. Geo. Sills (the former Iva Empey), the sister who had the youngest brand Empey; the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Empey; Mr. William Empey, California; Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Dickinson and Bernadine, Fort Frances, who acted as master of ceremonies; Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Empey (son of John Empey); Mr. and Mrs. Fred Empey (son of Eugene Empey); Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Empey (son of George Empey); Mr. and Mrs. Earl Russell Empey (son of Daniel Empey); Mr. and Mrs. Frank Empey, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Empey, all of Levius Airfield.

At the other tables were the great grandchildren, great, great grandchildren, and great, great, great grandchildren of Levius Empey I as well as some other guests, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Empey of Napanee; Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Empey of Brockville, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence, Leila, Mabel and Libby, of Canniffton.

Mr. Ford Rupert acted as chairman.

A vote of thanks and, appreciation was extended to the Women's Institute for the delicious dinner so attractively served.

BRIEF ADDRESSES

Several people were called upon to say a few words. Mr. Hugh Empey gave the address of welcome. Mr. William Empey, California, expressed his pleasure in meeting relatives for the first time; Mr. Darrell Dickinson spoke for those who had linked their names with the Empey family.

Mr. Herbert Empey and Mr. Stewart Empey, who of the Empey name, were searching for the missing link that would bind them to the Empey family, expressed their enjoyment at being present.

FLED FROM GERMANY

Mr. Rupert called upon Miss Mary Rupert to give the history of the Empey family. She had traced the family back to the year 1677, Wurtemburg, Germany, to the fifth great grandfather, Phillip Empey. The family had fled from Germany to England at the time of the religious persecutions in the Palentine States. Later generations came to Pennsylvania where they settled in Scoharie, New York State. Then during the United Empire Loyalists revolution they fought with the British forces. During all their possessions they came to Canada as United Empire Loyalists settling at first on the Bay of Quinte at Ornabruck and Ashville.

They later defended their homes during the war of 1812-14. Captain Phillip Empey having lost a leg in the battle of the Windmill was granted 400 acres of land in Hastings County, township of Madoc. After his death the land was divided equally among his two sons, Levius and Levius. Ira sold his 200 acres to Henry Cooke for a fur coat.

Levius Empey, with his wife, Catherine Nudell, and two sons, Jerbrand and Eugene moved all their possessions to Madoc township in a lumber wagon in 1846.

They cleared the land of pine and built a log house. There were born eight more children: Catherine, Adeltia, Simeon, Ann, Isaac, Levius, Margaret and George. After his wife's death, Levius married Elizabeth Ackers. There was one son by

ALL DESCENDANTS

The Empeys present at the reunion were all descendants of Levius Empey. The Levius Empey farm was divided in 1900 death among his three sons, John, George and Daniel.

The Daniel Empey farm is that of the late Jerbrand Empey and Margaret Madden Empey were born their children, Louise, William, Charles, Winnifred, Arthur, Ethel, Hugh and Iva.

APPRECIATION EXPRESSED

Relatives and friends expressed their appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Empey for their hospitality and to those who had worked to make it a success.

A fine collection of old photographs and genealogical records were on display as well as an old Bible of Hastings and Empey, Edward of 1878 and old school books of the family, dated 1862.

A visit was paid to the cemetery where flowers were placed on the Empey graves.

Many stayed for the evening when Miss Margaret Empey entertained them with the showing of slides of a recent trip to New England, Scotland and Wales, and Mr. George Sills showed films which he had taken of various members of the family.

Mrs. Kitchen senior, resides with Mrs. Kitchen in Tweed, on Victoria Street, North, along with Mrs. Kitchen junior's two sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscle Woodcock had a most enjoyable trip to Montreal last week. On their return home, they went on another tour to the Port Hope district and have just returned, stating the trip was unfortunately time and no mishaps.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Garrison, Kitchener, formerly of Actinolite are vacationing at the Trudeau Island Lake cottage.

Brother Guy Gartland was receiving acquaintances in Tweed Memorial Hall, Sunday last in Toronto, on his way to New York City. Miss Ruth Gartland, Miss Lorraine Trudeau accompanied him to her aunt's, Mrs. Bill Bush, Bancroft, where the illness of her aunt in Guelph, Mrs. Gartland, has curtailed her trip and is now in the household helping to look after her grandchildren, Mrs. Bill Bush, while the aunt is hospitalized.

The road sign on the "Burma Road" from Highway No. 37 at Stoco has been really repaired, turned and painted, still crushed rock, which is wide and makes a bad, rough and uninviting. High posts have been erected along side the roadway and also a line of barbed wire fencing as a guard to motorists. It is to be hoped the work is being done as fast as possible. All in all it makes an attractive drive and motorists will be glad to have been there to drive over it when finished.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald LaBerge have spent three weeks, vacationing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wah Trudeau, vacationing.

Much sympathy is extended to the family of the late Charlie Kehoe, who passed away in Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday, August 7, 1957, with his sisters and 14 children. He was 47 years of age and was buried at Queensboro, on Friday last. He had been ill in the neighborhood of 11 months and was bedfast at the old homestead at Actinolite.

The wide host of friends who know Mr. John B. Fobert so much regret to learn that he had had a heart seizure on Wednesday morning and was rushed to Belleville General Hospital by ambulance. His condition was not too good for a few days but administered oxygen and at time of writing was stated to be some easier. He is the father of Mrs. Tweed, going west to Sask. for many years, but returned some years ago and built a fine house on Victoria Street, north, where he resides now. It is to be hoped true he will gain rapidly and soon be able to be home again. Miss Maggie Quinn, passed away at her late home near Tweed, on Monday, August 5th, she had been ill for some time. She is survived by one son, Joe her brother who resided with her who was killed on the highway No. 37, while driving a team of horses over a year ago. This accident occurred between Tweed and his home after dark. Sympathy of the community is extended to the latter's daughters and relatives.

Govt. Transfers Advertising to Other Agencies

OTTAWA (CP) — The new Progressive Conservative government has transferred its $1,200,000 advertising account to the Canadian government travel bureau out of the hands of the agency which handled it for the Liberals.

A party source said switches in the advertising accounts for other departments of the government, amounting to many millions of dollars, will be made shortly.

Resources Minister Hamilton said Dalton E. Camp, Toronto public relations executive and a major campaign strategist for the Conservatives in the June 10 election, will act as account executive for the three advertising firms among whom the travel bureau account has been split.

The travel bureau account was held by Cockfield, Brown and Company Limited of Montreal. Executives of this firm handled publicity for Walter E. Harris, Liberal party in the last two federal election campaigns. H. E. (Bob) Kidd, a Cockfield vice-president, is general secretary of the National Liberal Federation.

The $1,200,000 account will be apportioned as follows: Cockfield, Brown and Co. Ltd., Toronto, ($650,000); Harold F. Stanfield, Ltd. Montreal, $300,000; and Burnett Co. Ltd., Toronto, $300,000.

High Energy Particle Caught

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A nuclear physicist strongly concurrency said Thursday an experiment in the outer atmosphere "caught" a particle containing 10 times more energy than a particle in an exploding atom bomb.

Dr. Edward P. Ney, a physics professor at the University of Minnesota, said he and his colleagues in atomic fission, said the high energy particle was captured in an 818,000 "stack" of photographic plates.

The equipment was sent 3 miles aloft last September near Crosby, Minn., suspended from a balloon. The particle caught contained the highest energy ever recorded, he observed by man.

Dr. Ney calculated the particle energy at a million billion electron volts. The particle, he said, was a nucleus of a helium atom, and in travelling it nearly the speed of light when it hit the "stack."

Unpaid Municipal Tax Bill $41,000,000 at End of 1956

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government reported Thursday the province's unpaid municipal tax bill at Dec. 31, 1956 was nearly $41,000,000, almost four times the comparable 1945 figure and only $17,000,000 below the 1932 depression-year level.

The information was contained in the 208-page report on municipal statistics for 1956.

A qualified source said the commission wasn't as significant as it looked because municipalities weren't trying as hard to collect taxes today as they were during the depression.

The report showed gross municipal debenture debt reached a staggering high of $831,865,000 in 1956 compared with $504,756,000 in 1932 and the record 34-year low of $275,000,000 in 1945.

The report noted changes in the dollar's purchasing power fell since 1932 and the fact the provincial government now pays half the debt charges on the school debentures debt.

On the basis of a dollar's purchasing power, using the federal consumer price index as a guide — 1932's purchasing power $810,681,000 and 1956's, $756,710,000.

The public and secondary education bracket of the gross debenture debt showed the most substantial increase between 1939 and 1947 the figure fluctuated by no more than 25 per cent but between 1947 and Dec. 31, 1956, it soared to 497 per cent of the 1939 level—substantially over the value of 100—and, in dollars, to nearly $280,000,000.

The report said Ontario in 1943 had a population of 3,580,000 and an overall taxable assessment of $3,062,28,000, and in 1956 a population of 5,131,000 and assessment of $7,185,880,000. The percentage increases respectively were 143.32 and 234.90.

Accuse Truckers Of Accepting Kickbacks

TORONTO (CP)—The boss of Ontario's organized hog producers has accused truckers of accepting kickback payments in connection with direct to meat-packing plants and soliciting charging more for the same service to the producers' own assembly yards.

Charles Bonnett, president of the Ontario Hog Producers Association, made the charges Thursday that "with the evidence which we now have in hand, we are ready to have the matter to the attention of our membership at the Sept. 10 meeting."

He said the truckers charged producers a shipping rate of $1 a hog if the animals were to be delivered to the packing plant themselves, but $2 a hog if the deliveries were to the hog producers' own assembly yards. He said the packing companies pay off to the truckers if the hogs are not down at the plants.

$50,000 Grant Given Red Cross By Government

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government announced Thursday a $50,000 grant to the Canadian Red Cross Society to enable it to expand its free blood transfusion service to the province.

The service will become a part of Ontario's hospital insurance plan scheduled to come into effect Jan. 1, 1959.

Premier Frost said the grant will permit it to extend this service into Metropolitan Toronto next year and it will also be extended gradually to all parts of the province. The service now operates only in Hamilton, the Niagara Peninsula, Galt, Kitchener, Waterloo, Guelph, London and Windsor.

Mr. Frost said the free blood transfusion plan "is an essential part of our hospital and health services in this country and merits the support of every public-spirited citizen to the extent of a donation in honor of both blood and money."

RCN SHIP TO CHART ARCTIC CHANNEL FOR U.S. CUTTERS

The Bellot Strait will pose a big question for HMCS Labrador, Royal Canadian Navy patrol ship, during this season's voyage of exploration in the Arctic. The Labrador will attempt to chart a course through the channel dividing Somerset Island from the Canadian mainland so that three United States Coast Guard cutters can attempt to follow the route of the famous RCMP patrol vessel St. Roch in her pioneer 1940-42, west-to-east conquest of the Northwest Passage. Bellot Strait is full of rocks and shoals and has a up to a 50-50 chance of success in the venture. The map shows the route taken by the St. Roch on her epic northern voyage, and HMCS Labrador's 1954 route in reverse. The Labrador will be the fifth ship, coming from the west will be the cutters Storis, Spar and Bramble. Supt. Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

"Hockey men here knew 24 hours before the meeting that the Kings (Pembroke) would enter that league instead of switching to the north."

This was a two-second deduction of a northern sports writer referring to Wally Lenser, sponsor of the Pembroke senior hockey club after it was announced he had thrown in his lot with the Eastern Senior "A" League.

After all it didn't need a Sherlock Holmes, nor a thirty-minute television private eye to reach that conclusion. Where else could the honorable Lenser offer his hockey wares?

For the NOHA did not meet the Lenser demands, although the Sudbury Wolves and the Soo Greyhounds had previously agreed to Lenser's earlier request for assistance.

The monied-man from Golden Lake might have thrown what the Eastern moguls thought—was a request bombshell in their laps but it was no firecracker that he tossed at the northern powers-that-be.

He asked for a 60-game schedule with eight road games in Sudbury and seven in the Canadian Soo. He wanted a 15 per cent subsidy from these games. He also asked for the loan of five players for one year, the players to be of senior "A" calibre and to include two defencemen, two wingers and a centre.

Lenser also requested that the schedule finish one week ahead of the rest of the teams in the league. That way, he opined, if Pembroke missed the playoffs, the executive could disband the team and save a week's salary of better than $2,000.

According to the first agreement the most Pembroke could receive was $10,000. In any case the requested subsidy ended when the regular season finished. There would be no subsidy in the playoffs.

The northern columnist wrote:

"The deal seemed fair to both the Wolves and the Greyhounds. The financial requests were not high. Finishing a week early was just a matter of juggling the schedule. The player request was not out of line, either. The teams agreed later to cut their rosters to 15 from 18, so a few surplus players of calibre figured to be available. . . .

"What happened afterwards, of course, messed up the deal. Both the Indians and the Trappers turned down the offers made them. The Indians appeared ready to sign if North Bay would. But Pete Palangio refused to make any concessions, and the thing turned into a stalemate.

"By refusing to accept the terms, Pete kept the Indians out and that, in turn, helped kill Pembroke's entry.

"Lenser's chief worry at last Saturday's meeting was that he wouldn't get his team in either the NOHA or the Eastern OHA. Lenser already had guaranteed the Pembroke rink $6,000 in rental fees. If he didn't get a team in either league, he'd be out the six G's.

"Also attending the meeting was Angus Campbell, Lenser's lawyer. Campbell said later he was so sure the Kings would get into one league or the other, he would personally guarantee the $6,000 to Lenser.

"In the meantime the Indians' General Manager Ty Smart got ahold of Lenser the next day and accused him of getting a better deal from Sudbury and the Canadian Soo than had been let out at the meeting. Smart was certain Lenser would lose his shirt by accepting the 15 per cent—$10,000 maximum deal.

"It isn't hard to imagine how Lenser took this news. Wally admitted frequently to his love for hockey. He figured the agreement he had made was fair to both sides.

"That, plus the uncertainty of North Bay, was the kiss of death for Pembroke. Two days later, the club was agreed to join the Eastern OHA."

Clobber Cards for 5 in Row Brooklyn, Redlegs Also Win; Sox Get Nod, Bombers Beaten

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's the nonsense over in the National League race? Milwaukee Braves have taken a 3 ½-game lead, the biggest bulge yet, and they've done it with a five-game winning streak—all against contenders.

Braves have lost only one of their last seven games, dropping one of three with Brooklyn, then sweeping three from Cincinnati before clobbering second - place St. Louis 13-2 Friday night.

It was the fourth loss in a row for Cards and hoisted Braves into the biggest edge any leader has had in the league since last September 2, when Milwaukee led by 3 ½ tcelly to lose by one game to Brooklyn on the final day of the season.

FIRST 15-GAME WINNER

While righthander Bob Buhl was breezing to become the first 15-game winner in the league, third-place Brooklyn jinked its three - game losing streak and stayed within five games of the top with a 4-2 victory at Pittsburgh. Cincinnati rallied all night long and came off with a twonight doubleheader sweep that left Redlegs only a game back, with 9-7 and 6-4 victories over Chicago Cubs.

New York Giants won their fourth straight, battering Robin Roberts in his 25th defeat in a 6-2 decision over fifth-place Philadelphia, now eight games behind.

Buhl won his fifth in a row, leaving it to Lew Burdette to get enough nine-hitter that included eight walks. He gave up a home run to Del Ennis with a backwauke's lead to 2-1 in the second inning. Then the Braves boomed. They slammed 18 hits, 10 for extra bases and four of them home runs by Hank Aaron, Ed Mathews, Wes Covington and Bob Hazle.

TOPS IN HOMERS

Young Lindy McDaniel had it in a four-run third, when Aaron socked his 28th home run, tops in the majors. The defending but champ was 2-for-5, regaining the lead at .334 as Chief Curt Musial, 2-for-3, slipped to .332. Aaron also drove in three runs, tying Musial for the lead at 87.

Dodgers handed Bob Friend a 19th defeat as Duke Snider, with six games because of an ailing knee, hit his 27th home run in its

Playing Sensational Golf Alberta Girls Reach Finals

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Two Alberta girls, who had to win their semi-final matches the hard way, set out today to decide the 1957 Canadian ladies' Open amateur golf championship.

Both Mary Gay of Calgary and Berry Stanhope of Edmonton won at the 19th hole Friday to provide the most thrilling semi-finals ever staged in the 45-year history of the tournament.

Mary Gay's win over Margo Burns of Greenshields, N.D., was a 7-fantastic achievement. The former Kitchener girl, down three holes after the 15th, rattled off four winning holes with birdies to defeat the last American.

EVEN THREE TIMES

Betty Stanhope and Rona Neundorf of Toronto engaged in a hole-by-hole duel, with the match squared three times, before 19-year-old Betty pulled it out at the 19th.

At the extra hole, a 495 - yard par five, the third shots were essentially the deciding factor.

Miss Gay put hers four feet from the pin. Miss Burns was 12 feet away. The tall southern girl missed her putt. Miss Gay sank hers down confidently.

At the same hole Miss Neundorf pulled her third shot to the left of the green. Miss Stanhope put hers a few chip shots away, second, right feet from the pin. The Toronto girl chipped up to four feet from the pin. Betty putted up 16 inches away. Rona missed her putt. Betty sank hers.

There were all sorts of key situations in both semi - finals. Probably the most important were Miss Gay's 30-foot putt on the 15th hole and Miss Burns' allow and Miss Neundorf's losing her ball to close out the match at the 17th. She faded her third shot short into a trap and blasted out of there from the pin. That large one-her the 545-yard par six hole to Betty's pass.

With the match then all square, Miss Neundorf made a good recovery to have the 18th only to lose at the 19th.

EARLY LEAD

Miss Burns ran up a four-hole lead early on the front nine holes and appeared to be a winner going away. Miss Gay finally settled down and salvaged the seventh and the ninth with birdies.

Mary could do little about cutting heavily into the lead coming down the back nine until she started her brilliant stand at the 13th hole.

Miss Stanhope, winner of the Canadian junior championship last year, has never been in the final of the open before. Miss Gay defeated Miss Sterrett of Montreal 3 and 2 in the other semi-final.

Other "World" sections looked this way:

Women pros — Louise Suggs, twice a runner-up, with four-under-par 142 for a two-stroke lead over winner Clifford Ann Creed of Ogunquit, Me., with 72 for a six - stroke edge over Sandra Haynie of Fort Worth City and Lois Drafke of Chicago.

Men amateurs — Defending champion Dick Westland of Buffalo, N.Y., with 144 and a one-stroke margin over Howard Everett, Northfield, N.J.

Fontana, Willey Meet Today For Canadian Tennis Crown

By TOM VIRANY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Paul Willey of Vancouver and Don Fontana of Toronto, both Davis Cup players, meet today for the Ontario Open tennis singles championship.

In the women's singles, Mrs. Louise Brown meets Mrs. Hilda Dolecheil. Both Torontonians, they were seeded first and second, respectively.

Willey and Fontana also have reached the finals in the men's doubles but their opponents have not been decided.

Willey, seeded third, Friday defeated Brazil's second-seeded Armando Vieira 3-6, 7-5, 6-4, 5-7, 6-0.

PLAYS SIDELINES

Willey played the sidelines and drove his opponent to despair with his powerful game and sliced drives.

The 6-foot-1 Brazilian, regarded as one of the world's best, played well for four sets, but when Willey took the first two games in the last set, he was finished.

Fontana whipped Montreal's Pierre Rochon 4-6, 7-5, 6-2. He carried the initiative all the way and had no trouble smashing Rochon's short lobs and returning his usually fatal, short slices.

To the men's doubles semi-final Vieira and Rochon lost the first set against B. Summer and A. MacPherson of Toronto, 1 - 6 and took the second 14-12 before rain halted play. The match will be finished today.

Giants Whip College Stars By 22-12 Score

CHICAGO (AP) — Chuck Conerly passed New York Giants to a 22-12 victory over the College All-Stars Friday night before a damp crowd of nearly 75,000 in Soldier Field.

John Brodie of Stanford almost matched Conerly's passing skill and Billy Ray Barnes of Wake Forest wiggled his way through the Giants' defense to keep the game in suspense almost to the end.

Barnes scored the All - Star touchdown and Paige Cothren of Mississippi kicked two field goals and narrowly missed a third.

Conerly passed for both of the Giant touchdowns, but Ben Agajanian added the spectacular touch with his two field goals for the New York team. He kicked one from 32 yards away in the first period and another from 45 yards in the third.

Rain fell off and on throughout the game.

The Giants triumph in the 24th annual game made it 15 victories for professionals, two ties and seven for the collegians with two ties. Proceeds of the game, the first in Soldier Field, went to the Chicago Tribune charities.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP)—Nita Rosecroft romped to victory Friday in the $10,000 free-for-all pace at Richelieu Park. The five - year - old pacemaker, driven by Jacques Larente and owned by Jean - Louis Laline of Montfret Center, Que., finished in 2:07 1-5 for the B class Handicap.

Keith Waples drove Ross Volo from Alta Vista to a second place. King Gold was third.

In a $700 D trot, Elgin Silk from Pembroke, driven by by Percy Robillard, came home a winner. Jean Gilles's time for the mile was 2:09 2-5.

The only other Ontario horse to win was Thor Jane from Grattan from Cobourg. Driven by Ernest Gratton, Grattan paced the mile in 2:09 to capture the $700 D class event.

TORONTO (CP) — Debora Frost, three-year-old filly from Mrs. Edgar Armstrong of Brampton, turned in her third straight victory at Old Woodbine Friday night.

Coming from last in the 7th and final heat, Debora Frost also took top money in the $1,500 A pace on an excellent drive by Keith Waples.

Debora Frost had a neck advantage at the finish over horse in the field, Clark Herbert, a six-year-old roan making his first start for Mrs. Ethel Wettlaufer of Vern Evans of Brantford. Jiggs Hanover finished third in the event.

A step back of Clark Herbert was Lady's Lad from the R. J. and Mrs. Hall stable with Bill Harvey driving.

Debora Frost stepped the mile in 2:04.4, the fastest of her career. In the fastest three-heat event, a $1,000 class, Laddie Hanover, driven by veteran Harold Langdon, stopped the mile in 2:05.4, fastest time of the meeting for a trotter.

Old Woodbine has made application to the federal department of agriculture for a three-day extension of the current 36 - day meeting.

OTTAWA (CP) — Sadie M from Inkerman, Ont., ran the mile in 2:02.3 the best time on Friday night's card at Connaught Park to capture the Invitation Pace.

Ontario horses also took place and show positions in the race as Attorneys Pride from Allenford was second and J. W. L. from Stratford was third.

Entries from Ontario points were three other pace, all in class D events.

Vogue Direct from Haliburton won one in 2:16 3-5, Miss True Volo from Trenton another in 2:17 4-5 and Tahatown Chief from Cardinal won the third in 2:20 4-5.

Ted Williams, 39, Having One of Best Years at Boston

By WHITNEY MARTIN

BOSTON (AP) — The dateline possibly should read "Williamstown" as never was a community so wrapped up in the life and fortunes of one individual, a long-loose Harrupper named Theodore Samuel Williams, commonly known as Ted.

Ted Williams, at the ripe old age of 39, is having one of his best seasons with Boston Red Sox. His progress is being followed avidly in all strata of society.

Williams' current performance has added another sharp touch to the keen rivalry between the Red Sox and their New York nemesis, the Yankees.

Last year the Yankees' Mickey Mantle swept everything in sight in the way of batting honors in the American League. Now Williams is crowding Mantle his null runs and batting average, and the enthusiasm for his chances of regaining what the fans consider his rightful place in those departments has reached the stage where one local newspaper runs a daily box score pointing pole-to-pole of the rival sluggers, comparing their day-by-day performances.

Williams, who on more than one occasion has showed his disdain for what those who indirectly pay the wages think of him, still loves a prominent place in their affections. The king can do no wrong.

ALWAYS HUSTLING

In a recent game with the Tigers the official scorer gave an error to Harvey Kuenn, Tiger shortstop, on a difficult chance on a ball hit by Williams.

The scorer booked a full two minutes. Later, the scorer, wanting to be sure he was right, asked Kuenn about the play. Kuenn said he had no chance on the hard-hit ball, so Ted was given a hit.

There are thousands of unofficial scorers to see that Williams gets all that is coming to him.

Fans, and his teammates, will tell you he is playing the most spirited ball he has played in years, hustling every minute.

The youngsters of the Sox possibly stems in part from the fact Boston now is a one-team town, and erstwhile Braves' fans gradually have swung over to the American League entry.

But Williams is the big lure. As one baseball man remarked as he overheard the comment that the Sox really are popular nowadays: "It's not the Sox! It's Williams."

Britons Launching Campaign To Regain America's Cup

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A curtain of secrecy shrouds the "Castle" at Cowes on the Isle of Wight.

The castle is the plush headquarters of Britain's Royal Yacht Squadron, which is launching a full-scale campaign to wrest the America's Cup from the United States—a campaign where the British sailors have pursued for 106 years with singular lack of success.

And squadron members, with poignant memories of 1937, are determined that this time their efforts will not be hamstrung by any "security leaks" concerning novel design features of the boats, the 5-meter yacht they are building to race against the United States challenger in 1958.

A security curtain has been thrown over the Sandbach shipyards in Argyllshire, Scotland, where Sopwith Camel is being built under the direction of David Boyd, one of Britain's leading designers.

Inside the castle, guarded by a semicircle of armed police at each gate, squadron members are mapping out their plans for the Sopwith runs, which will start early next year. Their main concern is to find a helmsman and crew crew where gear, sails and crewing techniques can be kept under security. The squadron secretary, Capt. M. H. Evelegh, and other members were also responsible for the Genoa jib episode that occurred in 1937 when Britain last challenged for the big silver cup.

The Genoa jib was a novel sail that the squadron had built to carry T. O. M. Sopwith's big J. class challenger, Endeavour II, to the long-sought victory.

Sopwith made no effort to keep the jib secret during his visit to Britain. He arrived in the United States in mid-July and Britain's derbill had copied the revolutionary sail for his great yacht, Endeavour, which won the begged seven series easily.

Britain's biggest blunder, however, took place three years earlier when Sopwith's Endeavour I defeated the U.S. entry Rainbow turned over his plans for Endeavour II to Rainbow's designer. United States yachtmen tank-tested a model of Endeavour I

Four Junior Tennis Titles Go on Block

By JACK VAN DUSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Four titles are on the block today as the Canadian junior tennis champion ships enter their last day.

Canada's top court performers will decide the champions of the junior men's and women's singles and the girls' and boys' singles. Play will also begin in the interprovincial team matches bringing in players from across Canada and the open singles and doubles.

Players from the United States and Bermuda are expected to arrive today and Sunday for the open tournament which will continue through next week, ending Aug. 17.

These Canadians will provide the top attraction today

Carole Caldwell, 16, of Montreal and Reldar Getz, 17, of Vancouver in the junior men's singles.

Ann Barclay, 17, of Vancouver, and Carole Caldwell, 16, of Toronto in the junior women's singles.

Judy Borland, 14, of Winnipeg and Linda Cute, 13, of Edmonton in the junior girls' singles.

Harry Paquier, 14, of Toronto and Louis Leprohon, 13, of Montreal in boys' singles.

Two titles were determined Friday as the tournament wound up its third day.

SARNIA GIRL WINS

Karin Lukk, 12, of Sarnia defeated Jane Bowmaster, 13, of Halifax, 6-0, 6-2 to take the juvenile girls' singles. Mike Carroll, 12, of Ottawa downed top-seeded Mike Belkin, 13, of Montreal in the juvenile boys' title.

Lebkicher pulled the upset of the day when he beat out top-seeded John Bassett, 18, of Toronto 6-0, 6-4 in the junior men's singles. He is ranked third.

Bassett defeated Joel Glynn, 16, of Windsor, 6-3, 6-3.

Virgil Akins Wins Over Hart

CLEVELAND (AP) — Veteran Virgil Akins' eight-round TKO of young Sugar Ray Seitz Friday night was as much to the bettors, but Akins says he planned it that way.

"I figured I piled up enough points in the first two rounds to win it," he said the 29-year-old St. Louis fighter who went 10 rounds undefeated in his third-spot ranking among welterweights, six notches above Hart. Both weigh 147.

Hart had staggered Akins in the fifth round with a hard right and two left uppercuts, but the veteran weathered the storm and went on to win the sixth.

Hart, a 21-year-old from Philadelphia who has lost only two previous bouts and had 10 knockouts to his credit seemed to be sailing along in good shape in the seventh, when Akins suddenly chilled him with a hard southern right.

Hart went down for the automatic eight count He lasted till the bell, but could hardly find his way to his corner after the eighth. Akins backed him into a neutral corner and shelled him into helplessness before the referee stepped in after 49 seconds.

Definition of Today's Sportsman

Webster defines the word "sportsman" as follows: "A person who practices the sports of the field, esp, hunting or fishing. One who in sports is fair and generous." That definition has changed many years ago." Today, like all probability, brother. Webster might have cause to alter the definition somewhat.

Nowadays the great majority of those who indulge in the outdoor sports seem to have views that are somewhat divergent from those expressed by Mr. Webster. Of course, conditions are different today than they were 50 years ago. That may account for some of the things that now are common occurrences — some of them, but not all of them.

Never does the open season pass that one fails to hear tales of deer being appropriated, sometimes by force, by groups of hunters who had no part in killing the animals and who, in their disputes, superior numbers prevail and the buck fails to go home with the rightful owner.

During the upland game season, if you spend much time in open country, you will see many things that the sportsmen do which are a flagrant violation of Webster's definition. Shooting pheasants on the ground is not unusual sight; rather, it is common practice. Effective, surely, but hardly sporting. Twice during past years I have actually witnessed the disgraceful sight of sportsmen racing across a field to flush a bird which was being pointed by another hunter. Mile-hunting the hunter's truck when it is on the way to pick a stranger with it. They help carry the buckets down to their favorite pools; then, while the fishermen are busy with their lines in plain sight, hardly moving from the same spot, they have placed in the stream, these same sportsmen dangle enticing worms, minnows or other baits, thereby filling creels which otherwise would be empty at the finish.

Over the weekend of Memorial Day the Pennsylvania Fish Commission stocked the streams extensively small areas in two of the counties in which I have my home in Williamsport for the exclusive use of the children of the vicinity. These waters were then stocked bountifully with trout.

Restrictions were removed as of midnight on Sunday. As on Monday morning I drove down to the bridge to see what was going on. There were 12 cars parked beside the river and in the space of 300 yards were 38 fishermen — 27 bait fishermen and one lone fly fisherman, all doing their utmost to clean up what remained of the children's stocked fish.

Now there is a move on foot to set aside these two areas as permanent children's fishing grounds in which only bait casting fishing gear will be arrested prompt. Here's hoping the plans are put into effect. A boy who is busy fishing for trout or bluegills or suckers for what he would call keeps will be kept off the streets.

A fellow who has fished for 50 years can't help but wonder about the mental processes of men like this if that is the word — of so many of our present-day sportsmen. Either Webster living today has misinterpreted the definition of "sportsman," or something like this — "One who indulges in the outdoor sports for whose motto is fair play and who is content to back with the whole wide world."

Babe Zaharias Dies in Bed

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—Babe Zaharias, 45, powerful swatter, died dead in a hotel Friday and police said there were indications she had suffered a heart attack.

Zaharias engaged in a wrestling match here Thursday night with Bibber McCoy and went to bed complaining of a headache afterwards. McCoy told police Babe had complained of severe pains in his chest and under his arms after they left the ring.

Zaharias, the wife of former of George Zaharias, well-known former wrestler, was the husband of the late Babe Didrickson Zaharias, world famous all - round woman athlete.

Althea Gibson Seethes Over Press Reports

SEWICKLY, Pa. (AP)—Wimbledon champion Althea Gibson, seething over reports that she is getting "big-headed", said today "all or this stir is just making me meaner on the tennis courts."

Althea made her statement after a Pittsburgh paper had prodded her for follies to grant an impromptu interview. The paper referred to a similar incident at the U.S. clay courts tournament in Chicago and indicated Miss Gibson was proving high-hat as a result of her new success.

"I am amazed at these stories about my treatme n t of the press," said the 29-year-old New Yorker, playing in the Wightman Cup games against England here. "I have always treated reports with the greatest respect, but I don't stop everytime they bark.

"It is the same thing that happened to Sugar Ray Robinson. They cut him to bits. It seems when a person gets to be a champion or reaches some high station that's when they start chopping away.

"Then this week I was finishing a hard and very long set and tired and started to the water cooler. A reporter stopped me and said 'Just a minute, I'd like to talk to you.' I said 'Just a moment I'd like to get some water first.' He became peeved and wrote that I was becoming impossible.'

Johnny Longden Fractures Leg

DEL MAR, Calif. (AP) — A broken leg has Johnny Longden hospitalized today. But his first reaction was that the injury will not necessarily end his career as the world's champion winning jockey.

Both bones of the right leg were broken cleanly just above the ankle when Royal Zaca, a filly at the track for the first time, reared in the starting gate just before the fourth race at Del Mar track Friday. Longden's leg was pinned between horse and gate as he fell over backwards.

Bert Thompson, western representative of the Jockeys' Guild, asked the 47-year-old Longden "Is this it? Will you retire now?"

"We'll just have to wait and see," answered the man who in his 30-year career has ridden 5,660 winners, more than any other jockey.

Dr. R. V. Fait, track physician, said after x-rays were taken that "such breaks are notoriously slow in mending." He said Longden will not be able to ride for three to six months.

Timbermen Whip St. Kitts 18-8

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Peterborough Timbermen took over undisputed possession of first place in the Ontario Lacrosse Association 8 s e a s o n standings Friday night, defeating St. Catharines Athletics 18-8.

Bob Allen, the league's leading scorer, added six goals to his total and also picked up two assists to lead both teams in scoring. Other Peterborough scorers were Bud McDougall and Ike Hildebrand with three each and Rock Bailey, Ray Roode and Lin Nickel with two. Gord Perry had a single.

For St. Catharines, rookie Ronnie Roy was top man with five goals. Mike D'Amico had two. Al Frick one.

Yankees Oust Aussie Stars

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — Vic Seixas, Ham Richardson and Dick Savitt Friday brightened the United States Davis Cup picture by crushing three Australians and erasing the Aussies from today's semi-finals of the Eastern grass court championships.

Seixas whipped No. 1 Aussie Ashley Cooper, 6-3, 7-5. The Philadelphia vet will meet Gil Shea, East Angles, who stopped Hedi Flam, Beverly Hills, Calif., 4-6, 12-10, 6-3.

Richardson, top-ranking U. S. player, breezed by No. 4 Aussie Roy Emerson, 6-4, 6-1. Savitt knocked out the No. 3 Australian, Mal Anderson, 9-7, 6-4.

Argos Release Two Players

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union Friday released three players from their Commonwealth Conference American and two Canadians.

Gone are John Smith, a tackle from Northwestern University, Quarterback Al Bruner from Ottawa, and San Laverty, a defensive halfback from Loyola and Toronto Balmy Beach of the Ontario Rugby-Football Union.

Argos have 35 imports in camp with the arrival of Dave Howard, an end candidate from Wisconsin University.

Gal Swings Mean Bottle; KO's Fiance

ROSARIO, Argentina (AP)— This city's professional lightweight champion Miguel Aguero was unable to climb to the ring Thursday night for a scheduled bout with Ramona Paredes.

The reason he had been knocked out by his fiancee who broke a bottle on his head at the bottom end of an argument shortly before the boxing bout was due to start.

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP)—Marshall Ney II, the Irish-bred winner of the recent Fair Play Stakes, will carry top weight of 123 pounds in today's $7,500 Auspicious Handicap at Fort Erie race track.

Second highest weight of 120 pounds will be carried by Al View, the grey stakes horse owned by Rocie Gian of Buffalo.

E. P. Taylor's Nearctic, winner of over $34,000 last year including the winner-take-all Saratoga Special, Friday was the featured sixth race, beating Sunday Star and Red Pippin.

Carrying jockey Avelino Gomez, Nearctic was clocked in :45 for the six furlongs and won by 2 ¾ lengths.

Pat Boone Wants to Be Friend To Audiences in New Show

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "No doubt about it, some of us are going to fall by the wayside. I just hope it won't be me."

That was Pat Boone as he faced his first big leap into television with his own show. He starts a half-hour program this fall, and he knows what he's up against.

The 1957-58 season is the age of the so-called. Noting the success of Perry Como and Dinah Shore, the networks have enlisted such stars as Frank Sinatra, Eddie Fisher, Dean Martin, Polly Bergen, Giselle Mackenzie, Guy Mitchell and others for their own variety shows.

As Pat pointed out, the end of the season will see some of these stars with dropped options. But he plans to do his darndest to avoid such a fate.

EVERYBODY'S FRIEND

"It may sound corny, but the thing I want most to do with the audience is to be a friend. I think the important thing I can do is to come across the screen as a personality and a friendly kind of way.

If I can do that, I think the show will go over and I can make friends for the sponsor."

The sponsor, oddly enough, is a car manufacturer—the oddity is that the most prominent Boone following—teen — agers—don't ordinarily buy new cars.

But the company believes Pat has a potential with the car-buying crowd, too. And it's possible that parents will appreciate a teen-age idol who is clean-cut and wholesome.

Pat Boone show may be the first in TV history that has been adjusted to a school calendule. Pat will be 'winding up his last term at Columbia University and rehearsals have to fit into his free time from classes.

"Final exams are going to be a problem," he mused. "I may walk into the show with a book in hand and tell the folks I have to study while others do the performing."

Riders Meet Bombers Tonight

WINNIPEG (CP) — When Ottawa Rough Riders take the field tonight against the local Blue Bombers—a team they have never beaten—they will be seeking their third straight win over Western Interprovincial Union football clubs.

Ottawa has already beaten Calgary Stampeders and Saskatchewan Roughriders in exhibition tilts in the east and coach Frank Clair said the performances of his imports against Bud Grant's Blue Bombers will go a long way in deciding who will stay with the club after the cut-off date.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

For Monday, August 12, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—An interesting day if you allocate your energies properly. There's much to be accomplished. Give each job but without overstraining. Keep trying, success is within reach.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—You can seek benefits now. Proceed energetically but don't overdo. With a well regulated pace, you can cover much ground. An analytical review of things-to-do is essential.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Take advantage of opportunities as they present themselves. Friends and interested business associates are willing to help now. Don't procrastinate — a temptation now.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Control emotions to a sensible degree or you won't be mistguided or use faulty judgment. You'll accomplish more through thoughtful action. But don't dally.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Mild influences. Get into the swing of things, express yourself with decisiveness, but with tact. Move with alacrity. Give some thought to family affairs.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Introduce a new, refreshing method to your routine. It will raise your morale and enhance your performance in the eyes of others. This does not mean that you should be bizarre or eccentric.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Modern methods, tempered by the wisdom of experience is today's formula for attainment. Don't anticipate difficulty but don't sidestep it either. Meet all situations squarely.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—A day to consolidate your gains, attend to incompleted duties, plan for the balance of the week. Eliminate non-essentials. Don't underestimate your competition; it's mighty keen.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—This is a time for reexaminations and preparing for the future. Your innate ability will see you through the "rough" spots. A cheery disposition also helps.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Auspicious rays. Channel your activities to include home and family matters, civic and community interests, financial and investment affairs. Be tolerant.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Be a bit more cautious and choosey about how you allocate your time now. Change is possible, but judicious planning must be your forte Good luck!

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Some days one can accomplish a great deal; on others we seem to be held back either by outside disturbances — or by ourselves. Give yourself a pep talk now, and resolve to go steadily onward.

You born today have remarkable vitality, intuition and a cheery personality. Be careful not to override anyone in your desire to get things done or run over points you feel important. Be less sensitive about hurts, setbacks. Yours can be a wonderful life if you will be true to the many fine characteristics with which God has blessed you. Be temperate in likes, dislikes, and keen Leo's sense of humor on top. Birthdate of: Robert Southey, poet; man of letters.

BUILD SUB BASES

ATHENS (AP) — The newspaper Vima says Turkey is rushing construction of fortifications and submarine bases on islets opposite the Greek island of Lesbos. It says Greece will protest to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Greece stopped fortifications work on a naval base at Lesvos after Turkish protest through NATO.

Milk Board Denies Picton Man's Charge

PICTON — The Ontario Milk Board yesterday labeled as "nonsense" a charge by Picton dairyman Gordon Bell that politics had been involved in the Board's refusal to grant him a milk distributing licence.

Bell holds a producer-distributor's licence, which allows him to process and sell milk from his own herd.

But he says the lack of a distributor's licence prevents him from continuing sale of milk to Picton Butcher Francis Stacey, who resells it at 17 cents a quart, —three cents under other stores' prices.

To meet Stacey's demand Bell said, he had had to buy milk from other processors.

He said Progressive Conservative politicians had been "out to get him" and a campaign against "0' election.

THREE DEATHS

Mrs. Hilda Bott, the neighbor who first called police, had been uneasy about the Kirks since last Sunday. When she checked around the house Friday she noticed the smell. At first, she said, she thought an animal had died. Then she noticed flies clustering around the second-storey windows.

When her husband returned from work they decided to call the police.

OUT OF PLACE

Sunday, she told the detectives, a ladder and hose in the Kirks' back yard drew her attention. "That was unusual, because they weren't the sort of people to leave things lying around."

A bathroom light, not on before, burned Tuesday night. Yet the Kirks usually turned out the lights on leaving a room.

Wednesday, she produced a telephone call from Kirk's company, asking whether the Kirks were home, as Mr. Kirk had not showed up at work. Her answer then was that perhaps the Kirks were on vacation.

Friday the ladder and hose still in the Kirks' yard, disturbed her and she went around for a closer check. That was when she became alarmed at the smell and the flies.

The bodies were removed to an undertaker's for identification by a neighbor, and then to the city morgue, where two pathologists, Dr. Chester McLean and Dr. H. T. Van Patter began the autopsies about midnight.

RAF HITS HARD

Informants said that least 47 Soviet technicians now are in Yemen—more than half at the seaport of Salif where Soviet arms have been unloaded by at least seven ships since the beginning of the year.

Salif lies within telescope distance of the British - controlled Kamaran islands, accounting for detailed British accounting of Russian arms unloaded there.

But British officials foresee no serious trouble on the frontier. Thea rea is comparable in wild ruggedness with the Omani mountains 1,100 miles to the northeast at another corner of the trackless Arabian peninsula.

Meanwhile, sources in Cairo said Yemen's autocratic king, Imam Ahmed, 66, is critically ill and may die within a few days. His heir - apparent is Crown Prince Mohammed el Badr, who is believed to have negotiated the arms deal with Moscow. However, Yemen has a history of violent feuds and bloody fights for control.

PCs Carry Out Principles of Liberal Govt.

OTTAWA (CP)—Principles decided last April 13 when the Liberals were in power resulted in the Progressive Conservative government deciding last month to restrict immigration for the rest of the year, it was learned Friday.

The immigration department forecast April 12 that July 31 would be the latest date at which aliens in most occupations with no contract for employment should be permitted to land in Canada as immigrants. The new government made the July 31 deadline effective.

The restrictions do not apply to citizens of the United Kingdom, Commonwealth countries, France, Ireland and the United States.

The April 12 forecast did not apply to arrivals of Hungarian refugees.

300 'Mailers' Of Boston Papers Stage Walkout

BOSTON (AP) — More than 1,250,000 Boston-area residents were without local morning newspapers today as a wage dispute involving 300 "mailers" forced six of the city's seven dailies to suspend publication temporarily.

It was the first local newspaper blackout in memory.

One newspaper spokesman said the suspension might be a long one for the six dailies involved—the morning and evening Globe, morning Herald, the Herald Corporation's morning Record and the evening American, and the evening Traveler.

Some 5,000 non-striking employes were notified not to report for work shortly after the mailers set up picket lines Friday night.

It appeared that the city's three Sunday editions—the Globe, Herald and Advertiser — also would be affected by the strike.

MONITOR PUBLISHES

Thus Bostonians' only local news source was the evening Christian Science Monitor and radio and TV stations which retained their programs to set up newscasts. The Monitor mailers are union members, but operate under a separate contract.

The mailers, a subordinate unit of the International Typographical Union, walked out after latest negotiations with management on a new contract bogged down Friday.

Joseph P. Bailey, a vice-president of the ITU, said the Boston mailers hope to boost their scale closer to the national average of $110 a week. Their present average wage is $94.13.

Reach Agreement

QUEBEC (CP) — Negotiators reached agreement Friday on terms of the last major issues holding back settlement of the 117-day strike of 6,500 Arvida, Que., aluminum workers.

J. J. Gagnon, personnel director for the Aluminum Company of Canada at Arvida, said company and National Metal Trades Federation (CCCL) representatives have come together on the principle of separate expiration dates for contracts with the employees of Alcan's four Quebec plants.

The union previously had been asking that the four contracts expire on the same date.

Talks adjourned Friday night until Tuesday.

Canadian Exports Show Record In First Half

OTTAWA CP— Canadian exports in the first half of 1957 rose in value to a record $2,287,100,000, up slightly from the previous high of $2,259,900,000 in the corresponding period last year, the bureau of statistics said Friday.

The increase resulted from gains in exports of non-ferrous metals, non-metallic minerals, iron and its products, chemicals and allied products and miscellaneous commodities. These gains outweighed substantial declines in exports of agricultural and animal products and wood and paper products.

Increases were recorded in the value of shipment of aluminum, nickel, zinc, uranium, crude petroleum, iron ore, seeds, grains other than wheat and newsprint paper. Value of uranium exports rose to $44,700,000 from $21,992,000.

Exports to the United States in the January-June period rose in value to $1,355,690,000 from $1,257,874,000 a year earlier. June's value was little changed at $228,234,000 compared with $228,759,000.

Shipments to the United Kingdom fell to $338,481,000 in the six months from $368,961,00. In June they declined to $55,947,000 from $65,363,000.

Bridge Collapses After Accident

CLANDEBOYE, Ont. (CP) — A small bridge collapsed shortly after a fatal truck accident near here Friday, trapping a district farmer in the debris and sending seven other persons scurrying to safety.

The bridge over the Little Sauble River failed shortly after Carl Brice, 27, had been killed when his pickup truck left struck a corner of the structure, only 100 yards from his farm home. Seven of the eight persons on the bridge, including Dr. Clayton George of Lucknow, reached safety, but farmer Ray Cunningham fell 30 feet under the timbers.

Mr. Cunningham lay a foot above the water for several minutes until a wrecking truck crew hoisted him up with a chain. He suffered only cuts and bruises.

Garden Notes

Not too Late for Transplanting

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

It is quite safe to transplant roses, chrysanthemums, or almost any plant in mid-summer, if you take a few extra precautions. Trees and shrubs are better left until fall but annuals and perennials can be moved to make new beds, fill in a vacant spot, replace spent plants or to lend new color to a dull section.

Soak the soil around the plants to be moved several hours before digging time. Take up a good ball of soil with the roots. Disturb the roots as little as possible. Have a big enough hole ready to receive the plant and plant at the same depth it was in its former place.

Water the plant with liquid plant food as soon as it is in place and keep the soil damp until it has had time to become established.

One of the new plastic sprays designed for foliage will give added assistance when transplanting. It will cut down on the evaporation while the root system is recovering from shock of moving. It can be used in power, or hand sprayer. By adding it to a foliage spray or liquid plant food you can eliminate one operation.

During the sunny hours the rate of evaporation of moisture from the leaves is much higher than at night, or sunless days. Do your transplanting in the early evening, on a dark, or even a rainy day. Shield the transplants from the sun by placing over them a bushel basket, berry box, newspaper, or lightweight screen of cloth. Be sure the air can circulate freely under the covering. Take the screen off as soon as the direct sun light is gone.

Work quickly. Have the new location prepared by digging the hole, loosening the soil around the hole and mixing in some plant food with the loose soil which will be directly under the new plant. If the soil is heavy clay mix in a good quantity of humus, and if necessary some fine gravel or sand for improved drainage. Have a pail of liquid plant food ready and use it as soon as the plant is in place.

If the plants must remain out of the ground for any length of time heel them in, keep them damp and covered, but see that they are not crushed together. Provide plenty of room for circulation of air. Damp humid conditions encourage fungus diseases.

Did you dig up your spring flowering bulbs? I hope you have dusted them with an all-purpose powder and have stored them in a trench in the back garden. If you dug the trench about a foot deep and covered the bulbs with several inches of sand and a final layer of top soil they will not rot or become moldy through the summer. They will be in good condition for fall planting if treated in this manner and the tops were allowed to ripen before being dug. The leaves gather food from the air which is stored in the bulb for next year's bloom.

Nizwa Captured, Oman Rebels Hunted In Hills

Imam and Brother Flee As Their Fortress Falls

MANAMA, Bahrein (AP)—Supporters of the sultan of Muscat and Oman searched the barren mountains behind Nizwa for isolated rebels today after capturing the mud village.

The goal of British-led native forces was achieved peacefully Sunday when they swept into Nizwa, for four weeks capital of the rebellious Imam of Oman.

Imam Ghalib ben Ali, religious leader who sought an independent state, was believed to have fled to the izki area east of Nizwa.

Sam Pope Brewer, New York Times correspondent reporting for the American press from the column that took Nizwa, radioed that the Imam and his younger brother Taleb were believed to be with chief Suleiman bin Hayyma, another leader of the revolt.

After being held up two days at Firq on the approaches to Nizwa, Arab Legion scouts reported by British troops under Brig. J. A. R. Roberton captured Firq at dawn Sunday.

U.S.-STYLE GRENADES

Brewer said what appeared to be American-style hand grenades were found in rebel strongpoints at Firq, strengthening suspicions that the Imam had been supported by Saudi Arabia, which received American military aid.

Nizwa leaders surrendered to the sultan's forces. Brewer said in each village occupied so far leaders have assured the sultan's forces that inhabitants were completely loyal but were intimidated by small bands of armed tribesmen.

Air Vice-Marshal Laurence Sinclair received a message here at British Persian Gulf headquarters from Sultan Said bin Taimur expressing his "gratitude and deep appreciation" for British aerial and ground support.

Labor Leaders To Picket Mine

MONTREAL (CP) — National labor leaders, led by President Claude Jodoin of the Canadian Labor Congress, picket the Gaspe Copper Mines at Murdochville, Que., Aug. 19, it was announced Sunday night.

William Mahoney, national director of the United Steelworkers of America, said in a statement that a "large delegation representing all sections of the labor movement" will parade with striking workers. He said it will be "peaceful picketing."

Some 1,800 workers went on strike March 10. The company has reopened the mine and has started shipping refined copper.

'Bertha' Brings Welcome Rains

DALLAS (AP)—The remnants of tropical storm Bertha dissipated over northeast Texas Sunday after touching off welcome rains on parched farmlands in the eastern part of the state.

Some lowland flooding was expected today along the Trinity River near Liberty, Tex., 46 miles east of Houston. Farmers were advised to move livestock to higher ground.

Thousands of persons fled their homes along the Louisiana and Texas coast Friday before the storm moved inland near the Louisiana - Texas border and began breaking up without causing severe damage.

FIFTY KILLED IN ACCIDENTS, 36 ON HIGHWAYS

Score Die in Ontario To Top Canadian List

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A spate of highway accidents pushed Canada's weekend accident death toll to 50, a Canadian Press survey showed.

Among other accidents not included in the survey was a plane crash near the tiny Quebec community of Issoudon which claimed 79 lives.

Traffic accidents accounted for 36 lives; Eleven persons were drowned and three met death in miscellaneous accidents.

The survey started at 6 p.m. Saturday Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

Ontario's toll was heaviest—20. Thirteen were killed on the highways, two were drowned and an infant died of injuries suffered when the family car overturned.

Quebec followed with 10 including five traffic and four drownings.

Ontario deaths:

Jean Clement, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Clement of Massey died of burns suffered when he tumbled into a kettle of boiling water.

Albert Renaud, 42, a diamond driller from Azilda, was killed when the truck he was driving rolled over on Highway 17 near Spanish.

John Nagy, 26, of Toronto died when his panel truck hit a culvert on Highway 2 near Brantford. He was going to visit his mother in a Brantford hospital.

Donald Gilbert, 17, of Toronto was killed in a two car crash on Highway 9 near Fulmerston.

Mrs. Jean Farrell, 3, of Cannifton was killed when the car in which she was riding hit a tree near Norwood. Robert Hyrd, 20, of R.R. 4, Belleville, later died of injuries received in the same crash.

Henry David Evoe, 38, of Wiarton died of injuries suffered when his truck was struck by the CPR Windsor-Toronto Daylimer.

William Holt, 30, of Barrie died of injuries suffered when he was struck by a car while walking on Highway 400 near Barrie.

David Jarvis, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lovett Lewis of Toronto was drowned while wading in Georgian Bay at Sibbald Point Park.

Mrs. Irene Wyllie, 49, of Toronto was drowned while wading in Sturgeon Lake near Fenelon Falls.

Donald Kotieson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hasso Kotieson of Toronto was drowned when he fell from a rock into Gloucester pool near Port Severn.

Courtiers Reply by Mighty Silence To Charge They Are Out of Date

LONDON (AP)—The elegant advisers of Queen Elizabeth are considering a mighty silence to the charge that her court is hopelessly out of date.

It's muffled debate about the people who surround the pretty young sovereign goes on constantly in Britain, but never before has it been given the public airing it received last week.

Responsible is 33-year-old Lord Christopher Brett, editor of a magazine, the English and National Review, that the young courtiers are out of touch with the times.

Blessed be the noble and proletarian thunder, the lighting has illuminated in sharp relief the vanity of the people in the palace, who up to now, have been little more than shadows on the wall of public mind.

They do include a lot of people who are related to one another by blood or marriage.

It's almost a closed shop and one of the easiest ways to land a palace job is to have a relative who has been in royal service.

The lord chamberlain is the general manager of the palace setup. He is Roger Lumley, 11th Earl of Scarbrough. His wife is lady - in waiting to the Queen Mother.

The man who makes a lot of big decisions for the Queen is Sir Michael Adeane, her private secretary. His grandfather was Lord Stamfordham and a page to King George V at the age of 15. Sir Michael's own son George became a page at the age of 14. The Earl of Leicester is equerry to the Queen. His wife is a lady-in-waiting.

Iris Peake, Princess Margaret's lady - in - waiting, is the daughter of the 7th Earl of Essex. One of her ancestors was Lady-in-waiting to Queen Victoria.

These people — and there are many more of them—have been trained, and it almost seems, bred for the job. They speak silently and unselfishly. They spend hours with the dull and listless on family life of their own.

The Queen's courtiers advise her on matters both large and small. Her courtiers see that her homes, vast land holdings and real estate run smoothly and economically. They must answer thousands of letters, deal with more thousands of requests and talk with thousands of people. They advise her what invitations to accept or reject and in effect draw up her day-to-day program.

Understandably, they sometimes displease and make mistakes. But theirs is a tricky job.

North Bay Woman, 84, Alive, Spry, After 5 Days in Bush

NORTH BAY (CP) — An 84-year-old woman who was lost in the bush for five days and five nights was found in good health Sunday by a search party of friends and neighbors.

Annie Speed of Alsace, 24 miles south of here, left her home Tuesday to pick berries. When she did not collect her mail Wednesday and Thursday, friends became alarmed.

About 40 persons were in the search. They found Miss Speed beside Porcupine Creek, two miles from her home. She walked out of the bush with her rescuers. Miss Speed had plenty of fresh water from the creek but had only a few wild berries for food during her ordeal.

Miss Speed, a retired nurse, was examined by Dr. R. H. Dillane of Powassan who found her in "remarkable condition."

Soviet Paper Feels Sorry For Canada

LONDON (Reuters) — The Soviet armed forces newspaper Red Star says Canada has become "a military vassal of the United States."

The official Soviet news agency Tass quotes Red Star as saying in an editorial Sunday that the establishment of the joint Canadian-U.S. air defence command creates an "immediate threat" to Canada.

The new measure "will increase Canada's dependence still more on the United States," Red Star says.

"Moreover, the fact that Canada's life is now to be linked with the American 'brink of war' policy represents a serious danger to Canada."

Rescue Search Called Off

HALIFAX (CP)—RCAF search and rescue officials said Sunday a search for a CF-100 jet interceptor and two crewmen has been discontinued after 11 days of searching 14,279 miles of Quebec's rugged north-shore terrain.

Sqdn. Ldr. G.C. Monnet of Edmonton, the searchmaster, said the hunt is being discontinued "for lack of further clues" and all searching personnel are returning to their home stations.

The jet, en route to Baden Baden, West Germany from Goose Bay, Nfld., was last seen Aug. 1 when it peeled away from its squadron and plunged out of sight in a cloud. Aboard were Flt. Lt. Kevin McNulty, 32, Thorold, Ont., the pilot, and FO William Wilding, 20, of Kingston, observer.

As many as 46 airmen in six aircraft took part in the search. A ground search found only an open parachute, a boot and a piece of map.

FELL IN BOILING WATER

MASSEY, Ont. (CP)—Richard Clement, 2, died of burns and shock while being taken to Sudbury Friday night for treatment of injuries suffered in a severe scalding. Son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Clement of Massey, 60 miles west of Sudbury, young Richard fell into a kettle of boiling water at the Clement home.

Canada's Richest Golf Tourney May Be Cancelled

VANCOUVER (CP)—The proposed $50,000 B.C. Centennial golf tournament—richest in Canadian history—may have to be cancelled because of conflicting dates with other tourneys, Keith Matthews of the B.C. Centennial golf committee said Saturday.

The 1958 tournament, fourth richest in the world, is scheduled for Aug. 27-Sept. 1 at Point Grey Course here.

Mr. Matthews said Milwaukee, St. Paul and Edmonton are pressing for dates for simultaneous tournaments after the annual All-American and Tam O'Shanter which are held in the first two weeks of August.

"We will be forced to cancel the tournament if the U.S. Professional Golfers Association writers our proposed dates, which are impossible to change," he said.

Homeward-Bound Vets And Families Die In Swamp After Flight From Britain

Para-Rescue Squad From Trenton Reports None Survived Plunge

ISSOUDUN, Quebec (CP) — Seventy-nine persons died Sunday in Canada's worst plane crash when a big DC-4 chartered craft dug deep into a swamp and tore apart, leaving flame-singed wreckage scattered over a wide area near this community 15 miles southwest of Quebec City.

While available evidence pointed to lightning as one possible cause of the mid-afternoon tragedy, investigators set about an inquiry. The crash occurred the Trans-Canada Air Lines one last December when 62 persons died against a peak in the Rockies.

There was no official word available on what might have doomed the Maritime Central Airways plane, inbound for Toronto from London. Aboard were homing vacationers, including many former British servicemen. The plane had been chartered by an Ontario veterans' association and was on course when last reported.

All but two of the passengers were from Ontario, mainly the Toronto-Hamilton area.

"All is well, I am proceeding on schedule to Montreal," reported Capt. Norman Ramsay at 2:07 p.m. EDT. The pilot was last heard speaking into a thunderstorm and apparently plummeted down about five minutes after his last radio report.

The main portion of the fuselage was found in a 25-foot deep hole. Dr. Jean-Paul Pouliot, coroner of Lotbiniere County, said the army is being asked to pump out the hole. Preliminary examination, he said, showed a head and shoulder of a crew member in the wreckage.

Pierre Renaud of Laval des Rapides, Que., brother of the DC4's copilot Paul Renaud, 27, was the first relative on the scene Sunday.

A former RCAF pilot himself, Renaud said he intends to ask the department of transport "just how many passengers they are allowed to carry on a flight and how well planes are checked over."

Issoudun villagers told of hearing a "frightening blast" as it crashed.

It was last seen whirling into the advance guards of a violent thunderstorm that struck the area.

Wreckage of the plane, clothing, passports and parts of the bodies of the victims were strewn over acres of the swamp. The body of an infant—there were reports two children died—was the only epitpi olist's seat. An autopsy said the wreckage of the rear arm with a ring on a finger was found. No other bodies were found before the search was abandoned Sunday night.

Coroner Pouliot's indication that the plane was in trouble until it was reported overdue Cap-Rouge, Que., Lake Kefalarie, Iceland, early Sunday and checked in by radio in Montreal, Dorval, Mont Joli, Que., and Quebec City. Minutes after passing Quebec it crashed.

The burning wreckage was sighted by a plane operated by Nordair, Ltd., a Maritime Central Airways subsidiary. An air force plane from Trenton, Ont., took three members of a para-rescue squad to the scene and dropped them in. They landed and sent back the brief message:

"There are no survivors."

MCA officials here said they had "absolutely no idea of what caused the plane to crash."

The aircraft was one of three DC-4s the company used for overseas charter flights, part of the airline's regular service is in the Maritime Provinces.

PRIEST SAW PLANE

Canon Alexandre DeBloir, parish priest of Ste. Croix, about ten miles from the crash scene, was visiting sick parishioners and saw the plane turn into approaching storm clouds.

"The pilot was very low and making a lot of noise," he said.

"It was a few minutes before the electrical storm broke. Huge black clouds filled the sky and the plane disappeared over the horizon at a very low altitude."

"When I returned to Ste. Croix, the nuns who work in the presbytery said they had seen a plane flying very low.

"Seconds later there had been a frightening blast. But the nuns did not think it was the plane. They thought it was a highway crash."

Evariste Charest, owner of a nearby farm, said he heard a "terrible blast" and "saw branches and trees." Then a loud explosion.

IMPERIAL CRASHED

The plane had been chartered by the Imperial veterans division of the Canadian Legion's Ontario Command. It was intended primarily to carry British veterans living in Canada to the United Kingdom but was also open to others.

Post House Travel Bureau in Toronto had arranged the charter, one of three this summer of the same nature. One charter was to be completed. The second flight was the second, and the third was scheduled to leave London Sunday night for Toronto.

Rescue Operation for Alpinists Abandoned With Only One Saved

GRINDELWALD, Switzerland (AP) — The huge rescue operation for a group of alpinists trapped on the north wall of the Eiger mountain was officially abandoned today.

Telescope observers saw his body swinging upside down and motionless at the end of a length of rope.

Nothing was known of the whereabouts of the two Germans who left the rocky ledge where they had spent nearly four days to try to make their way to the summit, then disappeared.

The Italian guide, Claudio Cordi, 28, of Lecco, was hauled to the top of the mountain before the wall broke Sunday.

A rescue "commando" carrying Cordi down from the summit was forced to pitch camp in the snow during the night and resumed the difficult descent at dawn.

Cordi's dramatic rescue was carried out by Alfred Helepart, a German guide who was lowered three times on a winch-operated cable. No one has ever before climbed down the sheer north wall.

MONTREAL (CP)—Pilot Norman Ramsay, who died near Quebec in Sunday's Canada's worst aviation disaster, had been censured and defended for his role in an earlier crash in which no one perished.

A board of inquiry blamed the 37-year-old bachelor pilot for "poor airmanship" in making a belly landing in December, 1954, at Brampton, near Toronto's Malton airport. He was pilot of a Trans-Canada Air Lines Supercontellation on a Tampa-Toronto run.

But fellow airline pilots and members of Parliament defended him. They said he was fatigued at the time, that for 61 hours and 37 minutes the previous six days he had been on duty.

"An excellent pilot," said a colleague in the Canadian Air Lines Pilots Association which took up Ramsay's case when he was suspended from TCA.

HAD COMPLETE FAITH

"A good, well-trained pilot," officials of Maritime-United Airways, Ltd., another firm in this air, said when Ramsay joined the had completed faith in him."

The board that investigated the Brampton crash, in which the pilot was blamed, found that none of the 23 passengers were hurt, said Ramsay had been negligent.

It said he disregarded regulations in making his landing calling for a go-around could be made inadequate allowance for a reported prevailing wind and did not use his "aircraft direction finding" receiver to get a bearing on the airport's outer marker.

His case went from the board to the House of Commons. Ralph defended him.

In August, 1955, he regained his commercial pilot's licence, passing a department of transport instrument flight test. Returned to fly again, he resigned from TCA and joined MCA.

Breaks Bank At Baccarat

CANNES, France (Reuters)—Cannes society is trying to identify "the man who broke the bank" at baccarat after the most sensational run of gamblers' luck in recent years at the French Casino here.

For a week American movie magnates and tourists have been crowding one of the baccarat tables and winning fabulous millions of francs on the turn of the cards.

Jack Warner, who has a villa at Cap d'Antibes, won 40,000,000 francs (about $100,000), a British lab visitor won another 40,000, and film magnate Darryl Zanuck netted 2,000,000.

With losses reported to be 360,000,000 francs (about $850,000, the "lucky" table was closed Friday. Bankers then had it drawn the card which broke the bank.

Kitimat Carpenters Highest Paid in Land

KITIMAT, B.C. (CP) — Four, hundred and twenty carpenters here and at nearby Kemano have won a new wage agreement which makes them the highest-paid carpenters in Canada.

Their two-year contract with Kitimat Builders' Exchange calls for $2.54 an hour retroactive to April 1, $2.58 from Oct. 1 and $2.73 from April 1, 1958. The present rate is $2.28 an hour.

Return of the carpenters to work today will enable more than 2,000 construction workers, who have been made idle by a 13-day strike, to start work again.

Woman Thrown From Car Run Over by Hit-Run Driver

BANCROFT (Special)—Bancroft Provincial Police are looking for a hit-and-run motorists who early Saturday morning drove his car over a woman thrown from her car onto the highway and then sped away without stopping.

Mrs. Lorraine Quinn, Niagara Falls, was taken to Bancroft Red Cross Hospital with a severely mangled right leg suffered when the speeding car passed over her.

Mrs. Morin was riding in a car driven by Floyd Bryant, 24, of Bloomfield, when the car went out of control and into the right ditch. Then as the car swerved across the highway, the right door flew open and Mrs. Morin fell onto the pavement, as the auto continued on into the left ditch.

A passing motorist stopped and was about to assist in getting Mrs. Morin from the highway, when a hitch vehicle emerged from the darkness and sped away after running the woman over.

The accident occurred on No. 2 highway about 10 miles north of Bancroft. Provincial Constable Harry Dowdell of Bancroft investigated.

Junior Farmer, 4-H Club Events To Feature Fair

Junior Farmer and 4-H club events will be a big feature of the Belleville Fair as has been the case in previous years.

But this year with a brand new Junior Farmer building completed to house the various junior events, there will be even more emphasis on junior with an entire junior fair program arranged. Junior events will be held each day of the fair.

Today, the opening day of the fair, is 4-H homemaking club day with registration at the new junior building commencing at 9.30 a.m. Contestants are being furnished noon and evening lunch by the fair board with complimentary tickets for the evening grandstand show.

Tomorrow (Tuesday) will be livestock and crops judging day, while Wednesday will be 4-H Inter-Club day. Included on the program will be a rope halter making competition, dairy calf preparation and showmanship, and demonstration program.

Thursday will see the 4-H club calf, swine, poultry and sweet corn achievement days.

Tractor Square Dance for Fair

A tractor square dance, first time seen in the city, will be a grandstand feature at the Belleville Fair both afternoon and evening during the five days of the exhibition. Four tractors expertly driven by Prince Edward County junior farmers will go through all the movements of the square dance to the calls of Sonny Morin, step dancing champ of Belleville. Bob Phillips, fair treasurer and agricultural instructor at Belleville Collegiate, was mainly responsible for bringing the feature to the fair. Shown with their cowboy hats, checkered shirts and white kerchiefs are the tractor dance team members: Eric Peck, Gerry McFaul, Bruce Wallbridge and Neil Peck.

IN MEMORIAM

LEE — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who suddenly passed away August 12, 1956.
Within our hearts we always keep
Within our hearts we always keep
Memories that will not fade.
And try our best to live,
That we may meet you
In Heaven one day we will meet
you.
Sadly missed by Wife and Family.
We will stand once more beside you
We will hear your voice once more
You are where we cannot see you
You are gone but not forgotten
Yet we know you are at peace
Lord, grant her rest.
Sadly missed by wife and son-in-law.

Fire Department Maintaining Hall At Fairgrounds

It's only for four days, but the Belleville Fire Department is manning a third fire hall in the city this week.

The third fire station is at the Belleville Fair Grounds where one of the department pumpers is being stationed for the four days of the fair. Two firemen will be on duty at the grounds ready for any fire fighting emergency which may arise during the exhibition.

Otherwise fireman reported a fairly quiet week with only two of its being received.

One of the calls received was a help a woman in distance to her home after she locked herself out. The other was for a chimney blaze on Dove Street.

Brilliant Weather Ushers in Opening Day Belleville Fair

Brilliant sunshine tempered with cool breezes ushered in the four-day exhibition of the Belleville Fair this morning.

Programmed as "Children's Day" the fair ramp is the shout of crowds of happy youngsters who thronged the grounds this afternoon. Many were on hand when the gates opened this morning.

The fair will be formally opened with ceremonies in front of the grandstand prior to the start of presentation tonight.

The exhibition today gave every indication of substantiating the statement of President Dr. Russell Scott and his directorate that it would be "one of the best in the history of the institution."

This afternoon the track and field events under the supervision of Bob Phillips and Bruce Bishop were run off finishing to the finals of the events. Results will be published tomorrow.

The colorful midway was declared open at 11.30 and the first track show took place at 1.30 when proud palanteens and ponies paraded in front of the stand.

TRACTOR DANCE DISTINCT HIT

"The International Harvester Company Tractor Square Dance" shown for the first time in Belleville was a distinct hit. It is the first time also for two years. In the event that the tractors were driven by local drivers under the supervision of company instructors. The dance will be repeated tonight and every day of the fair.

Said to be the best production of its kind seen at a Belleville Exhibition, the New York stage extravaganza will be shown in all its color, glamor and music tonight.

Lovishly presented, the "Stairway to the Stars" has a cast of variety performers from second to none. Beautiful girls, acrobats, trained animals, and other high class acts go to make a presentation that is tops in entertainment.

THE MIDWAY

The Conklin midway, perennial corridor of fun, is by far one of the best attractions of its kind seen here in many years. New rides, new gaming with the tested shows being of high quality and holding special attractions, fairly sparkle this year.

For those who like spine-tingling thrills there is the "Globe of Death," a circular steel cage in which dare-devil motorcycle riders defy death on speeding bikes.

Along similar vein, miniature racing cars travel at breakneck speed in the "Looping the Looping."

And for the tired business-man and any male of the species in general, there is a gallaxy of beautiful girls in a show called "Cover Girl." The beauties are seen in a show that is the last word in entertainment of its kind.

In more spectacular vein is Princess Voodo and her company of dancing snakes. The reptiles are seen in an act rarely if ever, shown in this city.

Then there is Mako, a 9½-ton whale which for sheer vivaciousness and temper is a minature Moby Dick. Mako is very much alive and represents a package of deep sea fury.

And for those who like their show in large packages of a different kind there is Kawaba, a Congo glantess who from appearances tips the scales at an enormous weight.

RIDES GALORE

The old familier ferris wheels the merry-go-rounds and others which a fair is not a fair, are available in whirling aircraft and the popular tilt-a-whirl. There is the "Round-Up," flat cylindrical ride which whirls and rises into the air at the same time.

The "Scrambler" should give stomachs a battle as will the "Rocket," a flat flying-saucer like hand. Speed thrills are available in whirling aircraft and the popular tilt-a-whirl. There is the "Round-Up," flat cylindrical ride which whirls and rises into the air at the same time.

The "Scrambler" should give stomachs a battle as will the "Rocket," a flat flying-saucer like hand. Speed thrills are available in whirling aircraft and the popular tilt-a-whirl.

The midway will operate throughout the four days of the fair while the "Stairway to the Stars" will be presented tonight, Tuesday and Wednesday only.

The line-ide of thousands of city and district youngsters, the Lone Hawker, Tonto and their equally famous horses "Silver and Scout" will be presented on Thursday and Friday. Their famous and seen on the some show will be "Lassie" the Wonder dog of radio and television. These favorites will perform in one matinee show starting 2.30 Thursday and two evening presentations at 6.45 and 8.15.

Harness racing lovers will thrill to their favorite sport on Thursday and Wednesday afternoons when the top pacers and trotters of the province will vie for purses. The first heat gets under way at 1.30.

The first race was held this afternoon in the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club at two and three o'clock. Results will be publish-ed tomorrow.

Grand stand performances start at 2.30 in the afternoon and at 8.30 in the evenings.

Three Injured In Car Crash At Bloomfield

Three persons were admitted to hospital Saturday midnight following a two-car collision in Bloomfield, at the intersection of No. 14 and 33 Highways.

Gunner Dunlop was admitted to army hospital in Kingston suffering a broken collar bone, while his wife and Mrs. Struthers are in Prince Edward County. Hospital at Picton.

The accident occurred at the intersection of the two highways as an eastbound car, driven by Albert Kydd of Aurora, emerged from No. 33 Highway and collided with the Dunlop vehicle proceeding towards Belleville. Following the impact the Kydd car rolled over and came to rest on top of the small English model auto driven by the Dunlops.

Provincial Police from Picton detachment office investigated.

Driver of Car In Fatal Crash Dies in Hospital

The death toll in Saturday's early morning highway crash near Norwood, which instantly killed a young Canniton boy and sent four others to hospital, rose to two over the weekend as one of the injured died in Toronto General Hospital.

Robert Allen (Bobbie) Boyd, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Alfred Boyd, Canniton, succumbed Thurlow, died in Toronto Saturday afternoon after he had been taken there from Picton hospital.

Instantly killed in the highway crash which saw a car driven by Robert Boyd leave the highway and strike a tree, was Don Jarrell, 9, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Jarrell of Canniton.

Don Jarrell and his younger brother, Douglas, 8, were being brought home from Trenton through fair by Mr. Boyd when the accident occurred. In Peterborough hospital as result of the crash are Douglas Jarrell, Allan Jones, 17, of Canniton, and Leslie Haight, R.R. 1, Corbyville.

An employee at Corby Distillery, Mr. Boyd was born at Canniton and had lived in the district all his life. He took an active part in Junior Farmer activities and was popular among the younger set in the township. He was a member of Canniton United Church.

Besides his parents he is survived by two sisters, Ruth and Elizabeth, both at home.

SUSPENDS POLICE CHIEF

ORANGEVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Mayor J. A. Maude Friday suspended police chief Frank Dobson on three charges of neglect of duty. Mayor Maude said the chief failed to investigate an elderly man missing from his home and later found dead in a country field; failed to investigate an accident and neglected to carry out police committee instructions. The chief said he will fight the suspension order.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Coppers led the stock market to a fairly sharp decline today in moderate morning trading.

Industrials had a 1¾-point loss on index, while western oils dipped more than one-half point and base metals lost almost as much. Golds were more than one-quarter of a point lower.

Rumors circulated that a copper price cut is soon to be announced. Chibougamau Jaculet losers with a 70-cent drop to $1.85, a new low. Temagami was off 45 cents at a new low of $2 and Opemiska lost 30 cents at $2.70.

Trading picked up a little steam and the 11 a.m. volume of 763,000 shares was the fastest in nearly three weeks. Friday's sales at the same time totalled 492,000.

Industrial losses were generally confined to fractions but Ford A and Page-Hersey Tubes each lost two points. A.V. Roe Canada was off ½ to 19½. Dominion Stores gained ¾ at 50¾.

Aconic Mining was off 39 cents to $1.90 on a 50,000-share turnover. Senior base metals eased in fractional-range trading.

Western oils were down in almost a solid line with half a dozen issues off 20 cents. Medallion was one of the few winners with a 36-cent gain at $4.15.

LATEST FLOOD TOLL

SEOUL (AP)—The ministry of social affairs today said the latest official count of flood victims in the Naktong River basin area shows 198 persons dead and 49 missing. Another 243 persons were listed as injured. Floods swept through the area north of the southern port city of Pusan last weekend.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 5 5-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Friday's rate was 94 27-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.63 15-16, down 1-16.

Police Blotter

An epidemic of cat deaths in the Wilkins Street area which has seen half a dozen or more pets die suddenly presumably as the result of poisoning, has been brought to the attention of city police.

Over the weekend a Wilkins street woman reported her cat had died with hey veterinary stating the death seemed to have been due to some kind of phosphorus poisoning.

Another household reported two pet cats had died recently, also apparently the result of poisoning. Where the vats were getting the poison is not known.

A North Park street woman assisting to decorate a booth at the fairgrounds reported her purse being stolen. The purse was later found but $20 in cash was missing.

Several minor motor accidents were reported while a number of drunks were rounded up and now face LCA charges.

THE FACE OF YESTERYEAR

Reader's Digest has published a reprint of the first issue of that magazine, dated February, 1922.

The cover carries the note: "Thirty-one articles each month from leading magazines, each article of enduring value and interest, in condensed and compact form."

We doubt whether the editors who selected the articles 35 years ago meant to give to that adjective "enduring" a scope of three and a half decades - - but surprisingly enough many of the articles then published are still of value and interest to the person who reads them for the first time in 1957.

Not surprisingly, though, some of this value and interest lies not so much in the article itself as in the contrast between the conditions it describes and the opinions it advances and those common today.

One article, for instance, observed that "the electric clock is an American institution" and predicted that its use would become universal.

It was amusing to read Brigadier Amos A. Fries, chief of chemical warfare service, U.S.A., predict that "if we are forced into a war we shall use every known chemical method of warfare against hostile forces wherever they are located." In this prediction he was proved wrong - - chemical warfare on any large scale failed to materialize during the Second Great War. But Brig. Gen. Fries was a true prophet when he said "fleets cannot approach a coast with safety unless they carry sufficient planes to overcome the land air force," although he added, and not prophetically, which he envisioned as the threat to an invasion fleet.

Those concerned with disarmament problems might ponder these two sentences: "But limitation of armament is not disarmament, nor is it necessarily abolition of war. Preparation for war can be neither successfully supervised nor repressed." And those who see the horrible power of hydrogen bombs as the best guarantee that no nation will ever use them are merely echoing Brig. Gen. Fries' feelings about gas when he wrote: "Every development of science that makes warfare more universal and more scientific makes for permanent peace and against war intolerable."

There is not one word in the issue about a problem currently amongst the top domestic issues in the U.S., segregation. But the very fact that conditions which in 1922 were accepted without question are now the subject of sharp controversy is in itself proof of a changed attitude.

Another change in the climate of public opinion is strikingly illustrated by several disparaging references, in articles by different authors, to the "foreign" element in the U.S. Ethel Wadsworth Cartland, who wrote "Wanted - - Motives for Motherhood," observed: "Indeed, I envied the Jewish and foreign mothers of our slums who feel themselves honored in bearing children." Arthur Hornblow, inquiring "Is the Stage Too Vulgar?" observed: "The vast foreign element in the population, the great prosperity of the country, has brought to the theatre a new class, a creature of great opulence." "Can We Have a Beautiful Race?" asked Albert Edward Wiggam and answered his own question in the negative, because: "I have studied thousands of women unloaded at Ellis Island. They are broad-hipped, short, stout-legged with big feet, broad-backed, flat-chested with necks like a prize fighter and with faces expressionless as a mask or as vacant as a pumpkin. These women are giving us nearly three babies where the beautiful women of old American stocks are giving us one; hence the beauty of the American women will steadily decline." Mr. Wiggam, if he is still alive, might find it enlightening to venture into Hollywood and observe how many of the bunny-like tall, slim-legged women in that film capital are from "old American stocks" and how many have Anglicized their Central European names and are the babies of those "thousands of women unloaded at Ellis Island."

More important than the debunking of another prophet of doom, though, is the fact that no prominent magazine today would permit the use of such disparaging language regarding "foreigners."

ANIMAL ETHICS

Of all the species of animals in the world, there is, perhaps, no kind more terrifying than the human being.

Humans, reputed to be the highest kind of animal life, are the only creatures that prey systematically on one another, not to satisfy their desire for self-preservation, but because they want world prominence more than their neighbors.

Perhaps we could take a lesson by developing keener interests in the animal life below us and, perhaps, some of us would become more attached to the adage: live and let live.

TYPEWRITER

Typewriter! That is the small machine
At which I have labored for many years,
But never a word of mine will be seen
Until on the paper at last it appears.

Mind over matter, from key to key
My fingers pass and a sentence grows.

Cold and heartless it seems to me,
For pride or pleasure it never shows.

The words are here for the finest thought;
Here in the keys is the finest

But always, no matter how I have sought,
Always the words they print
are mine.

Prosperity and Inflation

Montreal Gazette

If anything is around for a long enough time, people begin to take it for granted. There is a danger that this may be true of the Canadian dollar. So many years that the idea is emerging that it is natural.

Instead of public opinion really wanting inflation to stop, there is the idea that inflation is the only fair side of prosperity. They may go together like a horse and carriage, so that you can't have the one without the other. If this is so, as is being suggested too much tempering with inflation may come to be regarded with apprehension. Provided that inflation just goes ahead at a reasonable jog-trot (perhaps about three per cent a year), it might as well be accepted as part of the good life.

It is astonishing to notice how this attitude towards inflation is spreading. It is nowadays being said that scientists might well be given out to halting inflation, which might be impossible to control, or dangerous to attempt; attention should be directed to ways whereby even more advantage might be taken of inflation. The aim should not be to stop it, but to learn how to go with it, and even, by a judicious upsetting of certain values, to go somewhat faster even than the stream is flowing. Those who don't grumble about inflation; be smart and make the most of it.

The central dangers of this theory are twofold. In the first place, the theory contributes to a climate of opinion in which inflation tends to gather, finds slight encouragement. Where inflation, once accepted as being natural, or at least unavoidable, everyone takes what he believes he can get, and more. And in these, by their very nature, must be inflationary.

This was illustrated recently in Great Britain. The National Coal Board, which owns the mines the people are said to have to accept rising costs largely the cost of wages. The British Government permitted the Board to increase prices by some eight per cent. This will cost some $126 million a year. British industry's production costs. It will also increase housekeeping directly. The pushing up the price of gas and electricity.

Higher prices will prompt new wage demands. Still higher prices will follow. Then will higher wages be demanded. And so it will go on.

Not only does serious resistance to inflation die away, but there is a tendency to be inevitable, and perhaps a form of prosperity. The other danger is that this is only the natural inflation necessitates an abandonment of the idea of stable money values. The person who saves comes to be regarded as the person who is living in the past; he still thinks that his savings should be worth as much when he draws them as when he put them aside.

The new philosophy requires that the investor regard stability of capital values as unnatural, not sought. It used to be said that "there is no substitute for cash." But now, if anything is turned into cash, it is said it should be changed into something as rapidly as possible, before it melts in your fingers.

This means, of course, that the pensioners are to be looked upon as the unfortunates, who are out of step with prosperous inflation. They may be former members of the civil establishment, or widows, or superannuated clergymen, or anyone who has put his faith in the stability of money, or who finds himself committed to a life income that does not run with the times. These citizens, often the most prudent and responsible in society today, are the victims, who struggle forlornly to the rear.

It is often said that ideas may cross the Atlantic before men think themselves into situations in which the ideas become necessary. If this is so (and it can scarcely be doubted), inflation may be brought to an end only by resistance to it and by taking up the deflationary cure. There is only the normal price exacted by prosperity.

It will be doubted whether everyone can go on endlessly in a universal scramble, pushing and shoving one another, without running the risk of a stampede. If not an immediate one, a crowd guided only by the principle of "let him see himself who can" may be running a race that all may lose. For, after all, the money is being managed and control. And it has no substitute. ukpedeepee.n

Royal Family Can't Hit Back

Cornwall Standard - Freeholder

One of the attributes of royalty is a democratic land must be the patience of Job. Certainly Queen Elizabeth and those close to her must have it, to stand up to the barrage of petty criticism, silly gossip and innuendo that are repeatedly directed at them.

Most of this comes from the British press, which on a dull day in the news seems to delight in concocting some new tid-bit about the Royal Family. Usually the villain is the British "popular" press, which has a penchant for lurid fiction-building and frequently exceeds the bounds of good taste. But the latest is from the arch-Conservative magazine "The Economist Review," an old but scarcely influential publication. Its editor is an Englishman by birth and seems to have written the piece after a hard night at the club. He criticizes the Queen's speaking style, the content of her speeches, her associates and her husband in particular, he seems to want the Queen to "stay out of politics" and "remember" and to do things that "will make people sit up and take notice."

A constitutional monarch is, of course, not required or expected to make statements on the policy of the country. The function of the Queen is to seek to unify the lines; not to take sides in the issues of the day. The Queen is not known to seek to make such unite us; not those that divide us. If, when she speaks of them, she makes fewer headlines, it is because headlines are more often created by strife than by unity. The fault lies there with the newspaper; not with the Queen.

Having gone thus far in his criticism of the Queen, this wooly-minded editor might have gone a little further and suggested what he wanted the Queen to do, to "make people sit up and take notice." She has travelled virtually from one end of the Commonwealth to another; she has undertaken schedules of travelling and public appearances that seem almost inhuman. She has seen more of her people than any other person who has worn the crown. How much more can be demanded of her?

In recent months the newspapers in Britain have speculated, often in tasteless terms, about the secrets of Princess Margaret; of the clothes she wears; of the places she goes, and of almost everything she does. It would seem enough that she gave up the man she loved because she felt it was her duty to do so. She must illerally be hounded everywhere.

The Queen herself is criticized for taking an excessive interest in horse-racing — surely even a monarch is entitled to some diversion; for her failure to attend periodically under fire for playing golf, and for her frequent outspoken and ignoring protocol, etc., etc. This is the price paid, apparently, by the Royal Family in a constitutional monarchy.

The freedom of speech and expression which the British newspapers enjoy are fine things, but one wonders whether the British press does not frequently abuse it for its own purposes. They enjoy it; the Royal Family, because of all possible targets, the Royal Family is the least able to retaliate or even to reply. The vast majority of British people, with the exception of the gutter press, must be sick of it — as we are.

Whoopers Overdo It

New Orleans Item

Somebody has suddenly come over the whooping crane population.

For years the whoopers haven't appeared to give a whoop whether they lived or raised or not. So nonchalant have they been about perpetuating the species that there were only about 25 of them left in this world of ours a few years ago.

Two of these rare birds reside in Audubon Park and have attracted as much publicity as Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier concerning their prospects for progeny.

At present, the zoo is treasuring two whooping chicks, the first to survive this long in captivity.

But now comes the news that whooping cranes are busting out all over Canada. They have been hatched in Wood Buffalo National Park, five more birds are reported sitting expectantly on nests.

All this proliferation is fine if that's the way the whoopers want it, but, frankly, we wonder if they aren't over-doing it. After all, we've heard as much about the only thing they ever had to recommend them.

Burning It Up

A Canadian company has just unveiled the Iroquois, a new jet airplane engine. The manufacturer announced that it uses more fuel in four minutes than the average automobile does in a year.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

August 13th, 1937

Misses Bernice Horrigan, Stella Courneyea, Lillian Courneyea, Elinor Bradshaw, Dorothy Blue and Gertrude Anderson have left on a motor trip through the Adirondacks to Saranac Lake and Lake Placid. They will return by way of Buffalo.

The village of Tweed will hold an "Old Home Week" in 1938 commencing June 30th and lasting until July 5th. The decision to stage the event was decided at a recent meeting and capable committees have the arrangements in hand.

From our file copy at this time in 1857: Bad boys in Belleville play baseball on Sunday.

Miss Aileen Dourie of Montreal is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. J. Butler, Wilson street.

Dr. G. S. Cronk has returned to the city after spending a vacation at Long Lake.

30 YEARS AGO

August 12th, 1927

Mrs. Samuel McGuire and Mrs. Arthur Wrightmeyer of this city are spending a vacation at Moira Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gordon are spending a few days in Madoc.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wannacott and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bishop are holidaying at Land Lake.

Miss Lottie Burke of Toronto is the guest of Miss Kate Dolan, Church Street.

Mr. Hoyt Thompson is home from Montreal to spend a vacation.

Messrs. Ted Green and Bud Galway have returned home from Gananoque where they spent several days.

Mrs. Gerrard Armstrong of Toronto is the guest of Miss Kathleen O'Rourke, Pinnacle street.

Really Good Fishing. From the file copy of this time in 1897: Messrs. G. W. Detlor and Charles Waller when fishing last week caught the finest string of bass seen at Tweed this season. They were fishing only a few hours and during that time caught 35 bass and pickerel.

40 YEARS AGO

August 12th, 1917

Saturday afternoon owing to the timely action of Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, barrister, of this city, a young woman was saved from drowning. She was in the water near the dock at Presqu'ile and was in a helpless condition when Mr. O'Flynn arrived on the scene and brought her to shore where she was revived. The prompt action of Mr. O'Flynn was highly commended by those who witnessed the incident.

Mr. Charles Vanderwater is offering a special prize of $5 to the boy or girl in the schools in Sidney township who exhibits the best grade of a pure shorthorn calf at the school fair at Wallbridge, Sept. 11th. Mr. James Fargey for the same purpose has offered a second prize of $3.

50 YEARS AGO

August 12th, 1907

Mrs. Charles Rogers of Midland, Ontario, is visiting friends here.

Miss Grace Haight of this city will spend a month in Toronto shortly where she has accepted a position.

Mr. Percy Smith left here yesterday on the steamer Caspian for Rochester, N.Y., where he will spend his vacation.

Mrs. John Brown of Strathcona Alberta near Edmonton, is visiting Mrs. Asher Fisher, 74 George Orr, Moira Street, after an absence of twenty years.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Gibson of Yorkville, Sask., are visiting the latter's parents, Ald. Alf Vermilyea and Mrs. Vermilyea, West Bridge St.

Ogopogo Canadien?

Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph

Ogopogo always makes front page copy, and especially in Quebec. The exploits of famous nature sons always merit our attention, and there is some suggestion that Ogopogo is a native of these parts.

At one time, it is said, Ogopogo frolicked up and down the St. Lawrence, but with the coming of navigation, he retired to the more placid waters of the St. Maurice.

It was in the ox-bows of the St. Maurice that Ogopogo acquired the humps which have since become his traditional identification mark. Long ago, however, Ogopogo headed for more salubrious quarters, and is now roaming the Northwest passage.

He tried to make a home at Vladivostok and other Pacific points, but decided to head for Belleville, where on beautiful Lake Okanagan, where he has been seen by No. 1 tourist attraction in the British Columbia highlands.

Seems if some effort were made to clean up the St. Charles River and Lake Beauport Quebecers — Ogopogo might be persuaded to return to his former haunts. Then it could be confidently boast that Quebec also has a tourist attraction.

Personal Health Talks

A Life Is in Your Hands

What have you? A blue- tiled heated swimming-pool on the terrace? Or is it the creek down on the Old Post Road? A lazy river at the foot of the meadow? Or just the Municipal Bathing House?

Whatever it is, you will want to save a life, some of these days. You may be the only one present who can save that life. Do you know how?

The newspapers carry frequent reports of "the mother who tried vainly to get the child to the hospital in time," or the neighbor who "couldn't get through to the fire-station because the telephone was busy," or the friend or passer-by who "had no way of getting the boy to the nearest town."

These stories are not pathetic; they are an indictment of our educational system.

Anyone of sound mind and body can perform artificial respiration on the spot and can learn how in less than an hour, a youngster! It is not a mysterious and complicated procedure.

You don't have to run for a doctor or an ambulance or a station. You can do it right there. And if you have anything to do with water-sports, it is your duty to learn the method and see to it that your children learn how to perform it and demonstrate their ability to you.

Numbers of public schools list ability to swim as a prerequisite for graduation. Do they there require a knowledge of the workable technique for artificial respiration?

If you are not confident you can prepare to save life in an emergency, now is the time to learn; for it is the vacation season that the emergency is most likely to occur. If you can't or will not attend a Red Cross class in first aid training, perhaps a Boy Scout or a Girl Guide in your neighborhood will teach you the Schafer's prone pressure method of artificial respiration — the method which, in my opinion, is still the simplest, easiest to apply and most efficient.

The latest edition of the Red Cross First Aid Textbook published by Doubleday & Co. described only the prone pressure method of artificial respiration. Supplemental it, issued some time later, describes the Schafer method to carry out the method. The supplement "supersedes" the instructions in the textbook, but authorities maintain that the back pressure-arm lift method is a proper volume of air intake than the prone pressure method. Probably it does, but it is certainly more complicated for the amateur and harder to carry out for at least half an hour than the prone pressure method.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The wayside restaurant at which we had lunch is all window in front, a sort of sun-room with windows, a park your car on the gravel in front, the nose a few feet from the glass of the road. Not nothing but a bunch of parked cars' noses to look at, it is pleasant to have lunch at the tables by this spacious window.

The little amiable waitress was so nice to us that I left her fifty cents for a tip; a quarter and a dime, though our lunch was less than $2. When my wife and I were alone, just on our car, we were just in time to see the waitress take their place at the table we had just vacated.

Our dishes were still on the table, and the lady was sitting in the chair, a woman in her thirties, stylishly dressed in summer white, a cool-faced, competent-looking person, pushed the dishes and knives and forks and so on to hold my coins that had been secreted under the tea cup.

To my astonishment, I saw her flick the coins with her finger tip, counting them. I told my wife to look. The handsome, practical-looking lady pocketed her pocket-string white purse on the table, opened it, picked up the quarter, placed it in her purse, drew the pucker string, shoved the remaining coins into a dime and dime back under the saucer, and then glanced up to look straight into the waitress' eyes as she came ten feet from her.

She was startled. She did not flush. But she refused to raise her eyes again, though we sat there and stared at her. She uttered certain profanities I had never heard used since the battle of Passchendaele.

The two, both far better clothed and dressed than I, had a short conversation, and studied the menu.

"Fantastic!" said my wife.

I got out and returned into the restaurant.

I took another quarter from the pocket, and went over to the table. I shoved the saucer aside, and made certain only the nickels were underneath.

"Don't touch this one," I said, politely, as I laid the second quarter alongside the small change.

She never batted an eye.

Some people have massive self-control.

"Perhaps," suggested my wife, "she doesn't believe in tipping!"

A WORLD TO EXPLORE

What an opportunity falls to us all at birth — to explore a world on our own terms! We all write the story of the world in our own words. Of course we can only take notes and be brief in our notations. It's a big world, and very interesting one, but each one of us sees it from different angles. Not our own conception of the world is unique to us.

We come within your start taking the world, and the people in it, as we see. Every one looks at the world as his own and yet the people are viewed mostly as strangers. We are born to the world before we have come to maturity. It is realize that life can be made very pretty mixed up affair, or one so interesting as to engage our time in its study. It's the best world that we shall even enjoy because we have no other accept it and thank God for it.

It is a good thing to have our own world to explore. We are not

The "show-off."

Externally he is an unpleasing, irritating person — a nuisance wherever he happens to be. Internally, however, he is a poor, frightened human being. His blatant attempts to show-off and his frantic attempts to gain attention by his loud utterances are only whistles to keep up his courage — he is unsure of himself. He brags about, wears flashy clothes, boasts, buys the most expensive of everything he can afford, and tries to live on a plane much above that indicated by his income.

We should always try to put our feet foot forward, but we should distrust with hand-headed scepticism the mock and retiring man or woman who fawns and pretends to be nothing at all. Remember Uriah Heep in Dickens' "David Copperfield"? He was so humble — and yet all the while possessing a most consummate villainy.

But there is a place about half way between the show-off and this humble appearing hypocrite at which we should all aim. We should try at all times to put our best foot forward and to muster all the self-assurance we possess. But we should work hard to keep it from getting out of hand.

The best intentioned person can become a show-off. The most pathetic sight is the once conscious type who cannot recognize his condition or analyze it.

Vancouver Civic Expansion Far From Dragging Its Feet In Competition With Industry

VANCOUVER (CP) — Industry in Vancouver is flaunting great new buildings and skyscrapers are rising continually against the altering skyline.

The dramatic face-lift largely represents the record expansion in business and industry, but civic development is far from dragging its feet.

Not since Mayor Gerry McGeer startled a depression-conscious people in the 1930s by building what was claimed to be the finest city hall in Canada has Vancouver aimed so high in its civic building program.

The civic administration now is finishing off its 1954-58 five-year plan at a cost of $36,500,000. This has provided a $4,000,000 auditorium, a $2,000,000 library, a new police station and new fire headquarters along with street and sewer projects.

PLAN BIGGER PROJECTS

In July, city council received an interim report from its technical planning board on what is needed for the next five-year period. The board presented a $107,500,000 program for civic development in 1959-63.

This program however was described as the "show window," from which city council will select what is most needed, and at a price the city can pay. Best indications are that the final program to be presented to voters in the civic elections next December may be between $95,000,000 and $60,000,000.

The interim basic plan calls for $74,000,000 to be spent on overpasses, streets, sewers and other essential services. But it is the second section, the $33,500,000 for public projects, which most reflects the part the city council wants to play in shaping Vancouver's growth.

The board describes some of these projects as "of a type not heretofore carried out by the city," which would require a special policy ruling from city council.

WOULD CLEAR SLUMS

One such project is slum clearance.

"The first cycle of development of the city of Vancouver is rapidly reaching its completion and a fringe of decay now is spreading outwards from the inner core surrounding False Creek and the central business district," the board said.

"It is in these districts that the greatest opportunity will be presented for improving the city and raising the value of housing and industry."

A study of the slum areas, begun in July, 1956 with a $12,000 grant from the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, is nearly complete.

"Plans for a 20-year program of redevelopment are being drawn up and will be presented to the council . . . within the next few months," the technical planners reported.

Total cost of slum clearance during the first five years would be $10,630,000 with the federal government bearing half. Vancouver and the B.C. government would split the other half.

REDEVELOPMENT

But the planners also believe the city should do something about the "progressive renewal" of downtown areas even though no federal or provincial grants are available for this sort of redevelopment.

"In Vancouver we have the chance to assemble sizes of site attractive to substantial private investment," the board said. "Larger project areas create their own impressive environment essential for private capital works on a large scale."

The board recommended $4,000,000 be spent to buy and redevelop downtown areas and "costs should be largely recouped from the resale of the property."

Another $5,000,000 was mentioned for the buying of land to be known as "public use zones." This would prevent commercial building in areas marked for government or municipal purposes.

FUTURE PROJECTS

A downtown civic square is an amenity which Vancouver "is at present completely lacking." The planners suggested remedying this by buying for $3,000,000 a corner at Georgia and Granville streets "which is unquestionably the prime location in downtown Vancouver."

This location was the site of the old Hotel Vancouver, torn down in 1947. It is a parking lot at present.

Other suggested public projects are a $1,250,000 museum and a $1,400,000 theatre to be added to the civic auditorium. The board also asked council to consider spending $7,500,000 on Vancouver General Hospital improvements and $2,000,000 on the purchase of a golf course.

Negro Has Almost No Direct Representation in Govt. At City, County, State Level

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negro voting Around that phrase rages south of the controversial battle over federal civil rights legislation now being fought out in the United States.

Just what is the status of the Negro voter in the South? Is he denied the ballot? Has he got a political voice of any consequence?

As is the case with most southern racial questions, there is no pat, simple answer that will stand up.

For one thing, there are no complete and accurate data on just how many Negroes are registered. Some states don't keep registration records by race. In others there is no centralized collection of information.

But there are some basic facts few would care to challenge. The Negro does not vote in anything like the same ratio as the white does.

The Negro has almost no direct representation in government at city, county or state level. He rarely seeks election to public office.

There can be no reasonable doubt that, in most areas of the South, the Negro is much more submerged politically than he is economically.

Why is this so? Is it due to the Negroes' own indifference to or ignorance of their rights? Are white officials acting with or without the sanction of law, barring the Negro's way to registration by various inequitable devices? Or, is intimidation, overt or otherwise, keeping Negroes from even trying to register?

The answer to each of these questions must be "yes"—but, as always, with qualifications and explanations.

The situation varies widely from state to state—Virginia, for example, with almost no restrictions, in contrast with Mississippi where only a handful of Negroes can vote. And it varies widely within single states—Georgia, for example, where Negroes register and vote freely in Atlanta and other cities, but are virtually disenfranchised in many rural areas.

The Southern Regional Council, a bi-racial organization, recently released a report on a survey of Negro voter registration in 12 southern states.

The council's figures show a total of 1,238,038 Negroes registered in the 12 states, a gain of nearly 200,000 since 1952.

However, the report said the current figure represents only 25 per cent of the 4,980,000 Negroes of voting age in the region, as compared to a 60 per cent registration among eligible white voters.

Venezuela Tragically Poor In One Commodity--Freedom

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Venezuela, with more money in its pocket than any South American country, is tragically poor in one precious commodity — freedom.

In this land an ocean of oil is pumping more than $1,000,000,000 a year into public coffers.

But, at the same time, it is a land of little personal liberty.

For Venezuelans, there is the right to talk about or write almost everything — except criticism of the military dictatorship that is their government, and anything that pertains to it.

SECRET POLICE FORCE

This taboo is quietly and strictly enforced by the Seguridad Nacional, the secret police which maintains a far-ranging efficient network of listening posts and paid informers.

"But possibly an even greater safeguard against internal unrest is the fabulous prosperity that is welling up from giant Lake Maracaibo to cover the land.

Some nine oil companies, sinking their wells into the oil field under the lake, are paying a minimum of 50 per cent of their profits to the Venezuelan government. Last year, nearly three quarters of the government's $1,200,000,000 income came from oil profits.

PEOPLE PROSPEROUS

The money is financing one of the world's largest and most startling public works programs.

The country dazzles with new super - highways, supermarkets, hospitals, medical centres, schools, bridges, streamlined factories, and modernistic, 15-story, super-block apartments and skyscrapers in Caracas that are turning this mushrooming capital into canyons of exciting and futuristic architecture.

Undeniably, in the 146 years of independence from Spain, most of the people of Venezuela "never had it so good."

All of this is sharply contracted by political backwardness. Politically, the country is in a vacuum. The military dictatorship, headed by President Marcos Perez Jimenez, tolerates no opposition.

GUARDS EVERYWHERE

In the keen mind of the 43-year-old, bespectacled, portly heavily beribboned army general Perez Jimenez, duty is a weapon that belongs only in the hands of those who know how to use it "for the common welfare."

At the Maiquetia airport, near the Caribbean Sea not far from Caracas, passengers alighting find themselves immediately surrounded by olive - clad national guards.

Along all strategic highways and at all key transport and communication centres and even at the entrances to the sprawling central University of Caracas, armed guards are on the job.

Police or national guardsmen turn out by the scores at every big sports event. All persons entering a football or baseball stadium are searched for arms.

MASS ARRESTS

Venezuelans whisper reports of mass arrests—which the police deny. Once a person is flung into jail or prison, he may stay there for months—and some have been for years—without ever being told why he was arrested. None of his family may see him. Police may never even admit his arrest.

So, talking about criticizing the government, the average Venezuelan shrugs and says:

"What good would it do? There's nothing we could do about it anyway. Pee-Jay (Jimenez) has guns, so who talk? At the best, we'd land in jail. Anyway, we're prosperous—at least most of us—and a full stomach comes first."

The newspaper he reads is carefully screened. Editors have to submit full-page proofs to the censors before they can print.

For foreign correspondents, the situation is just as bad. There is a "blind" censorship—that is a correspondent is never told whether his dispatch is approved or disapproved, slashed or transmitted.

Only the Roman Catholic Church has criticized and got away with it. The church complained that the poor were not getting their share of Venezuela's riches.

Bruce Trimmer Killed in Crash Near Bancroft

BANCROFT (Special)—Bruce E. Trimmer, 32, employee at Bicroft Uranium Mines, 12 miles west of Bancroft, was instantly killed early Sunday morning when the car he was driving on No. 28 Highway left the road and plowed into an embankment west of the village.

Police were unable to give a cause for the accident. Trimmer was alone at the time of the accident.

Provincial police at Bancroft are investigating a break-in at Barker's grocery and hardware store on Hastings Street. Police were unable to state the amount or value of goods taken. The break-in which occurred early Sunday morning is still under investigation by police.

FRONT ROAD W.A.

Mrs. Don Bradshaw was hostess for the Front Road W.A. meeting held at her home recently.

The president, Mrs. H. McMullen, opened the meeting with prayer and observed a one-minute silence in honor of the late, Mrs. A. Clazie, who recently passed away. Mrs. Clazie was a W.A. life member and will be sadly missed by her many friends and neighbors.

Mrs. McMullen welcomed the visitors and members and was delighted to welcome the new minister the Rev. W. E. G. Dovey and his wife, who were in attendance.

"Understanding" was the theme of the devotional led by Mrs. C. Brown which was prepared by Mrs. Fitzsimmons.

The hymn "Jesaus Loves Me", was sung, followed by the scripture lesson from Psalm 139:1-12, read by Lois Bradshaw. Readings: "Are We Understanding"

Pleasing Plaids

Following their marriage in Christ Church, Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Stuart Taylor, are shown signing the register. Mrs. Taylor is the former Miss Jean Elaine Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Edwards, of Belleville, and the bridegroom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Taylor, of Toronto. (Photo by Bruce Edwards, Belleville).

TAYLOR — EDWARDS

A very pretty wedding was recently solemnized in Christ Church, Belleville, by the Reverend Everett P. Smith, assistant rector, assisted by the Reverend Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan, rector of the church, when Jean Elaine Edwards, of Belleville, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Edwards, became the bride of Ronald Stuart Taylor, of Toronto, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Taylor, Yellow and white chrysanthemums adorned the altar, and tall standards of mixed summer flowers, the sanctuary.

Mr. S. Alec Gordon, guest organist from Bridge Street United Church, presided at the organ console, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. A. Jordan, of Belleville, as she rendered before the ceremony, "The Wedding Prayer," and during the signing of the register, "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in white Swiss embroidered organdy over satin, featuring a fitted bodice appliqued with scalloped petals outlining the scoop ed neckline and short sleeves. The bouffant skirt was tiered Swiss organdy over satin. Her finger-tip veil of white, scalloped Swiss net was held by coronet of white, organdy petals, and she carried a semi-cascade bouquet of yellow roses, white feathered carnations, and white heather sent by friends from Scotland.

Miss Shirley Ling, of Cobourg, as maid of honor. Mrs. Gordon Shorting, of Weston; and Mrs. William Agnew, of Ottawa, as bridesmaids, were gowned alike in waltz-length turquoise crystalette, patterned in lace effect with fitted bodices. They wore picture hats of the same material with turquoise velvet ribbon band and streamers ending at the hemline, and carried baskets of white, Sharis 'mums with yellow ribbons.

Little Susan Edwards, of Peterborough, niece of the bride, as flower girl was sweet in her ankle-length frock of white nylon with square neckline and short, frilled sleeves and brimless, tiny, half hat with turquoise streamers, white gloves and shoes. She carried a little white basquette of blue cornflowers and white 'mums.

Mr. Edward Tate, of Toronto, attended the bridegroom; Mr. William Edwards, of Peterborough, brother of the bride and Mr. Harold MacTavish, of Bradford, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Parkdale Community Centre, Belleville where the bride's mother received, a mauve, shantung sheath suit, wearing a mauve, shantung sheath with matching floral hat, white accessories, and corsage of white baby 'mums. She was assisted in receiving line by bride groom's mother, attired in pink nylon with blue flower design, blue and white accessories, and corsage of white carnations.

The bride's table was appropriately appointed with white damask linen, centred by a three-tier wedding cake, topped with tiny, pink, Sweetheart, rosebuds and misted about the base with tulle, and flanked by tall, pink candles in crystal holders. The lovely bridal bouquets added a further nuptial accent.

For travelling by motor to Niagara Falls; through the Adirondacks to New York City, and through the U.S.Southern United States to Miami, Florida, the bride chose a beige-colored linen sheath and duster, with brown and white straw shoes, matching purse, white hat and gloves, and corsage of bronze 'mums and yellow roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart will reside at 220 Beechgrove Drive, West Hill, Ontario.

Guests attended from Toronto; Peterborough; Ottawa; Windsor; Cobourg; Buffalo, and Bradford.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at several showers and presentations: a miscellaneous shower held at Scarboro, by Mrs. J. Tough, and one at Toronto by Mrs. W. Black; one at the home of Mrs. C. Cublin, with Mrs. R. Bunnett as co-hostess, Belleville; a presentation in the form of a kitchen and pantry shower by Mrs. T. Munroe, of Toronto; a presentation of a place-setting of china by the girls of the I. A. C. office, of which the bride is an employee, at Oak Lake; at a presentation of a lovely turquoise wool blanket by the girls at the So-Ed, of which the bride is a member, held at Consecon Beach; and at another presentation of an outdoor barbecue grill by the bride's co-workers at the Industrial Acceptance Corporation, and at a trousseau tea held by the bride's mother, Mrs. William Edwards.

Modern Furniture Trends To 'Light and Airy Look'

By MARY BURKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Today's modern furniture tends to the "light, airy, uncluttered look."

Designed to suit Canadian needs, it has aroused the curiosity of young people with its color, simplicity of design and beauty of wood tone.

Modern furniture — the "antigone" of the future—is continuing to improve, says Robert Scott Jameson, a Toronto interior decorator. The design is less angular, giving the effect of softer lines. It is simple but rich, deriving its claim to beauty from its lines and surfaces, textures and materials.

Simplicity is the pre-eminent feature of the modern designs.

FOCAL POINT

In designing rooms, interior decorators feel the whole composition is most important. There should be a simplicity of planes and furniture where one item is difficult to comprehend at first glance. However, said Mr. Jameson, all rooms must have a focal point around which the designer works—such as a fireplace, a chest or perhaps a window.

One of the characteristics of modern furniture is the low lines. This provides a smoother and more restful look. Besides, said Mr. Jameson, "it's easy to live with."

Popular woods are oiled walnut and oiled teak. All woods are left in their natural state, omitting staining, graining and polishing.

Modern furniture appeals to young people because they find it stimulating to experiment with the new forms. They are dissatisfied with a purely traditional approach to interior architecture. Also, he said, modern decoration as a style is still in a state of change where "if you don't like it you can change it."

Because of its dominant plainness it can be combined with highly ornamental period furniture. With the use of one or two period pieces a slick contemporary room does not lose its character.

SUBTLE EFFECT

"A room is like a well-dressed man or woman. The whole must blend to create a soft subtle effect. It must create simplicity without losing its beauty," he said.

In buying furniture Mr. Jameson advises young people to decide how much to spend and how to get the most value for their money.

Allowances must be set aside for everything — furniture, floor covering, window treatment, lamps, lighting and accessories.

"It is better to limit the number of articles rather than sacrifice the quality," he said.

He cautioned bargain hunters. So often a house is said, furnished with bargains and whole sale purchases ends up to be nothing but an assemblage of odds and ends."

Guide Friendships Aid World Peace Says Fairclough

DOE LAKE, Ont. (CP)—State Secretary Fairclough told guides at the world girl guide camp Friday that the international friendships they establish during their camp could form part of the framework for world peace.

Mrs. Fairclough was speaking during opening ceremonies at the international camp marking the 100th birthday anniversary of Lord Robert Baden - Powell, founder of the guide movement. The event has attracted 1,600 girls from 30 countries.

"The friendships you make at this 12-day integrational camp will provide a framework for the structure of the world, out of which we hope will come the lasting world peace we desire," she said.

Telegrams of greeting from Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Premier Frost of Ontario were read at the ceremonies around a giant campfire.

At official flag raising ceremonies earlier a color party from each country represented broke out its national flag and guides from Canada, the U.S. and Japan unfurled the world flag of the guides and girl scouts.

Today guides are to church service which is to be filmed.

Religious services are planned Sunday for the various faiths, Most Rev. Howard Wright of Sault Ste. Marie, Archbishop of Algoma and Metropolitan of Ontario is to conduct Anglican services. Most Rev. Benjamin Webster, Bishop of Peterborough, is to celebrate mass for the Roman Catholics. Interdenominational services are to be conducted by Rev. E. Crossley Hunter of Toronto.

COLOR AND ELEGANCE FEATURED IN FALL COSTUME JEWELRY

The "Cavalier Collar", with matching earrings and bracelet, add elegance to your jewelry wardrobe.

Each fall we are newly enchanted by gorgeous riot of color with which autumn overwhelms us. This year fashion takes a leaf from nature's notebook, and its inspiration from her palette, to give us the most colorful suit coats we've had in years. Fall '57 may well be remembered as the time when the "little high color dress" supplanted the "little black dress". Red is a fashion theme and accents are intense sapphire blues, greens temerald for evening, softer green for day-time hours), greys and many, many browns — caramel, amber, cigar and that most subtle mutation, "Autumn Haze". Topaz and amethyst, tweeds and elegant, brocaded contribute a "stained glass window" look to the fashion scene, reminiscent of Byzantine splendor.

In the most exciting and newsmaking collection we've seen, one of the outstanding makers of fine fashion jewelry has complemented these gorgeous colors with fabulous "Black Diamonds", (a muted tone to harmonize with the new soft fabrics) smoked pearls and topaz, silver for black and greys; soft Indian sapphire shading to dark Montana sapphire for the various blues; emerald and for brilliant evening greens; pale tourmalines for daytime wools and rubies for red. Unusually beautiful textures of gold blend perfectly with the multitude of browns, as does the deep smoked topaz. Dark smoked topaz and green tourmaline combined match the new tweeds for the ultra chic.

The styles are not only breathtaking in color, but the new pieces are so excitingly elegant that, even though generally unavailable until fall, one, you've seen them, you want to throw out your own "collection" and start all over again. There's a new necklace, for instance, called the "Cavalier Collar", especially designed for the new round-neck line. It comes in several versions for both daytime and evening wear, but all feature a center separation like an inverted V which provides a definitely new look. Whether in gold, pearls, turquoise or coral, the collar does wonders for your neckline you never thought possible. Most have either matching earrings or clips or both.

And, speaking of bracelets, the newest are given special importance this season since they're to be worn over the new tight-fitting long crepe sleeves, or, for evening wear, under the new sheer fabric by fashionable formal gloves. Bold and beautiful in design, they're nevertheless light and easy to wear. Many are cuff-shaped and unbelievably chic.

Earrings are as elegant as the bracelets and necklaces and come in two types — fabulous pendants for the woman who covers her ears and spectacular buttons for the lady with the smart French Twist hairdo.

A new idea taken from the inside of an oyster shell, is combined with textured goldtone and "Black Diamonds", in a whimsical series of beautiful pins. There is a bee, a ladybug, a heart, a spider, a rooster, a firefly, a dragon fly and poodle — all designed to let you express your own personality. There are many more, but you to be your most elegant, colorful and exciting self.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE WANTS TO "SPEAK OUT" HERE'S HER CHANCE

A woman who writes me that she is "the wife of one of those heels who date girls" says she thinks I "should give the wife a chance to speak out."

So right here and now, she's going to get her chance.

This is what she has to say:

"In a recent column of yours there was a letter from a 19-year-old girl who said she was dating a married man. She also said she is intelligent.

"To me, this girl pears to be a moron. Any stupid jerk knows that it's a sin to commit adultery and any unmarried girl who goes out with a married man is doing just that, as no married man steps out for any other reason.

"I'm the wife of one of those heels who dates other girls, and I have only one wish: that any girl like Dot T. would just ring up the wife and have a talk with her. I'm sure that in most cases she'd find she could have the husband for keeps, and they would sure deserve each other.

"My heel (husband) works the night shift. The girl he dates meets him at midnight and they stay together two or three hours. I only with she had the power to keep him for all time, as I don't want him any more.

"For about three months now, he's been coming home on time, but why? Everything I ever felt for him is gone forever. I just want to be free of such a man.

"If this letter of mine is published in your column, and if the girl who dates my husband happens to read it, she'll know that she'd do me the greatest favor in the world if she would please call me up and help me to be free. She could, with my blessing, step right into my shoes with my wedding ring and all. All I wish is for her to just have to live with my husband and learn his selfish, arrogant and overbearing disposition.

"In closing, I'd like to ask you why you're so lenient with people like Dot T. and many others who are just as sinful."

Let me answer this last question first and then go on to this wife's problem.

I assume that when this wife implies that Dot T. is having an affair with the married man she's talking about, she merely means that it's just as wrong for a girl to go out with a married man, as it would be to "commit adultery" with him. While I could not be more against the idea of any unmarried woman, young or older, associating with a married man, I still think this point of view is a little extreme. Moreover there was nothing in Dot's letter that suggested she was having an affair.

As for my being "lenient" to women like her, I don't think doubt if harshness ever has much effect on anyone. There are times, of course, when a severe wire to speak out strongly, and on such occasions I don't hesitate to do so. But there are other times when one feels that it might be more effective to take a different tone — one which just possibly might make the other person realize she's making a fool of herself. I hoped that Dot might get this idea when I pointed out to her that what she was doing made her look anything but intelligent and mature, as she had stated that she was. For vanity alone I often resort to mild deception to change his — or her — ways.

As for this woman's own problem, if she has really lost all feeling for her husband and is anxious to get rid of him, as she says, I can't understand why she should feel she had to sit around to wait for the girl in the case to call her up and help her "be free."

All she needs to do is to take her case to a competent lawyer, and he will take the proper legal steps to take to "be free," and guide her in taking them.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. SEECKMAN

WHILE VISITING ONE FRIEND SHE WANTS TO SEE MANY OTHER FRIENDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. A dear friend of mine, who lives in the town where I lived for a number of years, has invited me to stay with her for my two-weeks vacation in September. Having left there since I moved here two years ago, and so of course there will be many friends I would love to see while I am,there. But my hostess is a most courteous person, a bit on the conservative side, and I must not do anything out-of-order. Would you advise that I go to see my friends one at a time, or should I ask them to come to see me, whether they know my hostess or have never met her?

2. Another question that is very much puzzling me: If I am invited to a special occasion at some homes (to luncheon or dinner or to coffee, cocktails, for example) do I take it for granted that each invitation must include my hostess?

—Visitor-to-be

1. I suggest your write to those friends whom you most want to see, telling them when you are to be in their town and where you will be staying. Then, when they get in touch with you, you confer with your hostess on a convenient time to see them. If they invite you to their home, they undoubtedly will invite your hostess also. Or, as is quite customary, your hostess may plan to give a tea or other afternoon party for you inviting not only some of your friends but some friends of yours you'd particularly like to see.

2. There is no definite rule about this, but in every gesture there should be consideration of your hostess. Certainly she should be invited to any large party given by any friend, whether or not the friend knows your hostess. Also, if practical and if it seems appropriate, the courteous thing is to include her in other invitations. However, I'm sure some of your friends would like to have a "just-you-and-I" chat together, and before you make an engagement for such a meeting, you must ask your hostess if this would in any way conflict with any plans she has made for you.

ABOUT ANNOUNCING ENGAGEMENT IN NEWSPAPER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our daughter is engaged, and she and her fiance want to have my husband and me announce their engagement in the newspapers fairly soon. It's a fine and happy engagement, and we delighted to say, and now that they have set their relatives and friends here, have written to quite a few far-away relatives and friends, I'd like to do the announcement to our two local papers. I've outlined a brief notice write-up, but I'm not sure how they want this done, what information they like to have do I find out about this? — Mother

Telephone to the Society Editor of each paper and ask about the announcement-procedure they prefer. Many newspapers have a printed form which they will send to you to fill out . . . for names, addresses, parents, and other information. Don't forget to inquire about the regulations and requirements concerning photographs.

It Is Smart to Be Thrifty

By Mary Moore

It is an almost irresistible temptation, when you have wads of ten dollar bills in your purse after cashing a big pay cheque, to squander money on groceries. The thick red steaks tempt you to buy-as-you-serve luxuries in the frozen food counter are so tempting-ly packaged your hand reaches before your mind decides. Extravagant purchases of carbonated drinks and candies and ready made baked goods skyrocket your cashier's total.

Do you know what you are doing? Your injudicious spending spree is helping to create a state of inflation and raise the cost of living. Serious economists say so.

There are two major reasons why I am urging you to be thrifty today. If Canadian housewives would band together in an economy campaign they could peg the cost of living and stop the alarming rise in costs. That would help our sisters who are in the low income brackets, too and who must budget. Secondly, the recipes I am giving you are another instalment in my summer program, requested by readers, of economical dishes.

BAKED EGGS

WITH VEGETABLES

One ten-ounce can condensed tomato soup, 1 1-4 cups (1 soup can full) water, 1 cup dry bread crumbs, 1 cup cooked green or butter beans or peas or carrots or celery, 1 teaspoon grated onion, 1-2 cup grated cheese, 4 eggs, Mix soup and water. Add crumbs, vegetables and cheese. Season with salt and pepper if you think it needs it. Pour into medium-sized buttered baking dish. Make 4 depressions with back of spoon. Slip a raw egg into each. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 20 minutes or until eggs are set. Just before removing from oven sprinkle with a little grated cheese if desired.

SUPER OVEN BURGERS

For this you need an unsliced loaf of bread which may be a French stick or sandwich loaf or whole wheat. Slice it 1" thick with a 2-inch cookie cutter, remove centre. Brush top of bread and round with melted margarine and toast them in the oven to heat and brown slightly. Brown 1 lb. hamburg meat and 1 cup chopped onion in heavy frying pan with 2 tablespoons bacon fat, stirring to break up meat clumps. Sprinkle 2 tablespoons flour over meat and mix well. Now add either 1 can condensed tomato soup or 1 can strong tomatoes or 1 can condensed consomme or 1 1-2 cups boiling water to which you have added 2 beef or chicken bouillion cubes. Simmer and stir until mixed and heated through and thick enough to serve. Spoon over oven-toasted bread rings, top with the toasted crumbs, garnish with parsley and serve to your beloved brood.

Family Honors Mother With Surprise Party

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Reid of Springbrook was the scene of a recent happy surprise party when 25 relatives gathered in honor of Mrs. Reid's mother, Mrs. Thomas Elliott, who was celebrating her birthday.

On Mrs. Elliott's arrival, all were present to greet her, and to enjoy ith her the bounteous repast, including a large and beautifully decorated birthday cake.

After the refreshments all joined in singing "Happy Birthday, Dear Mother," and, on behalf of the family, James Elliott read a poem.

"You put the sweet in "Home Sweet Home," for the loving things you do;
You make the days for happier by being so dear, too;
And when your birthday comes along, it's a loving way
You're wished the extra special joys that make a happy day."

The gift of a sum of money was presented to Mrs. Elliott for which she thanked one and all.

The rest of the evening was spent socially.

EIGHT TO REFORM SCHOOL

NEW YORK (AP)—Eight teenagers arrested after the stabbing of two boys July 30 were sent to reform schools Thursday. Nine others involved in the attack face murder charges Aug. 20. Michael Farmer, 15-year-old polio-handicapped son of a city fireman, was stabbed fatally. A friend was wounded.

"I'm not what you'd call hard of hearing"

... but I'd never be without my ZENITH 'Diplomat' Slip-On Hearing Aid!"

"Why do I wear a Zenith when I'm not really hard of hearing"? Simply because I want to catch every word of what's going on—without straining. I will never be without my Zenith 'Diplomat' Slip-On Hearing Aid."

There are the words of a leading businessman, and he adds: "I have several friends, including women, who are hard of hearing and they're as enthusiastic about the 'Diplomat' as I am."

The predominant reason is that Zenith offers the best in quality and performance. Then too, the "Diplomat" is light, fully-concealed, small and inconspicuous. It fits snugly and comfortably entirely at-the-ear. No trailing cords, nothing in hair or clothing.

The "Diplomat" Slip-On Hearing Aid plugs instantly into a tiny, lightweight ear-mold so you can enjoy extra-clear hearing at any time.

Mr. John W. Lawrence, prominent Chicago sales executive, tells of his experience with the new Zenith "Diplomat" slip-on hearing aid.

You can try the "Diplomat," or any of the other 4- and 5-transistor Zenith Hearing Aids, on Zenith's famous Ten-day Money-Back Guarantee of satisfaction.

The Dairy Dispute

THE EMPLOYERS...

of Reid's Dairy, Roblin's Dairy, Lee Grills Dairy, Butler's Dairy, Riverside Dairy Products and Bayview Dairy, most deeply regret the inconvenience to the citizens of Belleville and Trenton resulting from the stoppage of deliveries of milk. This stoppage was not a wanton act on the part of the employers; it is the result of a strike called by the Teamsters Union, because the Employers have been unable to meet their demands, which are considered to be excessive. No one denies the right of an Employee to join the union of his choice to negotiate a collective agreement with his Employer; no one should deny the right of Employers to unite (in accordance with the Labor Relations Act) in order to negotiate such an agreement. The Dairy Employers in the Belleville and Trenton areas have considered it necessary to unite as a group, and to act as a group to protect their businesses.

THE TEAMSTERS UNION...

on behalf of the Employees of the six Dairies have demanded;—

1. WAGES
a basic wage of $30.00 per week plus 1½ cents for every unit sold, for drivers; a minimum wage of $40.00 per week for inside Employees.

2. UNION SECURITY
a closed shop and a check off. This means that all Employees of the Dairies must be members of the Teamsters Union; no one may be employed unless he becomes a member. This means also that the Employer must collect dues levied against the Employee by the Union.

3. A FIVE DAY WEEK with a six day delivery.

4. CONTRIBUTIONS
by the Employers of $3.20 per week per Employee to the Dairy Employees Welfare Plan.

During Negotiations Preceding The Strike - The Employers Have Replied To These Demands As Follows:

1. WAGES
The wages paid to drivers at the present time average from $52.00 to $55.00 per week, in addition to which Christmas bonuses are paid; the wages paid to inside men, in all cases average $47.00 per week. There are inside men who are receiving less than $47.00 per week, and the reason for this is, the job and the capacity of the individual Employee so paid, does not warrant a higher wage. The Employers wish to pay the drivers a basic wage plus a percentage on the cash brought in by them; it is felt that this gives an incentive to the Employee to his own benefit, and also to the benefit of the Employer; this method automatically grants the Employee an increase of wages when the price of milk increases.

The Employers have offered to give increases amounting to $5.00 per week. The wage scale demanded by the Teamsters Union would allow increases averaging from $17.00 to $20.00 per week, and the average wage paid to a driver, on an average route would be $72.00 per week.

2. UNION SECURITY
The Employers believe in the fundamental principle of freedom of mankind; consequently, they believe that they, as Employers, should not be placed in the position of compelling membership in the Teamsters Union; they believe that anyone in their employ has the right to choose whether he shall become a Union member. The Employers believe further, that any union, if it acts for the benefit and welfare of its members, should not have to rely on compulsory membership as a term in a collective agreement.

The Employers believe that Union dues should not be collected by the Teamsters Union; if the Union is worthy to represent the Employees, and is acting in their interests, there should be no fear, that they will not pay their dues voluntarily to ensure that their membership remains current; forcible or compulsory deduction of dues indicates that there may be a reticence on the part of the member to pay; this could result if the Employee is dissatisfied; should not the Employee have the right to express his dissatisfaction?

3. A FIVE DAY WEEK, SIX DAY DELIVERY—
The Employers favor a five day week with a five day delivery; this already exists in some of the Belleville dairies, and it has been given to the Employees of the Trenton Dairies. To have a five day work week with a six day delivery, would mean in all cases that additional Employees would have to be hired, which the Employers find economically impossible.

4. PAYMENT OF $3.20 TO WELFARE
Details as to what the Welfare plan consists of are sketchy. The ultimate resting place of these funds and the use they are to be put to, may rightly be questioned by the Employers. The Employers, by any stretch of the imagination, could not pay increased wages and also contribute to the Welfare Plan.

THE QUESTION AS TO WHETHER THE TEAMSTERS UNION REPRESENTS THE EMPLOYEES—has been raised in the minds of the Employers for the following reasons—

(a) Many of the Employees have expressed a wish to their Employers to withdraw from the Union.

(b) At Reid's Dairy half of the Employees are continuing to work; in nearly all cases in Belleville at least half of the Employees are continuing to work, others have indicated that they will return to work, if they are required.

(c) The Employees of Bayview Dairy on two occasions during negotiations applied to the Department of Labor to be decertified as members of the Teamsters Union; their application was made of their own volition and was refused because it was premature. Only two members of Bayview Employees are on strike.

(d) In June 1957, ten Employees of Riverside Dairy Products Limited, by written statements made under oath declared that they wished to withdraw from the Teamsters Union. At the present time nine employees are continuing to work.

In view of the above, it is not difficult to understand why the Teamsters Union deems it expedient to bring in outsiders to encourage and incite those who are picketing.

THE EMPLOYEES BY THE LABOR RELATIONS ACT MAY NOT BECOME DE-CERTIFIED AS MEMBERS OF THE TEAMSTERS UNION, UNTIL AUGUST 18, 1957.

IT IS THE EXPRESS WISH OF THE EMPLOYERS TO COMMENCE DELIVERIES OF MILK —THIS WILL BE DONE AS SOON AS IT IS MADE POSSIBLE BY THE EMPLOYEES.

75 Per Cent of Huge Summer Homes in Newport Still Remain in Private Hands

By SAUL PETT

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—It has been the practice of writers more sophisticated than this one to fly to Newport, to sniff the sea breeze, to hold up a tea crumpet and see the way it crumbles and then, eyes moist with crocodile tears, to compose a requiem for the death of social Newport, the faded rose of American capitalism.

But for this simple suburbanite visiting the Rhode Island playland where President Eisenhower will vacation this summer, there was still much to be awed by.

Some of the great old summer palaces have been sold and broken up into apartments. But 75 per cent of the huge summer houses remain in private hands. Not all, but many acres of lawn are still manicured by a small but quarter-inch of their velvety life.

LAST OF ARISTOCRATS

At Chateau sur Mer, in Victorian splendor middot walls of damask and carved Italian panelling, ornate statuary and family portraits, lives Miss Edith Wetmore, 87.

The last of her line, Miss Wetmore lives alone in the house attended by a staff of 15. Because of her advanced age, she spends most of her time in her room. She descends occasionally for meals or to work a jigsaw puzzle on a card table tucked away in one corner of a magnificent library.

If Miss Wetmore dines alone, she is served by her brother Henry, who wears black tie, winged collar, cutaway and striped trousers before 6 p.m. and thereafter tails and white tie. If there is more than one for dinner, Henry is assisted by a footman in black livery with the Wetmore family crest shining from gold buttons.

Mrs. Loula Brugiere, whom many regard as the social leader of Newport today, presides over "Wakehurst," a stone mansion modelled after an English castle. It has leaded glass windows, priceless Dutch masters lighted by candles, and rooms filled with growing orchids.

THE PROPER WAY

The mistress of Wakehurst recently entertained6 0 for dinner honoring Capt. Alan Villiers of the Mayflower II. On arrival each male guest was handed a discreet card by the butler telling him which lady to escort in to dinner.

Newport still has many varied signs of the convenience and occasional capriciousness of great wealth, despite high taxes.

Robert R. Young, the railroad man whose estate adjoins Perle Mesta's, recently built himself a $250,000 heated swimming pool complete with dressing rooms and snack bar.

Not many estates away lives a retired banker. Some 15 years ago he bought the place next door. Since then the former banker and his wife, both in their 70s, have occupied adjoining but separate houses. Each has at least 20 rooms and a separate staff of servants.

It is said there is no hostility between man and wife. They just happen to enjoy the space and convenience of separate establishments, although frequently they will dine together or will accept invitations out in tandem.

Boy Too Clever For Australia

LONDON (Reuters)—The boy who knew too much has come back to Britain after a 12,000-mile journey in search of just the right kind of school.

He is six-year-old John Knee, a whiz at mathematical problems, crossword puzzles and spelling. He is said to have the mental ability of a boy of 12.

The youngster arrived from Australia Friday with his parents. His mother and father decided to return to England because Australian schools couldn't cope with their son.

Said Reginald Knee, John's father: "Our problem is to find a suitable school for John. In Australia (where the family emigrated three years ago) he had to be put into classes with older children."

Knee said that when his son was three he had to be taken out of a nursery school he was attending because he yelled out answers to problems posed for older children.

The boy's mother added People in Australia suggested we should take him to America and put him on a quiz program. But I'm not having him commercialized. I have always impressed on him that his cleverness is a gift of God."

Underage Cousin Of Queen Drives Without Licence

LONDON (AP)—British newspapers report that 15-year-old Prince Michael, Queen Elizabeth's cousin, is driving around without a licence.

Reporters at Cowes, fashionable yachting centre on the south coast, told of seeing the young prince zip around town in a big black sedan with a word of protest from police.

"Under-age prince takes out a car," says the London Daily Herald in a page-one headline. "It was Prince Michael go driving," says The Daily Sketch eyewitness story by columnist Simon Ward.

The Daily Mirror says the prince, two years below the legal driving age, "can drive very well."

The newspapers say police at Cowes just waved on the young prince through the crowded streets. The head of the local police said none of his men had reported it to him.

"If we see the prince driving we'll have to take the necessary action," he said.

A Buckingham Palace spokesman said there are no exceptions in the driving licence laws for the young prince, son of the widowed Duchess of Kent.

"The rules about driving licences are just the same for members of the Royal Family as for anyone else," the palace spokesman added.

Crops in Southwestern States Again Feeling Water Pinch

By RAYMOND HOLBROOK

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The weather battered southwestern states, whose parched scars are being slowly covered by the first real crops and grass in years, are again anxiously scanning the treacherous skies.

There has been no happy medium to the area's weather.

In the last seven months the region has been swept from one of the worst droughts in its history through a succession of destructive blizzards, dust storms, tornadoes, cloudbursts and floods to what some fear may be the hint of another drought.

"Whatever it is," said one grizzled rancher, "we got too much of it."

Many crops in the southwestern states are again feeling the water pinch. Some farmers are finding their cotton progressing slowly as the roots seek moisture in the dry soil. Corn crops are often stunted from lack of water. This is beginning to look remarkably like the southwest of last year —a land of famine and debt.

JUST LIKE 1930s

When President Eisenhower flew to the region in January he found vast areas devastated by drought from Arizona and Utah eastward into Missouri.

Twenty-nine million acres — nearly twice the area of the old dust bowl of the mid-1930s—in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska had suffered wind erosion damage.

Many ranchers were forced to sell off all cattle except a few foundation head. Farmers told of going three and four years without making a single crop.

Abandoned farm houses and fences, buried by soil from denuded fields, told the story of a land that had gone too long with too little water.

Cimarron County in western Oklahoma had only 1.26 inches of rain during a seven-months period in 1956.

Reservoirs shrivelled to muddy puddles and stock ponds were bone dry. The flow of the Trinity River below Fort Worth and Dallas was maintained only by sewage effluent.

THEN CAME BLIZZARDS

Then, in March, a blizzard that lasted nearly a week swept across the southwest. At least 15,000 head of cattle died in Kansas, 8,000 to 12,000 in New Mexico and 7,500 in Colorado. Losses in Texas and Oklahoma pushed the total to between 60,000 and 70,000.

The first rains were welcomed, hailed as "drought busters" as they continued.

In some places they fell slowly but in many others they were violent downpours, washing away topsoil, sweeping away livestock and flooding lowlands. Early plantings were washed out while in other areas farmers had to wait weeks and months before they would get into the fields.

At scores of southwestern points the downpours were the first real rain in years. Cimarron County now reported 9.58 inches for a comparable seven-month period this year. Many Texas points received as much rain during the first four months of 1957 as they had in all of 1956.

LUSH ONCE AGAIN

Once the rains and floods ended, the southwest was like a new land. Rangeland and pastures became lush for the first time in years. For the first time in five years it appeared that Kansas would be able to have enough pasture and crops to feed its own livestock. Pastures there rated 84 per cent of normal July 1, compared to 46 per cent a year before.

Ranges in Colorado became so green that a shortage of grass was noted at the Denver stockyards as stockmen were able to hold their animals longer than they had been able to do in previous years. On July 1 the condition of all range and pasture feed in Texas rated at 86 per cent, the highest for that date since 1948.

While damage from excessive moisture, hail and wind took the edge off the highest hopes of growers, the wheat crop in most of the southwest was considerably better than in previous years.

Where farmers were able to get a stand, cotton crops flourished. Because it was too late to replant cotton, some farmers turned to feed crops which made rapid growth.

NEW OPTIMISM SHORT

The soaking rains did more than revive pastures and crops. They brought a new optimism to the farm and ranch country.

That optimism has been reflected in the economy of thousands of rural communities over the region as farmers and ranchers, for the first time in years, were able to stop borrowing and to start buying.

But high temperatures, hot summer winds, fast disappearing surface moisture—and no recent rains—are taking the bloom already.

Some areas, especially New Mexico and far west Texas, did not receive enough rain to revive the drought-ridden land. In other sections, pastures and crops that were verdant a month ago have begun to turn brown for lack of moisture.

Even Nebraska, which "got off easy" in the drought and has had good rains this spring, reports additional moisture needed in some sections.

Farmers and ranchers in the area have a saying: "There's nothing wrong with this country that a good rain won't cure."

But in the southwest, there's a mighty fine line between disaster from too little water and catastrophe from too much water.

Mayer Wins Treasure Chest Balding, Snead Tied for 2nd

CHICAGO (AP) — Handsome Dick Mayer, who had set his sights mayer at finishing in the first 10, came from out of nowhere Sunday to take top prize in the $101,000 world golf tourney by a single stroke over Al Balding and Sam Snead.

Going into the final round of the rich 72 - hole tournament, Snead had a one-stroke lead over the Toronto pro and the two were expected to make the "world" a private scrap.

But while Snead shot a 74, taking a two-over-par six on the first hole, and Balding came in with a 72, including a six on the par-four 13th Mayer embroidered a 68 to sew up the $50,000 first prize with a nine-stroke margin.

For Mayer, 35-year-old onetime Wall Street investment broker from La Jolla, Calif., it was the same sort of sleeper finish as he had in the U.S. Open when he pulled out of the pack to win in the last 18.

It brought his earnings to the year for $66,145—tops on the tournament trail—and he was to decide today whether he wants to sign an exhibition contract with "World" promoter George S. May which could produce an additional $50,000 for a maximum of 50 appearances at $1,000 each.

Balding and Snead picked up $7,500 each for their second-place tie. For the Canadian pro, who represents Ingwin Ont., it was his biggest payday, bringing his total earnings for the year to more than $18,000. No other Canadian hase ver won as much in a year's play.

Banding had rounds of 67-69-71-72—280 while Snead was 74-70-69-73-74—286. Mayor was consistent with 67-69-70-68—274. Stan Leonard of Lachute, Que., had rounds of 75-68-71-74 for par-281, Gerry Kunes of Kitchener had 71-73-75-73 — 292 and Rudy Horvath of Windsor 76-78-76-76—304.

WAS FIVE BEHIND

Mayer started the final round in the crowded Tom O'Shanter course five strokes behind Snead. With all attention focussed on Snead and Balding, Mayer got his 68 with his fourth birdie of the round by sinking a nine-footer on the 71st hole.

In the U.S. Open, which was worth $7,200 Mayer came through with a closing 70, tieing Cary Middlecoff after 72 holes with 282. All attention was on Middlecoff, but when the playoff came, Middlecoff proved a spent golfer and Mayer drubbed him 72 to 79.

Mayer shot a 287 in the All-American at Tam last week.

"When yesterday's final world round started," he said, "I was just hoping to finish in the top 10 But when I reached the 69th tee, I thought to myself that if I could get two birdies in the last four holes, I might have a chance for the big prize."

Fourth place was shared by Gene Littler and Canadian Open champ George Bayer, each with $21 for $5,500 apiece.

Mike Souchak had a windup 74 and 282 for sixth place and $2,000, notted at 284 and sharing $1,800 each were Bob Rosburg, Dow Finsterwald and Art Wall Jr.

PHOTO FINISH

The concurrent "World" women's pro tourney had a photo finish between Patty Berg and Fay Crocker, each with 302.

They will play off at 18 holes today for the $6,000 first prize. Second money is $2,500. Miss Berg forced the playoff when she rank a 25-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole.

The men's amateur crown went to professional singer Don Cherry in a wierd finish which saw defending champion Ward Wetzler of Buffalo, N.Y., knocked out of an apparent first-place tie by a score card error.

Cherry and Wettlaufer finished with 296, but meet officials ruled Wettlaufer erred in okaying a card crediting him with a 76 instead of a proper 77. Wettlaufer was penalized two strokes and finished third with 298. Second at 297 was Howard Everitt, Northfield, N.J.

The women's amateur crown went to 18-year-old Clifford Ann Creed of Opelousas, La., who won by 10 strokes with 317.

Scottish Teams Open British Soccer Season

GLASGOW (Reuters) — The British soccer season opened Saturday with the Scottish League Cup competition. The English schedule begins two weeks later.

Rangers, the Scottish League champions, swamped St. Mirren 6-0. Three goals by Max Murray were followed by three by Billy Simpson.

Celtic had to work to beat Airdrieonians 3-2. They were trailing 2-1 at one stage.

The first goal of the season was scored by former St. Mirren and Motherwell forward, Wilson Humphries, who now is with Dundee United. He had the ball in the net within 45 seconds, but despite this flying start his team was beaten 4-1 at home by Clyde.

Another early marksman was Aberdeen's international right-winger, Graham Leggat, who scored in 90 seconds. But another goal two minutes later His team and the ... e

Falkirk ran away with a 4-1 victory over Motherwell at home.

Argonauts Whip London Lords

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Toronto Argonauts scored three touchdowns and a field goal Saturday to defeat London Lords 23-7 in an exhibition football game.

It was the first victory of the season for the Big Four Football Union club after two defeats. The game was the first for the Lords of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Lords put up a stout resistance and held Argos to a 13-7 score at halftime. The Toronto club's play was sloppy at times and they lost the ball on fumbles four times during the first half.

C. R. Roberts, Dick Shatto and Dave Doane tallied touchdowns for Argos. Bart Mcil scored a field goal and converted two of the touchdowns.

Ron King scored a touchdown for London and Jim Wright converted it.

One of the most spectacular plays of the game came in the second quarter when Shatto took a pass from Tom Dublinski, who tossed from his own eight-yard line, and went for a touchdown.

Argos Release Four Americans

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union Sunday released four Americans from their tryout camp.

Heading the list is end Al Pfeifer, the league's top scorer two years ago and a former Canadian all-star. He had been with Argos four seasons. Coach Hamp Pool said Pfeifer still is a fine receiver but lacks the blocking ability required by Argo ends in Pool's system.

Others gone are fullback O. K. Ferguson, the league's third-best ground gainer last year, end Al Romine, also with the club last year, and Bernie Custis, a halfback once an all-star with Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

The cuts leave Argos with 22 Americans in camp.

North Bay, Indians Issued Ultimatum by Other Clubs

NORTH BAY (CP) — The North Ontario Hockey Association, trying to clear the way for the 1957-58 league action in its high-salaried Southern group, issued a second ultimatum deadline Saturday to North Bay Trappers and Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Indians at the summer executive meeting.

Trappers and Indians must have their subsidy disputs settled and the NOHA notified by 6 p.m. Wednesday of their intention to enter or arrangements will be made to find replacement entries.

Sudbury Wolves and Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Greyhounds, who have annually helped the "smaller arena" teams, have refused to continue previous years' practice of a guarantee subsidy. But Trappers' manager Pete Palangio is adhering to a request for 10 per cent of the gates with a guarantee of $6,000.

Indians, who first demanded a guaranteed $18,000, have altered their demand to $12,000 on a 13% per cent deal.

Wolves and Greyhounds insist their final offers are a straight 10 per cent to Indians and 7½ per cent to Trappers.

An invitation was extended for NOHA team representatives to attend a meeting in Chatham, Friday, Aug. 23 to deal with the renewal of last season's interlocking schedule with the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Western Division.

There is a possibility that NOHA officials plan to suggest a double or triple round-robin setup for the coming season, teams from both circuits competing in a single schedule.

BRANTFORD (CP) — Gordon Oates of Toronto and Charles Yates of Oakville tied for first place in the Canadian gliding championships which ended here with 131.

R.T. Bradley of Oshawa picked up the low net award with a 142 posting scores of 68 and 74. Ras and J. Garmond of Oshawa followed with 144s.

Bruce Castator Wins Eastern Golf Title

KINGSTON (CP)—Bruce Castator of Toronto put rounds of 74 and 73 together Saturday to win the Eastern Ontario amateur golf championship with a 36-hole total of 147—seven strokes over par.

Bruce became the third person to win the Eastern Ontario twice. Both Ernie Bentley of Toronto and Emmerson Creed of London are double winners.

Over the par 70 Cataraqui club course, Bentley wound up tied for second at 150 after rounds of 76 and 74. Creed shot rounds of 77 and 78 to finish far back. Bob Ras of Kingston tied Bentley with rounds of 76 and 74.

Defending champion Eric Hanson of Toronto ran into trouble in the final round after carding a one-over par 71 in the first round. He soared to an 80 in the final 18 holes to tie with fourth with 151.

R.T. Bradley of Oshawa picked up the low net award with a 142 posting scores of 68 and 74. Ras and J. Garmond of Oshawa followed with 144s.

Bombers Defeat Ottawa Riders

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers, showing a strong ground attack romped over Ottawa Rough Riders 36-6 Saturday night in an exhibition football game before more than 10,000 drenched fans at Winnipeg Stadium.

The victory gave Bombers an even break in their two-game exhibition series against Big Four clubs and maintained Winnipeg's record of never having lost to an Ottawa team in exhibition or Grey Cup play. Bombers lost their opening exhibition contest here last week 20-1 to Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Coach Bud Grant threw four quarterbacks into the game with Kenny Ploen getting the big share of the signal-calling assignment. Ploen, Leo Lewis, Bob McNamara, Gerry James Ron Lancaster scored Bombers' touchdowns. Buddy Leake converted three of the five. Gerry Vincent added three singles.

Speedy Tommy Lewis got Ottawa's lone touchdown early in the third quarter. The convert was missed.

SHOULD BE GOOD!

Tonight's softball clash between the Goyer Marines and the Temple Bobcats has developed into something that has all the earmarks of a grudge tussle.

The Marines with the game score 2-1 against them have their backs to the wall since defeat this evening means their chances to represent the city in the OASA Intermediate "A" playdowns are null and void.

While rivalry between the squads was more or less keen prior to this best-of-five tussle, the tempo has upped since the series progressed and the events of the game Friday night did not serve to lessen the temperature.

This, together with the fact that the Marines must win to stay in contention, earmarks tonight's fray as being a bitterly fought affair. The Marines, hot under the collar after the third game, are going all out to win and square the series while the Bobcats are wearing a new air of confidence, satisfied that tonight will see the series end and their advancement into the playdowns against the winner of the Peterborough-Oshawa series.

Tempers frayed a bit after that controversial call at the plate Friday night by Umpire Allen Kelleher. An intermission caused by rain did not serve to improve the situation and the Marines pulled no verbal punches in expressing their dissatisfaction with the call. Vern Goyer was particularly outspoken which resulted in his ejection from the game.

It is an unwritten law in baseball that umpires will not reverse decisions no matter how wrong they may be — or seem to be.

According to the baseball code, Kelleher did err in calling the runner safe in his play at the plate, then changing his decision. We are not holding any brief for umpires in general and Kelleher in particular. But it is considered bush manner, by his actions in turning and attempting to tah the plate only to be tagged by an alert catcher, also erred. This was a silent admission that he had not touched the plate on his arrival.

After all, players, like umpires, are human, too. They are not supposed to make mistakes. And the answer to the question quietly picked himself up out of the dust after being called safe, and ambled quietly to his bench, probably nothing outside of a squawk from the catcher would have resulted—and the run would have counted.

Kelleher was roundly criticized for his "blooper" but Ellis was or has been said about the player's error of commission.

Regardless of all that, tonight's tilt shapes up like a thriller. Bob Temple will likely rely again on the trusty arm of Wally Barns, while Marine manager Tom Hosking, at the time of going to press, was doing some noggin'-scratching regarding his mound assignment. In any event the game will be worth watching. It is do or die for the Marines with the Cale quietly confident after their two straight victories over the Goyer-coached crew.

If the Marines come through with a victory, and square the series at two wins each, the fifth and deciding game will be played at the CNRA Park Wednesday night starting 6.30. Tonight's game, incidentally, gets under way at the same time.

Meanwhile, the Frankford Merchants, who will represent the league in the OASA senior "B" classification, are expected to present important first-round series with the Kingston representatives. The first game of the best-of-three series is slated for Frankford Monday, August 19, with the second fray in Kingston the following Wednesday. The third game, if necessary, will be played Friday, August 23.

The Provincial Tire team at the moment is favored to win the Kingston senior softball representation, but they will likely face some stiff opposition from Parham and Ameys in the playoffs.

Point Anne does not see playdown action until August 24 when they meet Brockville in the first round of the Intermediate "A" series. Brockville, playing in the Kingston Senior League, is rated a powerful squad and currently is the class of the district. The OASA release to Point Anne on the date mentioned with the second in Brockville August 26.

At the moment only six teams are entered in the OASA intermediate industrial series, with all entries losing off in the playdowns September 3rd, according to OASA release. Point Anne will represent the eastern part of the province.

Minor Baseball

Parkdale swamped the Rotary Kiwanis 14-2 on Saturday in the opening game of their provincial baseball playoff series. Second game in the two-out-of-three affair is slated for Parkdale grounds tonight at 6.30 p.m.

Pitcher Bill McBride stopped Rotary cold with a one - hitter over the full nine innings to give Parkdale the victory. He allowed a fifth-inning home run to Ridley with one man on base for the lone safety by Rotary.

McBride struck out six while walking four.

Boyle went the route in defeat, tagged for eight hits. He fanned four while walking 12.

Second baseman T. Locke for the winners and right fielder Morton of Rotary made outstanding plays to rob opposing players of base knocks on more than one occasion.

McBride was the only Parkdale batter with more than one hit, coming up with a brace of singles. Those connected for a triple were Locke, L. Mullins, Rathwell, Hays and Casselman each had one hit.

Substitute Leads Champions To Lead-Stretching Victory; Braves' Pitchers Spark Drive

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

There's a pennant race missing in the National League today and the chief suspects are Conley, Spahn, Burdette and Buhl.

Milwaukee's "big four and one more" has the Braves 5½ games in front of a pennant scramble that is quickly changing from a riddle into a romp with no sign of a letup.

Lanky Gene Conley, veteran Warren Spahn, controversial Lew Burdette and strong-armed Bob Buhl. . . They have done it all in the Braves' two-week breakaway that has left the four other pretenders lagging in the dust.

Since July 28, the big four has drawn 13 consecutive starting assignments and come away with 12 victories.

SEVEN IN A ROW

It was the rejuvenated Conley's turn Sunday and the 6-6 righthander, free again of his arm miseries, turned in a steady seven - hitter as Milwaukee whipped St. Louis for its seventh straight, 5-1.

Linked with Brooklyn's double defeat by Pittsburgh, Philadelphia's split with New York and the rainout of Cincinnati's doubleheader with Chicago, it left the once torrid race with its worst case of gaposis since the first cry of "Wolf."

St. Louis, losing six straight, trails by 11½ decisions in the first place, then Cincinnati by 7 and Philadelphia by 9.

Ken Boyer's ninth-inning home run deprived Conley of a shutout but he has since wrapped up his fifth straight victory and his eighth in nine decisions since he returned from the disabled list. Conley lost is as Eddie Mathews drove in two with a 7th-inning homer and a single and Johnny Logan hit a two-run double.

SLAM DINGERS

The last place Pirates made 11 hits in cuffing Brooklyn 6-2 in their second game after Bill Mazeroski's two-out single had won the opener, 4-3 in 10 innings.

Dodgers' Don Bessent in the first game when Paul Smith sent it into extra innings with a homer off Clem Labine with two out in the ninth. Vern Law and Charles (Lefty) Dougla were Pittsburgh's winning pitchers. Labine and Roger Craig the losers.

Rookies Jack Sanford and Curt Barclay traded three-hit shutouts at the Polo Grounds, Sanford winning his 15th for Philly, 2-0, after Danny O'Connell's three-run homer had tipped Barclay late in the opener for New York, 5-0. Barclay, with two straight shutouts, is 4-0 in a string of 19 scoreless innings.

Gianni Giants' Willie Mays tripled twice and singled twice to run his hit streak through 18 games.

In Saturday action, Milwaukee trounced St. Louis 9-0 behind Spahn's five-hit pitching and Brooklyn blanked Pittsburgh 3-0 with Don Drysdale spacing seven hits. Cincinnati got by Chicago 7-2 while Philadelphia at New York was rained out.

Latta Defeats Cannifton 5-0 In Series Opener

Behind the six-bit hurling of Garfield Hall, Latta defeated Cannifton 5-0 to take the first game of the best-of-seven series for the South Hastings Baseball League championship. The second game is being played in Cannifton tonight.

Hall came up with a fine pitching performance blanking the Cannifton batters over the eight innings route.

Harvey Stoliker started for the losers and lasted until the sixth when Gord Oliver relieved him. Both hurlers were nicked for eight clouts.

Latta scored two runs in each of the first two innings and the fifth in the third.

Jack Stewart and Gary Gowe led the Latta attack with a double with Ross Hart, Frank Ray, M. Meeks and Hall hitting singles.

"Shaker" Baker, Cannifton catcher, led his team'd bit parade with a pair of singles. Sheffield hit a double and went out trying to stretch it while MacDonald, Walker and Oliver were good for singles.

Latta nipped two Cannifton rallies with double plays. The winners committed one error while Cannifton miscued three times.

The score—

Cannifton	000 000 00—0 6 3
Latta	220 000 00—5 8 1

Umpires: Carl Thompson, plate, A. Kelleher.

Four Teams Clutter Top In International

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The defending champion Toronto Maple Leafs and Rochester Red Wings have jammed up the International League pennant picture so that a four-team race to the wire is shaping up.

Only five games separate the top four teams after a hectic weekend in which Toronto and Rochester took three from the Richmond Virginians and Miami Marlins respectively. The sixth-place Havana Sugar Kings helped out the contenders cause by taking two of three from the front-running Buffalo Bisons.

Toronto knocked off Richmond in a doubleheader Sunday 8-6 and 6-5 to move within one percentage point of the second-place Vees. Both teams trail Buffalo by five games as a half.

13-INNING OPENER

Bisons, after dropping the opener 1-0 in 13 innings, came back to defeat Havana 4-2 in the nightcap. Red Wings won their doubleheader from Miami 6-2, 4-3. Montreal Royals defeated Columbus Jets 13-8 in the first game, but Jets came back for a 3-2 triumph in the second.

Havana defeated Buffalo with an unearned run in the 15th in the opener. Ulzus Alvarez singled home Dompierre Sunday, who reached first on Lou Ortiz' error and scored on Jose Valdivielso's second.

Ray Herbert, who had replaced starter Lou Kretlow in the 10th, was the loser. Pedro Pena, who had relieved Miguel Cuellar after the latter had been lifted for pinch hitter for 13 innings, got credit for the victory.

Havana pitchers appeared headed for another 1-0 victory in the nightcap. Scantlebury Scantlebury had held Bisons hitless for six innings. In the seventh, however, Bisons got two singles and a walk to fill the bases. Emilio Cueto relieved Scantlebury and two runs scored when a push bunt got away from catcher Enrique Izquierdo.

Humberto Robinson hurled a three-hitter for Bisons to win in the seven-inning nightcap. Robinson, who has Indians ink no previous triest his season, picked up his 12th victory. Bob Wellman gave up six walks before he was taken out in favor of Ron Kline in the fourth but got away from catcher Enrique Izquierdo.

Leafs came from behind with six runs in the fourth and two in the fifth to wrap up the opener. Niles Jenkins was the winner.

WIN ON DOUBLE STEAL

Red Wings banged out 12 hits against Miami's Bubba Church and Fred Hatfield in the opener before going an extra inning to take the nightcap on Church on a steal. With the score tied 1-1 after seven innings Rochester scored the lone run in the eighth. The big play was Bobby Malkmus' double off Ivy Olivo. Shantz and Gary Geiger for the winning run.

Rochester added a four-game losing streak by edging Montreal in the second, 3-2. Rochester's winning run in the 11th inning broke a 2-2 tie and provided George O'Donnell with the victory.

On Saturday, Don Johnson scored nine hits in cruising to a record 12-5 as Toronto downed Richmond 9-3 while Havana whipped Buffalo 2-1. Leo Cristante turned in a perfect relief job as he entered eight straight batters and preserved a 6-5 win for Montreal over Columbus. Bob Wellman's eight - hour - hitter gave Miami as Rochester blanked the Marlins 2-0.

TOPS GOLF PLAYOFF

SARNIA (CP)—Tom Evers of Sarnia won the Ontario Golf Association district tournament Saturday after a play-off with four other players. All five had scored 71.

Johnny Koval of Sarnia, the defending champion, won second prize on the third hole of the playoff.

Bowling

Percy and Phyllis Graham Win Top Tournament Honors

When the chips are down always depend on a rink from the Belleville Bowling Club to come home with a major prize. This was proven on Saturday. Ten bowlers pairs from the local club which included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holland, Mrs. Grace Clapp and Mike Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Watkin, Mrs. Addison Lloyd and Claude D. Tice, Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Scantlebury, Mrs. George Watkin and Austin Watkin, Mrs. C. L. Hyde and Gerald B. Hyde, and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Miller took in the Molly Galt Memorial trophy tournament at Kingston on Saturday and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Graham came home with the trophy and nine beautiful sets of Dunlop bowling balls, suitably inscribed.

Mrs. Galt was an active bowler for years in the Kingston Club and her death early in the year cast a pall of gloom over the entire district. Her husband, Mervley Galt, conceived the idea of a tournament in her memory and with the co-operation of Kingston provided the trophy and an excellent set of prizes for the winner. This was the first tournament for the trophy and rinks from Cobourg, Peterborough and east to Brighton on the west were on hand to compete. It was a two-day affair, the second of which will make Kingston a memorable one in tournament lore to be held next year. There were 12 rinks entered, which is a full house, and the bowling was exceptionally keen throughout the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham fully deserved their victory. They had only one defeat registered against them in the tournament on the last bowl of the day. Their third match was the last to finish and one which gallery watched the last few ends of an exciting match with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Watkin, also of the Belleville Club. Both rinks had a chance to get in the prize money, whichever way it went. Mr. Percy and Phyllis had a slight edge. Their victory was roundly applauded by the bowlers present and Mr. and Mrs. Watkin did not lose any prestige in defeat.

WINNING RINKS

The greens were in excellent condition, lighting fast and the committee in charge headed on by Walter Cable conducted the draws in an efficient manner. The women's section of the club served sandwiches, pies and coffee, while a soft drink booth did a land-office business due to the terrific humidity that existed. It was a fine tournament and all entered this year will be back in force next year to try and dethrone the champions.

The winners were, three-game high, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Graham of Belleville, Douglas McQuorquodale and Mrs. Jessie Hinton, Kingston, Ed Dennison and Mrs. R. Crowe of Kingston, George Smith and Mrs. R. Leavis of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Sidney of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fox of Stirling, Mr. and Mrs. Reg Hutchinson of Kingston, William Dunn Jr. and Mrs. C. Whalen of Kingston. Two-game high winners, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Miller of Belleville, J. M. McLean and Mrs. C. Rowe of Ottawa, L. Chouinard and Mrs. E. Clarke of Trenton, Andy McLean and Mrs. T. Cowan of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Watkin of Belleville, J. R. B. Gage and Mrs. J. Rutherford of Kingston. One-game winners, J. Gray and Mrs. Joseph Brown of Kingston, H. Holder and Mrs. W. McCullough of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Duquesnay of Kingston, Mrs. and Mrs. Roy Brown of Trenton, and Mr. and Mrs. F. Markey of Ottawa.

Win Eleven Awards

Quinte Golfers Top Field In Annual Ladies' Tourney

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Playing under near-perfect weather and course conditions 100 lady golfers battled cleek and tee for honors at the Bay of Quinte Country Club's annual ladies' field day tournament on Saturday.

Mrs. Mary Ross, Cobourg, won the Mead-Johnson Trophy, the tournament top award, with a low gross score of 89.

Bay of Quinte's Mrs. Betty Ingram topped the field with a score of 70 to take low net honors.

The host club won eleven tournament awards, taking the team prize, two firsts, two thirds and two fourths in low gross scores, first low net in two flights and putting on the best.

NAPANEE SECOND

The Napanee Golf and Country club was second with five awards, Kingston Cataraqui 4, Cobourg 2, Kawartha, and Trenton 2, and Picton one. Glen Lawrence, Peterborough and Port Hope clubs were also represented.

Joy Bowerman, 103 and Lillian Matthews, 117 won the low gross in the third and fourth flights. Jean James, 76, and Donna MacDonald, 79, won the low net in the third and second flights. Marjorie Sauve, 76, won second low net in tight one and Monique Tompkins won the fourth flight with a 118 in flight four.

Barbara Graham won the putting honor in flight three with Doris Bradford second in the first flight. Bud Green was first with her way on the consolation prize with Marjorie Sauve finishing second in the drive-the-pin on the fourth hole.

Pat Gilmour, Napanee won first flight low gross with a 90 with Betty Norris, also of Napanee, second flight low gross with 100. Janie Alkenbrack of the Kawartha club won her net in flight one with 79.

Members of the Bay of Quinte's winning team were, Betty Ingram, Marjorie Sauve, Joan James and Joy Bowerman.

HAIL MR. HUNTER

Many laudatory comments were heard from visiting golfers on the excellence of the course with repeated tribute paid to mine host Murray Hunter and his staff for the delectable sea-food smorgasbord served following play. As one lobstering out-of-towner put it, "it was out of this world."

President Helen Lee of the Bay of Quinte's ladies division in a brief post-dinner address, expressed delight with the success of the tournament. "It is only one of the best played here," she said. The president paid tribute to the committees especially Barbara Graham the tournament convener.

Other tributes were paid to George Balzer, club pro for his all-out efforts in readying the course for the field day, and Messrs Steve Bowerman, Harold Mott, Arden Mathews and Neil Campbell for their part in the success of an outstanding tournament.

Trophies and awards were presented to the various winners by Barbara Graham, assisted by Joy Bowerman and Monica MacDonald following the smorgasbord. Twenty-seven door prizes were distributed.

In the evening the visiting golfers were entertained at an enjoyable dance in the club-house.

The results:

Hunt for 15 Tennis Titles Begins Today

By JACK VAN DUSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The junior tennis championships took on an international air today as players from the United States and Jamaica entered the hunt for 15 Canadian titles.

Matches began in both singles and doubles events as officials aimed their sights at clearing up the tournament at Rideau Lawn Tennis Club by Saturday.

Closed part of the meet—with only Canadians eligible—Saturday's program featured eight singles decided.

Ontario players topped off the five-day closed tourney with a clean sweep of the interprovincial team competition, downing the junior men's 3-0 from Quebec and the junior women's 2-1 from the west.

CANCEL DOUBLES

The team titles were decided on the best of five matches—singles, singles, two doubles. A point was given for each match and doubles were not played when a sweep was made of the singles.

Today saw the six singles titles of the all-Canadian part of the tournament decided—in:

Ann Barclay, 17, of Vancouver defeated Sharon Caldwell, 16, of Regina, 6-3, 6-4 in the junior women's crown for the third year in a row.

Yvon Leblanc, 17, of Montreal won the junior men's with a 6-4, 6-3 victory over Reldar Getz, 17, of Vancouver.

Ann Barclay, 14, of Winnipeg downed Linda Clute, 13, of Edmonton, 6-3, 6-4 to take the girls' crown.

Louis Leprohon, 13 of Montreal defeated Jamaica's Lance Dewsbury, Harry Fauquier, 14, of Toronto, 6-3, 6-3.

Karin Lukk, 12, of Sarnia defeated Judy Shakespeare, 12, of Toronto, 6-4, 6-4 to win the juvenile girls crown.

Mike Carroll, 12, of Ottawa beat the juvenile boys titlist with a 6-4, 6-1 win over Mike Belkin, 13, of Montreal.

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP) — Marshal Ney II, owned by Joseph Tomasello, Toronto, won the $7,500 Auspicious Stakes Handicap Saturday before 12,450 spectators, largest crowd of the Fort Erie Jockey Club's summer meeting. It was Marshal Ney II's third win in a row and his second stakes victory of the Canadian season.

Marshal Ney II, ridden by Emil Roy, skimmed the inner rail over the grass course for the 1 1-16 miles to take the lead in the stretch and with his two lengths victory set the pace to the head of the lane and hung on for the second. Running Wolf closed ground to take third. The winning time of 1:45 was well behind the track record.

NEW YORK! (CP) — Royal Beacon II won the $100,000 Atlantic City, N.J., Handicap Saturday before the favorite Dedicate, under Eddie Arcaro, was disqualified for interference after setting the pace.

Royal Beacon was awarded second place and Third Brother was moved to third spot.

Track stewards said Dedicate was in fourth position on the far turn and bumped Heitsel on the inside. Heitsel in turn bumped Wild Ride forcing him to "take up sharply."

Dedicate, owned by Mrs. Jan Burke, finished three lengths in front of Royal Beacon II and ran the 1 3-16 miles in 1:54 4-5 to beat the old track record of 1:57 3-5 set by Turbine in 1946.

Steward's inquiry today with state racing commissioners to determine if Dedicate's time should be certified.

Royal Beacon picked up $65,000 for Sylvester Hick.

SPECTACULAR WIN

Happy Hill Farm's Kingmaker swept to a spectacular win of the $43,900 Whitney Stakes at Saratoga Springs, N.Y.

Kingmaker, under Bob Ussery, made his run through the stretch and rolled by a neck at the end of the mile and a furlong.

Tick Tock was third, two lengths away.

Kingmaker was clocked in 1:35 4-5 and picked up $31,400.

Munchausen, a 14-to-1 shot, upset the favorite, Swoon's Son, in winning the $27,862 first division of the Readerland Handicap at Washington Park, Ill.

Munchausen won by a neck over Swoon's Son. Doug Band finished third, Swoon's Son was fourth.

King Bruce II, a six-year-old English-bred horse, won the second division of the feature, worth $27,362.

CAPTURE SOCCER TITLE

WINDSOR (CP)—Windsor Corinthians won the Ontario soccer championship with a 4-1 win over Hamilton Hungarians here Saturday.

Corinthians win sends them into the Eastern Canadian final against the Montreal district winner on Sept. 7.

Americans Win Wightman Cup For 21st Time

By WILL GRIMSLEY

SEWICKLEY, Pa. (AP) — The United States celebrated another Wightman Cup victory today—its 21st straight since 1930—but tennis people hailed a big, new British girl as the future queen of the courts.

She is Christine Truman, a freckle-faced lass of 16 who lowers close to six feet and can't even vote for another two decades.

Miss Truman, a surprise semifinalist at Wimbledon this year, lost both her singles matches but left the impression in her first American appearance that she cannot be denied future greatness.

A NEAR SWEEP

Wimbledon champion Althea Gibson beat Christine Sunday 6-4 6-4 and Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Forest Hills, N.Y., had outclassed her the day before in the American near-sweep.

In other matches on the final day of competition, Mrs. Knode scored the clinching triumph over Shirley Bloomer, Britain's top player, 5-7, 6-1, 6-2; Ann Haydon, 18-year-old British high school senior Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., the Wimbledon finalist, 6-1, 2-6, 6-4. And the veteran doubles team of Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Margaret Dupont of Wilmington, Del., won over Miss Haydon and Miss Sidlock 6-4, 6-1.

Miss Gibson and Miss Hard had beaten Miss Bloomer and Sheilah Armstrong, 18, on Saturday in the other matches and Miss Gibson, who figured in both points, had downed Miss Bloomer.

No Radio or TV Pete Rademacher Fights for Free

SEATTLE (AP)—No radio, no television.

When Floyd Patterson and Pete Rademacher meet here Aug. 22 in their heavyweight champion ship fight it will be the first time such a fight hasn't been broadcast since the 1920s when Jack Dempsey was king of the ring.

Promoter Jack Hurley said Saturday he will not permit radio and TV even if he has a complete assault on the Rademacher camp $10,000 short of breaking even.

For brawny Pete this is nothing new. An amateur fighter for 15 years, the Olympic champion is accustomed to collecting no money for displaying his ring talents.

Bus Gagnon Will Play, Not Coach

WHITBY (CP)—Bus Gagnon, playing-coach of the Whitby Eastern Division Allan-Cup winning Whitby Dunlops of the Ontario Hockey Association has been signed to play with the club for the coming season, it was announced Sunday.

Gagnon, playing-coach for the last three seasons, is finishing his activities to playing this year and will not coach the team. He has represent Canada in world hockey play in Oslo, Norway, next February.

Gagnon asked to be released of coaching duties because he said he feels he can concentrate more on his playing.

"If feels can play better hockey for the club if I don't have to worry about coaching," he said. Gagnon will assist defenceman Ted O'Connor, one of last season's top performers.

Fontana Wins Two Ontario Tennis Titles

By TOM YIRANY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Tournament favorite Don Fontana of Toronto won double laurels Saturday in the finals of the Ontario Open tennis championships at the plush lakeside Boulevard Club.

He first defeated third-seeded Paul Willey of Vancouver 6-3, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3 for the singles crown. Then he teamed up with Willey to win the men's doubles from Montrealer Henri Rochon and Armando Vieira of Brazil 6-4, 6-2.

Fontana, despite top seeding had been regarded until Friday as unlikely to win the tournament. But after Willey whipped Vieira Friday in four sets, beating him a decisive 6-0 in the last, it became a toss-up.

Willey's aching, stiff elbow slowed his serves and ruined his overheads and smashes against Fontana. He perked up after treatment in the middle of the third set, but lost when the stiffness returned.

PROVIDES SURPRISES

Vieira's defeat and his marriage Saturday to Denmark's lovely tennis star Anne Bagger were the tournament's surprises.

Ranked high internationally and captain of the Brazilian Davis Cup team, he was expected to win the tournament without losing a set. He also had been expected to stay a bachelor for a while longer.

Tournament weather was good except for one evening, when rain cut a semi-finals match. Only dust from a nearby construction project caused the players.

Mrs. Louise Brown, most composed player in the tournament, won the women's singles crown from Mrs. Elizabeth Doleschell in an all-Toronto final, 6-0, 6-4.

GROMEK RETIRES

CHICAGO (AP)—Detroit Tigers placed veteran righthander Steve Gromek on the voluntarily retired list Saturday and simultaneously announced the release of pitcher Bob Shaw, 22, from Charleston of the American Association.

Gromek, 37, had a 0-1 record in 23 2-3 innings. He has been plagued with arm and back injuries.

DATES ANNOUNCED

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — The Royal and Ancient Golf Club announced today the 1959 Walker Cup match between top amateurs from the United States and Britain will be played at Muirfield, Scotland, May 15-16. The 1957 match was played at Minneapolis on Aug. 30-31.

Ladies Golf

Edmonton Gal Wins Over Pal For Canadian Amateur Title

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Slim Betty Stashopp, whose introduction to golf was a job shagging balls at an Edmonton driving range, won the Canadian Ladies' Golf Association championship Saturday with a solid 5 and 4 win over Mary Gay of Calgary.

The 19-year-old Edmonton girl with the smooth, graceful swing piled up a six-hole lead along the back nine of the morning round of the 36-hole final and all but wrapped up the title there.

She ran her margin to eight holes in the afternoon and then withstood a gallant bid by her 25-year-old opponent.

The match ended at the 32nd. Miss Gay had just taken three holes in a row but still couldn't afford even to halve a hole if the match were to stay alive.

CONCEDES PUTT

At the 32nd both girls were easily on the green with their second shots. Betty's putt stopped less than a foot from the cup. Mary's was somewhat longer. Conceding Betty's putt Mary walked over and shook hands with the champion.

Betty takes over the title from Barbara Fulton of Toronto who retired in the second round by Miss Gay.

Betty, still ranked as a junior, has played in the open amateur series for the past three years. She has never been close to the final before. This summer she took the Alberta championship as a lifting check to concentrate on golf. She won both the Alberta senior and junior championships, defeating Miss Gay at each. In 1955 she was Canadian championship last year surrendered a 7 years old. The 19-year-old Judy Darling of Montreal.

This was the fourth appearance of Miss Gay, formerly of Kitchener, and in the final it was her closest bid for the title.

In her earlier rounds over the Royal Montreal course Miss Gay's courageous come back efforts had been a thrilling one-shot. She eliminated Mrs. Strutt, the champion from Fonthill, at the 19th. At the 22nd she eliminated of the surprising Elva Carrol of Hamilton, and in the semi-finals knocked off Marge Burns of Greenshore, N.C., last American threat, with a four-hole birdie spurge that ended at the 19th.

Betty also fought her way to close victories in most of her early rounds. She eliminated Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore, Md., 2 and 1, Janet MacWha of suburban St. Lambert 3 and 1, and Roma Neumdorf of Toronto one up.

In Saturday's final Betty's steadiness, with only a few lapses was the deciding factor. Mary, still suffering from the effects of a cold, found herself fighting steadily all behind. Her approximate medal score of 139 for 22 holes compared with Betty's even par 134.

ARMY IN SWIM MEET

OTTAWA (CP) — A 12-man squad of swimmers from Canada's 2nd Infantry Brigade group in West Germany will be entered Thursday in Belgium's 28th International swim meet at Namur, Belgium.

The Canadians will compete against teams from Germany, France, Belgium, Luxembourg, Holland and the United States.

The Canadian squad will be made up of two six-man teams entered in free-style and medley relay events over a three kilometre course.

Eskimos Edge BC Lions 9-6

SAN FRANCISCO (CP) — The Edmonton Eskimos, powered by Jim Crosby Shows, Weather and Jullbacks Normie Kwong and Johnny Bright and featuring a strong defence, defeated British Columbia Lions 9-6 Sunday in the first exhibition of Canadian football in California.

A crowd of 16,000 in Kezar Stadium apparently caught onto the different rules played by the Canadians in a hurry and roared their approval throughout the eight-ply patented contest.

The victory was the third exhibition win in a row for the champion Eskimos, who picked up their first point on the opening kickoff when Joe Mohra's kick hit the crossbar and resulted in a rouge.

Harness Racing

TORONTO (CP)—Records fell like flies at Old Woodbine Saturday night—on the track and off it.

Howard Rosecroft, a four-year-old chestnut pacer which had won five races in a row at Buffalo Raceway and Batavia Downs, made it six in a row in the first start at Old Woodbine and did it a record style.

Owned and driven by driver Buddy Gilmour of Sudgeway, Ont., the invader whirled around the new three-quarter-mile track in 2:02.4 to win the special $1,800 open pace in a select field of five.

Howard Rosecroft, an evenmoney choice, beat Captain Hanover by Elgin Armstrong of Brampton, by two lengths. The Mabel shot, Richard Hal D, owned by Vern Evans of Brantford, was third. He finished ahead of Jean, owned and driven by J. C. Cameron of Smiths Falls, last-minute entrant who was established for harness racing in Ontario when 1957 season opened. Only the machines on the eight-race program; and a record for daily-double wagering also was set—$9,672.

SPORT IN BRIEF

TAKES YACHTIN HONOR

DEEP RIVER, Ont. (CP)—Pierre Desjardins, 17, of Montreal Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club, Sunday won the St. Aubin Trophy, top honor in the Canadian Y class yachting championship.

Desjardins and his two-man crew were first in three races and second in a fourth.

Forty-one yachts were entered in from Kingston and other points from Montreal, Brockville and points along the lower St. Lawrence Valley.

SETS JAVELIN MARK

CLEVELAND (AP)—Marjorie Larney, a 20-year-old Queens College New York athlete, set a new world's record Saturday when she hurled a javelin 187 feet, eight inches during the United States Amateur Athletic Union's Women's track and field championships.

The toss bettered the previous mark of 176-10 held by Ann Konjaeza of Russia.

FACES NEGLIGENCE CHARGE

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Robert Lang, 30, of Toronto has been charged with criminal negligence in the death of city police constable William G. Scott. Scott's car and a truck collided just past the city's north outskirts Thursday night, killing the policeman and severely injuring his wife. Lang is accused of being the driver of the truck. He was remanded to Tuesday on $10,000 bail.

KEEPS FIDDLING TITLE

SHELBURNE, Ont. (CP)—Ned Landry of Saint John, N.B., won the open and Canadian old time fiddling championship here Saturday. He also was winner in 1956. Al Chesney of Wingham was second.

Sidney Twp. Council

The council of the township of Sidney met August 6 with all members present.

The minutes of the meeting of July 2 and a special meeting July 31 were read and adopted. Three delegates waited on council members re water main extension, re Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. and re building permit.

The Sidney township tax collector for 1957, Mr. B. Mitts, received the tax roll for the distribution of tax notices to the ratepayers. The road voucher No. 8 for $39,000.80, relief accounts for $285 and the August pay sheet were ordered paid.

A representation grant of $50 was ordered to be given to Stirling Agricultural Fair.

Council adjourned to meet on Friday, August 30, at 7.30 p.m. in Wallbridge, Ontario.

J. W. Bailey, clerk.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Lack of partnership confidence can clobber any bridge pair no matter how clever each individual thinks he is. Time and again was this illustrated in the last world championship match.

Here is deal number 114:

NORTH
♠ J 8
♥ A 7 5
♦ K 9 6 5
♣ Q 7 5

WEST
♠ Q 9 7 5 4 3
♥ Q 8 6 3
♣ 10 3

EAST
♠ K 6 2
♥ K J 2

SOUTH
♠ A 10
♦ A J 10 4 2
♣ A K J

Confidence was not lacking in the east and west pair seated in room two. There the bidding went like this:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 C
Dbl	1 D	1 S	2 D
Pass	2 S	3 S	3 D
3 S	Pass	Pass	Pass

North had just enough for an opening one bid and not a stitch in addition thereto. So, both his later diamond raises were either from ignorance, stubbornness, or a desire to push.

The pass by east after his own takeout double was an indicator that his double was a little light. West took recognition of this but he had playing tricks enough to cover the real lack.

Therefore, the pair was not talked out of getting to three spades. The fact that they make four spades does not mean they should have reached four. They did not have enough count for game try.

However, the east and west pair in room one did not have as much confidence in each other. There the bidding went like this:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 C
1 D	Pass	1 S	Pass
Pass	1 NT	All Pass

Only lack of confidence in east could keep west from showing more of his playing trick values. Somebody did not believe somebody.

Realignment of Government Depts. by PCs Seen Likely

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Some observers here think there probably will be a realignment of government departments if the Progressive Conservative government stays in power long enough to work it out.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has given no public indications of thinking along this line—and persons close to him say they have not heard him mention it—but they say it cannot be taken for granted that the independent-minded Mr. Diefenbaker will accept permanently the lineup of portfolios left by the Liberals.

The prececcessor government at times, as circumstances indicated, created new departments, killed some and amalgamated others.

Mr. Diefenbaker himself could easily do the same thing, particularly as he has appeared to be having difficulty in filling all the portfolios that were left to him as a heritage from the Liberals.

KEPT INTACT

When the Liberals left office there were 20 departments apart from the prime minister's office. So far, Mr. Diefenbaker has kept them intact.

However, he now has four of his ministers doubling in portfolios. In addition, he is acting as external affairs minister.

MIGHT FOLD UP

Another course of speculation is that the defence production department, also without a permanent minister, might be folded up with some of its functions disappearing and others distributed to other ministries.

The department was formed in 1951 after the outbreak of the Korean War, largely as a purchasing agent for military material during the intense stage of the cold war. It was administered for the Liberals by Trade Minister Howe. The acting minister now is Works Minister Green.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Wednesday the appointment of a regular minister for defence production is "not in contemplation" at this time.

'The Old Man and the Sea' One of Those Jinxed Epics

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A celebrated "trouble picture" is rocking and rolling on its expensive way these days.

It is The Old Man and the Sea, one of those jinxed epics that come along to plague movie makers now and then. Last year, producer Leland Hayward and director Fred Zinneman shot for three months on the Hemingway classic in Cuba. The project blew up amid mutterings between the two.

After new locations in Hawaii, The Old Man and the Sea is finishing up at Warner Brothers with a new director, John Sturges. The old man is the same: Spencer Tracy.

The amiable grouch was spending a brief rest from the tossing fishing boat in his dressing room. He surely looked the part—white hair, sunburned face and a white stubble of beard.

SAME SCRIPT

What caused all the trouble in Cuba? The script?

"No, there was nothing wrong with the script. It's the same one we're using now. It's all Hemingway's words; we haven't changed a thing. People may hate the picture, but they can't claim it isn't Hemingway."

Then what was the problem?

"I don't ask me. It was a matter between Hayward and Zinneman. Maybe Zinneman couldn't stand to see my face every morning—I don't know. Anyway, he finally quit."

Tracey said the picture will cost $5,000,000. Three million went to Cuba before location shots will procure only 20 per cent of the film.

SIX-MONTH RECESS

When Zinneman left the picture, both John Ford and John Huston were offered to take over the reins. Tracy added. But it was decided to call a halt and return to Hollywood after three months of shooting. Sturges was enlisted. After looking at what had been filmed he suggested a six-month recess to assemble the usable footage and prepare for additional shooting.

"Luckily, they had an actor who was stupid," Tracy remarked, referring to himself. "I put off other pictures to remain available for this one. I've got Ten North Frederick to do at Fox and The Last Hurrah at Columbia, and I didn't know if they would wait for me. Fortunately, both schedules have been pushed back.

"I really wanted to do The Old Man and the Sea. But if I had known what trouble it was going to be, I never would have agreed to it. This is for the birds."

Little Benny's Notebook

Yesterday I was looking in the storeroom for some glue when something, and I saw a telegram in a box of old letters and things, being a telegram for ma congratulating her on an old birthday, and I put it back in the envelope and stuck it together again as if it had never been unstuck, and pop and ma were down in the living room reeding diffrent parts of the Sunday paper, and I smuck out and rang the doorbell and came back, saying, "It's a telegram for you, ma."

Goodness, who can that be from? she said, and pop said, That's a logical question, and you'll get the logical answer when you open it.

Oh dear, I always get a mild shock when somebody hands me a telegram, although of course in this day and age, with planes flying at supersonic sound and everything, telegrams are almost as casual as telefones, ma said. Only the most ignorant people think that telegrams always bring bad news, she said, and pop said, That's a wise remark and proves you're not ignorant.

Still, just the same, oh dear, ma said, and I thought, Heck, maybe I shouldn't of did it.

For Peet sake I'll open it for you and relieve your suspents, pop said.

Which he took it and did, saying, It seems to be a berthday greeting, for some old reason. It says, Many happy returns of the day from Peggy, Pearl, Patricia and Polly.

Why, they're the other 4 members of my old Five P Club, ma said. They ought to know this is nowhere near my berthday, she said, and pop said, Yee gods, this is dated 1949.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

For Tuesday, August 13, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Somewhat mixed influences. Day, on the whole, requires careful planning, thoughtfulness, effort channeled to the right direction and cheerfulness. Avoid extremes. Think before you make promises. Keep your word.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Avoid timidity to Aries. Moderation and sincerity will be big aids now. There are really no problems or situations that cannot be handled, but it will be wise to be prepared.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Delicate matters should be handled delicately. Do not be blunt or too quick with your answers or decisions. While "slow," the day could prove productive.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your Moon is one of the planets suggesting quiet reflection and added carefulness in plans and action now. Don't undertake more than you can reasonably handle; don't worry, either. Carry on!

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Use good judgment now and don't go to extremes in anything. Handle other people's affairs tasks at home or at work without fuss and with efficiency. You can achieve.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — You will be delighted that if you work and plan for the greater good of all — your family, friends, etc. — you will accomplish more than if you concentrate only on personal gain.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Be constructive in all but if you take things in stride, work quietly and efficiently — and with thought of the morrow — you'll lessen tension and come through fine.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — You may experience some trials and errors now but through them we often find our real selves. Your fortitude, patience and generous understanding of others' problems are innate. Use them well.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Accent your finest qualities now and don't mind if you don't get immediate recognition or "thanks." Values will be noticed later." Remember, no good deed ever goes unrewarded.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — "to the point" but not blunt. If you want good results from this day's efforts, you will have to be on the job — conscientious and persevering. Enjoy a hobby for relaxation.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Matters with which you are familiar and tasks you enjoy and for which you may have especial talent should run smoothly despite some unfriendly influences. Never give up! Carry on with faith.

You born today can be proficient in any line of endeavor you choose if you work with thought and perseverance. Accent your artistic side since that will ease even the most menial or unattractive of tasks. You have stamina, courage, pride. Keep that pride under rein. Many Leoites are adventurous; they make outstandingly great soldiers; can be successful in business, as traders, as actors, salespeople. Keep studying, improving your God given talents. Birthdate: Sir Geo. Grove, Eng. writer and music critic.

FOUR-SQUARE

LEVIS, Que. (CP)—It's easier to tell the time now in this town across the St. Lawrence river from Quebec City. A clock, formerly showing one face to the public, now has four faces in its new spot on Notre Dame church.

OFF-TRACK INJURY

OTTAWA (CP) — Stock-car driver Vince Berndt, 22, has never had an accident on the racetrack. At a downtown garage a private car pinned him against a wall, but he was not seriously hurt.

HOMEWARD

Each excursion was a month. The travel bureau and John Peacock of Preston, Ont., retired president of the Canadian veterans division, both issued lists Sunday night of the persons originally booked for the flight. The compilation by the airline contained only 107 names.

Mrs. Rosemary Farry and son Paul, 9 Church St., Farry Sound, had been booked to make the flight, but changed their plans.

Mrs. Farry took an earlier plane after receiving word her father had died in Moncton, New Brunswick. She had planned, originally, to return on the charter flight with her friends and neighbors. Mr. and Mrs. James Pickett, had decided later to wait in England for her husband, who decided to visit his homeland.

The Brickettes were among the crash victims.

FLEW HOME EARLIER

Another who missed the flight was Mrs. Hilda Adams of Toronto, who came home from England late last month because of the illness of her husband. She had attended a family reunion in Sittingbourne, Kent, but flew home when her husband was taken to hospital with a serious lung condition.

"It feels very good to be alive," she commented, after answering the telephone when a reporter called to relay the news that she was believed aboard the crashed plane.

The aircraft was piloted by Norman Ramsay of Montreal, who had been with the line 14 years.

The 37-year-old pilot's licence was suspended for six months late in 1954 after a transport department board of inquiry blamed him for "negligence" in the crash of a TCA DC-3 airliner near Brampton, Ont.

Officials of MCA described him as a "good, well trained pilot."

PLANE SOMERSAULTED

The plane apparently hit the ground nose first and somersaulted, plowing the main part of the plane into the bush about 500 feet ahead of the impact. Bits of clothing and equipment from the plane were left hanging in trees as the aircraft was tossed into the woods.

Police believed several of the bodies might have been thrown into the bush but postponed search of the dark area until today.

The afternoon storm poured several inches of rain into the swamp and searchers worked ankle deep in the sucking mud. The plane dredged a big crater into the watery muck where it crashed.

Sunday motorists who heard about the crash jammed the narrow gravel road leading to the scene of the MCA disaster. Police cut off the area with ropes dropped by plane and ordered everyone away.

The first to report from the crash scene were the four RCAF parachutists—Sgts. Jack Clydon, Don Nivans and Al Smith, all of Trenton base.

The baby's body and snapshots and color slides of children that littered the ground added to the sick tragedy of the scene.

BLOWN TO BITS

"Everything seems to have been blown to bits — the plane, everyone aboard and every piece of clothing," reported Canadian photographer Francois Dussault, one of the first persons to reach the crash.

The plane carried 41 women, 29 men and three children—an infant girl and two boys.

The little personal notes of tragedy began pouring in shortly after the passenger list was announced.

Alex Love and his son Peter, 5, of Charlottetown, were talked into taking the flight by relatives in England. They had believed it would stop at Gander and planned to transfer there to another plane. The DC-4 didn't stop and the Loves died in the wreck.

Also on the list were Anne-Marie Harvey, 22, and Charlotte LeBlanc, 23, both of Montreal, who had joined Maritime Central only three months ago.

FIFTY KILLED

Bruce Tummer, 32, a miner at Bicroft uranium mines, was killed when his car overturned on Highway 28 near Belleville.

Yvonne Latimer, 16, of Brockville, and Marion Rice, 16, of Bellamys died when the car in which they were riding crashed into a guard rail near Athens. Injured in the same crash were Mrs. Al-fred Pearce, 19, of Brockville, Shirley Pearce and Nancy Burns.

Swindles, Keyed to Theme Of Making Extra Income, Now Sweeping United States

By ROGER GREENE

WASHINGTON (AP)—It sounds so easy. Earn anywhere from $50 a week to $20,000 a year as your own boss. Work at home, if you like. Just work a few hours a week and rake in the profits.

That's the come-on in a new multi - million - dollar wave of swindles, keyed to the theme of making extra income at home, now sweeping the United States from coast to coast.

America's fastest - growing racket—and one of the cruelest—is reflected in a rising number of outcries from victims who have fallen prey to fly-by-night artists operating on the fringes of legitimate business.

The National Better Business Bureau says doubtful earn - at - home ventures are gouging the U.S. public to the extent of $500,000,000 a year. Chairman John W. Gwynne of the Federal Trade Commission calls it "particularly vicious" because the victims are usually in desperate need of a few extra dollars to pad out family budgets.

Many risk—and lose—their lifetime savings in the hope of finding security.

With subtle variations, the calls for help and sharp promotions runs the gamut from that old familiar stuffing - the - envelope-addressed racket—which the sucker undertakes, at his own expense, to sell the gyp firm's sleazy merchandise—to raising bullfrogs for cash in your own backyard.

"There's big money in bullfrogs! We buy what you raise. The jokers don't tell you how to breed and raise bullfrogs, the promoter re-fuses to buy. Your home-grown croakers, he says, are "not in a healthy condition for marketing."

For pure gall, however, it is hard to beat the get-rich - quick genius who offered to sell his secret formula for "renovating" neckties as a way to earn extra money at home.

For $2, he advised: Take a pair of neckties, cut out the soiled section of the necktie, then sew the pieces together. Simple!

But the latest trend is toward bigger money that flows from these simple artifices. With prices on the upswing, the $2 swindle is beginning to fade out of the picture as greedy tricksters reach for higher brackets.

One of the answers, it seems, is vending machines.

"It's the biggest racket confronting us today in the field of earn - at - home swindles," says Bernard S. Hill, counsel to the FTC.

Unscrupulous promoters sell junky vending machines for $50 to $100 apiece with the promise they'll be installed at sure - fire sales locations. All the owner has to do is keep the machines filled with merchandise — candy bars, cigarets, razor blades and so on—and carry a big sack to collect profits of $400 to $500 a week.

What usually happens, he said, is that the machines arrive by freight along with a list of "suggested" locations — and by that time the promoter has disappeared forever.

The man who bought the machines goes to the locations, and finds either a rusty little tavern on skid road or the proprietor refuses to let the machines clutter up his premises," Hill said.

Mrs. Fred Ward, 22, of Owen Sound was killed when a car driven by her husband was involved into a two-car crash on the Blue Mountain road near Collingwood. Her husband Fred, 24, had a badly mangled left arm. Also treated for shock and minor injuries were: Brenda, 4, and Fred, 2; Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson, Owen Sound; Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Smith of Hanover and Mr. and Mrs. John Kennedy of Algoma.

Mr. David Freemantle, 65, of the Elba district, died of injuries suffered when the car in which he was stepped off a bus on Highway 10.

Jack Dewberry, 35, of Sarnia was drowned while swimming in the St. Clair River near Grand Cleveland, Ohio, was killed when a car in which she was riding skidded out of control on Highway 69 near Bala.

Gillie Barrette, 12, of Orleans was drowned in the Ottawa River, near his home while trying to help rescue his 4-year-old sister.

Daniel Shapiro, 23, of Ville St. Michel, Montreal, was drowned in the Nation River near Plantagenet after he suffered a seizure while swimming with his family.

German Army, Navy, Air Personnel Being Trained to Match Soviet Fighting Man

Bonn, Germany (AP) — Germany's army, navy and air force are being rebuilt to serve alongside the other armies of the free world.

But how do these German recruits and volunteers compare with the goose-stepping militaristic troops Hitler directed down the road to defeat? How do they feel about fighting beside troops who were their enemies only a few years ago? Do they relish the idea that perhaps they might have to fight their own countrymen, the East Germans?

To find out, The Associated Press sent three of its veteran German editors to army, navy and air force bases throughout the country.

They are well qualified to write on their particular services. All saw service during the war—Rudolf Panz as a soldier in the Wehrmacht, Herbert Schmidt as a German naval officer and Helmut von Brauchitsch as a Luftwaffe fighter pilot.

Here are their reports:

GERMAN ARMY

By RUDOLF PANZ

If Soviet aggression came tomorrow, there would be three German infantry divisions fighting shoulder to shoulder with allied troops.

They were placed under the command of Gen. Lauris Norstad, Supreme Commander of Allied Forces in Europe, on July 1 as West Germany's first major military contribution to the Atlantic Alliance.

What sort of troops are they?

After observing their activities in the barracks, in the field and in canteens at night and talking with generals, platoon leaders and conscripts, I came away with these conclusions:

This youngest army in the world is not an army of softies. The new German soldiers are being trained to match one of the toughest fighters in the world: the Red Army man.

SHUN TRADITIONS

At the same time, the new German army is leaning over backwards to avoid any similarities with the old German military traditions.

There is definitely a new spirit in the new German armed forces. The "Deutschland ueber alles," let's-go-after-them mood that prevailed in the pre-war Wehrmacht is gone.

The break with the old traditions is nearly complete. The name of the forces was changed from Wehrmacht to Bundeswehr, the uniforms are different in cut and color, the rank and unit insignia are completely new, an American-style helmet replaces the old Wehrmacht headgear and boots have rubber, soles instead of hobnails.

NAVY

By HERBERT SCHMITT

It's a tough job building up a navy, however small, if you have to start from scratch.

After almost 18 months of feverish activity, the fledgling new German navy now boasts some 70 boats and small ships, some 10,000 officers and sailors and about a dozen schools, bases and camps.

Everything is still in a building up stage. At the Flensburg naval underwater weapons school for training sailors in the handling of torpedoes, mines, minesweeping gear and the tactics of frogmen, there are hardly any torpedo models.

Two or three outdated air-powered Mark VII torpedoes of British make which the Royal Navy has not used since the first two years of the Second World War are all that is available to teach young German sailors.

EASIER ON MEN

This new navy, like the army, is softer on its men.

Near the Baltic port of Kiel, I met a 28-year-old lieutenant-commander who told me:

"All these 18-and 19-year-old boys come here with great enthusiasm for the navy. It would be completely wrong if we would treat them the old way: drill, drill and again drill."

This officer encourages free discussions and tells his petty officers that questions from the recruits in most cases are not asked to confuse the lecturer.

LUFTWAFFE

By H. von BRAUCHITSCH

The changes in the life of a German airman since Hitler's Luftwaffe was smashed more than 12 years ago are surprising in many respects.

For the new air force pilots there is a chap around Crumlin, Ontario — Bill Campbell is his name — who has made quite a mark for himself.

Bill has taken a leading part in the Conservation movement up London way for a good many years. If, what I am told is true and I believe it is, he sparked-plugged the formation of the Crumlin Sportsmen's Club and its very ambitious programme.

CONSERVATION

Ketch's Korner

by the ROVING SECRETARY of the CARLING CONSERVATION CLUB

Bill has taken a leading part in the Conservation movement up London way for a good many years. If, what I am told is true and I believe it is, he sparked-plugged the formation of the Crumlin Sportsmen's Club and its very ambitious programme.

Would you like to follow King Whyte, Bill MacDonald, Pete McGillen or Ketch? They all have contributed something from their reservoirs of experiences to the Guide.

From the Minister down, Lands and Forests have made a comprehensive contribution to various departments in the Guide.

What do you want to know about bait and fly casting, forestry practices? Its all there written by experts with plenty more.

The Guide for 1957 sells for 75 cents, hardly the price of the maps supplied, but apparently you have to write to Bill at R. R. No. 9, London Crmlin) Ontario for it. Take it from me, it's well worth the trouble.

EMBARRASSED BY LOSS OF CLOTHES

Gianna Segale, Italian film star, arriving in New York after working on location in the Brazilian jungles, tells reporters that the Kaiapos Indian women were a bit overcurious as to what sort of figure a white woman conceals by her finery. The natives, who wear nothing but painted designs, stripped off her clothes, said the actress. She said it was embarrassing.

TOUGH TESTS FOR BABY SATELLITE

A 6.4-inch satellite is prepared to face vibration tests up to five times the pull of gravity at the Naval Research Laboratories in Washington. Rectangular objects on the surface house solar batteries. A similar unit will be test fired off the Florida coast, but navy officials say it is highly unlikely that an orbit will be achieved by the baby satellite.

Made Thirsty by Big Snails, Man Drinks Way to Fortune

BATOURI, French Cameroons (AP) — Last March a native named David Ambo, thirsty from eating big juicy snails, bent over a tiny stream to get a drink. He dug a little to provide a pool for water to collect. Stuck to his moist hands were specks of gold. Now more than 2,000 Africans are feverishly scratching, digging and sifting to extract more than $100,000 worth of gold a month from the little stream.

The world's latest gold rush, 60 miles back in the steaming jungle at Batouri, has made a boom town of this regional centre in the French Cameroons.

Each week shipments of gold dust are flown to Yaounde, capital of this mandate territory of the notch of Africa's South Atlantic coastline.

But between the discovery and beginning of shipments that bolster Fraser's shaky economy, a jungle mystery veiled the area for two months.

Ambo didn't know then that he could have obtained an official concession for the find. Instead, he brought his wife and a basket of specimens and began panning gold secretly.

The gold seam was so inexhaustable, he and took so long to silt, the forest trees lining the stream were so hard to root out that Ambo soon tired of working only with his wife's help. He tipped off five village friends.

It was April then. The secret was out in the jungle. But a wall of silence hid the growing gold rush camp from white-skinned officials in Batouri.

Storekeepers were the first outsiders to get wind of what was up. There was a run on picks and shovels. Bills were often paid with flasks of gold dust. A wholesaler tipped off the service of mines in Yaounde.

A regional inspector reached the stream in May. He found nearly 1,500 persons living in primitive shelters, using primitive methods to extract gold. The rainy season had set in and whole families were working up to their thighs in water-filled holes.

The service of milieu took over and began to tax the yield. It sent an agent to try to organize production so as to cut down waste. Disorder still reigns but no violence has been reported at the gold camp.

The boom is having its effect on Batouri's economy. Men and women formerly classed by French officials as economically weak are able to build up the sizable jungle capital of $150 to $200 by a few weeks' work.

Today's Chuckle

Daughter: "I'm sure you're going to like Jack. He's a fine young man."

Father: "Does he have any money?"

Daughter: "Oh you men are all so curious! Jack asked me the same thing about you."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) (Synoptic) — The flow westerly over the past couple of days will continue in Southern Ontario today. From now on, however, temperatures will show an upward trend and should be back in the middle and low 80s by Wednesday evening.

A new, intense storm to the west of Lake Superior early this morning is moving towards northwestern Ontario. This part of the province should expect mainly cloudy skies with scattered showers or thunderstorms this evening and Wednesday.

Okanagan Tan? Don't Be Silly That's Just Rust

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—A passenger at the bus station here was waiting to return to his home.

As he stood waiting he complained bitterly about the wet Okanagan summer.

His listener, from Penticton, said, "What are you complaining about, look at the tan you have."

The visitor replied "That's not tan buddy, that's rust."

Firemen Assist Flagpole Sitter Down From Perch

MONTREAL (CP) — With the aid of firemen, a 50-foot crane and a 20-foot ladder, Marcel Proulx Monday night descended from the flagpole where he sat for 22 days and two hours to claim a world record.

Proulx climbed the pole July 11. The old mark of 27 days and 2 hours was set two weeks earlier by Mrs. Victor Lajoie.

Organizers of the sit hired a crane to get Proulx down, and then the trouble started. The crane was too short.

Firemen were called. A fire ladder was bound to the tip of the crane, providing the extra length needed to reach the platform 70 feet above ground.

It was still no easy feat for Proulx, a 212-pounder, to shinny on to the ladder. A call for volunteers went out. Two young men climbed the arm and swung on to the platform to help Proulx on to the swaying ladder.

Proulx said he has no further plans for flagpole sitting. He intends to "take a two-week holiday."

Gable Cannot Even Recall Actress Who Says She Had Affair With Him

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Francesca de Scaffa once said that she had an affair with Clark Gable in order to get information for an article, says a witness at the Confidential magazine libel trial, but Gable denies even knowing the actress.

On the Hawaiian island of Maui, Gable said Monday night about testimony concerning the purported affair

"I could remember that, but to my knowledge I never met the lady in my life."

Howard Rushmore, former Confidential editor, testified Monday that Miss de Scaffa, former wife of actor Bruce Cabot, told him that she had an affair with Gable. At the time, Rushmore said, she was gathering information for a story on Josephine Dillon, a drama coach to whom Gable was married from 1924 to 1930.

Rushmore had testified earlier that Miss de Scaffa was Confidential's chief source of information in Hollywood.

Rushmore said she had no knowledge of her purported affair with Gable other than what she had told him.

Miss de Scaffa, who is under subpoena to testify, is in Mexico.

Names prominent not only in movie circles but international affairs dropped like leaves at the libel hearing. Miss de Scaffa's name was that this was only the start.

Rushmore testified that he quit his job as editor of Confidential in the late summer of 1955 because "it was becoming repulsive material" being published. He said he and Confidential's Robert Novak as being "pornography."

He said he personally had written stories about Marilyn Monroe, John Garfield, Sir Winston Churchill and atomic scientist J. Robert Oppenheimer.

Rushmore said that he had wanted to write a story about Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, but was overruled by publisher Robert Harrison because it wouldn't be "politically wise" to publish it.

BAFFLED POLICE SEEKING SLAYER OF PLUMBER

Brother Held Captive In Shed by Killer

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A dying man told police Monday that he had never before seen the man who shot him nor could he think of any reason why anybody would want to kill him.

Leonard Cashaan, 39, of Niagara Falls died a few hours after he was shot by a man who had captured his brother Edward and held him prisoner in a shed on the family farm near Davis's, eight miles east of here.

The brothers had been doing a fall clean-up operation on the farm.

Police said they have no clues other than Edward's description of the slayer. They were trying to determine a motive for the shooting.

SEEK POWERFUL RIFLE

A posse of 15 provincial policemen from St. Catharines and Niagara Falls combed the surrounding thickly wooded areas for the gunman and the weapon, believed to be a high-powered rifle. They suspect he managed to reach safety in the densely-wooded slopes of the Niagara escarpment.

The Canhams, owners of a log plumbing firm in Niagara Falls, were installing a water pumping system on the farm of Frank Campbell. None of the Campbells were home, Mr. Campbell had lived on the farm 30 years.

Edward stopped to go to a nearby shed and Cashaan was surprised by a man hidden in the building. He was threatened with a rifle and forced to enter the shed. The stranger then closed the sliding door.

SHOT IN CHEST

When Leonard walked to the building to see what was delaying his brother the stranger opened the door and fired point blank at his chest. The wounded man staggered a short distance, then collapsed.

Edward said the man escaped through a window and disappeared into a nearby orchard. He gave chase but lost sight of the man.

Edward described the assailant as being between 32 and 35, dark haired, of pale complexion and about six feet in height. He was wearing a sport shirt and black trousers.

Strike-Bound Firm Is Unable To Obtain Help

ST. THOMAS (CP)—The Canada Vitrified Products Limited plant, closed Monday by strikers since June 6, apparently hasn't changed its status as a "help wanted" sign was hung out last Friday. Men are sought to load some 2,000 tons of tile.

A dozen job-seekers appeared at the employment office, but drew back after talking to pickets.

Company officials said previously that 45 strikers were "fired" and they would deal no further with the United Steelworkers of America (CLC). A wage contract is involved.

Poles Strike As Pay Boost Dependent on Vodka Sales

LODZ, Poland (AP) — Labor unrest gripped this big Polish industrial city today followed by a walkout of 10,000 municipal transport workers against a government move to link pay boosts with vodka consumption.

Police tear gas sent five persons to hospitals as the strikers stood their ground against demands by Communist authorities that they go back to work.

A shower of government leaflets branding the strike illegal apparently had little effect in this city of 700,000. Hundreds of strikers took stations inside the city's five car barns to prevent strikebreaking. Streetcars are the only means of public transport in Lodz—Poland's second largest city.

In a swift counter-move, authorities moved in 1,000 trucks ready to operate an emergency transport service.

Communist party headquarters in Warsaw sent three politburo members, including the party labor union chief, to Lodz to seek some settlement.

Armed guards stood at every corner. Strike leaders called on their colleagues to stay off the streets.

Violence flared in at least one spot, however. Police used tear gas to break up a clash of about 100 strike-starters at the main city depot.

Workers were told by the government Sunday that they would get a 50-per-cent pay raise Oct. 1 but that there told at the same time that their only hope of pay boosts would come through extra state revenue expected from a 15-per-cent increase in vodka prices. The strike came in answer to the vodka price-wage boost tie.

Even the official Polish press doused cold water on the vodka wage stimulus possibility. One paper said the price rise action posted from vodka sales would only give "only a small possibility for effecting changes in wages" and suggested that there also be increased production and reduced costs.

Widespread unrest in Poland flared into the open in June, 1956, when workers staged their now famous "bread and freedom" riots in the industrial city of Poznan. Fifty-three persons were killed as police and tank troops put down the workers.

Tranquilizers' Free Sale Said Criminal

MONTREAL (CP)—A French scientist says the new tranquilizing drugs are the greatest medical advance since penicillin, but it is "a criminal thing" for them to be sold over drugstore counters without a doctor's prescription.

Dr. Pierre Laroux, a member of the French team which first developed tranquilizing drugs in Mont Sainte Marie addressed the convention of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association.

Only a doctor, he said, can judge when a patient needs a tranquilizer, or which of the hundreds of tranquilizers now on the market would help him most.

Ulster Police Battle Crowd, Impose Curfew

NEWRY, Northern Ireland (Reuters)—Northern Ireland police charged a crowd with night sticks Monday night to enforce a government curfew on the Newry area of the frontier with the Republic of Ireland. At least three persons were injured and more than a dozen persons were held for questioning.

The curfew, from 11 p.m. to 5:30 a.m., was imposed to check a new terror wave by nationalists in the area. It followed three serious incidents within 24 hours in Newry, nearest main town to the frontier on the highway between Dublin and Belfast.

For about two hours before curfew time the town's main street was lined by crowds of young men and women jeering the police.

Most of the crowd dispersed soon afterwards. By midnight the streets were silent.

LIBERALS MEET TO MAP OUT PARTY POLICY

Former P.M. Likely To Remain Leader

OTTAWA (CP) — New Liberal party strategy and policy may be mapped out in private talks today among former prime ministers St. Laurent and remnants of his defeated cabinet.

Interrupting a long summer holiday, the 75-year-old Liberal party chieftain slipped into Ottawa Monday night for a "few days' visit." He said he likely would be "shaking hands" with a few of his former cabinet colleagues.

It was the first Ottawa visit for the Opposition leader since he turned over the government to the victorious Progressive Conservatives six weeks ago. Since that time he has been vacationing at his St. Patrick, Que., summer home.

It is understood he will plunge into immediate conferences with political lieutenants to map out party strategy for the new Parliament opening Oct. 14 and perhaps to begin the long reorganization of party structure.

MAY REVEAL OWN PLANS

He may also inform colleagues his last election was definitely his. Many are convinced he will remain as party leader only long enough to regain government power in the next election fight, probably in 1958 or 1959.

However, there are some colleagues who believe he should yield the leadership to some younger man. They say a good bet as successor is Hon. Lester B. Pearson, former external affairs minister.

There is no indication that Mr. St. Laurent plans any early retirement, but if he did he would have to announce a decision soon. A leadership convention takes months to prepare. With the possibility of another election before Christmas, party chiefs have to be some fast work to get a new leader groomed for a national campaign.

Asked to comment on speculation that he may quit politics, Mr. St. Laurent replied:

"I can say nothing about it until at the time of the change of government. I said then that I'd be glad to help the party if I could."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker will be working with cabinet colleagues to prepare party policy on legislation that may be introduced by the government when it meets Parliament. He already has announced his plans to end the old block implementing of Conservative programs though it may be somewhat modified by criticism.

Film Producer Boris Morros Tells Of Spying on Reds for 12 Years

NEW YORK (AP)—A pudgy little man in a camel's-hair coat was smuggled out of a hotel room in Munich, Germany. Suddenly there was a knock.

The man in the coat froze and one handed a cable. He read a one-word message: "Cinerama."

It was a signal to get out of Germany.

"Come home. Your life is in danger."

Thus, last Jan. 19, the curtain fell on the fantastic cloak-and-dagger career of Boris Morros, 61-year-old Hollywood producer.

For 12 years, the Russian-born Hollywood producer acted as a master counterspy for the United States. The man who took him to obscure hotels, dimly lit cafes and dark street corners from Paris to Moscow.

His stylish coat was his cloak. His sharp wit and supreme self-confidence served as a dagger.

Morros told his tale Monday at a press conference in the office of U.S. Attorney Thomas B. Gilroy.

Mud And Water Conceal Bodies Of 79 Victims

Theory Plane Was Hit By Lightning Discounted

ISSOUDUN, Que. (CP) — Mud and murky water today concealed the bodies of 79 victims of Canada's worst air disaster and hampered investigators trying to find out what caused their DC-4 to plummet suddenly out of the sky Sunday.

Crews of provincial policemen plodded through ankle-deep mud Monday collecting bits of clothing and personal effects and parts of the bodies of the 73 passengers and six crew members.

Only a few hands and feet were left above the surface of the soft-cen swamp after the Maritime Central Airways plane, bound from London to Toronto, crashed near this community 15 miles southwest of Quebec. Police placed these in cardboard boxes to be transported to Quebec morgues.

TO PUMP OUT CRATER

Most of the bodies are believed buried in the crater where police were awaiting the arrival of a pump to drain the crater dredged by the plane in its crash before continuing their search.

Investigators said the definite cause of the crash can be determined until the shattered remains of the aircraft are thoroughly checked.

A leading theory that the plane was struck by lightning was discounted by veteran airline officials. One pointed out that there is no conclusive evidence that lightning has ever caused a plane to crash. The DC-4 was last seen flying low into the thick clouds of a thunderstorm that smoked the area about the time of the crash.

Gordon Dupuy of Moncton, N.B., chief inspector for MCA, inspected the wreckage Monday and said "there must have been a terrific explosion, when the plane hit the ground." Both Rayner and company managing director C. F. Burke of Montreal declined to say they had no idea what caused the crash.

An enemy sabotage theory was being used to transport persons to the crash scene Monday night as the muddy road leading to the plane's wreckage late Monday had delayed work on a pump borrowed from a nearby municipality to drain the water from the swamp.

Uranium By-Product Purifies Exhaust Gas

DETROIT (AP)—Discovery of a promising chemical for purifying automotive exhaust gas was reported Monday by Ford Motor Company.

The company's anti-smog researchers describe the chemical as vanadium pentoxide. They say the powder eliminated more than 90 per cent of unconsumed hydrocarbons for 100 hours of laboratory engine tests. Ordinary engine life. They described these tests as equal to 6,000 miles of actual driving. The chemical is a by-product of uranium.

Crane Hits Wire, Scoharie Road Man Near Death

PICTON — Resuscitation crews from the Picton Army Camp and also from the Picton hydro commission at early afternoon were still working desperately to save the life of Gene Harten, 38, of Scoharie Road, severely shocked as he turned late this morning when a charge from high tension wires passed through his body.

A carpenter at the new cement plant north of Picton, Harten was unhooking a cable from cement forms when the accident took place. The cable causing the boom to bounce between high tension lines.

Harten received the full shock through his arms and at once fell unconscious. Resuscitation crews were still working to save his life.

A fellow carpenter, Romano Demanski, Picton, rushed to the aid of Harten and attempted to pull him away. He suffered burns to his arms but was not hospitalized.

Crane operator John Mikulcic of Oshawa was severely burned about the arms when he received a shock as he jumped from the crane's cab. He was admitted to Prince Edward County Memorial where his condition was reported satisfactory.

Provincial police from Picton and ambulances raced to the scene when the accident was reported. Hydro officials said they were sent for when the wires were sent out for hydro and army resuscitation crews.

Stabbed by Girl, Toronto Man's Condition Good

TORONTO (CP) — Augustine Forgione, 30, stabbed in the abdomen Monday in an argument with a girl friend, was reported in satisfactory condition today in hospital.

Police said the wounds were inflicted by a 12-inch butcher knife wielded by a girl Forgione refused to marry.

Maria Cogliano, 23, of Toronto, who can't speak English, is being held on a charge of wounding.

Police Describe Shooting As Murder, Suicide

HUNTSVILLE (CP) — Autopsies were ordered Monday night on the bodies of two men shot during the weekend in what police have described as a case of murder and suicide.

Dead are John Halonen, 37, shot Sunday while digging a well on his father-in-law's farm; and Everett Korby, 65, the father-in-law, whose body was found Monday in a creek two miles distant. He is believed to have taken his own life Sunday.

The shootings occurred in the vicinity of the Korby farm, near Sprucedale, 15 miles northwest of this community and 95 miles north of Toronto.

Halonen's 11-year-old son, Allan, heard two shots Sunday evening as he was crossing the barnyard. He rushed out to the well, dug to a depth of about five feet, and found his father dead. Halonen was killed by a 12-gauge shotgun, but police have not found the weapon.

Police said Korby shot himself through the temple with a 22-calibre rifle which was found in two feet of water.

MOTIVE UNKNOWN

Professing inability to find a motive, police said Korby may have referred to his son-in-law when he said Sunday he was going to shoot a "hawk."

Known as a courteous, pleasant-mannered man, Korby settled in Sprucedale about 40 years ago. The family was of Finnish extraction.

Halonen had lived in St. Catharines until five weeks ago, then moved with his wife, Anne, and three children, Allan, Gloria, 15, and Sylvia, 13, to his wife's father's farm. Mrs. Halonen was Korby's only child.

Inspector Ward Kennedy of the provincial police criminal investigation branch, Toronto, is in charge of the investigation.

Poles Poke Fun At Speculation On Submarines

WARSAW (AP) — The Polish press reported Monday the two British submarines which had been down the British coast last week were on routine training.

British newspapers speculated they might be bound for the Mediterranean.

The paper Zycie Warszawy carried a tongue-in-cheek report on British reaction to the cruise:

"All is quiet around Britain at present. Even the Loch Ness monster disappeared. Nevertheless, our naval headquarters should perhaps also send a ship. 'Don't frighten the English.' They are more nervous than we thought."

Hope to Pull British Troops From Oman Soon

LONDON (Reuters)—A foreign office spokesman said today it is hoped the bulk of the British troops in Oman may be withdrawn as soon as possible.

The spokesman held his daily press conference, however, that he does not think any decision has yet been reached in this matter.

Child Burned To Death at Bird's Creek

BANCROFT — (Special) — Trapped in an upstairs bedroom when her parents' home was destroyed by fire, three-year-old Bonnie Parks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Parks, of Bird's Creek, lost her life Friday night. Bird's Creek is four miles north of Bancroft on the highway.

The parents and several other children in the Parks family escaped the blaze but the mother was said to have suffered burns in assisting to rescue her children.

Provincial police at Bancroft said it had not been determined how the fire had started. Despite the efforts of Department of Lands and Forests fire fighters the one-and-a-half storey dwelling was quickly destroyed.

Police were unable to state the number of children in the Parks family but said all had been accounted for. The family is now living with relatives in the Bird's Creek area.

MRS. JOHN BRENNAN
Read

A resident of Read all her life, Mrs. John Brennan died Monday, August 12, in St. Mary's-of-the-Lake Hospital, Kingston. She was in her 78th year.

Mrs. Brennan was the former Sarah Catherine Bennett, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Bennett. She had been ill for some time. She was a member of St. Charles Church in Read and was active in the Altar Society.

She is survived by her husband, John Brennan; three daughters, Mrs. C. E. (Lucy) Hillman, Petrolia; Mrs. William Beamish, Toronto; Mrs. Thomas Dance with old-time music and a caller in attendance.

In charge was Sonny Morin, caller and dancer of ability while "in the driving dancing seats" were Bert Peck, Eric Peck, Carl McFaul and Bruce Wallbridge. The tractor square dance will be offered at afternoon and evening performances during the rest of the fair.

Read, gal-caparisoned palominos paraded during the afternoon as did a number of prancing ponies.

The outstanding exhibit of livestock including representatives of dairy and beef herds of prominent breeders drew the attention of many.

The horse exhibits are especially fine as are those of other farm products.

The agricultural buildings contain fine exhibits of flowers, grain, fruits and other products of the district.

Business and industry are well represented in display buildings with outstanding exhibits of merchandise and production.

Under farmers inauguration is extensive and interesting fourday program, the outstanding one climaxed by a dance held in the Commodore.

This afternoon, the first of a two-day harness racing program got under way with outstanding pacers and trotters taking part in the 2.30 and 2.40 classes. The racing continues tomorrow afternoon starting 2 p.m.

Also on the card are carriage, hackney and high-stepping classes were also held this afternoon.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAM

Tonight there will be a display of fireworks and light horses, and a presentation to junior farmers by Ontario Hydro Electric Company. The Belleville Pipe Band and a majorette corps will be on hand in front of the grandstand in a special performance which will include a skit and will be followed by the Stairway to the Stars" stage show will be presented twice tonight starting at 7.30.

The "Stairway to the Stars" stage show will be presented twice tonight starting at 7.30.

Featured are Lauree Dickson "Silver" and "Scout". Also in the show will be "Lassie" the famous television dog star. Rounding out this presentation will be the "Wrangler" and the "The Sons of the Purple Sage". There will be three shows. The afternoon show starts at 2 p.m. gin at three o'clock while the evening stage show starts at seven o'clock and the second at nine.

Northern Electric Showing Wide Equipment Range

Among the many static displays to see at the 1957 Belleville Fair is that of the Faraday Uranium Mines Ltd., whose exhibit is one of photographs showing the development of the large mines at Bancroft. This display is in the grandstand.

Another grandstand attraction is the Northern Electric display of long-range communication equipment, a radar operated miniature traffic control system, fire alarm boxes, broadcasting consoles and a radar unit that will count the number of folks passing by, with a secondary unit on West Bridge St. counting cars approaching the fair grounds.

Here, too, is the S. A. Armstrong Ltd., exhibit of deep and shallow well pumps, and material handling equipment.

A refreshment and pop corn stand is operated under the grandstand and, of course, wash rooms are located here, too.

Behind the side-shows and in front of the junior building is the display of Truck and Farm Supply, with manure spreaders, disc harrows, hay balers, hay conveyors, Farmall 130 tractors, 350 utility tractors, a B-250 diesel tractor and a Farmall Cub tractor and other equipment by McCormick.

In the grandstand, across from the Armstrong exhibit is the display of the Ontario Hydro Commission illustrating by colored slides electricity at work on a farm. A movie panel shows how far a dime goes, electrically, in a home.

Next to the Commodore building, the Upper Canada Bible Society has a fine exhibit next to Booth Radio and Television, while the Publishers' Guild is also in the same building.

(Anna May) Whalen, Belleville, and Mrs. Fred (Mary) Powell, Mallorytown; one son, Edward, of Read, and one sister, Mrs. Charles (Mary) MacDonald, of Oshawa.

Resting at the George F. Ketcheson Funeral Residence, 39 Moira Street West; the funeral service entertainment appears elsewhere in this edition.

MIDWAY POPULAR PLACE

Youngsters of the city and district, many of them with their parents, took advantage of the Monday "Children's Day". The Conklin Midway's special attraction for the children, "Kiddy Land," where all kinds of safe, enjoyable rides are available, was the central point for large crowds.

The midway proper with its excellent tested attractions and many popular ride thrills was well patronized, both afternoon and evening.

The baby show held yesterday afternoon attracted a large number of entries with the "Baby of the Show" being named for the first time. Results appear elsewhere.

During the afternoon track and field events were held with a number of city and district track athletes competing in the 880 mile, half-mile, quarter-mile and relay events.

TRACTOR DANCE

The International Harvester Company's Tractor square dance introduced in Belleville Day, the first time, drew a fine ovation at both afternoon and evening performances. For the first time in the feature's history local drivers took over the wheels and gave an excellent account of themselves.

Garbed in cowboy hats, gaily-colored shirts and blue jeans, four members of the staff pivoted their mechanical steeds through the mazes of the square

Fair President, Dr. Scott, Officially Opens One of Best Agricultural Shows in History

The 1957 edition of the Belleville Fair got away to a flying four-day start yesterday with opening day attendance showing an increase over that of a year ago.

Paid attendance at the gate yesterday was 3,750 while that of a year ago was 2,510.

Cloudless skies with brilliant sunshine ushered in the inaugural morning and afternoon activities while in the evening an autumn atmosphere prevailed with cool air keeping comfort at a minimum.

The fair was officially opened last night prior to the stage presentation with a minimum of ceremony. President Dr. Russell Scott of the Fair Board, briefly welcomed the crowd and paid tribute to a hard-working directorate, whose efforts, he said, had made one of the finest agricultural shows in years possible.

He said the "Stairway to the Stars", the stage presentation, was the finest ever offered to a fair clientele in Belleville, while the midway was unequalled for variety in the province.

Toastmaster Rollins acted as master of ceremonies in his usual capable manner and expressed the appreciation of the Fair Board for the assistance rendered by the McFarland Construction Company.

ARMY SHOW

Opening the evening performance in front of a fine attendance was a demonstration given by the 27 Tech Squadron, RCEME, Belleville, commanded by Captain K. D. H. Willcocks. Captain Willcocks explained the duties and functions of the RCEME and the work it was doing in Korea.

The demonstration, heralded by rifle fire, showed a skirmish between infantry patrols with a tank engaged. The tank was knocked out by a shell and the RCEME demonstrated its operation in recovery of the damaged vehicle.

The army show was followed by the first presentation of stage extravaganza "Stairway to the Stars," a story of which appears elsewhere in this edition.

MIDWAY POPULAR PLACE

Youngsters of the city and district, many of them with their parents, took advantage of the Monday "Children's Day". The Conklin Midway's special attraction for the children, "Kiddy Land," where all kinds of safe, enjoyable rides are available, was the central point for large crowds.

The midway proper with its excellent tested attractions and many popular ride thrills was well patronized, both afternoon and evening.

The baby show held yesterday afternoon attracted a large number of entries with the "Baby of the Show" being named for the first time. Results appear elsewhere.

During the afternoon track and field events were held with a number of city and district track athletes competing in the 880 mile, half-mile, quarter-mile and relay events.

TRACTOR DANCE

The International Harvester Company's Tractor square dance introduced in Belleville Day, the first time, drew a fine ovation at both afternoon and evening performances. For the first time in the feature's history local drivers took over the wheels and gave an excellent account of themselves.

Garbed in cowboy hats, gaily-colored shirts and blue jeans, four members of the staff pivoted their mechanical steeds through the mazes of the square

Stage Extravaganza at Fair One of Best Ever Presented To Patrons From District

The "Stairway to the Stars," stage extravaganza of the Belleville Fair, lived up to every advance billing in its first presentation last night.

The consensus of first-night patrons was "the best presentation ever offered in stage entertainment."

Backgrounded by the tuneful music of Mickey Sullivan and his outstanding orchestra the show is a glittering colorful production of high-class acts.

From a viewpoint of entertainment taste, there is little to choose. Every act is a headliner in its own right. There is not an iota of ragtiness about it. It is variety artistry at its best.

The show actually unfolds around the theme from which it takes its name, "The Stairway to the Stars."

Sixteen beautiful girls with Rockettelike precision appear in intricate dance routines that are the last word in color and rhythm.

Their outstanding presentation is the beauty of fancy dress, a routine danced on a stairway. Under changing spotlights the gorgeous costumes and plumes of the girls form a picture which moving gives them in color. Living flowers unfold petals revealing beautiful girls in their hearts. The formation of plumes to display the gowns, then two out of the whole is one of the features.

SPLENDID NUMBERS

The Gay Foster dancers display remarkable choreography, especially in the Navy number when they appear in different sizes of stilts. The impression is terrific, the tallest of the stilted girls rising to some twelve feet.

Their "Merry Widow Waltz" number is another thing of beauty with pretty girls appearing in crinolines and big picture hats with the rest in delightful costumed. Nations number with a flag routine that is a masterpiece of precision and color. The whole joins in a military theme with the girls providing exceptional talent as drummers in the finale.

VERSATILE M.C.

Arthur Mathues is the versatile master-of-ceremonies. Mr. Mathues is possessed of a splendid voice which he uses to sing and chat between acts. Miss Cecilla De Lello, the prima donna of the show. Miss De Lello has a splendid contralto voice heard to distinct advantage in excerpts from "Merry Widow." Mr. Mathuas and Miss De Lello combine their vocal talents in background music to the dancing numbers.

Master Ralph a nine-year old Swiss xylophone virtuoso is a revelation on his instrument. His curly headed boy prodigy is heard to solos with the Sullivan orchestra, on his bambo drum and in singing. His rendition of the overture from William Tell is musical artistry, at its best.

The Orioles, a high aerial act is sensational. The two aerialists defy death by performing sixty feet in the air without benefit of a life-net. Each feat is a spellbinding one, which brought gasps from the grandstand crowd.

FINE ACROBATIC CROWD

The Honey Girls, a quartet of winsome misses, and tumblers and acrobats extraordinary, form a whirl of beauty in their presentation. Laughable entertainment is provided by the girls stage a fast tempo act that drew well-deserved ovations.

Angela Wilnow's "European Beauties", a series of handsome collie dogs, is a headliner in its own right. The clever collies go through a routine of jumping, tight-wire waking and other specialties which is climaxed with one leaping several times through a blazing hoop of fire.

Hibbard, Hird and Larue stage a comedy dance number which, last night was going well when a drunk staggered in from the tracks in front of the grandstand. Directed to, he returned several times, but to tell the rest would spoil the show.

There will be two presentations of "Stairway to the Stars" tonight, the first show starting at 6.20 and the second at 8.20.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market ended to Monday's losses during the fastest morning trading in 3 weeks, banks excepted.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 220,000 shares, heaviest total since early July. Monday's sales at the same time were 763,000.

There were some scattered buying in all sections of the market but losses held a three-to-one majority over gains.

Industrials lost more than 1¼ points on Dow, Jones 30 index, off 1½ points at 224 while Trans-Prairie Pipeline and Industrial Acceptance each dipped a point. Ford A touched a new low of 88 on 100 shares. Trans Mountain Pipe Line was up ½ to 97.

Base metals were relatively easier while lower-priced mines were lower in almost a solid line. Hollinger lost 20 cents at $1.75 and Preston East Dome was off 25 cents at $5.90. Aconic Mining Corp. lost 15 cents at 11.35. Uraniums moved down while Manitou lost 2¼ points to 7 in golds.

Western oils were quiet and traded in a narrow range.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter price parity curve reported unchanged today.

The egg market was reported firm on quite A large with receipts light. Other grades were steady with offerings ample for a light demand.

Country dealers are quoted on graded eggs, delivered Toronto, in fibre cases: A large 45; A medium 38; A small 38; B 31; C 31. Wholesale to retail: A large 50; A medium 40; A small 31; B 32; C 31.

Butter prices: Canada, first grade: Ontario creamery 30¾ in quiet trading; western 61¼-63¼ (nominal).

Fine Arts, Crafts Display One of Interest

In the arts and crafts section at the fair were seen some fine hammered copper depicting birds, and figure groups; these were finished in frames, suitable for wall decorations.

The ceramics included vases, creams and sugars; fancy figurines, penguins, candy dishes, cigarette boxes topped with pretty flowers and earrings. Among the leather work were tooled and carved leather purses; key cases and coin purses and gloves. Costume jewellery was shown in enamel on copper, and copper bracelets, cuff links, etc.

There were also some lovely hand-woven stoles in wool with metallic threads in white and blue with fringed ends; place mats, guest towels, a lovely sport jacket in black and wine design and woven purses suitable for evening wear.

The pictures of this section displayed portrait of lady and several landscapes, as well as one of still life.

In the fine arts section two samplers were noticed in black on a white ground; one of which depicted a horse and jig driven by one occupant, underneath the following inscription: "Not so suitable for a guest room: "Come, dear friend,
Come here and rest;
You will always be
A welcome guest."

An oval black frame contained a piece of petit point of flowers, a collection of sea scapes with angry waters and lurching vessels; the Sea mill at Latta; an autumn scene with blue skies and redcoloring maples and yellowing birches reflected in dark waters; a colonial study of "Grandma Mores" and one of an elderly woman studying her Bible at lamp light; the Canada wild Loose and her flock amid the rushes; Hiawatha's Sea Island complete with palm trees and shells; an unusual large study of a seagull with little lake and creeping baby alligator, which is said to be at one day old can inflict a serious wound; a water scene in sand, knitting bags; kitchen mitts; aprons; stuffed toys; a baby's elephant and old Dutch cleaning. All of which were interesting.

Big Horse Show Greets Patrons At Local Fair

Horses of all kinds, big ones, little ones, draft horses and agricultural type.

To illustrate the picture at the opening day of Belleville Fair yesterday as the horse barns rapidly filled with sheer horses competing for prize money in what possibly will be the greatest year in the history of the fair.

Judging got directly underway on the big horses, but there was also his small sister as well as a big percentage of the growing pony population of the district, which smartly turned out Palomino pony and trotting pony paces before the judges in the horse ring.

All Palomino classes were judged yesterday afternoon as well as some of the Hackney classes. Event continues in full this afternoon with the heavy horse class Dawson and Son of Lindsay were on hand with six handsome bay horses.

Road classes were represented by Heath of Bellrock with four horses; William Kenny, Odessa, with two road horses; Earl Johnson and John Dadson of Stirling. Mr. Sheridan had three horses and two Hackneys on show.

Dr. E. G. Kennedy is a heavy exhibitor in the Hackney pony class, showing eight ponies; John Harris of Frankford showed seven while Hackney horses are shown by Miles Benedict of Canniton and Dr. Kennedy. Horses at the fair, and Elmer Gerow of Picton with three Hackney horses.

There are heavy entries in the mare and colt classes.

Big interest on the part of the younger generation is being given three horse stalls reserved for "Silver", famed horse of movie fame owned by The Lone Ranger. Mrs. Fern Smith of Toronto is the owner. Tuesday attractions at the fair.

Merchants' Building Display More Varied Than in Some Years

Displays this year at the Belleville Fair, are bigger and better than ever before, as a tour through the buildings will prove.

In the Club Commodore building are displays of a number of merchants, with a few outsiders also showing off their products.

Everything from the latest high fidelity phonograph to a tiny hosiery needle can be seen in this building, and, for a place to eat, visitors can't get a wrong if they drop into the dining hall at the north end where the Foxboro W.I. is catering for the first two days.

As fair goers enter the Commodore building from the south, they will see the lavish display of the Adams Furniture Co. Ltd., 36 Bridge St. E., with beautiful suites by such famous makers as Kroehler and Bauers. Here, too, are 1927 models of electric ranges and refrigerators by Westinghouse, Moffat, Leonard and Frigidaire, while classic kitchen cabinets are also displayed mounted with smart lamps.

The display from the Adams is the combined booth of W. J. Gage & Co. Ltd., 590, and Lorne McDougall Insurance Agencies Ltd, 150 Front Street, Belleville, with the exhibit model television sets, featuring the Canadian Marconi 1928 Trans-Atlantic portable radios are on show in this booth — the first to be made with 4 tube sets to burn out or batteries to worry about, which, the manufacturers of this radio is roughly 90 cents. Of course, Booth's two main items, but the best thing to do is to drop over to the booth and see the exhibits first-hand.

At the fourth wall, almost hidden by other displays, is the St. John Ambulance first-aid post, where ambulance officers are on duty to handle anything from a scratch to a more serious mishap.

FINE DISPLAY OF COOKWARE

Cookware of the first-aid post is a glamorous display of cooking and baking utensils and aluminum ware. Cookware, 1721½ Front St., where, in addition to the display lay-outs, visitors get a chance at winning stainless steel cookware toward the end of the fair. Cookware on display is the kind that retains the goodness of water-ists all the solder for producing a delicious dinner. Cookware carries a double guarantee, Mr. Hunter says, is, the merchandise is guaranteed against defects for the lifetime of the purchaser and the purchaser's children.

Next, but in the show of Underwood Ltd., 329 Church St., is which is featured standard, electric and portable typewriters and a special 10-key adding machine, the original 10-key one — that can add, subtract and multiply.

Omer Gravel, service manager at the Kingston branch of Underwood spent several weeks to prepare an electric typewriter with just typewriting on the keywords, "Underwood Electric Typewriters," as though in response to operate a sitting at the fingerboard. This machine is Belleville, has on show all the latest developments.

The J. Kuntzs and Sons Ltd., 217 Front St., has a nice display of General Electric products, including a number of small automatic dryers and washers, besides a handsome Electrolux high fidelity ensemble. There are food freezers here, as well as vacuum cleaners and ranges, all by G.E.

Stephen Lucas Ltd., 299 Front St., is making its debut at the fair with a fine selection of Victrolas, Robin Hood, Cyco and CCM bicycles. Ralph Tuck, the genial manager in this Belleville Bicycle Safety Dealers' program earlier in the summer, is on tap here and will gladly answer any queries Other Agency Dealers as well as the goods his company sells.

MANY ARTICLES SHOWN

Stephen Licence has a smart "Superb bike that features a fork lock along the principles of the Ford of the old days. Here, too, is a penny-farthing bicycle, the type that was common in grandma's days. Besides bicycle exhibits, this booth also bowling skates, basketballs, footballs, wagons, and other things.

Booth Radio and Television has a second stand, across from Adams Furniture, where there is a fine showing of sporting equipment. Everything for the hunter and angler is displayed, from a smart new shotgun to the latest in spinning tackle. Other items include targets to an enjoyable jaunt in the outdoors are also on show here.

Lionel Scott, president of the fair board, said Stephen Lucas and Booth's present displays are the first ever had at the Belleville Fair.

Bill Dellin Ltd., 283 Coleman St., has an interesting exhibit of Kelvinator products. Mr. Winter isn't too far away, and is in the fair grounds, thinking about the heating system at home.

Culligan Water Conditioning Service, 211 Pinnacle St., is featured a "mystery" faucet and water softening, purification and filtering tanks. The "mystery faucet" looks like an oversized tap that pours water from an invisible source. It's an amazing stunt, a real crowd catcher.

In fine display of Lady Rochelle silverware by William Rogers can be seen in the lingerie of exhibits at the north of the Commodore building. Mr. Rogers is on hand for a 52-piece set of Rogers silverware here for sale.

Clark's Appliance Shop of Stirling and Madoc is representing the Fairbanks Morse refrigerators, television sets, a food freezer, Fairbanks radios and Moffat ranges.

Just west of Jack's exhibit is the booth of Consumers Gas Sales Ltd., Winnipeg, where a free draw for exhibited stainless steel cookware (retail value a $209. value) will be held later on.

CUTAWAY PARTS SHOWN

Outside the merchants' building, Garage Supply Ltd., 34 Harris St., has a fine display of cutaways of the working parts of the Delco-Remy starting, lighting and ignition systems, as well as tune-up machine. Cut-away car parts are also shown here for the benefit of the motoring layman.

On the lawn near the east gate is Elliott Motors' colorful display of Buick, Pontiac, and GMC vehicles. Highlighting this display is General Motor's 1927 Vauxhall "Viver", a six-cylinder, 5-passenger car that is very economical on gasoline and oil. This small car, with the seating capacity of a big car, has a water cooled engine, four-wheel brakes, dual ignition, windshield, spacious trunk, 12-volt electrical system and many other refinements at only $2,000. The car looks like a cross between a 1927 Oakland and a 1928 Buick. It has front end ball-point suspension.

Also displayed here, too, is a GMC 72-passenger school bus that operates in the suburban department of the Ontario Department of Education. Body by Wilson Body Co. The bus has safety glass throughout and plastic and leather seats. There is also an emergency door at the rear (the same model can be had with a safety door on the side at the back), forward control, hydraulic four-wheel brakes.

A third passenger shown here is a GMC 9900 tandem-drive truck that can be operated on tandem or single drive. This truck is sold exclusively by G.M. A bus, or platform truck, is also displayed. A GMC pick-up, dump and panel trucks are also being shown.

MANY EXHIBITS

In the car line, Elliott Motors is showing Buick, the new Lucerne, master 75, Super, Century and Special models, and new Pontiacs and Oakland Sensations, the deluxe and Pathfinder classes.

The Chevrolet display is in Starlight Distributors, Port Hope, agents of Rogers Brothers Manufacturing Co. Ltd., here to grow for a 52-piece set of Starlight silverware is featured here.

Superior Propane Ltd., R.R. 5, Belleville, has a fine exhibit of gas ranges and refrigerators by Findlay, Findlay Brothers, gas heaters dryer by Norge and a John Wood gas heated water boiler. Other gas appliances are also exhibit. This display is adjacent to Sight Silverware.

Murray Motors Ltd., 224 Pinnacle St., is showing off a 1928 Essex and white Rockne Lucerne, four-door hard-top convertible, with a 186 h.p. V-8 engine and key-board drive. Here, too, is the small, but family-sized Essex Coach by Fords.

International Panel Board Ltd., Gatineau, Que., has a trailer unit that houses building materials for homes of low cost.

BEST ON FOOT

KANSAS CITY Y (AP)—Twelve Kansas City postmen Monday started a 30-day trial at riding bicycles on their delivery routes, but it didn't take one to find out that walking was the principal thing and dismounting from his bike at every house. "I'm not walking my self to death," Carl Art Galian, 27. "I would rather walk."

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 5 5-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Monday's rate was 94 27-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.63¾, down 1-16.

Father Makes Daring Rescue Of Son Who Plunged 35 Feet From Bridge Into Trent River

TRENTON (Special)—A father who watched his son fall 35 feet from the new 401-highway bridge north of here yesterday jumped into the swift waters of the Trent river to perform a daring rescue that brought praise from bridge inspector and fellow workers.

Gary Ripley, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Ripley of Gananoque working with a painting gang was carrying a long heavy plank when the wind caught it and threw him off balance and caused the 20 foot length to swing down, knocking the lad from the span. An eye witness said the plunge sent Ripley turn in the air before he landed on the gravel bank below. The boy was badly hurt and also unconscious because his head hit a steel brace in the fall, slid down the bank and into the fast moving water.

Father of Gary saw his son's plight and leaped from a point 25 feet above the water in time to catch him as he floated down stream. A quarter of a mile further down the river in a little bay, where the water drops another 25 feet into a seething cauldron lined by hidden rocks.

The father pulled his helpless son to the river's edge where Dr. W. Griffith, Trenton, who had been summoned by bridge inspector Jim Ross, had administered sedatives before the injured painter was placed in a waiting ambulance and rushed to the Trenton Memorial Hospital. When inquiry for relief was made by doctor he was instructed not to allow the patient to be moved.

At the hospital X-ray examinations revealed that Gary suffered a laceration of the forehead and undetermined head injuries. Dr. Griffith said it was miraculous the youth is alive and while his progress is satisfactory his condition is fair.

Gary worked for his father, stitches to close the wound.

Liked Job So Well He Stuck to It

A member of the composing room staff of this newspaper had very a scarlet countenance last night.

Likewise the seat of his trousers was in direct color sympathy.

He decided to paint a couple of kitchen chairs. He finished one and was well on the way to completing the other when he decided to take time out for a smoke.

So he sat himself down and lit a favorite cigar. When he was ready to finish the job, he found it difficult to arise.

You guessed it!

He had sat on the chair he had already painted!

His mother came from Gananoque later in the day to be at her son's bedside.

A spokesman for the Trenton Memorial Hospital today said that a child who fell on a smashed milk bottle Friday would receive $200, the amount sold to the highest bidder. The winner will be announced the last night of the fair.

COOKS INTERESTED

Many cooks will be interested in the display of cookware and aluminum cookware. Here can be found pans of all kinds, suitable for varied kitchen uses. Covers of these utensils are made from tarnish-proof copper-coated anodized aluminum.

The Electrolux booth features products to ease the homemaker's household cleaning duties. The Electrolux here uses the roller type vacuum cleaners with automatic disposal device for the dust bags. The accessories are also displayed. The exhibit contains various attachments for the use of the vacuum cleaners.

Kitchen cabinets featuring white enamel catch the visitor's eye at the Buy-Lite Plumbing and Heating Booth, 211 Front St. These units contain ample storage space below the counter, and above the counter working space on both sides of the sink. Bathroom equipment, including a lavatory, lavatory, and bathroom accessories can be seen here, also the display includes a large Fairbanks Morse automatic water system.

The Bug-Rug display features plastic carpeting which comes in nine colors and designs. This is described as being long wearing and easy to clean.

Besides a large line of floor coverings is also displayed here. Linoleum and rugs, in the latest designs, produced by Brantford Roofing Co. Ltd., have been on display here. The display also shows Ceiltex, Ceiltone and Crafwall pre-finished panels in oak, walnut and mahogany.

Awnings for precision-built homes can be examined at the Belleville Awning Co. Ltd. Included such building supplies as Abitibi panelboards, asphalt shingles and insulation. Access to this booth are invited to take part in a guessing contest. Whoever guesses closest to the correct number of nails in a large glass jar will receive a brand new bed, and exhaust fan. The winner will be announced the last night of the fair.

ALL TYPES OF HEATING

The W. E. Lewis exhibit contains a display of Clare Hecla furnaces, suitable for use in all types of heating. A cut-away model shows the inner parts of the furnace. Four different sizes of furnaces are displayed.

Models of aluminum awnings, doors and windows are also on display at the Air Shade display. The awnings come in different color combinations to suit all tastes.

Of interest to the men is the Wills Hardware display of power tools, including the Shop Smith, Sunbeam Mixmaster, the Sunbeam hand jigsaw and Sunbeam sander, which are both on exhibit here will be demonstrated this afternoon and Wednesday afternoon by a man from that company. Employees of the hardware store will demonstrate the other tools.

Homemaker's Dreams Become Reality in Fair Displays

The homemaker's dreams become a reality at this year's display in the merchandise buildings at the Belleville fair. New and exciting furnishings to make saving devices for the modern home are on exhibit at this building.

The David's Furniture Store display features a model interior of a present-day home. The bedroom suite, in softone walnut, contains a large dresser with a double dresser with mirror, and bed complete with cabinet type head-board. In the "living room" a Sklar sofa, easy chair and super-lounge chair are shown. This three-piece set in two-tone brown features reversible airfoam, zippered cushions. A green Sklar sofa and matching chair are also contained in this display. Two end tables and a coffee table complete the exhibit. The homemaker is that of the John Lewis Co. Ltd., Cannifton, view the McClary electric and gas ranges and refrigerators. Information concerning these ranges and dryers, containing many modern features, may be obtained here. Dials help the homemaker obtain the correct temperature, amount of time to cook foods and many fabrics. New, 1928 models of Marconi radio receivers are also to be seen here.

This exhibit features a display of heating and cooking equipment, including screens, fire places and a smoke cabinet. The public can take part in an auction on a Coleman furnace valued at $200, which will be sold to the highest bidder. The winner will be announced the last night of the fair.

Obituary

THOMAS JOSEPH QUINLAN

MARMORA — Thomas Joseph Quinlan, a life long resident of the Marmora-Madoc district, passed away in the Ontario Hospital, Kingston, on August 7th at the age of 77 years. He had been ill for three years.

Mr. Quinlan was born in Tudor township, near Madoc, and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Quinlan. Most of his life he worked at mining but later years were spent in farming. He was a member of Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, and Holy Name Society. He was also a member of the Knights of Columbus.

His wife, the former Annie Roonan, predecessed him in October, 1925. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Thomas (Mary) O'Connor of Marmora township; two sisters, Mrs. Roy (Mary) Doupe and Mrs. James (Kathleen) Fitzpatrick, both of Madoc, and two brothers, Leo Quinlan of Niagara Falls.

The funeral was held from the home of his daughter, RR 1, Marmora, to Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, on August 9 at 9 a.m. Saturday.

The bearers were: Wm. Meehan, Frank Sophia, Geo. Forestall, Charles Crawford, Doug. McGuigge, John Doyle.

Some office equipment, such as desk cabinets, office seating equipment, principles of free standing office partitioning, are also seen here.

Leslie Shoe Store's display includes shoes for the entire family, and a display of baby's full matching luggage sets and shoes.

RCAF EXHIBIT

Members of the Eastern Canada Mobile Unit, RCAF, are present at the fair, displaying an RCAF exhibit. The main attraction in the RCAF exhibit is a model complete with "flying" plane, which hidden soon lights.

The Stewart-Warner exhibit features the main products of that manufacturing concern, both domestic and industrial; are also featured the motor equipment for industry and service stations are also being exhibited. Shown for the first time to the fair going public is the Mini-Heat Unit, which is described as being "revolutionary." Saf-Aire oil burners and Stewart-Warner electric furnaces and air exhausters for domestic and industrial use are also being exhibited at this stand.

Cattle Housed In New Building On Fairgrounds

Dairy cattle breeds at the Belleville Fair are being housed in the high this year.

The reason is that new exhibition building is being housed in the brand new cattle building completed in time for the opening of the fair Monday.

Although the cattle barns are not yet finished, they will be well represented before judging gets underway Tuesday. Many of the dairy breeds were only in evidence at mid-afternoon on opening day.

Holsteins were housed in the long graceful horns were far in the last numerical.

T. D. Creighton and Sons of R. R. 2 Bath had 21 heads of Ayrshires on show. Other herds represented being owned by Milton Hall of Wellington and Mr. Mercer Wood of Crookston.

Only Jerseys on show on opening day was the herd of Wayne Kerr of Campbellford. Missing from the herd of Lorne Farrell of Canniton, who had one son killed and another seriously injured Saturday afternoon when he struck by a car at Peterborough Fair at the time.

Holsteins were represented a yesterday's fair opening by Jin Bros. and Sons, Bath, Ayrshires County Black and White Day in Tuesday feature of the day.

Judging in the new cattle barn was the Quinte District Canadian Breeders' Association of that breed Holstein bulls and cows beef type Shorthorn on exhibition.

By the late afternoon entries of swine and sheep classes were pouring into the grounds and preparations were on for the big time judging gets underway.

SLIGHT CASE OF INGRATITUDE

When heads of foreign countries pay a visit to Washington nowadays bureaucratic notions of hospitality are offended if the guest fails to depart with a fat bundle of dollars labelled "foreign aid."

A case in point is King Saud of oil-rich Saudi Arabia. Money is no problem for King Saud, whose oil royalties tote up to a comfortable $250 million a year. But when King Saud visited Washington some time ago the foreign aid boys in the Administration apparently sought to persuade him to accept $25 millions of the U.S. taxpayers' money. The funds, Washington officials thought, should be used for improvements to the port of Dammam, near the U.S. air base at Dhahran.

King Saud, not wanting to appear ungracious, did not decline the money. But foreign aid officials in Washington are worried because he has never found time to get around to picking up the cheque. Meanwhile, quite a dither has been stirred up by reason of the fact that some Congressmen have discovered that back in Uncle Sam pastureland King Saud that a bathhouse for pilgrims on their way to Mecca would be a fine thing.

The bathhouse was to cost $300,000, and was to be equipped with steam sterilisers for the pilgrims' robes and prayer mats. The project was just about completed before technicians discovered that there wasn't enough water at the site chosen to wash one's hands.

Canadians can sympathize with U.S. taxpayers who hope that King Saud's desire not to seem ungracious will not result in a similar and more costly fiasco.

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE AND THE WEATHER

The other day the Vancouver Sun carried the following news item on its front page.

"August will be much warmer. Or it will be much colder. It all depends which forecast you believe. Friday's private forecasting firm hired by a B.C. industrial organization said August is going to average out as warmer. But the Vancouver U.S. weather bureau said August in B.C. is going to be cold, and in some areas very cold."

All this is very funny -- except to the man who pays the bill of the private forecasting firm. He must be wondering whether he has been hooked -- or whether he is getting accurate information at a bargain price. In any event, all he can do is to wait and see and one might suppose that he would hesitate to base any of his firm's major operations on either the private or the official forecast.

What most of us will be wondering, though, is what useful purpose private weather forecasting firms fulfill. It is understandable that in some well-defined areas general forecasts will be influenced by local factors and a private firm, working with the problems of a specific firm in mind, may be able to point out how probable weather trends may affect its operations. But, when a private firm's forecasts are in such direct conflict as in the case of the weather service, one is obliged to ask which is more likely to be accurate. Can the private firm forecast more efficiently than the weather bureau? If not, of what use is it? If so, is it not time for the taxpayer to demand an explanation?

DISTRIBUTION IS EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Maybe it is just as well that Canada's mushrooming economy of today makes it easier for people to discern the important role of the nation's distributive services. Getting the goods from the factory or the farm to the consumer efficiently and economically is the key to prosperity and progress. In the past, the role of the distributor and his partner transportation has not been so clearly understood. For distribution and transportation are things which many people were accustomed to take for granted.

Today the supermarket and the highway truck have made it obvious to all that without efficient distributing machinery the economy wouldn't tick at all. Canada's regional and local economies have become interdependent. No community and no section of the country is wholly self-sufficient any more.

Today the railways, the pipelines, highway transport and boats, the St. Lawrence Seaway are competing with each other to provide Canada with more efficient, economical transportation. If competition is free and unrestricted, the consumer will benefit in terms of lower prices for the goods he needs at point of delivery.

That is why, in seeking to beat inflation, serious consideration needs to be given to modifying outdated restrictions which distort the competitive position of the railways in providing transportation services for Canada. More freedom for the rails means lower prices for the consumer.

AGE

When he married he was young
And fortune was hard to find.
But it came at fifty now
He's old.

Times and time and time again
"We are hiring younger men,"
At the office for employment
He's been told.

With a wife and children three
He can't bear to hungry see,
He hasn't dared to risk his weekly wage.

When a chance to rise occurred,
"Over forty," he has heard,
"Very sorry, but the trouble is your age."

Should I lose the job I hold,
I suppose that I'd be told:
"You've been over forty now for years.
We need younger men than
you."
I'll confess that now is true,
But I'd hate to have it filmed into my ears.

The Aspirin Age

By Walter Montfort in the Milwaukee Journal

One of the innumerable stories of the absent minded professor has him entering a drugstore and saying "I would like three dozen grain tablets of acetylsalicylic acid."

"Do you mean aspirin?" asked the pharmacist.

"Oh, yes, I can never remember that name."

Before the dawn of the 20th century there would have been no need to remember that name, for it did not exist. The term Aspirin — it was a proprietary and the owner had the right to capitalize it — was coined by Felix Hoffmann, a prominent chemist who headed the laboratories of Friedrich Bayer and Co., Duesseldorf, Germany.

A youthful research assistant named Dresser, Felix Hoffmann was the discoverer, not of the acid itself but of a method of making Hoffman's father was crippled by arthritis, and the son, eager to relieve him, spent all his time delving into the salicylates which for thousands of years have been known to have the power to relieve pain. At last, in 1899, Hoffmann succeeded in combining the acid in synthetic form. His father was the first person, as well as the first arthritic sufferer, to benefit by it.

Nearly 60 years have passed, and the Hoffman product has yet to meet a superior competitor. Recently, at a medical convention in Toronto, several Rheumatologists — rheumatoid arthritis pronounced aspirin the safest remedy for that ailment and equal in effectiveness to others for simply continuing. Some years ago was made of 100 patients, the parley was told. Fifty were treated with aspirin, 50 with cortisone. One group felt as good as the other — and it was noticed that the aspirin takers did not suffer some of the side effects of cortisone, such as ulcers, bone weakness and tissue destruction.

The Canadian conclave simply added to the affirmation of American findings made two years ago Dr. John Z. Bowers, dean of the Chicago Medical Schools medical school, told Wisconsin physicians that aspirin was the most effective, safest, cheapest, and physical therapy the most important weapon in fighting arthritis.

Aspirin has proved more versatile than its discoverers imagined. Not only is it a general pain killer and antirheumatic agent, but it reduces fevers, and prevents the formation of blood clots in patients with frequent attacks. This last report was made by Dr. Leon Bendich of Chicago. Nineteen kidney stone patients had taken aspirin daily for a year and in the growth of existing stones was halted and new ones were not formed.

Americans are the world's most ardent users of aspirin tablets — billions every year. Physicians can be dangerous, they realist authorities warn parents. "Keep aspirin, along with other drugs, out of children's reach."

Even in the average adult, the danger is slight. Many persons have vainly tried to commit suicide by swallowing a bottle of aspirin tablets. They grow woozy and sick, perhaps, but they rarely black out, but the obstinacy of the stomach generally defeats the aspirin's deadly intendence.

Just how aspirin operates puzzles the medical men, but they suspect that, carried by the blood stream, it affects the fore part of the brain which controls physical or painful sensitivities.

Aspirin, it is estimated, reduces pain potential by 50 per cent when taken in time of minor twinges. The really powerful drugs can reduce 70 or more per cent of agony, but at a terrible cost; they are habit forming, expensive and numb the faculties not involved in the pain sensation. Some people have tried to show that continuous use of aspirin makes the user an addict, but leading physiologists don't believe it.

Many persons take aspirins nightly in the belief that it induces sleep, but science has not found the aid to be soporific. Victims of hangovers also put strong faith in aspirin. However, outside of relieving headache, the value in this respect is mainly of the imagination.

Several generations of college students have embraced the notion that aspirin swallowed with a certain soft drink will reduce the effect of an alcoholic jag. This is another triumph of the imagination. Indeed, the stimulus from the caffeine in the drink is a direct contrast to the depressant effect of alcohol.

Almost all of the aspirin in America is made by two chemical firms, Monsanto and Dow. No matter what brand name it carries, aspirin is aspirin; one is as good as another, whatever the price. It begins to work about 15 minutes after being swallowed, and two five-grain tablets attain maximum effect in 60 minutes. Then it is of much use in taking more than two tablets at a time, because it will do the limit of good. After two hours, the dosage can be repeated if need be.

Salicylic acid is found in many plants and fruits, and people were using it to relieve their miseries thousands of years ago. The Indians of America, the Negroes of Africa, and Hippocrates of Greece, the father of medicine, who practised about 400 B.C., all knew that the juice of willow bark eased rheumatic pain and reduced fever.

With the collapse of the Roman Empire, such medical knowledge was forgotten and was not regained until the 18th and 19th centuries, A.D. The Rev. Edward Stone, an English naturalist, was assured by the old wives of his parish that pulverized willow eased pain in water was a boon to victims of chills, fever and rheumatism. He published his findings about the time of the American revolution.

How to Speed Unloading

Manchester Guardian

An Australian colleague has provided us with a useful addition to a reference to the cost of beer in Darwin.

The town was always dependent for most of its food and materials upon shipment from the south. A popular legend in Australia tells how a ship with a cargo of housewives for years would sit in despair after each shipment arrived. The wharf laborers would then unload the cargo of beer; then such mundane essentials as butter, canned milk, flour, tea, and clothing had to languish on the docks until the liquor had been consumed — a task which often took days.

A simple decision finally brought startling reform. The beer was stowed in the lowest hold, beneath the other goods, which thereupon suffered no gratifying speed.

Turns Wife Into Mechanic

Milwaukee Journal

If a supreme court judge can't get a valid precedent, we don't know who can. Justice Hughes, therefore, should study the examples of Joseph Hushaben of Virginia.

In planning a 4,000-mile Middle Eastern tour by station wagon, it occurred to Dikejas that it might be well to have someone along who knew a good deal about how to rustle up a screwdriver, while the little woman makes dispearing remarks about her breadwinner's ability as an automotive expert.

Let's send the woman off to a mechanical school, we said. If the wife of a supreme court justice can use a spark plug wrench, why should the rest of womanhood lag behind?

Women Should Design Homes

Windsor Star

Pacific coast town planning consultant suggests that if experienced women gave themselves to the design of small and relatively inexpensive dwelling in which they, rather than men, would live, there would be many and desirable changes.

It would seem that this all to the good if women exerted more influence on domestic architecture. Men plan and design and build the houses but women live in them more hours a day than men and should bring to bear their influence on men's designs. In recent decades women's influence has raised the level of the kitchen sink so that dishwashing isn't the back-breaking job of earlier days. But there is much more that could be done in matters of convenience as well as beauty and harmony if they put their mind to it.

When a great man died the significant thing is what he leaves behind of his life and work. Not useful purposes, or it may be no more than a kindly and gentle example of a man who had endeared himself to all who knew him — a good father, public spirited leader in his place that concerned his town, state or nation. Character, left behind, creates a path of light which other quite lesses its luster.

That is the substance of ourselves is left behind when we drop out of life and its contacts. It is the greatest an endowment that it continuous, and even immortal. We live on in what we have been. Imagine what this world would be like with none of the books and records of discovery that have marched man's tread forward. On what is left behind, other men improve and carry on. We can all become benefactors. Let us forever honor those who were pathfinders in builders.

The millionaire and pauper meet on the level at the grave, but in the truth marked difference — the one who has been the doer of good and the one who dreamed, served his fellow man can never be soon forgotten. He has left behind a great wealth, for he has left all that he had. A great multitude of people, and those they who live pass the example of the good and the noble on to others.

What a wealth of kindnesses are forever being bequeathed to humanity by those who remember where have so many blessings come our way? All about us are opportunities. We are challenged all through life to keep alert. A friend always leaves something behind, if no more than a smile or an encouraging word of cheer. Every library is a collection of ideas and thoughts of millions of other human beings, left behind

What Counts Is Intention

By Glanville Williams in The Listener, London

One might . . . say that the law ought to take notice of what results actually happen, but public opinion punishes people — or treat people — on the basis of what they have tried to do. On this view, you should look only to see what was the accused's intention.

For example, there is no more reason why an attempt to commit a crime should be treated more leniently than the successful completion of a crime; yet it is the inveterate practice of the law to make a distinction between the two cases.

The contrast is most striking in connection with capital punishment. If a man pushes another, intending to kill him, and succeeds, he is likely to be hanged. If he misses, he will receive what is commonly accounted a more lenient punishment—a few years in jail.

Why should the accident of failure lighten the punishment?

In a moral view, the man who attempts and fails to kill is as bad as the man who attempts and succeeds; the intention of the two may be quite as much of a social problem.

Still, the ordinary citizen would think it unduly harsh to punish the attempt as severely as the completed crime, and the law feels constrained to follow the popular opinion. It is this fact that is largely responsible for landing the criminal law with the ticklish problem of causation.

Act While There's Light

Reluctantly I published a piece here last January 25 about cure of cataracts. A reader had reported that two had been cured of cataracts by the use of drops. I printed the item in an ill-considered desire to be fair. Now I must apologize to our readers and to my profession. The reader had written of his own cataracts. He tell me:

"Your article on removal of cataracts was not entirely right. I am 81 and my cataracts were cured without operation — by eye drops, one drop in each eye, daily. It took about a year and the medicine cost about $75, including doctor's fees.— R.I.L."

I wrote R.I.L. several times, begging him to give me the doctor's name, but he never replied. It is possible, of course, that R.I.L. may have gone away soon after he told me of his cure, but I am highly skeptical of such reports, especially when they can't be confirmed.

Many readers asked me where they could buy the drops that listed in memorandum. Answer I can give the inquiry is that in my opinion there are no such drops. In other words, I do not believe there is a cure by drops for cataract, short of surgery.

I'm truly sorry I made this mistake. From the many letters inquiries are worded, it would seem that I added to the unfortunate misunderstanding about cataracts for her family physician recommends.

Now I urge cataract patients to stop feeling sorry for themselves and come into the light of the world. Consult with an accountant friend of mine did. With admirable brevity he described his experience for the benefit of our readers about a year ago. Summary: When his vision became so impaired that he could not get a license to drive and his very livelihood was endangered he entered the hospital and had first one cataract removed and then, a week or ten days later, the other. So now he has a new driver's license and is happily doing his work.

In his report, the accountant said that there was no pain at any time, he was in bed only a few days in all, both eyes were bandaged for only a few days and altogether the surgery proved as great an ordeal as extraction of a tooth.

As the accountant says, and the oculist (ophthalmologist, eye surgeon, if you prefer) the operated on him emphatically confirms, there are thousands cataracts unnecessarily in the country who are quite as dangerous to deal with today as any one could desire. This is the reason why I shall not repeat the unfortunate advice of the accountant or his oculist.

It is by far the only sensible course for a person with cataract is to consult the oculist immediately.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A cousin of mine has a dog, of great character but indeterminable breeding, which has almost human intelligence. Or so they say.

His greatest attribute is that he is very fond of children. And it is wonderful the stories he tells me of his tireless devotion to the little ones in the family. He is very fond of them out of sight. Where they go, he goes.

His prime performance is watching the new babies in their baby carriage out in the park or street. There he lies, the perfect watchdog, never taking his eyes off the baby.

From the hammock the other day, I was amused to see him standing guard over the baby, who was put out for a little air after its afternoon sleep. As is usual, the baby, being ten months old, is given a biskie to gnaw at whilst taking the sun.

Old Bruno, that faithful animal, came slowly along and sat down by the carriage as it was wheeled out. And when it was locked in place, he slumped down beside it, the picture of a grand old soldier on sentry duty.

When everybody but me had returned to the house Bruno sat there watchfully about. He studied me, in the hammock, for a long minute. Then he looked at the baby. Bruno was satisfied that nobody was looking, he got casually to his feet. He made the rounds of the baby carriage, peering in all directions.

Then, assured of privacy, he took the biskie out of the baby and robbed the baby of its biskie.

It strikes me that Bruno is fond of children for the same reason that they eat oftener than adults. You never see a dog of prosperous company of children, when some goodie is going to be available. The pickings are better with kids than with grown-ups.

Bruno, sitting on his pawn, the picture of impersonal devotion. After about ten minutes by which time the baby had just gummed the edges of the biscuit, old Bruno cautiously raised his head and scanned me long and steadily. Reassured, he got to his feet, went around to the far side, rose up and robbed the baby the second time.

"Harrryah!" I roared.

Outraged, he went and slunk under the porch, and stayed there the remainder of the afternoon.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A PERSONAL GOD

What do we mean when we speak of a personal God?

It is a distinct recollection of my childhood picture of God. It was in the horse and buggy days and we were hauling our farming toughs for the horses. I pictured God as a huge man and cross-legged at a watering trough and turning on the rain when it was dry.

Childish? Yes, but many adults today have a distinct picture of God than that.

We say that God is a person. Certainly we do not think of Him as an individual with a body like our own and is a spirit—as said Jesus and so does every Christian believe. We speak of God as sitting on a throne, but this is figurative language.

Personality is the highest reality we know anything about. If we have personality and God doesn't have personality, he went and slunk under the porch, and stayed there the remainder of the afternoon.

Patrons Enjoy Many Splendid Features Of Fine Fair

Conklin's Midway was a big attraction for junior fair-goers as they flocked into the fair grounds Monday for children's day. The midway featured special rides for the small fry as well as thrillers for the more adventuresome, and even offered an elephant ride. Here in the jet air age, small fry still show the railway has its attraction and enjoy a ride on Old '97 under the watchful eyes of parents.

Horses always are a fair attraction and if they are handsomely turned out Palominos the interest is all the more keen. Above is shown a fine class of Parade Palominos offered as an opening day attraction at the four-day Belleville fair which got underway yesterday. Winner of the class, Ross Therrien, Streetsville, is seen in the left foreground with judge placing other show horses in order.

Fine Gladioli Shown at Flower Exhibit

The horticulture building once again was the mecca for flower lovers, fine arts, arts and crafts, fruits and vegetables, Women's Institute exhibit, home cooking, and farm produce.

On entering one was met by the fragrance of red cedar which sentinelled the doorway in two white urns, and the colorful floral exhibit. But one thing was missed, the splendidly arranged carol exhibits which usually met the eye.

The gladioli display was impressive with its pyramidal exhibit in tiers of multi-colored blooms, topped with a white, Grecian urn filled with dark red blooms, perfect in texture, and shade. The descending tiers were formed of yellow with crimson centres; deep cream; white; salmon pink; coral shades with creamy centres, with the lower strata accented by sprays of Canadian cedar.

Among the single sprays was an outstanding one of coral-shaded gladioli which caught the attention. Other cut flowers included the old favorites: zinnias in cream, orange-yellow, henna, creamy-white, pink, bronze and scarlet. Baskets of larkspur, mingled with everlastings in pink, mauves and white, and pink reds; pinks in white and mauve; lovely frilly petunias in all shades; sprays of gladioli in white with centre of deep purple, others in salmon pink and blush pink, and baskets of mixed flowers mingled with fragrant ambrosia.

An outstanding single stem of plume poppy, or bocconia, drew the attention with its oak-like flowers, as did the lovely lantana with its odd flowers resembling shell work, each bloom composed of tiny red, and yellow four-petalled florets, all on one stem. The leaves of this plant are quite dark green, and similar in shape to the leaves of the plant, known as "Cupids Bower", with its bell-shaped flowers of deep mauve. Another distinguished flower was the "Blue Lily of the Nile," this had long, knife-like leaves, pointed at the tip in clusters, from which rose the regal stem of the flower, a pale blue composite cluster of tiny lily-like blooms, of delicate perfume.

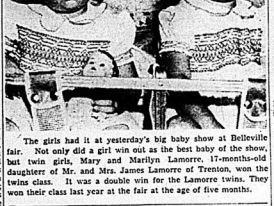
Corsages included sweetpeas, mauve and cream-centred gladioli; roses and asters, in rosy shades mingled with Queen Anne's lace.

The African violets were shown in shades of mauves, deep purple, and white and pinks; petunias, single and frilled, in multi colors; calendulas in yellow and deep orange; tiger lilies on tall stems; snapdragons; cosmos; gaillardia; Japanese sunflowers; and coxcombs.

The hanging baskets were nicely assembled as were the window boxes, attractive accents to verandas, and the potted plants as well. Among the latter were seen begonias of many types, Angel wings; left and right begonias; variegated leaf begonias; tuberous, and flowered in shades in pink; rose, and orange-red.

The cacti included the elephant ear; the barrel; the hoary haired; and several other varieties. Geraniums seem to be coming back into their own with their cheery flowers in red, cerise, pink with white centres; ivy geraniums with pink blooms; the velvety gloxinia with its trumpet-like flowers in rose, wine, mauve, red with white tips. Non flowering potted plants included the sansevieria with its mottled leaves, lance-shaped; the rubber plant; and sword ferns.

Flower lovers having green thumbs would enjoy a ramble through this exhibit.



The girls had it at yesterday's big baby show at Belleville fair. Not only did a girl win out as the best baby of the show, but twin girls, Mary and Marilyn Lamorre, 17-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lamorre of Trenton, won the twins class. It was a double win for the Lamorre twins. They won their class last year at the fair at the age of five months.

HISTORIC RELICS

LONDON (AP)—The Duke of Windsor has sold part of his knick-knack collection including a sword given him by Emperor Hirohito of Japan in 1921. Hirohito then was the crown prince and the Duke was the Prince of Wales.

DEVELOPED VACCINE

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Rudolf Weigl, Polish scientist who developed a vaccine against typhus, died Sunday at Zakopane, Poland. Warsaw radio reported Monday night. He was 74.

The baby show is always a big attraction for mothers at the Belleville fair and yesterday's opening day show was no exception. Judged best baby of the show, with an entry of 77 infants, was 11-months' old Lynn Langman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Langman, 130 McDonald Ave., seen here with her proud mother.

Seen Around Fair

The first day at any fair there are usually a few things that make interesting gossip.

Monday was no exception at the Belleville Fair.

LOVE TAP

One-year-old Babst Leader Regal Star (he's a Holstein bull) learned the hard way that it isn't wise to tinker with his elders. Late yesterday afternoon he took a bust at a six-year-old Scotch Shorthorn, Kilburne Clipper Ransom, who returned the tap by splitting the youngster's head. Injury to the younger bull was not really serious but it sure gave him a headache. Both animals are owned by the Quinte District Cattle Breeders' Association.

CUT ARM

On the more serious side, an unidentified man accidentally slashed his forearm and required first-aid by firemen of No. 3 hall on the grounds before they took him to the hospital. A doctor there, however, thought the fireman did an excellent job of first-aid and did not stitch the wound.

STRUCK BY CAR

Late Monday afternoon an unidentified boy darted in front of a car at the main gate to the fair grounds and got a shaking up. A policeman on point duty, however, took care of the lad's ruffled feelings and soon had him feeling chipper again. Witnesses said the motorist did not have a chance to see the boy before the incident.

GREEN DOOR

By the way, there are two mysterious doors in the horse barn at the northeast gate. One reads "men" and the other "ladies". Similar entrances are located in the grandstand.

MORE DISPLAYS

Last night a walk around the fair grounds, with special attention being paid to the exhibits, revealed that two more displays have been set up, one in the grandstand and the other in front of the horticulture building.

In the grandstand is the exhibit of Acme Construction Co., 164 North Front St., showing various uses of perma-stone, while Alumi-lite Window Co. is showing aluminum storm windows, doors, screens and awnings outside the horticulture building.

Quebec 'Panther' Is Timber Wolf

MAGOG, Que. (CP) — The scourge of the "panther" ended Monday when a Toronto tourist shot and killed an animal blamed for killing $1,500 worth of lambs on district farms this year.

The culprit, described by local farmers as a "big panther," turned out to be a 60 - pound timber wolf. John Taylor, Jr., dropped the wolf with shots in the neck and leg from a .303 calibre rifle at 300 yards range.

COSTLY BURDEN

NEW YORK (AP)—It costs the city of New York about $40,000,000 annually to provide food and shelter for 19,000 families on relief rolls because of alcoholic fathers. The welfare department estimated New York has 300,000 alcoholics.

Eight Climbers Listed Missing On Mount Blanc

CHAMONIX, France (Reuters) —Rescue teams today were held up by strong winds and cloudy skies from starting a search for at least eight climbers missing around 15,767-foot Mount Blanc, Europe's highest peak.

The search could be the second large alpine rescue drama in a week, following the rescue Sunday of one of a four-man party trapped on Eiger peak in Switzerland. The other three are presumed dead.

Three groups of climbers have since been reported in trouble in the Mount Blanc area.

One party of three Poles left a hut Sunday to climb the 12,451-foot Aiguille peak adjoining Mount Blac. A violent storm broke. They have not been seen since.

Two young Yugoslavs led by a Polish guide disappeared after leaving Chamonix last Wednesday to climb on Mount Blanc.

Two other unidentified climbers have not been seen since they left Chamonix three days ago to climb the Aiguille du Pru peak.

8,016 WED AT ONCE

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexico's biggest mass wedding was held Sunday for 4,007 couples, many of whom had as many as four children with them. This was the ninth and largest mass wedding sponsored by the Federal Social Security Institute to unite legally couples who had not been able to afford a marriage service.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. Henry Mudd, Trenton, Ontario, announces the engagement of his eldest daughter, Virginia Pearl, to William Charles Irvine, son of Mrs. James Irvine, of Belleville and the late Mr. James Irvine. Marriage to take place August 31, 1957, at 2.30 p. m. at Stirling parsonage.

• • •

Mrs. Ronald Taylor, recent bride, nee Jean Edwards, was presented, previous to her marriage, with two maple end tables by her bridal attendants, at the home of Mrs. A. Wyatt, of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Proven, Montreal, and Mrs. Proven's twin sister, of London, England, were tea guests last evening of Mr. and Mrs. George Garrison, 58 Donald Street.

The Rev. Sister Mary Romana, Reg. N., of Kingston, is a guest of her niece, Miss Anna Mulligan.

Recent guests with Rev. and Mrs. T. F. Townsend, 19 Hillside street, were Flight Sergeant and Mrs. A. Atkinson and sons, Brian and Alfred, of Camp Borden, Mrs. E. Brownscombe and Miss Brownscombe, of Toronto.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wren, McDonald Ave., have returned home after spending a vacation in New York City.

Master Teddy Lumb, of Kingston, is visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Drumm, Cedar street.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip George Bennett are pictured leaving the Church of St. Michael the Archangel following their recent marriage. The bride is the daughter, the former Miss Joan Elizabeth Lloyd, of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil M. Lloyd, Belleville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin T. Bennett, all of Belleville. BENNETT — LLOYD

Weddings

CORE — LINDUP

CAMPBELLFORD — A pretty wedding was solemnized at Havelock United Church, on Saturday, August 10, when Elise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lindup became the bride of John James Core, son of Mrs. and William Holly. The Rev. Harvey Allan officiated. The church was decorated with gladioli.

The wedding music was played by Mr. Garth Ashley. During the signing of the register Miss Nancy Peake sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace and tulle with a fight-fitting bodice having a V-neck, outlined in sequins and seed pearls. The bouffant skirt, fell into a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of illusion net was caught in a Juliet cap of sequins and seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of orchids and roses.

She was attended by Miss Barbara Hazell, Mrs. George Heath and Mrs. A. Hynes.

The best man was Mr. John White, and the ushers were, Messrs. William Lindup, Thomas Fullerton and Austin Hynes.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at Trent River United Church, where the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of blue sheer nylon over taffeta with a hat of white nylon, and corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother also received, wearing a gown of blue lace over taffeta, with a blue picture hat, and corsage of pink roses.

Later, the bride and bridegroom left for a trip to northern Ontario and New York. For travelling, the bride chose a turquoise sheath dress with white lace over taffeta, with a matching summerbund. She wore a white hat, white shoes, glove and purse, and orchid corsage. On their return, the couple will live in Peterborough.

SUBMIT TO ARBITRATION

TORONTO (CP)—The 1957 contract demands of the Toronto Firefighters' Association will be submitted to arbitration, it was reported Friday. The firemen's negotiating committee and board of control were reported unable to agree on the firemen's demand for an increase in their base salary from $78 to $89 a week.

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, was the setting for a recent, pretty double-ring morning wedding when the Reverend Peter Murphy united in marriage Joan Elizabeth Lloyd, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil M. Lloyd, to Philip George Bennett, of Point Anne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin T. Bennett. Mauve iris and white mums adorned the sanctuary. Dennis Lloyd brother of the bride, and John Lupenette, cousin of the bride were ecolytes.

Mr. Robert Burke, soloist, sang "Ave Maria", "Panis Angelicus", "On This Day", and "Jesus, Jesus Come to Me", accompanied by Rev. Sister Wilhelmina at the organ console.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Cecil M. Lloyd, the bride was radiant in a bridal gown of imported French lace over taffeta, styled with fitted bodice, having a scalloped, Sweetheart neckline and short sleeves. The floor-length skirt was accented by a tiered back flounce, flowing into a chapel train. She wore a seed pearl and sequin-embedded lace mantilla of ecc-length veil, and carried a sheaf of red sweetheart roses mingled with white amphotricis. Long V-pointed mitts completed her ensemble.

Miss Theresa Anton, was maid of honor, and Miss Aileen Core and Miss Margaret Whelan were bridesmaids, all gowned alike in Swiss organdy, in bouffant, ballerina-length, fashioned on princess lines with molded bodices and cap sleeves. The bodices were criss-crossed with two rows of "On This Day" and colors of mauve, yellow, and aqua, respectively. They wore matching picture hats and shoes and carried tinted 'mums matching the colors of their gowns, centred by white feathered 'mums.

Mr. Bruce Varcoe, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. James Fee, of Toronto, and Mr. Harvey Stollker, of Belleville R. R. No. 6, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, the bridegroom's parents, the Knights of Columbus hall where dancing was enjoyed till 4:00 a.m. The bride's table was most attractive with its white damask cloth and three-tier wedding cake flanked by tulips and sweetpeas, and topped by lilies-of-the-valley and sweetpeas.

The bride's mother received, wearing tan linen fashioned on princess lines accented by a light and dark striped bodice and tiny, tan jacket with matching striped lining, straw shoes in tan, with yellow hat and tan gloves, and yellow rose corsage tinted with sweetpeas. The bridegroom's mother, assisted, attired in a silver embroidered sheer lace over taffeta with mauve hat and gloves, black purse and shoes, and corsage of yellow roses, white 'mums and sweetpeas.

For travelling to Vancouver, via Banff and Lake Louise, the bride chose a tan linen, three-piece ensemble with dark brown velvet trim and striped duster with dark brown velvet Peter-Pan collar, tan hat and shoes, brown accessories and gloves and corsage of yellow roses and silly-of-the-valley. Mr. and Mrs. Bennett will reside in Vancouver, B.C. at 1215 Comox St.

The bride was honored at previous to her marriage, by a shower given by the maid of honour, Miss Aileen Core, and Miss Margaret Whelan, co-bridesmaids, all gowned alike in Swiss organdy, in bouffant, ballerina-length, fashioned on princess lines with molded bodices and cap sleeves. The bodices were criss-crossed with two rows of "On This Day" and colors of mauve, yellow, and aqua, respectively. They wore matching picture hats and shoes and carried tinted 'mums matching the colors of their gowns, centred by white feathered 'mums.

Mr. Bruce Varcoe, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. James Fee, of Toronto, and Mr. Harvey Stollker, of Belleville R. R. No. 6, were ushers.

Toronto Has Three Women Taxi Drivers

TORONTO (CP)—If you climb into a taxi in front of a Toronto hotel these days you can forget all those tales about women drivers.

Toronto licensed three women taxi drivers this summer, and all are considered "safe drivers."

Customers can relax and enjoy the ride.

Margaret Smith, 37, the first to receive her licence, also one of the first Negro women drivers.

"About half my fares have been women, and they are all in favor of the idea of having women cab drivers," she said. "I think the time will come when all the cabs will be driven by women during the daytime."

The two other women cabbies here are Christina Kormish and Julie Alperin—like Margaret, experts at the wheel.

English Girl And Sarnia Boy Courted by Mail

SARNIA, Ont. (CP)—A Sarnia boy and an English girl who began a courtship by mail between Canada and England are to be married here soon.

Margaret Slater, 17, of Ripley in Derbyshire and Jack Willis, 19, of Sarnia, started their correspondence in September, 1953, when Jack asked for her visiting aunt, Mrs. James O'Dell of Sarnia, to be his pal for her. Mrs. O'Dell suggested Jack, and the two young people took over from there.

"It was almost a year after our first letters until Jack sent me his picture," said Margaret.

"Margaret's aunt brought me a lovely picture of her when she visited England and I could tell she was a nice girl," said Jack.

Jack proposed in March last year, and Margaret was "sure enough" she said.

Margaret arrived here some months ago and Jack, of course was on hand to greet her. "He was just as I pictured him," said Margaret said.

Since Margaret's arrival, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Slater, also have come to Canada with her two sisters and a brother. Jack is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morley Willis.

Society Hostess Admits Story Was 'A Gag'

NEW YORK (AP)—A society hostess said Monday night that as a "gag" she told a newspaper that lieutenant-president Dave Beck and his son attended a party for Senator Kefauver given by Robert F. Kennedy.

"I'm sorry for any inconvenience I have caused," Mrs. George Skakel, Jr., told the New York Herald Tribune. Her husband is Mrs. Kennedy's brother.

Mrs. Kennedy is the wife of the chief counsel of the Senate rackets investigating committee which has been looking into the affairs of both Dave Becks.

Several hundred persons attended the party at the Greenwich, Conn., home of the Skakels.

EFFECTIVE MEASURES

PALEMBANG, Indonesia (AP)—Major Hiyam Anwar, military commander of this south Sumatra capital, ordered troops to arrested all auto drivers without licences. One of the first to be caught and fined was Major Riyacudu.

Lynne Langman Best Baby Among Seventy-Five Entrants

Through smiles to tears; through indignities by wilful, uniformed nurses to mothers' loving attentions, little darlings expressed their individual sentiments in no mistaken terms, yesterday afternoon at the annual baby show held in the bowling house at the exhibition grounds on the first day of Belleville fair.

The judges were proved the wisdom of those who had chosen 13 instead of the usual ten accommodations which were originally required there. Mrs. Barbers Davis, Miss Shirley Fetherick, Miss Donna Plumpton and Miss Louise Grey, who checked personal appearance, weights, height, throat and bodily conditions, after which the little ones were returned to the mothers, had a little difficulty. It was amazing to see how quickly the cries came to an end as soon as the mothers' arms once more encircled their little ones. One wee one, whose heart-rending cries split the atmosphere, stopped immediately she was placed playing with the knob on the cupboard beside which mother was re-robing her.

THREE CLASSES

There were three classes: boys and girls from one to six months; boys and girls from seven to 12 months, and boys and girls from 12 to 18 months. In the first class there were 17 boys and 18 girls; in the second class, 13 boys and 14 girls; and in the third class, eight boys and five girls.

The winners in the 1 to 6 months were: Girls: Laura Ann Neilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Neilson, 96 George St., city; Catharine Beaul, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Beaul, 191½ Albert St., city; Laurie Stickler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Stickler, Belleville R.R. 8.

Boys: Master Joseph Schrieder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schrieder, 190 Bleecker Ave., Belleville; William James Slater, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Slater, 3 Bayview Ave., city; Lloyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. McLaughlin, of Tweed.

Girls, 7 to 12 months: Lynne Langman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Langman, 206 McMullan Ave., city; Deborah Lynn Ripley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Ripley, 285 Dufferin Ave., city; Laurette Fairborn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fairborn, 6 2rd St., city.

Boys, 7 to 12 months: Jeoffrey Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bell, 27 Turnbull Street, city; Timothy Murray Skinkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Skinkle, R.R. 2, Belleville; Paul Meagher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Meagher, 94 North Park St., city.

12-18 MONTHS

Girls, 12 to 18 months: Janice Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Peterson, Belleville R.R. 2; Bonnie Vance, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Vance, Belleville R.R. 2; Rose Marie Boyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jones, 85 Southview, city.

Boys, 13 to 18 months: Donald Edward Thorn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thorn, 6 Hastings Dr., city; Danny McGuire, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McGuire, 19 East Moira St., city, and John Barton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Boyce, 17 Cherry Gardens, city.

There was one set of twins, two little girls, 17 months and six days, fair haired daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Langman, 206 McLellan Ave., Trenton.

The best baby in the show was Lynne Langman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Langman, 206 McDonald Ave., city.

The directors, Mrs. Harry Rollins, Mrs. Eric Denyes and Mr. Lorne Sinclair, of A.P.P., were most commendable in carrying out their duties of entertaining and seeing that no little entrant was overlooked for the lenient prize of one dollar obtain.

All in all, one of the best baby shows yet.

HEADED MOVING FIRM

NEW YORK (AP) — Louis Schramm, Jr., 55, a national leader in the moving and storage business, died here Saturday. Schramm was president of Allied Van Lines, which has 400 members throughout North America.

Club for Models Opened In London by Australian

LONDON (CP) — A models' rendezvous serving as an agency, beauty salon and club has been opened in London by British journalist Elizabeth Kenny.

Miss Kenny says an Australian friend once posed the question: "Why isn't there a club where models of all nationalities can get to know each other?"

The idea ventured in her mind until she found herself looking at premises. When she found a suitable accommodation near Marble Arch, she went ahead and opened the Mannequin Centre.

At present 50 girls from near and far have become members and a further 500 inquiries have poured in since the centre opened at the beginning of June.

Services rendered include monthly newsletter in black type on lavender notepaper, a fortnightly get-together at which fashion beauty, loan of accessories and general tips.

The news letter contains information about modelling work and personalities, and Miss Kenny, constantly in touch with the theatrical and fashion world, talks, in Night Crossing.

Brunette Pays Own Way to Enter Meet

CONNAUGHT RANGES, Ont. (CP)—A beautiful brunette from Belleville, Ont., has paid her own way to this summer's national rifle association meet at Bisley, England, says she hopes to get a free trip there next year, as a member of the official Canadian team.

Shapely Yvonne — eyed, Yvonne Cousins, 26, is competing with the cream of Canada's service riflemen for one of the 18 team berths awarded to highest aggregate scorers in various matches at the week-long Dominion of Canada Rifle Association meet.

Yvonne, an eye-catching eight dark glasses and tailored sports clothes, at these ranges 11 miles west of Ottawa, attributes her ability with the heavy .303-calibre service rifle largely to her parents.

LET HER CHOOSE

"They never pushed me into anything," she said. "They let me choose my own sports."

The formula worked. Yvonne is adept at bowling, badminton and tennis. She teaches figure skating and figure judo and considers about the only sports I've mastered.

Her father, Walter Cousins, a personnel DCRA participant, was unable to attend this year because he broke his foot in an accident.

Yvonne's full-time job is collection manager for a finance company. But in her way to Bisley she worked as a part-time fashion model and television commentator.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TODAY'S HINT . . . ABOUT EATING ICE CREAM

Ice cream days are here aplenty . . . and when you eat ice cream do take only a mouthful at the time you eat one. Even though the ice cream looks devastatingly alluring to you, don't take a huge heaping spoonful of ice cream and lick it off a little at a time, unattractively drawing the spoon in and out of your mouth as the "mound" descends. You're grown up now . . . remember!

NAME DEFINITE HOUR FOR GUESTS' ARRIVAL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We're being married at 11 o'clock in the morning, with only the members of the immediate families and our attendants present at the ceremony and at the breakfast following. The reception will be in the evening, for our relatives and friends, and we are planning to serve the Wedding Cake and simple refreshments buffet style. Our problem is about this is the time element, for we are scheduled to take a plane which departs in the evening, and we're wondering how to get all the guests here before we leave, so no "stragglers" to wander in late. That is, we want all guests to be greeted by the receiving-line, when we cut the Wedding Cake, be there when we depart. Then, if they wish, they may stay to dance after we have left. Please advise me about these plans. — Sallie M.

Today's very wise and practical idea would be the perfect help for you: name a definite hour for the guests to arrive. That is 8 o'clock or 9 o'clock. Instead of 8 to 10 or 9 to 11, or whatever group of hours you had in mind. Choose the definite hour that will give ample time for the receiving of guests, time for eating the wedding cake, then featuring your "first dance on our wedding trip!" Your mother and father, the hosts, and other members of your family are your first attendants could tell the guests that the dancing will continue after you and the bridegroom have departed.

SERVING VACATION CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When my husband and I send picture postcards from the places we will be visiting while on our vacation, how should they be signed — Edna and Bill or Bill and Edna? — Readers

The Rule of Courtesy is that the one signing the cards should politely sign her or his name last. That is, when Edna signs, Bill signs Bill and Edna. When Bill signs, he signs Edna and Bill.

OF MICE—AND MEN?

LONDON (Reuters) — If bald men react like mice, there's more hope for their heads. An American biologist, Friday told a conference on hair growth that radiation can start hair growing—on mice and rabbits, Herman B. Chase said his experiments showed a local dose of 1,500 roentgen is ideal for producing new hair growth in mice and rabits.

Pretty soon the young ladies of the family will be shopping for their back to school clothes so we thought that both mother and daughter would be interested in these smart frocks.

The dresses come in sizes for big and little sister and are made of black and white cotton tweed. They are full skirted with a high, rising bodice thrt is bowed and piped in red. A white collar and buttons add a sparkling touch.

Ready for Hungry Drop-ins

By Mary Moore

If you are smart and try this idea you will bless me. Do it! I won't you! I loved to be blessed.

Besides I am feeling sort of useless for Marianne and Gary have gone home, Pete and Danny are painting out of town. The house never gets out of order and the refrigerator stays full of food and I'm caught up with answers to readers. I don't like it but by the 27th they all come back plus Herbie so this calm before the full scale occupation is really a breather for me.

If you have a crowd coming for a weekend or a week and have time and the mind for being organized, make up a lengthwise sliced sandwich loaf. Use it for cutting from for quick snack meals as that is what I do to come Labor Day weekend, just because it is a sandwich doesn't mean it is not nourishing. If you serve some husky slices from this loaf with soup or tall milk shakes, there will be plenty of delicious calories to fill everyone.

SANDWICH LOAF

Slice an uncut loaf of bread, preferably a whole wheat sandwich loaf, into 4 lengthwise slices. Remove crusts (and stuff with chicken or rolled veal shoulder with them). Spread the top of each slice with soft butter and stiff mayonnaise. Then spread the buttered slice with filling: 1. Yellow: Mashed yolks of 4 hard-cooked eggs, ½ cup mayonnaise. 1 teaspoon each grated onion and mustard. Mix well. On the next slice put Filling 2. Green: Finely chopped or ground whites of 4 hard-cooked eggs, ½ cup each finely chopped parsley and chives or chopped green onions, ¼ cup mayonnaise or sufficient to make of spreading consistency.

Dinner Menus

TUESDAY

Super Oven Burgers (see Monday); Spinach; Corn on the Cob; Green Applesauce with Cinnamon Toast; Hot Tea.

On the next slice spread Filling 3. Red: 1 cup boiled ham ground or back bacon ground, 1 finely chopped canned pimento and ½ to ½ cup mayonnaise colored with 1 teaspoon paprika. Put on the top slice, unbuttered side up. Press it down by standing a platter on it with the iron on that while you make the

CHEESE FROSTING

Soften with cream one ½ lb. package of cream cheese until the consistency of thick spreading icing. Ice the top and sides of the loaf as you would a cake and then let your imagination run riot with decorating the top. Use sliced stuffed olives, sliced thin, toasted almonds or take the large outer stalks of celery and cutting from the top end of the stalk cut thin slices crosswise. These look like flower petals or and also make a very lonely design. Chill the loaf to set the frosting and then wrap securely in wax paper and store in refrigerator till needed.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOUR SECRECY IS A BIG MISTAKE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm 18 years old and married. No one knows this but my girl friend and my husband's friend, both of whom stood up for us.

I have a sick mother and can't get out of the house until 8:30 each evening, and before my husband picks me up, he picks up my girl friend. When I get in the car they tell me of the good times they've been having. They keep teasing me about it and it's very annoying.

I don't know whether to believe them or not, because the same thing happened to my sister. Come to find out, her husband was out with her best girl friend.

What shall I do about this?

Dear S.L.:

First let me say that you made a great mistake in keeping secret by. That sort of thing never works out. Instead, it opens the way for all kind of trouble.

For one thing, what are you going to do if you should become pregnant? Will that be the time you'll choose to inform your fine girl friends that you're a married woman? And, if so, how do you think they're going to take it? How would such a shock affect this sick mother of yours? I wonder if it cause hurt feelings, quarrels, emotional scenes and possibly a distinct rift between you and your parents for them to bear that their daughter had taken on the biggest gamble in her life in secrecy?

My advice to you is to be considerate enough now, even though you weren't before you married, to tell your parents, at least, the truth. Results are obviously not going to be happy, I'm afraid, but they will be less bitter now than later on when some particular set of circumstances forces you to reveal what you have done.

In regard to your husband and your girl friend you had better do your best to take what they say with good humor and without letting it get a rise out of you. Since they take such a cruel joke these alleged good times, it's hardly likely anything is going on between them for if there were, they would almost certainly keep still about it. I would say, however, that this is an added reason to let news of your marriage become known. For as long as it's secret, you're not in any position to assert your rights as a wife. If these two really did want to fool around, the secrecy would make it just that much easier for them, since they'd feel protected by the knowledge that there is nothing much you could do about it without giving yourself away as the wronged man's wife.

Under any circumstances, however, I believe you'll be wise not to let them know their antics irritate you or hurt you. That will be more interested in each other than you like.

BETTER BE HONEST AND TELL HIM

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

What would you do if you told a boy friend's wife you'd be out with him any more and went out with another boy for a month and then realized you really liked the first boy and wanted to go back with him, but didn't want him to think you're going after him?

— Cookie

Dear Cookie:

It seems to me that, in such a case, and if you had known this boy really very well, the smart thing would be to be honest and tell him you're sorry you broke off with him. If you're too shy to do this in person, write him a little note and say it.

You don't have to say you hope you can go out with him again. Just leave that up to him. If he wants to pick up with you where you left off, he'll definitely let you know. And if he doesn't let you know, you'll have to accept the results of what you did and let the experience teach you to be more careful in future.

Even though it's hard to admit you made the mistake, I think, since you apparently were the one to do the breaking-off, you owe it to the boy to say you're sorry. Anyhow, I'd say it's your only chance of getting what you want.

Knit Style In the Swim

By VERA WINSTON

Swimsuits are nicer than ever, fanciful as well as functional. Here is one of the pretty new elasticized-knit bathing suits. The color's bright navy, set off by white. The white is used for a band across the neckline and for shoulder straps. The bodice has a built-in bra and is vertically tucked. Seaming down either side of the front makes for perfect fit, while buttoned tabs give the effect of a belt.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI-VIVE

TRY ON NEW HAIR STYLES WITH SUDS — IT'S FUN!

Like to try an off-the-face hairdo? Experiment with soapsuds first.

As each season nears its close, practically every woman you know begins to develop a definitive gleam in her eye — a gleam that is particularly noticeable every time she passes a shop window or looks into a mirror. She's been taken with that well-known feminine urge to make herself over!

If, now that summer's nearly over, you're being drawn by the same irresistible urge, here's a simple and relatively inexpensive solution: Pick yourself a new hairdo. It's the surest way of feeling excitingly "different," and far easier on the budget than a closet full of new clothes.

But it is necessary to pick a style that's becoming. And here's a way you can "try on" different hair-dos as simply as you try on dresses. Give yourself a super-sudsy shampoo. When you've wet your hair thoroughly and worked up a thick lather all over your head, your hair will hold the shape in any style you like. You can experiment to your heart's delight with the Tall Lady Look or the even newer return to the hair style of the Thirties!

Try a bouffant page boy to add width to your face, or demure curls over the ears for the smooth coiffure that goes so well with late summer and early fall casuals. Maybe you've always secretly yearned to be a mischievous snapper. Twist your sudsy locks into a series of lacy curls all over the head. You prefer sophisticated? Draw your hair straight back from the face into a high-riding Grace Kelly bun. With the new clothes and side-swept hats, siren swirl waves are coming back in fashion. Try combining your suds-stiffened locks into shallow waves that draw the eye subtly to your best features.

Although this is all done in the spirit of fun, it's serious too. You can manipulate your hair to frame your face in any number of ways. Inevitably you'll hit on a style that seems to fit you, the real you, more than any other. Then it's time to finish your shampoo, after which you straighten up for extra cleanliness, rinse your shining locks till they squeak, and his yourself off to the hairdresser to have a professional job of cutting and shaping to carry out your new coiffure.

It's a wonderful feeling to know you'll look good in a style before the scissors start clicking. You can then watch the shearing operation with complacence. You've looked before you leaped!

Detailed Dress

By GRACE THORNCLIFF

Jersey in many weaves and yarns will be extremely popular again come fall, appearing in in dresses, separates, suits and coats, and in prints and solids. Jersey in medium gray is used for the sort of daytime dress that we'll be out for come the end of summer. Interesting tailoring shows in the buttoned front band that terminates short of the inverted box pleat centre front. High placed pockets, a self belt with a brass buckle and brass buttons are part of the plot, and for an added distinctive note there are pleated sleeves.

She will soon leave for a tour of Canada and the United States with the Polish satirical theatre "Wagabunda."

Will Establish Goose Colony In Far North

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has established its first bird sanctuary in the far north, Resources Minister Harkness announced on Monday.

The 3,150-square-mile preserve is located on the southwest side of Baffin Island, in an area rated as the most important summer goose colony in the world.

It is the heart of the breeding grounds of the Blue Goose and Snow Goose, and the American Brant and Hutchin's Goose also breed in the same area.

INCLUDES GAME PRESERVE

The sanctuary, between Bowman Bay and the Kouldjak River includes the 300-square-mile Bowman Bay game preserve. It is about 800 miles northeast of Churchill, Man., its northern fringe just pushing past the Arctic Circle.

"Establishment of the sanctuary is an important development in the protection of migratory birds in Canada," Mr. Harkness said in a statement.

The preserve is being named after Dewey Soper, a former biologist with the Canadian wildlife service, who discovered the nesting grounds of the Blue Goose. Mr. Soper now lives in retirement in Edmonton.

Within the new sanctuary, hunting of birds will be prohibited but exploration and development of mineral resources may be allowed under permit.

Rackets Probe At Last Gets Voluble Witness

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rackets investigating committee called Anthony Doria back for more questioning today about his handling of union funds following his denials Monday that he used such funds for his personal projects.

Doria is the former secretary-treasurer of the Allied Industrial Workers, formerly known as the AFL United Auto Workers.

The committee heard testimony Monday that money he received by cashier's cheque for one of the local union's bonds turned up as an investment in a business in which Doria was interested. He contended that it was all part of an elaborate cheque-cashing scheme.

He insisted that the union lost nothing, and that he never used union money for his personal benefit.

NOT SATISFIED

The committee called his explanations unsatisfactory, and subpoenaed all his personal financial records. It asked those he had with him to provide a basis for further questioning.

Doria, a 238-pound fast-talking friend of New York racketeer Johnny Dio, provided a sharp contrast to Dio and some other witnesses the committee has heard. They said little, pleading protection against self - incrimination under the fifth amendment to the United States constitution.

Doria talked volubly, both about himself and about Dio, whom he pictured as the victim of a "cruel society." Dio, Doria said, wanted to go straight. But because of a previous criminal record he had been forced out of the labor movement.

Unknown Detroit Teen-Ager Knocks off Canadian Stars

By JACK VAN DUREN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—An unheralded teen-ager from Detroit stole the spotlight at the Canadian junior tennis championships Monday, knocking a couple of top-seeded Canadians from two title hints.

Fred Drilling, 14, an unseeded player, swept through tough matches in the junior men's and boys' singles in the official first day of the week-long open tournament.

Singles and doubles matches will be run off today in eliminations for 32 Canadian titles at the Rideau Lawn Tennis Club.

Montrealers Don McDougall and Derek Penner knocked out a seeded United States team in the junior men's doubles Monday as U.S. and Bermuda players began competing for the Canadian crowns.

Drilling eliminated second-seeded Don McKuah of Winnipeg from the junior men's singles 6-3, 6-1 in the first round and then beat John Zichmanis of Toronto, 6-2, 6-1 in the second.

He also trimmed third-ranked Canadian Bill Reedon of Halifax 3, 6-0 in the second round of the boys' singles.

Penner and McDougall ousted brothers Pat and Sam Dugan of Amherburg, N.Y., second in the foreign seedings, in the doubles 6-2, 6-4.

Top Canadians in the junior men's singles—Yvon Leblanc, of Montreal, winner of the second men's crown, and John Bassett of Toronto—won their matches.

Leblanc defeated Vincent Conneves of Cornwall 6-1, 6-0 to enter the third round. Bassett eliminated David Woodworth of Halifax 6-1, 6-2.

Petlie Virginia Hesse, 15, of Hamtramck, Mich., who took some six titles from the Canadian tourney last year, ousted Margot Lukk of Sarnia 6-0, 6-4 from the junior women's singles.

Minor Baseball

Parkdale ousted the Rotary Club from the peewee city playoffs last night with a 12-2 victory to take their two-of-three affair in consecutive games. The game was called because of darkness after 4½ innings.

The winners plated six runs in the second and three in each of the first and third. Rotary netted both of their runs in the fifth, too late and too little.

B. McBride pitched for the winners, allowing five hits. Boyle and Glancey worked for Rotary, Boyle allowing all the runs on ten hits.

L. Casselman had a triple and single for Parkdale with B. Mullin and McBride each singling. D. Rose doubled with M. Mullin, T. Locke and L. Casselman also hitting safely.

Chisholm collected two of the loser's base hits.

Army, Air Force Marksmen Win Queen's Medals

By ROY LABERGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CONNAUGHT RANGES, Ont. (CP)—Almost all the 680 competitors at the hundred of Canada prize meet were slated to shoot today in the Connaught and Bankers matches.

Both count towards the Bisley aggregate—total points in various matches at the week-long annual meet on which membership on the 18-man 1958 Bisley team is based.

Army and air force Queen's medalists were decided Monday in the Queen's Medal match.

Army winner is Lieut. Alan S. Derrick, 27, formerly of Kingston and now at the Royal Canadian School of Military Engineering at Vedder Crossing, B.C. Lieut. Derrick, in only his third year of large-bore shooting and his second DCRA meet, notched 179 of a possible 200 points in the tough match.

The Queen's Medal for top air force rifleman in the match was won by FLAC D. A. Green, 22, of St. Hubert, Que.

Col. R. H. McKay of the Royal Canadian Postal Corps, Dartmouth, N.S., won the Borden match, beating the WO2 F. N. Haire of Army Headquarters, Ottawa, and Sgt. J. E. Hardy of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers, Kingston, a dusk shootoff later all three had shot 47 of a possible 50.

A Royal Canadian School of Infantry team from Camp Borden, Ont., won the Gen. Sir Arthur Currie Trophy for the top team in the Queen's match.

An Ontario Rifle Association team won the Steinhardt Trophy for best six-man provincial team in the Tyro match, scoring 286 of a possible 300.

Timbermen Trim St. Kitts 15-6

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — St. Catharines Athletics took a 15-6 beating from Peterborough Timbermen here Monday night. The win gave Timbermen the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior A crown for the seventh straight year. The Timbermen now meet third-place Hamilton and Long Branch plays the fourth-place Athletics in the playoffs.

Timbermen, using four junior players, led 4-2 after the first period and 10-4 at the end of the second.

Rock Bailey topped the Peterborough scorers with four goals. The leading OLA scorer, Bobby Allan, got three, Terry Davis and Jim Nimeff two each and Jim Heffernan, Steve Morrissey, Ike Hildebrand and Geordy Hunt one each. For St. Catharines, Ronnie Roy scored three times, Ted Howe twice and Joe McNulty once.

READY FOR OPENER

OTTAWA (CP) — Hal Ledyard of the Ottawa Rough Riders' top quarterback, will be well enough to play against Hamilton Tiger-Cats here Aug. 30 in the club's first Big Four football game of the season.

Dr. W. H. Caven said Monday night that Ledyard suffered only a bruised chest in an exhibition game Saturday night against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Earlier reports said that Ledyard suffered a torn rib cartilage and that he might be out of action for several weeks.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP) — Worthy Melody, a brown gelding owned by Jeanne Lemoyne of Montreal and driven by Jim Wemer, won the featured $2,000 pace Monday night at Richelieu Park.

The seven-year-old pacer paid $14.30, $7 and $3.80.

Two Ontario horses raced to a dead heat in the mile trot. They were Tim's Lad from Cold Springs and Eddie Mac Jr., driven by Schomberg, Tim's Lad, driven by Jack Gordon, paid $6.60, $5.80 and $7.20. Eddie Mac Jr., driven by Bob Givens, paid $3.80, $3.40 and $2.60.

CONNAUGHT PARK, Que. (CP)—Jim Baskin, Progressive Conservative member of the Commons for Renfrew South, put on a winning show for Prime Minister Diefenbaker here Monday night at the Connaught Park trotting races.

Mr. Baskin, driving Mr. Bobby Henley, captured the Parliamentary Pace after staving off a vigorous challenge by Eric Conley with Malcolm Volo. Mr. Bobby Henley paid $4, $3.40 and $3.10.

Mr. Diefenbaker watched six of the nine races on the card. However, he failed to place a wager.

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Cup Pace, Ontario's richest harness horse race, is expected to attract a field of 12 Saturday at Old Woodbine Raceway.

A purse of close to $10,000 will be available to owners of top pacers from Quebec, upstate New York and many sections of this province when the final declaration of entries is made Friday.

Early favorite for this blue-ribbon event of the Ontario harness racing season is Howard Roscorgil, a four-year-old chestnut owned and driven by Buddy Gilmour of Ridgeway, Ont.

Others expected to take part, and their owners, are: Hal O'Malic, Mrs. James Kennedy of Hamburg; Maynard Hanover owned by T. J. Zerrow, Pittsburgh; Ivy L. Captain Wright, Elgin Armstrong Lady's Lad, Bill Harvey Sharon's Cannie, Dudley Lumley; Clark Herbert and Richard Hal J. Wern Evans; and Ezra Deen, J. C. Cameron.

Sanford Top National Rookie But Who's Who in American?

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Sanford, ace of the Philadelphia Phillies pitching staff, appears to have a stranglehold on the National League rookie-of-the-year award.

But the voting for American League honors is liable to wind up in a state of confusion.

The player involved is Frank Malone, Boston Red Sox third baseman. And the big question is: Is he or is he not a rookie?

The facts are these:

1. Malone played in 27 games last season. He batted 103 times and had a .185 average.

2. No one seems to know what constitutes a rookie.

3. No regulation is likely to be put on the books this year.

FINE SEASON

The president of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, Dan Daniel of the New York World-Telegram and Sun, believes that Malone, who is having a fine season, is not a first year player.

"In my opinion Sanford and Tony Kubek of the Yankees should win," he said.

Daniel added that although he selects the writers who will participate in the post-season balloting (there are three from each major league city), he will not attempt to influence any of them.

In 90 games this season, Malone has put together a .305 batting average. He has hit eight home runs and batted in 46 runs.

Kubek also shows a .305 batting mark but he's had only two homers and 23 RBIs.

Sanford, who pitched in three games in 1956, has won 15 games and lost only four. He leads his circuit in strikeouts with 161 and has an earned run average of 2.92.

SAVITT BEATS SEIKAS

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—Dick Savitt defeated Vic Seixas 6-4, 6-4, 6-4, in Monday night's win in the Eastern grass court tennis championship.

Mary Ann Mitchell of San Leandro, Calif., beat Jeanne Arth of St. Paul, Minn., 7-5, 6-3 for the women's title.

Latta Defeats Cannifton 9-3 For Second Win

Latta took a commanding two-game lead in their four-of-seven South Hastings baseball league final series last night by dumping the Cannifton Clippers 9-3 on the loser's home diamond. The third game of the set is slated for Latta diamond Wednesday evening at 6:30 p.m.

The winners went in front in the initial frame last night with three and built a 7-0 margin before Cannifton scored a pair in the fourth. Latta bagged another pair in the seventh and final inning while the homers got one.

Stan Reid fired seven-hit ball before hurling the route for Latta. He walked only two while setting six down on strikes. Reid helped his own cause with the plate with a single.

Ken Gaylord for Cannifton, relieved by Gord Oliver in the second. They allowed nine hits between them. Cole fanned one, walked two while Oliver struck out three and yielded an error.

Gary Gowe sparked the Latta attack with a double and two singles while Ray poled a brace of base hits. The other safeties were divided among Sullivan, Steward, Rea and Reid.

Harvey Stoliker spearheaded the Cannifton stickers with three singles while one each went to Sheffield, Moore, Forsythe and Walker.

A minute's silence was observed before the game for Don Jarrell of Cannifton who was killed in a car accident last Saturday morning.

The teams—

Latta: Parks, W. Gowe, G. Gowe, Sullivan, Glass, Steward, Ray, Meeks, Reid.

Cannifton: Baker, Petrie, Stoliker, Sheffield, Oliver, Forsythe, Walker, Cole, Harper.

Latta	312	100	3	—9	9	2
Cannifton	000	200	1	—3	7	4

Batteries: Reid and Glass; Cole, Oliver (2) and Baker.

Eskimos Good As Last Year Says Coach

EDMONTON (CP) — Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy of the Grey Cup champion Edmonton Eskimos says his club "should be as strong as it was last year."

But, he told a Kiwanis Club meeting Monday night, "the strength of your team in relation to the previous year's club—no matter how strong it may have been—doesn't always decide how many games you are going to win."

Ivy said "your showing depends on how strong the opposition is." He said Calgary is much stronger this year. Winnipeg has come up with another good club and Saskatchewan Roughriders "always give us trouble."

"Since we have roughly comparable personnel as last year, that means we will just have to get down and play better. Unless we can be a more efficient-operating team than in 1956, we can't win again."

Tennis Families Running Out; Brazilian Couple Still 'In'

By GEORGE FRAJKOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Tennis may run in families but the Canadian tennis championships are rapidly running out of families.

After two singles rounds only one family—that of Brasil's Armando Vieira—is still intact. Vieira's wife, the former Anne Baggs of Denmark and Toronto, won her only scheduled match of the day Monday when Louise Morrissette defaulted.

Vieira, second - seeded foreign entry in the week-long tournament, scored a 6-1, 6-1 win over Claude Gelinas in the second round after helping break up the Senn family of Toronto with a 6-0, 6-1 first round win over Stan Senn.

Stan's wife Bonita, meanwhile, easily beat Mrs. I. Dinkla of Montreal 6-0, 6-0.

BEDARD WINS

Bob Bedard, 25-year-old Davis Cup ace and first-ranked Canadian player, won two matches, defeating Doug Robertson of Montreal 6-0, 6-0 and Vic Erdmann of Vancouver 6-1, 6-3.

His wife, the former Anne Stacey of Halifax, was seeded fifth among Canadian women but wound up on the sidelines when upset 6-0, 6-4 by blonde Singer Boeck, Norway's most recent gift to Montreal.

Toronto's Don Platt was the only seeded player to be eliminated from the men's singles. The seventh-rated Canadian fell 6-2, 1-6, 7-5 before Montreal's unseeded Richard Munn in the second round.

In a first - round women's singles match I. Weber of Kitchener whipped H. Gervais of Montreal 6-0, 6-1.

IBBOTSON LOSES

TURKU, Finland (Reuters)—Derek Ibbotson of Britain, the world's fastest miler, suffered one of his rare mile defeats when beaten by Olavi Salsola of Finland here Monday night. Salsola clocked 4:00.2, while Ibbotson was second in 4:00.4.

As Goes The Yanks, So Go The Chisox; National Leaders Circle All

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

POTENTIAL STAR

Belleville's gift to Canadian professional football, Gary Schrieder, gives every indication of being headed for a stellar season, barring injuries.

Playing his second season with the Ottawa Rough Riders, Gary is shaping up as one of the club's most promising Canadian prospects. He flashed the form that marked him as one of the most brilliant halfbacks in intercollegiate gridiron circles, in an exhibition game with the Saskatchewan Rough Riders the other day. Gary went over for a touchdown and kicked two converts in the Ottawa victory.

Gary's dad, Ed, well-known in athletic circles in this city before moving to Toronto, stopped over the other day to visit brother Tommy, now a gendarme with the Canada Cement Company's Point Anne plant.

"Gary is in excellent physical condition," Ed told this department over the telephone. "He has been given fine coaching and is fitting well into the player scheme of things with the Riders' club."

The Ottawa sports writers paid fine tribute to Gary in his 1937 debut as a Rough Rider fullback. "The first Ottawa march ate up 61 yards in small bites," wrote one." They made eleven plays in all and fullback Gary Schrieder was the power of that march.

"The Riders made 214 yards . . . and Gary Schrieder was the workhorse there with 57 yards gained in 14 carries and he is blossoming out as a bashing fullback who gets into the hole fast."

"Gary Schrieder, a fast, tough ball carrier, is fitting in well at full behind," wrote another.

Frank Clair, the Riders' coach, apparently saw the potential in Schrieder when he scouted him at Queen's. He took the young star in hand and played him carefully last season, using him mainly as a defensive halfback. Gary's workmanlike blocks impressed Clair and later in the season he was used more often.

Training this year, has opened Gary's potential and his play in training and exhibition games to date augurs well for the future.

He taught at St. Michael's College, Toronto, last winter but likely will settle down in Ottawa. This may draw the wrath of the young fellow to this department but he has been tackled and brought down heavily by Dan Cupid. She is an attractive Ottawa miss, and that closing you hear in the not too distant future could be Ottawa wedding bells.

Vic (The Little Corporal) Bagnato, be of it Seagram boxing impresario and a guy with a long memory has organized a reunion of ex-personnel at the Mountain View Air Station, wartime bivkes, that is. Vic writes to the effect that the get-together will be held in Belleville on September 21 and 22 and wants all the flyboys and gals of that era to be on hand for the reminiscences and celebration.

An outstanding program has been planned, including a banquet, dance and general chinfest.

Vic would like to hear from all ex-personnel interested in attending the reunion. You can get in touch with him at Box 538 Adelaide St. P.O., Toronto.

WRESTLING

Likeable Timmy Geohagen, the powerful Irishman, beloved by the Belleville faithful, will make his first appearance for some time here on Friday night. Timmy will team up with the Mighty Ursus in an effort to stop the Miller Brothers' tide of Belleville victories. Tim, rated the strongest man to come out of Ireland, and his powerful pal should make the going mighty tough for the Millers. Sam Berg is back taking on Don Lewin with Joe Blanchard meeting the other Lewin brother.

On the Tracks

JOE ERIE, Ont. (CP)—Bernard, which was claimed less than three months ago for $2,500 by Clifton Toperman of Toronto, won his fifth race of the season as he captured the featured Provincial Club purse at the Fort Erie Race Meet Monday. The horse being claimed at Old Woodbine on May 20, Bernfield has started 10 times and has been instrumental in bringing home a total purse of the purse. The four-year-old son of Bernborough has won five races, was second three times and finished fourth in his other two races in the period he has been owned by Toperman for approximately $10,600.

Bernfield, ridden by Alec Goodwin, paid $3.20, $3.80 and $3.60. Sir Archie finished second while Retaliation was third.

Frank Merrill Jr., currently ranking second among trainers in North America, saddled his 39th winner of the meeting when Warrantee won the fifth race.

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth, one of Britain's keenest racing fans, will not attend the Leger next month, the last classic event of the flat racing season, it was announced Monday.

As a successful racehorse owner who year after year is among the top winning owners, the Queen seldom misses any of the major races.

She has attended the last three St. Legers.

Lord Altrincham in his recent much publicized criticism of royalty complained that the Queen spent too much of her time at race tracks.

A Buckingham Palace spokesman said Monday that this recent publicity had nothing to do with the Queen's decision.

"As a matter of fact, Her Majesty decided not to attend two or three weeks ago," the palace spokesman said.

NEW YORK (CP)—E. P. Taylor of Toronto took top honors in the second straight year when his British-bred colt, Grey Monarch, won the Saratoga Special for two-year-olds Monday at Saratoga Springs, N.Y.

Grey Monarch led all the way to hit the wire three quarters of a length ahead of the favorite, George B. Widener's Jester.

Ridden by Jim Nichols, Grey Monarch earned $15,200. He paid $14 and $3.80 with no show betting.

Brotherly Love Is No Asset To Windy City Flag-Seekers; Braves Meet Threats Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If you don't believe what happened in the National League race last week, stick around. They're going to play it over this week.

And if St. Louis, Brooklyn, Cincinnati and Philadelphia ain't dead, now's the time for 'em to start breathin'.

In six days last week, Milwaukee swept three at home from Cincinnati, then took three of three at St. Louis, moving from a half game behind into a 5½-game lead. This week, the Braves play three at Cincinnati, starting tonight and four with St Louis, beginning Friday night at Milwaukee.

The second - place Cardinals, who skidded from the top with a six-game losing streak that started with a three-game sweep by Chicago Cubs at St. Louis, opened a three-game series at Chicago today before the return shot at the Braves.

REDLEGS COME BACK

Cincinnati, in fourth place seven games back, shook off that three-game set at Milwaukee to take three games from the Cubs in three at week's end. This week, the Redlegs again wind up against the Bruins, with four at Chicago beginning Friday.

Third-place Brooklyn was only 3½ games behind a week ago, then lost three of four to New York's sixth-place Giants and split four with last-place Pittsburgh to trail by 6½. This week the Dodgers play three with the Giants, beginning tonight at New York, and another four with the Pirates, at Jersey City and in Brooklyn.

Philadelphia, nine games back and in fifth, split two at Pittsburgh and lost two of three at New York last week. Now the Phils are home, playing the first of two with the Bucs tonight and then beginning a four-game set with the Giants Friday.

At the moment the Braves are rolling, winning 14 of their last 16 games, including their last seven in a row.

INTERESTED IN PFEIFER

CALGARY (CP)—Coach Frank Clair of Ottawa Rough Riders says he is "interested" in the news that Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four football union have released Al Pfeifer.

"I wouldn't say we're not interested in getting Pfeifer," Clair said Monday. "I think we could use him, but that depends on how low we can get him. That's all I want to say at the moment."

Mantle Hot on Williams 'Trail,' Aaron Tops Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York Yankees were off more than on last week in the American League, but their nearest pursuers—Chicago White Sox —weren't much better and so failed to make any appreciable dent in the Yanks' first-place margin.

The Yankee lead of seven games a week ago was cut to 5½ as the result of three wins and four losses in the week. The White Sox muffed their chance to pick up a lot of ground—they won only four of seven encounters. That's not the kind of ball that's going to topple the New Yorkers from their perch.

New York has three games at Boston against the third-place Red Sox (12 games behind), beginning tonight, then finishes the week at home with four against Baltimore's surprising Orioles. That's not the kind of ball that's going to topple the New Yorkers from their perch.

POOR INDIANS

The White Sox are at Cleveland for three starting tonight then move to Detroit for four.

Behind the Yankees and White Sox, there's not much to be had in the way of a race. Even Cleveland, the annual contender, is long dead, stumbling in sixth place for the first time in a decade.

In fact, things are so bad with the Indians that they dropped to a row to last-place Kansas City. Being swept by the As is bad enough but for losing to the four pitchers Cleveland used in an effort to salvage Sunday's final game?

They were Don Mossi, as a starter; Bob Lemon, Mike Garcia and Early Wynn, as relievers. That's how things are with the Tribe.

Gary Bowerman Wins Junior Golf Crown

Gary Bowerman won the 1957 junior golf championship of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club yesterday for the second year in succession.

The 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Bowerman, defeated John Pinton, Picton 5-4 after playing brilliant golf.

Gary won his first junior crown last year when golf for the younger players, dormant for some time, was reorganized and championship play adopted.

With the title as an added incentive there is an upsurge in junior golf, Pro George Balasz says several stars are in the making including players like Bowerman, "Sonny" MacDonald, and Lipson.

A number of the teen-age golf have always taken part in tournament play and given good accounts of themselves.

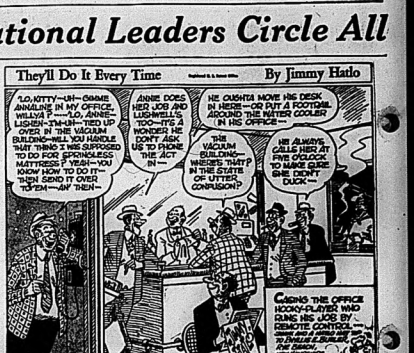
They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo



Crawford Ties Norman in Bursary Golf

TORONTO (CP) — Lyle Crawford of Vancouver and Moe Norman of Ilchester Monday tied for first place in the opening round of the $4,500 Bursary golf tournament—at the personal expense of Bob Dean of Cornwall.

Dean, a late starter in the field of 83 in the two-day tournament at the Mississauga Golf course, held a three-stroke lead going into the 18th tee, but saw his seven-under-par card begin to fade as his wild tee-shot into the rough near a fence at the side of the fairway.

A cleverly - planned recovery shot — back towards the tee — backfired and hit a tree, bouncing again into the rough.

Dean's next stroke tangled with the fence, and the fourth was an angry whiff. The 29-year-old redhead threw his club farther than he hit the ball on the fifth whack.

ONE STROKE BEHIND

Dean took eight strokes for the hole, finishing with a three-under par 68, one stroke behind Norman and Crawford who tied with Bob Wylie of Calgary.

Norman and Crawford each carded a one-under-par 35 on the outward leg and took three birdies on the inward leg to stay under-par 33.

Jack Magee of Toronto held fifth spot. Behind him were two of last year's three winners—Gordon Taylor of Toronto, Ont., in sixth place with 71, and Bill Shawhanney of Vancouver, sixth with 72.

36-HOLE FINAL

The low scorers from Monday's found—those who marked 79 or less—enter the 36-hole final today to try for the three low scorers' equal $1,500 prizes.

The Bursary tournament, sponsored by a Toronto automobile dealer, is designed to provide "an opportunity for young Canadian professionals to improve their skill under the highly-competitive conditions of the American professional golf circuit."

Winners of the tournament, open only to professionals and assistant professionals aged 30 and under, must take part in professional circuit for at least tournaments in the United States in 10 weeks next winter.

SCORES TOUCHDOWN

Gary Schrieder, home-brew halfback, drags a would-be tackler across the goal line to score a touchdown for Ottawa Rough Riders in an exhibition game at Ottawa against Saskatchewan Roughriders. Detroit Lions Coach Quits, Just Like That DETROIT (AP) — Buddy Parker is out as head coach of Detroit Lions today and indications are that owners of the National Football League club will not appeal to the unpredictable coach to return.

The 45-year-old Parker made his withdrawal in a terse, two-sentence announcement dropped like a bomb Monday night as the climax to the eighth annual "meet the Lions" banquet. Many of the nearly 600 persons who attended the party laughed, then sat in disbelief as the veteran coach explained "I'm not kidding —I'm through."

Parker has "resigned" before —several times privately and once officially to club president Edwin J. Anderson. In the past, things have been ironed out.

This time, Lion officials indicated they would name Parker's veteran assistant, George Wilson, to succeed him.

TIME TO GET OUT

Called upon as the final speaker of the evening, Parker made a single introductory remark and then said:

"When you get to a situation where you can't handle football players, it's time to get out—and that's what I'm doing tonight. I'm through with football in Detroit."

The club president said: "I don't understand this man. He's mad, he has the best coaching job in pro football and he always has operated the team without any strings whatsoever."

Parker was starting his seventh season as head coach. His teams won three western conference titles and two world championships. Through it all he has been a man of rapidly-changing moods.

Monday night he said "I can't handle this team," and called it "the worst team I've ever seen in training camp."

ZULUETA WINS DECISION

NEW YORK (AP) — Cuban lightweight contender Orlando Zulueta relied on his stabbing left jab Monday night to score a close but unanimous 10-round decision over scrappy Frankie Tepollo, a New York schoolteacher at St. Nicholas Arena. Zulueta weighed 137, Tepollo 140.

Stamps Defeat Ottawa Riders

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders with a strong ground offensive and sharp passing by quarterback Jim Finks, defeated Ottawa Rough Riders 26-7 Monday night in the second exhibition game between the two clubs before about 9,000 fans. Ottawa won the first game in Ottawa 23-14.

Ron Clinkscale counted two of the Calgary touchdowns and Al Pollard and Dean Rentro scored the other two. Eddie Simms converted two of the touchdowns.

Bob Simpson caught a long pass from quarterback Tom Dimitroff for the only Ottawa touchdown early in the second quarter. Gary Schreider kicked the convert for the Riders' other point.

Calgary led 7-6 after the first quarter, 13-7 at halftime and after a scoreless third quarter went on to score two more touchdowns and a convert.

Stamps rolled up 163 yards along the ground on 19 first downs. Ottawa picked up 16 first downs and 91 yards rushing. Dimitroff completed 14 of 30 passes for 208 yards. Finks passed for 121 yards in completing 10 of 18 attempts.

Jockey Arcaro Is Suspended After Rich Race

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Jockey Eddie Arcaro Monday drew a 10-day suspension on the grounds of "careless riding" in Saturday's $100,000 Atlantic City Handicap.

Stewards at the Atlantic City race course also disallowed the track record set by Arcaro's mount, Dedicate before the horse was disqualified.

Dedicate, the favored entry owned by Mrs. Jan Burke of New York and Miami, finished the 1 3-16-mile race in 1:54 4-5, three lengths ahead of Royal Beacon 2nd.

But stewards said they detected interference at the far turn and disqualified Dedicate.

The first place money was worth $65,000 to Royal Beacon 2nd.

ELIMINATION BOUT

WEST HARTLEPOOL, England (Reuters)—Britan London of Britain Monday night outpointed Kitione Lave of Tonga over 10 rounds in an elimination contest for the British Empire heavyweight boxing title. The contest attracted a crowd of 20,000—the biggest to watch a boxing tournament in northeast England.

Carmichael Sets New Record In Mead Mile Third Running

Setting a new record with apparent ease, Dick Carmichael, AC 1, at RCAF Station Trenton, raced across the finish line far ahead of all opposition yesterday in the third annual running of the Mead Johnson Mile during the opening day races at Belleville Fair.

Carmichael, a 26-year old speedster residing in Belleville for the past year, bettered the Mead Mile record of 4.48.8 set by Bill Gault last year by 19 seconds when he recorded a neat 4.29 even.

He jumped into a 20-yard lead after rounding the first turn and was far in front at the half-mile mark having completed the first lap in 2.13. He finished about 250 yards ahead of his three opponents and trotted half way around the track again before returning to the finish line.

Gerald Hill of Shannonville and BCIVS came in second closely followed by Glen Maracle also of Shannonvill and BCIVS and Larry Huff of Picton. The three battled for the place and show spots all the way, Maracle coming back to pass Huff on the second lap while Hill was hard pressed to hold the runner - up place.

Shortly before post time, a nine man field was to run but for mishaps to Seymour Dick Hurst and Ken Vogelsang of BCIVS, Lloyd Maracle and Jim Gannon of Point Anne and Tom Seymour of Kingston scratched. Seymour injured his leg in an earlier event.

Carmichael was presented with the Mead Johnson Trophy by company vice-president Gerald A. Wishart following the race. He will receive a replica of the trophy for permanent possession while the larger trophy will be engraved with Carmichael's name and time and displayed at a place to be named by the winner.

Asked following the finish if he had gone all out, Carmichael replied "I could have done better if I had been pushed." He was not breathing hard and looked as if he could have held his regular pace for some time. The airman's best time for the mile is 4.19.8, recorded at the Toronto Canadian National Exhibition. He is also outstanding in the three-mile and relay events.

Glen Maracle of BCIVS turned in a fine effort over the final 150 yards to pass schoolmate Dick Hurst and take first place in the boys' half mile event. The Indian runner followed on Hurst's heels until the final turn when he edged by to take the lead.

His time was two minutes and ten seconds with Hurst following him closely across the line. Gerald Hill, who hails from Shannonville along with Maracle, took third while Picton's Larry Huff finished fourth. The four were evenly matched. Other starters who failed to finish were Jim Gannon, Lloyd Maracle and Tom Seymour.

Ken Vogelsang topped the runners in the quarter mile event. He took the lead early and was never headed to turn in the time of 59 seconds flat. Vogelsang was followed by Glen Maracle, Bob Wannamaker and Lloyd Maracle.

The BCIVS team composed of Ken Vogelsang, Dick Hurst, Bob Wannamaker and Glen Maracle won the half-mile relay race over two Point Anne teams. Point Anne Number One finished second with the number Two team taking third.

Vogelsang was the anchor man for the winners and finished well in front of his counterparts, Dick Carmichael, running for Point Anne One and Ray Conboy of Point Anne Two. The victorious BCIVS quartet time of 1.42. The second place team had Lloyd Maracle, Jim Gannon, Gerald Hill and Carmichael, while Mike Gannon, Earl Green, Gary Hull and Ray Conboy made up the third squad.

American Tunes Popular On All European Stations

By WILLIAM GLOVER

AMSTERDAM (AP) — The swarming army of North American tourists abroad needn't feel homesick. Just switch on a radio and you're back in the old home town.

Sometimes the words are different (you haven't really lived until you've heard a Danish crooner tackle Taking a Chance on Love), but the tunes that hit the airwaves are the same—Dooleys and Hammerstein, New Orleans jazz, swing and a fearsome scoop of rock 'n' roll.

There are also some surprises for the traveller's pocket set.

Luxembourg relays an old-fashioned religious revival from Long Beach, Calif., at 11 p.m. Americans shares band music before breakfast.

NIGHT OF SILENCE

And, on blessed quiet, practically every station signs off by midnight and fills the night with silence

The dominant impression gained from eavesdropping on a cross-section of Western Europe's air fare is the overwhelming popularity of American tunes—from Fly Fair Lady back to Babes in the Woods.

Toyland, London, Copenhagen, Rome, Brussels. The pattern is the same.

The home folks have apparently succumbed unanimously to bop, cha-cha, the Ink Spots, Frankie Laine—and most of all Tennessee (Satchmo) Armstrong. He's the man whose records you hear most.

Only Stockholm has a program aimed at tourists directly—to get today's best bargain souvenirs.

NO SOAP SELLING

Because most of the transmitters are state-operated, the commercial plug is absent. Only a few spots, such as the privately operated Luxembourg transmitter, carry ads — and proclaim them in English. No use bothering the natives.

Also there are no mystery stories, no kiddie programs and the quiz shows avoid the frenetic fury of their overseas twins for

Bobcats, Marines Tie 6-6 in 4th Playoff Fixture

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Goyer's Marines and Temple's Bobcats fought to a nine-inning 6-6 tie at CNRAA Park last night in the fourth game of their three-of-five OASA Intermediate "AA" series.

Bobcats lead the set two games to one with the fifth game slated for Wednesday night at 6.30 p.m.

The Cats came close to wrapping it up last night when they exploded for three runs in the eighth to grab a 6-5 lead but in the top of the ninth they came just as close to losing. The Marines tied matters on Gerry Goyer's fifth consecutive walk, brother Vern's single to deep short and a throwing error on the same play. "Jumbo" was lifted for pinch-runner Keith Bertrim and on a short passed ball, Bertrim headed for the plate with the lead run. Bobcat catcher Duke Doran retrieved the ball and tossed to pitcher Bob Buntion covering. Bertrim was called out on a close play at the plate, Plate umpire Don Thomas called the game because of darkness at the end of regulation play.

Bobcats jumped into a 2-0 lead in the first on a walk, an error and singles by Wayne Brown and Earle Cousins. Goyer's get one back on a miscue in the second and took over with two in the fourth on Gerry Goyer's walk, Vern's pop double and a couple of outs.

The clubs traded single markers in the sixth but the Marines increased the margin on another walk to Gerry Goyer, scoring later on Leo Goyer's fly.

Temple countered in the pinch-hitters in the eighth. Creeggan lifted out batting for Wood but Buntion slammed a double hitting for Baran. Brown drew a pass and Earle Cousins' timed a double to right centre, scoring one and the bases filled following an on overthrow at third. Earle Cousins cracked a single to give the Bobcats their short-lived 6-5 lead.

Lum Carson went the distance for the Maripes, allowing ten hits, fanning seven and passing four. He hit one batter.

Wally Baran worked eight innings for the Bobcats, tagged for four hits whiffing one while walking a dozen. Buntion gave up a hit and run with two walks and a strike out.

Box scores with three singles and Harry Wardhaugh with two poked out Bobcats with the hickory. Crawford and Buntion doubled, Brown, Don Locke and Bert Fisher had the others.

Vern Goyer with a double and single and Lum Carson, Maripes. Doug Soules doubled while John Green and Lum Carson has one-baggers.

Marines: Russell, Soules, Bovay, Hamilton, Carson, V. Goyer, Green, L. Goyer, Carson, Bertrim.

Bobcats: Brown, Crawford, Locke, Cousins, Faulkner, Wardhaugh, Fisher, Buntion, Baran, Creeggan Buntion.

Umpires: Don Thomas (P) and Harold Bawden Time 1.28

a more leisurely and erudite tone. (Panellists are still debating on the correct spelling of Shakespeare wrote Shakespeare.)

Also there are no commercial-voiced news commentators. You get the news tersely.

Radio alone isn't going to satisfy completely a dyed-in-the wool electronics fan abroad. After all, there's television still, isn't there?

Well, that is something else.

Jets Bounce Wings Twice; Toronto Idle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Full-scale action resumes in the International League today with Rochester Red Wings probably wishing they had a day off with six other clubs Monday.

The fourth-place Red Wings, struggling to stay close to the pennant race, were bounced twice by last-place Columbus Jets in a twilight-night double header after an all-night flight to Rochester from Miami. The loss dropped Rochester six games behind league-leading Buffalo.

After winning the opener 8-5, the Jets scored three runs with two out in the ninth to take the nightcap from the stunned Wings 5-4. All three runs scored when shortstop Dick Brodowski's drive to left centre fell among three Rochester players for a double.

The 11th-hour rally cost rookie Dick Ricketts, the basketball ace, his fifth loss in 12 decisions. Don Hall won in relief of Bob Kuzava, who was chased by plate umpire Harry Schwartz in the sixth for protesting a call or a liner hit by Gene Green.

In the opener, Cot Deal, the Rochester pitcher-manager, took the loss.

All-Star Team Is Completed

MONTREAL (CP)—The International League all-star baseball team was completed today with the addition of 15 players to the 10 chosen by fan vote last week. The squad is to play an exhibition game against Brooklyn Dodgers here Aug. 19.

The 15, chosen by all-star manager Dixie Walker of the Toronto Maple Leafs, are second baseman Lou Ortiz of Buffalo, shortstop Gilly O'Brien of Montreal, pitchers Orlando Pena and Miguel Cuellar of Havana, outfielder Tom Langrum and third-baseman Forest Smith of Miami, pitcher Rene Valdes of Montreal, pitcher Bill Bethel and catcher Harry Chiti of Richmond, Pfister Honor Lovegugh and outfielder Tom Burgess of Rochester, and pitcher Don Johnson, first-baseman Rocky Nelson, shortstop Hector Rodriguez and outfielder Lew Morton of Toronto.

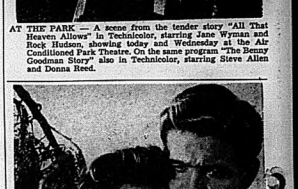
Patterson Takes Pete Seriously

SEATTLE (AP)—Floyd Patterson, the world's undefeated heavyweight champion, arrived here Monday for his title bout Aug. 22 with the world's amateur champion, Pete Rademacher.

Asked if he was taking the second defence of his title seriously, Patterson replied:

"I've got to take Pete serious. He's a pro. You have to be an excellent fighter to come from the Olympics and in my book, Rademacher, with all his experience, ranks as a pro."

AT THE PARK — A scene from the tender story "All That Heaven Allows" in Technicolor, starring Jane Wyman and Rock Hudson, showing today and Wednesday at the Air Conditioned Park Theatre. On the same program "The Benny Goodman Story" also in Technicolor, starring Steve Allen and Donna Reed.



AT THE BELLE — Yvonne De Carlo as the desert woman, Sephora, who becomes the faithful wife of Moses, in Cecil B. DeMille's production "The Ten Commandments", held over today, Wednesday and positive final presentation on Thursday, at the Belle Theatre. The huge starring cast of the Paramount DeMille masterwork is headed by Charlton Heston as Moses, Yul Brynner, Anne Baxter, Edward G. The Cinemascope, Deluxe color production of Alec Waugh's best-seller, directed by Robert Rossen, opens Wednesday at the Odeon-McCarthy Theatre.

SPORT IN BRIEF

MAYER PAYS OFF

CHICAGO (AP)—"World" golf champion Dick Mayer paid $5,000 of his $50,000 winner's prize to Al Besselink to complete a pre-tournament agreement, it was disclosed Monday.

Mayer's wife, Doris, confirmed a report that Besselink, a fellow golf pro, received the $5,000, adding:

"It was a pre - tournament agreement. Besselink had several such deals with other players also. When Bob Toski won the Chrysler championship two years ago, Besselink collected $10,000."

WONDER HORSE LAME

LONDON (AP)—Crepello, Britain's wonder three-year-old racehorse of the season, is lame and unlikely to run again this season. Trainer Mat Murless said Monday "chances of Crepello running in the St. Leger classic in September are slim."

Crepello already has won the 2,000 Guineas and Epsom Derby classics. He was favorite to win the St. Leger and become the first triple crown winner since Bahram in 1935. The colt injured his forefeet in training.

FOUND DEAD IN BATH

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Al (Chalky) Wright, 43, former world featherweight champion, was found dead Monday in his mother's apartment, apparently the victim of accidental drowning.

Mrs. Clara E. Wright told police she found her son dead in the bathtub. She said he apparently slipped, hitting his head against the tub.

Wright won the featherweight title Sept. 11, 1941, in Washington, DC., from Joey Archibald and lost it to Willie Pep Nov. 20, 1942.

COACHER SIGNED

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League announced Monday night the signing of left-winger Pete Conacher, 25-year-old son of ex-Leaf great Charlie Conacher.

"Slattery's a pretty good boxer but he's got a glass solar plexus!"

Patty Berg Wins Women's Golf Crown

CHICAGO (AP) — Patty Berg shot a one-over-par 77 Monday to defeat Fay Crocker by two strokes in a playoff for the women's world golf championship at Tam O'Shanter.

The 39-year-old Minn Berg, who nine the crown for women pros for the fourth time after taking the All-American sideshow of the Tam meet last week for the fifth time, collected $2,000.

Miss Crocker, 37-year-old former U.S. women's open champion from Montevideo, Uruguay, won $1,000.

RETAINS TITLE

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) George Barnes of Australia retained his British Empire welterweight boxing title here Monday night, outpointing Atu Clottey of Ghana in 15 rounds.

Queen's Visit Boosts Sale Grid Tickets

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)— The football ticket business is booming at the University of Maryland, thanks to Queen Elizabeth.

All of the tickets being sold, of course, are for the North Carolina game Oct. 12—the game Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip plan to attend.

Monday was the first day the ticket window had been open since announcement in Washington Friday that the royal couple planned to attend the game.

People kept lining up all day, and the telephones jangled and jangled with ticket inquiries.

CROSSING VICTIM

STONEY POINT, Ont. (CP)— Donald Will, 20, of Wheatley, Ont., was killed Monday when his truck collided with a CNR freight train at the level crossing. The train, bound for St. Thomas, dragged the truck 200 feet.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, Aug. 14, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A big movement over yesterday. Double your efforts, perhaps to achieve unexpectedly worthwhile gains. A good day for unusual pursuits, adding clever twists to your work.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Very stimulating, helpful rays. Difficult problems should be easy of solution now and you will most likely find assistance and cooperation from others. Don't hesitate to try something new.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Not wholly auspicious for mental work, but, on the whole, the day has many advantages. Especially favored: those dealing with machinery, tools, dental and surgical instruments; domestic affairs.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Triplop aspects for you today. Be rightly ambitious, cooperative where you should, and alert to new avenues toward achievement. Don't permit trifles or irritating, people to stymie you.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Very helpful influences for those handling animals, leather, steel and other metals; also for those working with new discoveries in science, nuclear weapons, etc. Home and family interests honored, too.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — A variety of interests sponsored now. You may have to take on some added responsibilities. If so, be good humored about the situation; you will be repaid.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Unusual and different ideas are likely under this day's aspects. Difficult and tedious tasks should be handled with ease now, along with usual routine affairs; daily duties.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Good rays! A day to keep you busy, but, to get the greatest returns and benefits, control your emotions, be amenable to good suggestions.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Today's admonitions: be most careful in money transactions; expenditures of time and energy, too. Control emotions. This can be a beneficial period if you manage astutely, as you so well can.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Grand Saturn aspects to encourage all sound undertakings. Your special interests, occupational duties and other worthwhile activities under fine influences. Be ambitious.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — You, too, have benefic vibrations to speed you on your way this good day. But be sure you engage only in activities motivated by honorable and unselfish aims. You will be unhappy otherwise.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Friendly configurations of Uranus and Neptune should encourage you to make the most of advantages and opportunities. Let your keen intuition fetch hands with your intelligence and you will have a truly productive day.

You born today are ambitious, proud, generous, brave and unhampered by pettiness. You are called the "Royal One" and it would be a pity not to live up to that title. Curb tendencies to [illegible] hypersensitiveness and arrogance. Cultivate your God-given assets, talents and capabilities daily. Use them only in the right way and you can attain lasting success. Birthdate: John Galsworthy and Sir Walter Besant, noted Eng. authors.

Suspect Bid to Convert Reserve Army Into Civil Defence Body

OTTAWA (CP) — Some militia commanders contend that the defence department is trying to convert the 45,000-man reserve army into a civil defence organization.

They say that such a conversion is not being attempted openly but in an "undercover" manner in the ranks of officers of the militia and possible political repercussions.

Defence department officials say the only directive on the matter that has gone out instructs militia units to pay attention to civil defence.

This in itself, some militia commanders argue, is the writing on the wall for the reserve army in its present form. They are strenuously opposed to the militia giving up its present role though willing to take on some civil defence tasks.

They say that the militia, if it ever becomes a full-fledged civil defence organization, will lose its members right and left. The reserve army already is down to 40,945, nearly 7,000 less than its post-war peak in 1953.

One senior militia commander said if any new army were of the conventional type—fought without atomic arms—the militia could again play its traditional role of the last two world wars Forming the backbone of the reserve army with the regulars and training it.

The commander said that if the defence department works on the premise that Canada needs a big regular army, then it should accept the need for a reserve army as well.

Modify Federal Aid for Airports

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal subsidies on the operation of municipally-owned airports are gradually being placed on a new basis, transport department officials said Monday.

The change will reduce the amounts paid to relatively-profitable airports and increase them for those operating at a loss. The over-all contribution from the treasury is expected to be reduced.

The new system replaces a flat payment of five cents per year per square yard of paved area on the airport.

Fields affected are those at Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary, Medicine Hat, Alta., Prince Albert, Sask., Regina, Brandon, Man., Sudbury, Fredericton and Saint John, N.B., which were scheduled to open Tuesday.

In the last fiscal year for which figures are available—year ended March 31, 1955—the municipally-owned airports received about $120,000 from the federal treasury.

BOOST LANDING FEES

Under the revised system, all the affected airports were allowed to increase their landing fees in line with increases put into effect some time ago by transport department fields.

Secondly, the treasury will meet the actual operating losses of the individual airport annually instead of paying a flat sum. These figures will cover items only, and not include depreciation and bond interest costs.

The switch in payments is

Little Benny's Notebook

I started to take a walk with pop before breakfast. He told me not to dare be more than 20 minutes on account of I was having to sing almost done already, and we were walking and talking and we heard a jet plane was coming in the sky so fast we couldn't even see it, and I said, O, pop, maybe it's a flying saucer full of little flying saucer men.

Maybe only one little flying saucer man, pop said. Maybe it's a single flying saucer, he said, and said, Let's pretend we're 2 little flying saucer spies taking down notes about the human race on earth. Let's pretend our names are Ick and Ick, I said.

Okay, Ick, or are you Ike? pop said, and I said, No, you're Ike, G, Ike, I said, and then we could tell high from low. If they could, those 2 would of picked somebody their own size, I said.

Meaning a long narrow man walking along with a little fat lady hardly up to his shoulders, and pop said, Maybe he does because the 6th people all descended from Eve.

You mean munkies, Ike, I said, and he said, No Ick, I mean fish, and I mean goldfish. Look at them eating in a glass bowl for everybody to see, he said.

Meaning 4 people in a resteraunt sitting right in the window eating and talking as if they thought they were invisible at home or some place, and I said, Jimminies, Ike, talking about eating, dont forget Mrs. Ike warmed us we only had 20 minutes.

And we quick tened around and went faster than we came.

Canadian Legion To Hold Service For Victims

GUELPH (CP)—The Canadian Legion Monday night announced it plans to hold a memorial service in Toronto Monday, Aug. 25, to commemorate passengers and members of the crew who lost their lives when a DC-4 aircraft crashed south of Quebec City. All 79 aboard perished.

The legion also released a statement of sympathy to relatives of those who died.

The plans had been chartered by the Imperial veterans' division of the Ontario Command.

The Toronto memorial service, its form and details expected to be completed within the next 48 hours, are to be in a central hall or theatre of suitable size. John Peacock, immediate past president of the Ontario Command's Imperial division, said efforts were under way to organize the service on a communal basis.

OFFICERS PARTICIPATE

It had been asked by Fred O'Brecht, president of Ontario Command; Len Owen, Dominion president of the legion's Imperial division; Robert Gillies, president of Ontario Command's Imperial division, and David Burgess, Dominion president, in the message of condolences.

In Ottawa, the legion has offered financial assistance to relatives of victims of the crash.

The legion also offered to look after funeral arrangements for those who have no near relatives in Canada.

Dies of Injuries

KINGSTON (CP) — Melvin Smith, believed 55, a fireman at Iosis sanatarium, died of injuries suffered Monday when the handlebars of his bicycle struck a parked car and he fell under the wheels of a passing transport trailer.

CHARGED WITH ATTACK

WINDSOR (CP)—Three Detroit men were remanded Monday to Aug. 20 after being charged with attack on a 23-year-old partially crippled suburban Windsor woman Sunday night. Bail was set at $20,000 for each. The three, John Huffman, 24, his brother Marvin, 22, and Leonard Davidson 24, were arrested after a description of their late model convertible was given.

SAVED BY LIFEGUARD

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Norman Welsh, 12, was saved from drowning Monday when Dick Taylor, 19, a lifeguard, pulled his unconscious body from a municipal swimming pool and revived him by applying artificial respiration for 15 seconds. The boy is believed to have hit his head on the bottom of the pool.

Moscow Rumor Molotov Has Taken Own Life

LONDON (AP)—An American student who was in Moscow for the World Youth Festival said Monday night he was told of rumors there that former foreign minister V. M. Molotov has committed suicide.

George Abrams of Newton, Mass., telephoned The Associated Press in London from Helsinki, Finland, and said he heard the story from several sources.

Abrams explained how he had mounted a box in Red Square and lectured on American ways of life, and went on:

"After one of my speeches I was taken aside by a man who talked to me for two hours. He said he was an intimate of Dmitri Shepilov (also a former Soviet foreign minister) and that he had heard Molotov had committed suicide. Then all the rumors were prevalent all over Moscow and he thought they were true.

"Two other Americans at the festival told me they heard the same story," he added.

Guelph Votes To Sell Utility

GUELPH (CP)—Property holders voted Monday in favor of selling to the Union Gas Company of Canada the city's 80-year-old manufactured-gas public utility.

Not included in the sale, approved 1,620 votes to 237, are the land, buildings and gas tanks, which the city is retaining for other purposes and is announced. Union gets the utility's 24 miles o fgas mains and all its meters for $400,000.

Union Gas proposed to supply the city with natural gas piped from a point near Hamilton. Only 15 per cent of the 18,726 property holders eligible to vote cast ballots.

The vote was ordered by the Ontario municipal board, which reversed an earlier ruling, approval for the sale by a twomemberpanel.

PLAN WORLD MEETING

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — A world conference of all religions will be inaugurated here in November by India's President Rajendra Prasad, conference headquarters announced Monday.

EPIDEMIC CONTINUES

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—More than 75,000 cases of Asiatic influenza have been reported in Durban, where the epidemic has shown no sign of abating. The death Sunday of an African baby in Cape Province was the first fatality attributed to this disease in South Africa.

BAND LEADER HURT

SIMCOE (CP)—George Shortt, 23-year-old band leader here, was brought to hospital Monday with serious injuries after his car station-struck the rear of a parked transport truck. His condition is fair. Shortt is well known to district radio listeners for his western music program over a local station.

TRENTON AIRMEN FIRST ON SCENE OF CRASH

First to view the remains of the crashed Maritime Central Airways plane at Issoudun, Que-bec, were Trenton RCAF parachute rescuers, Don Nivens, left, Al Smith and Jack Clydon. They found the pieces of the plane still smoking.

LAC Butch Reigning Mascot Of RCAF Auxiliary Squadron

EDMONTON (CP)—LAC Butch has the distinction of being the only flying dog in the RCAF. Mascot of the 418 City of Edmonton Auxiliary Squadron, he has an illustrious record.

Butch, who looks something like a collie although his ancestry isn't clear, joined the squadron in the fall of 1954 when he was "found" as a lonely and hungry pup by a couple of airmen. He was taken to the 418 hangar and fed at the squadron's canteen.

Ever since, LAC Butch has been reigning mascot of the squadron.

HAS OWN 'CHUTE

He has not kept a log book, but his unofficial records show Butch has flown nearly 50 hours. Among some of his longer trips were flights to summer camp at Summerside, P.E.I., in 1955, to Rivers, Man., in 1956, and to Whitehorse, Y.T., this year.

RCAF regulations require that persons flying in Mitchell bombers, the type of craft used by 418 squadron, wear a parchute. So LAC Butch was fitted with a special 'chute made by LAC equipment man.

The parachute is made from an old drogue chute, 11½ feet across, providing plenty of lift for Butch's 30 pounds. It is attached to a static line so it will open automatically if LAC Butch ever has to bail out.

LIVELY CHEER

Normally, LAC Butch is well disciplined, but there was an occasion when he was put behind bars. At Christmas, 1956, he apparently got full of Yuletide spirits and went AWL. When the city dog catcher telephoned and asked to speak to LAC Butch, officers and men of 418 squadron quickly raised bail and freed their mascot.

There have been other crises in Butch's life. One time he limped back to the squadron hangar with a broken leg and cracked ribs. An airline flier, a dentist in civilian life, dressed the wounds and set the leg and in a few weeks Butch was as good as new.

Another time, he cut his leg on glass and had to be taken to the station hospital where a bandage and tourniquet were applied.

Butch's big blooper came at Summerside in 1955 when he chose a skunk to chase across the runways.

To the men of 418 squadron, Butch is well worth his keep. He has proven a dutiful watch dog, a companion for night hangar guards and a mascot of which all members of the squadron are proud.

Tweed

TWEED — Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rivers, Metcalfe Street, returned to their home on Saturday last, after spending considerable time in the Belleville General Hospital, following an accident at Actinolite in which their car was involved. They spent the last weekend at Mr. Rivers' parents' home at Flinton, recuperating from the tension and illnesses. They are much better and all trust they continue to gain.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Tallboy, who have been living on Albert Street, in the home owned by Mr. Stanis Quinn, have moved to Centreville, where Mr. Tallboy is now employed. The Quinn residence is now occupied by a Lands and Forests employee from the local office, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Hughes and family.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rivers, and daughters, Carol and Dorothy, spent last Sunday visiting relatives in Roseneath, Ontario. Mr. Rivers is the manager of the Western Tire Store here in Tweed.

Mr. E. S. Torbett, of Capreol, Ontario, has recently purchased the fine residence which was built by Mr. W. D. Allen not long ago. Mr. Torbett expects to move to Tweed in November of this year. This house is on the Crookston Road, known as River Street, and has been occupied for a short time by Mr. and Mrs. Doug. Hughes and family.

There is a new real estate agent in Tweed, in the person of Mr. G. J. Courpeya "Toby", along with his auctioneer speed, he will, no doubt do big things in the new field as well. All wish him luck and good business.

The Tweed Public Library will be closed from August 10th-August 24th. The Librarian needs and wishes a vacation as well as the folks who haunt the library.

Miss Mary Joan Wood, went to Peterbrough by train on Tuesday to visit Mr. and Mrs. "Bob" White, and family. She expects to return on Sunday or Monday. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Wood and they are at present at their spacious cottage on Stoco Lake.

Congratulations are in order to Mrs. and Dr. J. N. Hartt, on the birth of a daughter on Wednesday, August 7th, in the Belleville General Hospital. Both are doing well.

Miss Diane Maybee, of Frankford, is spending the summer months with Mr. and Mrs. B. Black, as a guest of Miss Joan Black, their daughter.

Think Canadian Fall Fairs To Break Attendance Marks

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Attendance records are expected to be broken at many of this year's fall fairs, first launched to boost local markets for farmers and now grown into big entertainment enterprises.

Hundreds of fall fairs are held across Canada, ranging from the village effort that draws 3,000 or 4,000 spectators to the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, which last year had a record attendance of 1,822,000 in its two-week operation.

Most of the fairs have their special themes, a survey by The Canadian Press showed, such as the provincial exhibition in Quebec which this year spotlights highway safety.

MARITIMES BUSY

In Newfoundland the provincial government, for the first time since 1939, is sponsoring a fair featuring agricultural, fishing and handicraft products. The Newfoundland government is awarding $5,000 in prizes.

Prince Edward Island has several fairs scheduled, including the plowing match and agricultural fair at Dundas Centre Sept. 11-12.

Thirteen are planned for Nova Scotia, as last year, the season starting Aug. 26 with the Halifax county exhibition at Middle Musquodoboit. The wind-up is the fisheries exhibition and fishermen's reunion at Lunenburg Sept. 16-14.

Nova Scotia's largest show is the provincial exhibition at the site of the N.S. Agricultural College at Truro, Held Aug. 27-30.

New Brunswick's oldest and best known country fair at Stanley in York County, started in 1850, is being held Sept. 10-13. The Saint John exhibition, received in 1955, will be held Aug. 26-31, and the Fredericton exhibition is scheduled for Sept. 2-7.

Quebec province has a total of 69 fairs, lasting from one to six days. Sherbrooke has two of them, a fall fair Aug. 24-29 and a winter fair Oct. 7-10.

ONE BIGGEST

Ontario has more than 240 fairs. The Canadian National Exhibition begins a two-week run on Aug. 23. It is followed by the Central Canada exhibition at Ottawa, running from Aug. 22 to Aug. 31, and the Western Ontario exhibition at London, Ont., Sept. 9-14.

Fourteen fairs and 31 horticultural shows will be held in Manitoba. The one-day fairs showing sheep, cattle, machinery, farmers and home cooking usually include sports events in smaller centres outside Winnipeg, Brandon and Portage La Prairie.

Saskatchewan fairs will run from the Moosomin event starting Sept. 28 to the Melfort swine show and sale on Oct. 17.

Alberta fairs are mostly being held in August, and the total of 55 fairs and exhibitions in British Columbia includes the Pacific National Exhibition at Vancouver Island exhibition on Sept. 12-14.

Msgr. Maurice Roy, Archbishop of Quebec, donned long rubber boots and made his way to the wreckage to pray for the dead.

DIARY FOUND

Among the personal effects found by police was the diary of Barbara Brebner of Islington, who died in the wreck. In it she had recorded the first days of her holiday trip to Britain.

Searchers also found a wrist watch with the hands stopped at 2:15. The plane had last reported in by radio to the Quebec City control tower at 2:07 p.m. EDT. Many residents of this area saw it flying low and "making a lot of noise" just before the crash.

Seventy-one of the 73 passengers aboard the plane were from Ontario, many from the Hamilton-Toronto district. The only two from outside Ontario were a Charlottetown man and his son.

In Ottawa it was reported that a public inquiry likely will be held into the crash. Transport Minister Hees talked with departmental officials about the crash by telephone from Jasper, Alta. He is due at his Ottawa office Thursday.

While he was in the Opposition, Mr. Hees spoke strongly in favor of public investigations.

MANY VETERANS

The plane had been chartered by an Ontario veterans' association, primarily to take former British servicemen now living in Ontario back to visit Britain for a month. However, others were permitted to travel aboard the plane, one of three DC-4s MCA operated on the overseas charter runs.

PART OF WRECKAGE

Farmer Alphonse Charest holds part of the DC-4 plane which crashed near Issoudun, 15 miles southwest of Quebec, killing the 79 persons aboard. The aircraft crashed on Mr. Charest's farm. (CP Photo).

The plane was piloted by Norman Ramsay of Montreal. He had been with the company two years.

Ramsay, described as "a good, well-trained pilot" by MCA officials, had been blamed by a board of inquiry for "poor airmanship" in making a belly landing in December, 1954, at Brampton, near Toronto's Malton airport.

Ramsay was flying for TCA at the time. He joined MCA after regaining his commercial pilot's licence — automatically suspended after the Brampton crash —in August, 1955.

HAD PREMONITION

Co-pilot Paul Renaud, 27, of Montreal was making his last flight for MCA before joining TCA. His brother Pierre, a former RCAF pilot, visited the crash scene and tearfully said Paul had "some sort of strange feeling" about the flight—"some premonition, I think."

"Before this trip, he suddenly visited everybody in the family—my mother, my sister and cousins, people he never saw regularly or wrote to. I think he had some sort of feeling that something was going to happen."

CBC-TV Strike May Result From Union Squabble

Firing of Two Montrealers May Touch off Explosion

MONTREAL (CP) — A grievance sent to Ottawa by the Montreal local of a television craftmen's union could be a spark setting off an explosive labor situation in the CBC.

It was uncertain what would happen to CBC-TV operations if the Montreal union struck and other locals followed. The union said such a strike would halt production of CBC TV programs across Canada but CBC spokesmen would not say whether the strike would put TV stations off the air.

The CBC claims it has no contract with the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and Moving Picture Operators (CLC), and therefore no machinery exists for handling by but personal grievances.

The IATSE, however, says an agreement that was supposed to expire last May 31 is still in force, and demands that the CBC meet with the union.

Negotiations to renew the contract were suspended pending settlement of a dispute within the union itself.

A meeting of about 200 of the Montreal IATSE local's 615 members Tuesday night voted the executive authority to call a strike at any time, said international representative Irving Dansereau of IATSE. He said a union spokesman will also meet today in Montreal on a grievance that could not be decided locally.

It was sent Tuesday to Ottawa for consideration by the CBC's national executive.

Mr. Dansereau said the grievance concerned the firing of two men for what the union termed an "unjustified cause." One was dismissed for cause, and the other for tardiness, he said.

The grievance is a test case, he said. The CBC dealt with it under terms of the old contract, there would be no strike.

Sudden death of Emile Menard, mayor of Cornwall, Ont., was at first attributed to a heart attack after he was found unconscious on the floor of his home. In hospital, examination showed he suffered a fractured skull and multiple bruises on his body. Police investigated the possibility of murder but later ruled out the chance there was any foul play.

MAYOR'S DEATH INVESTIGATED BY CORNWALL POLICE

Police Rule Out Foul Play in Mayor's Death

CORNWALL (CP) — Police have ruled out foul play in the death of Mayor Emile D. Menard, 47, who died in hospital Monday night two hours after he was found unconscious in his bed.

Pathologist Dr. W. J. Shannon said Tuesday night an autopsy showed Mayor Menard suffered a fractured skull apparently after falling in his bathroom and striking his head.

Police said he apparently managed to reach his bed where he was found unconscious, his head streaming from his nose, by his son-in-law, Claude Dagenais. The mayor had been ill periodically for several months.

Police said they would announce whether there will be an inquest after completing investigation.

Mayor Menard took office last January after defeating Aurel Hurovitz in a December election. Mr. Hurovitz also has died since the election.

The mayor was a councillor in Cornwall's ward 3 for 11 years, deputy reeve for a year and reeve for a year before entering city politics.

EAT RAT POISON

BARRIE, Ont. (CP)—Two children from Beeton were treated by a doctor and rushed 30 miles to the Sick Children's Hospital in Toronto Tuesday after eating rat poison. Paul Catania, 4, and his sister Marie, 2, had their stomachs pumped out and were out of danger. The children ate the poison at the cottage of their grandparents—Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Catania of Beeton.

Wants Search For Lost RCAF Pilots Resumed

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)— Dr. W. M. McMillan, Liberal member of Parliament for Welland, said today he has sent a telegram to Defence Minister Pearkes urging that the aerial search for two RCAF pilots lost Aug. 1 near Spit-Bes, Que., be resumed.

Dr. McMillan said he was setting on behalf of relatives and friends of Kevin P. McNulty, 32, of Thorold, missing along with FO G. W. Wilding, 30, of Manchester since the plane went down.

It was one of a squadron of CF-100s en route from North Bay to the RCAF air division in Europe.

"The family is greatly disappointed and concerned over the brief search," Dr. McMillan said.

The search was suspended last Friday night.

Canadian Soldiers Learn So Well They Teach Yanks About Missiles

OTTAWA (CP) — Some Canadian soldiers have become so skilled at the intricacies of guided missiles that they now are instructing on the weapons in the United States and Britain.

Army headquarters disclosed Tuesday that since 1952 a total of 72 officers and 150 men of the artillery, ordnance corps, army service corps and electrical and mechanical engineers have received special training on ground-to-air and ground-to-surface guided missiles or rockets at various U.S. army schools.

The army said it further disclosed that 10 officers have received or are receiving advanced training on guided weapons in the U.S. and Britain.

The RCAF, however, steadfastly refused to say how many airmen have been trained on missiles, even though informed that the navy and army were making such information public.

The army said its policy is to keep abreast of all developments in the field of guided missiles and that it expects to have a core of trained specialists and instructors ready for the day when the Canadian Army procures specific weapons.

The Canadian warrant officers, at the request of the U.S. Army, have been serving at establishments the anti-aircraft and guided missile school at Fort Bliss, Texas, and Redstone Arsenal, ordnance officer instructors at the guided missile school at Fort Sill, school of artillery, Larkhill, England.

To give Canadian soldiers practical training in after their basic courses, most of them are attached to army guided missile field units for two months before returning to Canada.

The army said it is not yet in a position to give details about when it will obtain guided missiles.

However, the subject of procurement has been and is continuously under consideration and study," the army said.

MARXIST LEADER APPARENT VICTOR IN ELECTION

Has Little Chance Of Forming Govt.

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—The Communists for the second time in four years won a general election victory in British Guiana, but it leaves them without a chance of again establishing a Red government in Britain's South American colony.

The Peoples' Progressive party of Cheddi Jagan, an East Indian dentist, had captured six of the legislature's 14 elective seats when counting ended for Tuesday night. His American-born wife, Janet, held a big lead in a seventh.

His major opponent, Linden Forbes Burnham, an anti-Communist Negro lawyer, won three seats in this capital city but his strength faded as more and more pro-Jagan votes were counted.

GOVERNOR IN CONTROL

Negro voters outnumber the East Indians in Georgetown, but outside the city the East indians make up nearly half the population and strongly favor Jagan personally.

But even the winning of more seats will still leave Jagan without much governmental power. There are 28 seats in the legislature. Jagan is expected to be empowered to appoint 11 of these members and the governor has three members of the governor's staff are ex-officio members with voting power.

Jagan, while apparently failing to get a majority of seven of eight of the 14 elective seats, nevertheless registered a personal triumph.

The British authorities deposed him as chief minister in 1953 after he won the elections and tried to establish a Communist government. This time the authorities hoped the voters would defeat him. Instead, the results showed that he is virtually as strong or stronger than ever.

JAGAN HOPEFUL

Jagan is still hopeful of getting a total of eight seats to bolster his certain demand that the governor approve him as chief minister.

If final results show Jagan with only six or seven seats he may have to form a coalition cabinet.

Jagan campaigned principally with attacks on "British colonial dictatorship" and demands for immediate independence.

Says Khrushchev Seeks to Sway German Voters.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department today accused Soviet Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev of "crude attempts" to influence the outcome of the September elections in West Germany.

Press officer Lincoln White suggested that Khrushchev's address on a just-completed visit to East Germany had backfired. He said Khrushchev's "Communist boss' statements "seem to have been equally distasteful to all of the participants in the election campaign." Khrushchev returned to Moscow today.

Find Signs Blast of Force Beyond Anything Imaginable Rent Plane as It Crashed

ISSOUDUN, Que. (CP)—An explosion "beyond anything imaginable" apparently rent the chartered DC-4 aircraft on impact as it crashed Sunday, a Quebec government official said today.

"Pearls inside jewel boxes were split into three or four pieces," said Deputy Attorney-General Charles-Edouard Dorais. Fountain pens and pencils inside luggage "were broken in tiny pieces."

Mr. Cantin, who visited the scene Tuesday, said the job of extricating the fuselage's main section—with its presumed human contents — would take a fairly long time.

A bulldozer and mechanical shovel worked today in the soggy bog where the Maritime Central aircraft hurtled before exploding. The main section of the fuselage made a 25-foot crater into which had to be pumped out.

A memorial is to be erected to the victims at the spot about 35 miles southwest of Quebec.

Meanwhile, Dr. Noe Soze of Hamilton identified the passport photo-stat of his wife, Ellen, 42, and daughter Pamela, 13 months. Police said it was the first official identification of crash victims. The mother and child were returning from Rimouski, Que.

Mr. Cantin said, "there is evidence everywhere that the impact of the explosion was beyond anything imaginable. Hundreds of various pieces of luggage and miscellaneous items have been picked up and are carefully being examined. What we have found is fantastic.

"For instance, one small jewel box was found. Inside it each pearl of a necklace was broken into three or four pieces. Investigators on the scene describe this bit of evidence as incredible.

"Our men have looked through some pieces of luggage. Inside them, bottles, cans and specie were broken in tiny pieces."

The power equipment was expected to help erase the main part of it plane which appeared to have plowed up by the sodden soil.

The department of transport was headed by Jean-Paul Fournier, arrived Tuesday to dig up every part of the plane to determine the cause of the crash.

They will collect each piece, number it and note its position on a map of the area. The job was delayed four pumps sucked the stagnant green water from the crater.

Only one body has been recovered from the scene so far. The body was one of the three children on the plane. Parts of bodies have been found. Officials have a fear that few definite identifications will be made.

Meanwhile, Attorney-General Que-bec deputy attorney-general, visited the scene Tuesday and said there was a search ground for the victims seems the best course.

A monument in their memory will be built on a site dividing the parishes of Issoudun and St. Apollinaire. The decision was reached Tuesday night by the provincial attorney-general's department, the federal department of transport and Maritime Central Airways.

Archbishop Maurice Roy of Quebec City approved the plan but authorities are awaiting word from relatives of the victims who were ask to have the remains moved.

Council Intends to Proceed With Frank Street Sewer

At a special meeting of the city council held on Tuesday afternoon in the council chambers the members discussed at length the Frank street sewer project connecting same with pumping station, to relieve the flooding conditions that exist each spring. The Ontario Municipal Board had approved an order for $17,000 for the work but it has been found that work cannot be done for less than $33,580 and therefore the order has been cancelled and the council has been forced to start the proceedings for this work again from the beginning.

The council approved a recommendation "Resolved that purchase of land in the local improvement Act, that it is desirable that the city acquire all private drain connections together with a pumping station be constructed at the corner of Frank and Sidney streets at a cost of $33,580 to service Frank Street and the surrounding area and abutting on the work, consisting of Union Street from Frank St. to Vanmum Street, from Frank St. from Union Street to College St., and the south portion of Sidney St. from Frank Street to Sidney St. and that the intention of council to construct the same be duly advertised."

It was suggested that a petition be advocated to get the feeling of the owners in that area of which only about twenty - five houses will be affected. The acting city manager, Drury Denyes, suggested that letters be sent to the ratepayers and if suitable replies are received that a meeting of the owners be called to talk over the situation. The work is not being made larger to service the land of Thurlow township.

After the acting city manager had informed the meeting that a hearing of the Municipal Board would be held in the city on August 22nd to deal with the parking lot at the Hotel Quinte, he inquired if the council wanted representation at the meeting and what action the council party concerned breaching the zoning by-law. Ald. Graham stated he was not in favor of what the party did but it is a part of whether the city needs parking. Ald. Temple declared that the council would probably give tacit approval for all ratepayers to break the zoning by-law. An application was made that the zoning by-law be changed to permit the whole west side of Church Street a commercial area but this motion was lost on the following vote. Meeting of the Board."

It was decided to have representation at the meeting and Aldermen Whalen and C. L. Hyde were appointed to represent the city with the city solicitor.

Two by-laws were given final readings, one of which had been approved by the Municipal Board, the by-law covering construction of sewers and curbs.

After the council meeting the members held a caucus meeting on the appointment of a city manager.

U.S. OFFICIALS EXPELLED BY SYRIAN GOVT.

Said Men Involved In Plot Against State

DAMASCUS, Syria (Reuters)—Three American today prepared to leave this Arab state under an expulsion order issued by the Syrian government.

The men were asked to leave the country following Syrian allegations that the United States was involved in a plot to overthrow the present Syrian government.

Expelled were Vice - Consul Francis Lucey, the military attache, Col. Robert Malloy, and Howard Stone, alleged by the Syrians to have been contact man in the plot.

(A state department spokesman in Washington, described the charges as "a complete fabrication.")

ACCUSE EX-PRESIDENT

A Syrian government communique alleged that American officials organized a plot with the aid of the Syrian military attache. Rome and former president Adib Shishakly, who is in exile.

Information Minister Salih Akli said: "We believe that what has been uncovered is only the beginning of something far bigger."

He added that martial law might have to be imposed.

The communique said Stone was sent by Washington officials in Syria where he got in touch with members of the Syrian Socialist Nationalist party and army officers.

One of the officers introduced Stone to the Rome attache, who was alleged to have said he would "liquidate" conditions in Syria and make peace with Israel in return for American aid ranging from $300,000,000 to $400,000,000.

Revolt in Oman Ends as 2 More Towns Surrender

MANAMA, Bahrein (AP)—The once - flaring Arabian revolt in Muscat and Oman was reduced to a flicker today after two more rebel-held towns ceded to the British-led forces of the ruling sultan.

British spokesmen said the rebellion of Iman Chalebdir Ali came to a virtual end as the sultan's scarlet banners were raised over the towns of Tanuf and Bakhla.

The back of the four-week-old rebellion was broken Sunday when British forces took the fortress town of Nizwa, 140 miles inland.

"After Firq was overcome there was nothing left," Sir Rupert Burrows, British political resident in Bahrein, told reporters.

Burrows said most villagers who supported Ghalib's attempt to set up an independent sultanate have given up. They have welcomed the forces of Sultan Said bin Taimur or taken to the hills, he added.

Polish Workers Return To Jobs After Ultimatum

Police and Soldiers Oust Strikers From Tram Depots

LODZ, Poland (Reuters)—Streetcars clanged through this big Polish industrial city today after police and army units ousted striking transport workers from the main streetcar depots.

The strike by drivers and conductors for a pay raise ended after 48 hours when police and soldiers took over the depots. An official statement published in newspapers said the workers agreed to go back to work in the country's interests. There was no word of settlement terms.

Ousting of the strikers from the depots was bloodless, although unconfirmed reports said shots were fired over the heads of strikers.

Police occupation of the depots came on the expiration of a return-to-work ultimatum to the 10,000 public transport workers.

LOW PAY

The transport workers now received 2.80 zlotys an hour—less than the price of a pack of cigarets. They want a five-sloty-an-hour increase. Some bonus payments The official exchange rate is 24 slotys to the dollar.

The newspaper Glos Robotniczy reported that a resolution was adopted today at a meeting of strikers. The resolution said in part:

"After two days we see that the strike is condemned by the population of Lodz and by our comrades from other factories. We do not want to be a burden on our people's state and we want to help to follow the line mapped out by the October plenum."

(That refers to the "new course" policy of more independence for the country officially proclaimed last October when Wladyslaw Gomulka came to power.)

LONDON (AP)—Warsaw radio said today the transport workers' strike in the Polish industrial city of Lodz has been settled, with strikers agreeing to return to their jobs.

Wants DOSCO To Stay Under Maritimers

TORONTO (CP) — Officials of A. V. Roe of Canada Limited today filed a brief opposing the application of a proposal to sell Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation to Avro.

The Halifax Chronicle-Herald quotes Dosco director R. A. Jodrey of Hantsport, N.S., as saying the proposed $60,000,000 deal would be detrimental to Nova Scotia. Avro is a Toronto firm.

Mr. Jodrey said he wants control of Dosco retained "by interests concerned with using raw products—coal and steel—produced in the Atlantic area."

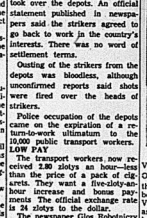
15-YEAR-OLD GIRL SAVES THREE LIVES BY SWIM TO SHORE



A mile-and-a-half swim by Vicki Farrow, 15, of Etobicoke, Ont., saved the lives of her brother and two friends when their boat swamped on Lake Simcoe. Vicki waited to start for shore as soon as the boat capsized but her father forbade her to try. As the boat drifted farther from shore, Vicki struck out for shore in spite of her father's orders, leaving him and the other two persons clinging to the overturned boat. On shore Vicki had no trouble despatching a motor boat to the rescue.

Govt. Butter Sales Price To Be Raised

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has decided to boost its butter sales price to 61 cents a pound wholesale from 58 cents, the agriculture department announced today.

Officials said no butter shortage is anticipated next winter but government stocks have declined from the heavy-surplus level of the last few years.

In most years it sold its stocks at the prevailing 60,000,000 deal would be detrimental to Nova Scotia. Avro is a Toronto firm.

Few Pointers How to Escape Sharks, Barracuda by Expert Skin Diver

NEW YORK (AP)—Most swimmers who encounter a shark merely worry how to escape him. A few brave souls, however, have a wild desire to ride him instead.

In both cases John Tassos, a New York adventurer, says coolness and authority on skin diving, has the answer. He is the author of "Underwater Hunting," a book for sportsmen who want to spear fish, explore wrecks and even pick up shells from the floor of the sea.

"You can a swimmer escape if he encounters a shark or barracuda underwater.

"The chances are, if you meet the shark or barracuda first near shore, he is well fed and merely curious at seeing you," said Tassos.

"The main thing to do is to avoid irritating him. How do you keep him calm? By staying calm yourself. The simplest thing to do is keep your eyes on him, and swim toward shore, slowly and easily.

Revolt in Oman Ends as 2 More Towns Surrender

MANAMA, Bahrein (AP)—The once - flaring Arabian revolt in Muscat and Oman was reduced to a flicker today after two more rebel-held towns ceded to the British-led forces of the ruling sultan.

British spokesmen said the rebellion of Iman Chalebdir Ali came to a virtual end as the sultan's scarlet banners were raised over the towns of Tanuf and Bakhla.

The back of the four-week-old rebellion was broken Sunday when British forces took the fortress town of Nizwa, 140 miles inland.

"After Firq was overcome there was nothing left," Sir Rupert Burrows, British political resident in Bahrein, told reporters.

Burrows said most villagers who supported Ghalib's attempt to set up an independent sultanate have given up. They have welcomed the forces of Sultan Said bin Taimur or taken to the hills, he added.

Few Pointers How to Escape Sharks, Barracuda by Expert Skin Diver

NEW YORK (AP)—Most swimmers who encounter a shark merely worry how to escape him. A few brave souls, however, have a wild desire to ride him instead.

In both cases John Tassos, a New York adventurer, says coolness and authority on skin diving, has the answer. He is the author of "Underwater Hunting," a book for sportsmen who want to spear fish, explore wrecks and even pick up shells from the floor of the sea.

"You can a swimmer escape if he encounters a shark or barracuda underwater.

"The chances are, if you meet the shark or barracuda first near shore, he is well fed and merely curious at seeing you," said Tassos.

"The main thing to do is to avoid irritating him. How do you keep him calm? By staying calm yourself. The simplest thing to do is keep your eyes on him, and swim toward shore, slowly and

Display of Agricultural Products Processed in Two Counties Seen at Fair

If residents of Prince Edward and Hastings counties wish to learn more about their districts they should take advantage of the commercial exhibit at the fair this week.

Located at one end of the new cattle barn, this exhibit is an interesting and complete display of agricultural products processed in the two counties.

This area is well-known for its dairy products, which include butter. The production of butter in Hastings and Prince Edward counties last year was more than 3,000,000 pounds, having a value of almost $2,000,000. The display of butter in this exhibit comes from three dairies in Belleville, Stirling, Trenton, Picton, Madoc and Tweed.

Cheese is still another product which has helped bring a name to the district. Belleville's Black Diamond Cheese products were represented at the exhibit, showing their Black Diamond Old Canadian Cheddar Cheese, Black Watch Highland Type Cheddar Cheese, and their Natural Canadian Cheddar Cheese.

Another local cheese company, W. S. Cook and Son, Ltd., set up a display of their products. These merchants produce White Cheese, Coloured Cheddar cheese, Red Clover Canadian Cheddar cheese and Cook's Fully Old Cheddar cheese, which are their main brands. Twenty-six cheese factories from these two types are processed were represented at the Cook display. Each had its name listed for a 90-pound wooden cheese box.

For the benefit of visitors to this exhibit a poster beside the display describes the area's method of cheese production in this area. Last year almost 8,000,000 pounds of cheese were produced in the two counties. This was valued at nearly $2,000,000.

Other dairy products which can be seen here at the exhibit are Ice Cream and Quinte Canadian Cheddar Cheese from Deseronto. This display also contains plastic bag samples of skim milk powder, across to sugar of milk, milk albumen, and 30 and 60 mesh casein.

Clearate, manufactured by Lecithin Products (Canada) Limited, of Belleville is on view at the commercial showing. This is a lecithin product made from soybeans and used in the manufacture of margarine and paint, in the baking industry and in many other products.

Belleville's frozen food division of Swift Canadian Co. Limited was represented with a wall display of its frozen fruit and meat pies.

CANNED FOODS SHOWN

Canned foods which are produced in the district have their place at this showing. Four canning companies taking part in this exhibit are Belleville's Graham Food Products with "King's Choice" brand, Shannonville Canneries Ltd., which feature the "Miss Canada" brand, East Lake Canneries Ltd. of Picton, with the "East Lake" brand, and Canadian Canners (1957) Limited of Deseronto. The first three displayed sample cans of tomatoes, tomato juice, red raspberries, strawberries, red cherries and blueberries. The Aylmer display showed cans of corn and peas, prepared in a variety of ways.

Rounding out this fine exhibit is Meat Johnson of Canada Ltd. of Belleville. This display contains packages of infants' foods in powder form, including the various Pablum precooked baby cereals.

Chairman of the committee sponsoring this exhibit is Chas. Heath, manager of the Ontario Cheese Producers. Gerald Wishart, works manager of Meat Johnson, was the other member of this committee. The manager of the Chamber of Commerce, Bob Hamilton, assisted them in getting together the names of firms that manufacture and process agricultural products in Prince Edward and Hastings counties. These firms were then contacted by Mr. Heath and the display assembled by Ontario Cheese Producers.

Mr. Hamilton invited local groups represented and instructed them to have some hand at the display to answer any questions visitors might have.

Although this is the first year such an exhibit has been shown, it will not be the last. According to Mr. Hamilton, plans are now being formulated to make a larger and more impressive display at next year's fair. This would provide the opportunity to view this exhibit at the fair can see it after Thanksgiving is over. Then the Chamber of Commerce building, where it will become a permanent display.

W.H. Sayers, Former Reeve Of Tweed, Dies

William Herbert Sayers, well known in the civic, business and church life of Tweed for many years, died in the Campbellford Memorial Hospital on Tuesday after an illness which had extended for a six-month period.

Mr. Sayers was born at Tweed 78 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sayers. He received his early education in the public and old high schools of Tweed.

For some years he farmed at Farnsworth Corners and in 1921 he sold the farm and contents and moved to his native village, where he established a Life and Fire Insurance business, which he conducted for many years. Mr. Sayers was also active in that part of Hastings County. In 1931 he was elected to Tweed council and resided in that town for five years, moving back to Tweed two years ago.

During his life in Tweed he took a active part in the community life and also the municipal life of the village. He was reeve of the village council for some years and was elected to the 1933 and continued in that office until 1938. He attended County Council and left his imprint on the deliberations of that body. In St. John's United Church he was an active and faithful member, serving on the Board of Stewards and being a librarian at the time of his death. Fraternally he was identified with Tweed Lodge No. 284, A.F. and A.M. and for many years was a life member of Tweed Lodge, No. 284.

The late Mr. Sayers was a man of high character, enjoyed and made a wide circle of friends and was always willing to assist in any project that would advance his native village. He was a member of the Tweed Fair Board for many years and assisted materially in making that fair one of the best in Central Ontario.

Surviving are his wife, the former Jennie Foster; three sons, Morton Sayers of Campbellford; Robert Sayers of Hawthorne and Donald Sayers of Wellington. A daughter, Mrs. Joseph (Elsie) Farquar; one sister, Mrs. Jane Sayers, and four sisters, Mrs. Geo. (Addie) Wilson, Mrs. John (Florence) Maynes, and the Misses Laura and Bertha Sayers predeceased him some years ago.

His first wife, Mary Morton, died some years ago.

Calgary Man Turns Tables On Constable

CALGARY (CP)—When Constable Gordon Anderson saw the constable who had booked him for speeding driving a few months ago, he decided to follow him in his own car to see "how police officers keep the law." That was July 24.

Constable D. R. Dawson appeared in traffic court Tuesday on a speeding charge. Anderson, his wife and three passengers testified they had clocked the constable at speeds up to 45 miles an hour in a 30-mile area.

The case was adjourned until Friday.

Buddy French On Kingston TV Station

Belleville has produced several singers, musicians and painters over the years but 1957 apparently doesn't want to be excluded from giving a local artist the opportunity to break into the bright lights.

BUDDY FRENCH

Buddy French, 65 Plain St., will appear on CKWS-TV Friday night at 6.00 to 6.30 on his own program. He has been singing western, calypso and rock and roll over CJBQ and CKWS and has made his Belleville debut over CJBQ some time ago.

Born in Buffalo, N.Y., Buddy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman French, live in Trenton. Buddy was educated at Trenton High School, graduating about five years ago.

He has always had a keen interest in anything musical and when just a boy, learned to play the trumpet, saxophone, clarinet, although he also professes to play a number of other instruments by ear, only.

This coming autumn he will appear on Television, in Toronto on the program, "Pick the Stars," for which he has high hopes next spring. He recently received an application from Toronto for an audition for another program.

Although Buddy has had no formal training in voice, folks who have seen and heard him over Kingston television claim he has a marvelous chance of really making a hit. Locally, Buddy has sung at the Club Commodore and Dawson's Motel in Deseronto.

Chuck Collins, local radio announcer, and Morris Whalen will be going along to Kingston with Buddy tomorrow night to give him moral support.

Home Economics Well Represented By Pastries

The home economics section was well represented by its fine display of home cooking which was most tempting with its fresh loaves of bread; fruit and house rolls; tea biscuits; doughnuts and fancied cakes; pies of all kinds, both open faced and closed, included apple, berry, cherry and lemon; jam-jelly; muffins; cup cakes; layer cakes in light and dark, all temptingly iced; coconaut cakes; date loaves; chocolate squares; fruit cake; tarts, lemon and tarfy; jelly rolls, and a series of un-iced angel cakes, also some delicious chocolate cakes.

A special case exhibited some cakes for certain occasions as birthdays and wedding, in layer and loaf designs, nicely iced. One birthday two-layer cake was in white with pink decorations and with pink candles outlining the lower section and the top. Another was in white with yellow decorations.

Two platters of homemade candies included maple creams; chocolate fudge; delightful fudge; and fondant candy not centred.

The canned vegetables section had a good showing of beets; mustard pickles; relishes and conserves, while the canned fruits included cherries, pears, golden peaches; jellies of several kinds, berry; red currant; crab apple and grape, as well as jams.

Some fresh eggs and one roll of homemade butter were also shown.

Police Blotter

City police reported a comparatively quiet night with only two minor accidents and a similarly minor break-in coming to attention.

The break-in was at the McCarthy Milling Company, where someone broke a second storey window, ransacked the office and made off with $2 found in a jar.

Minister of Defence Pays 'Working Visit' to Station

TRENTON (Special) — Hon. George R. Pearkes, V.C., Canada's new minister of national defence, made a "working visit" to the Trenton air base today, arriving from Ottawa by Dakota aircraft shortly after ten this morning.

The plane was a few minutes late touching down because the minister, the first Progressive Conservative defence chief to visit Trenton in a quarter of a century, made a special request for the pilot to circle the field so that he could get a visual picture of the whole RCAF set-up and its proximity to its next door neighbor, the town of Trenton.

The minister was welcomed by a party of high-ranking RCAF officers headed by Air Vice-Marshal A. G. Bryans, Air Officer Commanding Training Command, and including Air Commodore W. J. Gilchrist, Officer Commanding Air Materiel Command, Group Captain R. M. Cox, commanding officer of Station Trenton, G/C T. A. Spruston, commanding officer of No. 6 Repair Depot and Wing Commander J.F. Easton, DFC, chief operations officer, Training Command Headquarters. There were no civilians or members of parliament in the welcoming group who greeted the minister.

It was learned from an official spokesman that the minister intended to make this visit a "work trip" and a date in the not-too-distant future he would again visit the Trenton air base at which time he would meet with the municipal heads, and civilian figures and members of parliament from the district.

A 50-man guard of honor was on hand for the arrival of the defence minister along with the Training Command Headquarters band.

Mrs. Pearkes accompanied her husband and was welcomed by officers' wives. She will be guest of honor at a tea at noon at the home of Mrs. Cox, while the minister will be guest of honor of the officers' mess.

Mr. Pearkes will make a thorough tour of Training Command Headquarters, RCAF Station Trenton and No. 6 Repair Depot before leaving to return to Ottawa at 4 p.m. today.

SMALL PLANTS

Arctic plants remain small because of lack of soil and water and the intensity of the northern summer sun.

Vegetables Top Fruit Display As Season Early

The earliness of the season was not conducive to an outstanding display of fruit, but those shown gave a foretaste of what was to come. There were nicely arranged pyramids of apples (greenings) and plates of Richardson delicious; Talman Sweets, Wolfe Rivers, McIntosh reds, red astrachans, pears and plums of several varieties including Shiro, Frost and others.

The vegetables outshone the fruits in their size, appearance and variety. There were red and white cabbages of firm heads; cauliflowers, cucumbers for table use and pickling, both green and ripe; silver skinned onions, carrots, sweet peppers, a fine showing of potatoes, smooth-skinned and of good size; both yellow and green squash, some small individual sizes, and two huge, cream-colored; pumpkins, both domestic size and large field size; vegetable marrows as nice for delectable jams during the cold of winter; watermelons and citrons, also nice canned; tomatoes, smooth and round, and bushel hampers of sweet Spanish onions; sash, parsnips and Hubbard squash.

Child of Victim Struck by Car Crossing Road

PICTON — Trouble struck twice at the Harten Home on Scoharie Road near Picton on Tuesday.

Shortly before noon the father, Christian Harten, 38, who is a carpenter at the Lake Ontario Portland Cement Company Ltd., north of Picton, was electrocuted when 4,800 volts passed through a ladder he was carrying and he was badly burned.

Tuesday evening his daughter Ruth, 3, was struck by a car in front of her home as she was crossing the road after her sister called her for supper.

The little girl was said by her physician, Dr. C. R. Richardson, to be in good condition although she suffered a severe bump on the head, a gash in the leg and road abrasions.

The father was killed as he contacted the cable to remove forms, the boom of the crane touching a hydro wire, sending 4,800 volts through his body.

Resuscitation crews from Picton Army Camp and from Picton rural Hydro worked for three and a half hours in an unsuccessful effort to revive him.

Following the death of her father the little girl spent the afternoon at the home of Mrs. Morley Istead, a neighbor across the road.

Shortly before six o'clock the girl's sister, Muriel, 16, called her for supper. As she ran home the little girl darted in front of a car driven by Nathaniel Kellar, R.R. 1, Bloomfield.

DELAY POLICE VACATIONS

MONTREAL (CP) — Police Director J. Albert Langlois Tuesday ordered cancellation of police vacations during Montreal's civic election period. The election date is Oct. 27. Holidays for 179 policemen will be delayed three days until Oct. 30, Mr. Langlois announced.

Formful Racing In Both Classes Seen at Fair

Harness horse racing still has a strong hold on the residents of this district as evidenced by the splendid card that turned out for the two classes that were raced at the Belleville fair on Tuesday afternoon. In other parts of the races have been interspersed with novelty acts before the grandstand but this year the races were run off in their entirety and the new system was heartily approved by the harness fans.

A Marmora mare, Brownie's Play Girl, was much the best in the slow class by winning the first heat and coming right back to be nosed out in the final strides. A Peterborough mare, Miss Van Admiral was a close competitor in both heats, winning the second trip by an eyelash. Dalzy Baker, a mare owned by R. Orr of this city, raced well in this class, being second in the first heat but made a "break" in the second and had to be content with fifth place. The horses in the second half were the fastest "trip" of the afternoon and Brownie's Play Girl, not bad for a 2.28 class horse.

In the second race, the 2.20 class, Barney Hanley, of Orono section, uncovered a real "beauty" in Linda Jean, the mare who won both heats with ease. Orono horse, Freddie Richards, was second in both heats but did not have the extra power to threaten the leader. The latter event on the whole was formful and fully appreciated. The Mitchell starting gate was used and the starts were all excellent, while Campbellford horseman Lawrence kept the patrons well informed on the progress of the several heats.

Hospital-Bound Policeman Has Role Altered

Directed to Belleville General Hospital by his desk sergeant to investigate a complaint of broken windows, Police Constable Don Yeomans encountered a officer with the Belleville Police Department ended his trip in an ambulance this morning, not on his motorcycle.

While on his way to carry out his directions a truck suddenly emerged from a side street and Constable Yeomans was thrown over the handlebars into the side of the vehicle, his bike crashing up into the side of the truck. Dr. Ross Hubbs, hospital superintendent, said Constable Yeomans suffering from bruises and a shaking up and was admitted to stay for another treatment.

Police said that a southbound truck owned and driven by Charles Parm of Canniton, emerged from Foster Ave. onto Dundas directly into the path of the motorcycle.

Highlights of the Fair

Who was it said "You cannot teach an old dog new tricks?" Mr. Alfred Bagg, of Thornhill, who judged Jersey cattle at the fair is a veteran breeder as well as a judge. Mr. Bagg has judged for 31 consecutive years at the Canadian National Exhibition and 35 consecutive years at the Royal Winter Fair, Ottawa.

He has a herd of 200 head of Jersey cattle on his farm and has exhibited his prize stock for the past 38 years.

Mr. Bagg was greatly impressed with the Belleville Fair. "I would like to come back next year," he said, "and bring some of my exhibitor friends with me."

The late Tom Powers who owned the Queens Hotel here, was a great showman in his own right. He organized and took the famous Belleville Kilties Band around the world and later organized a troupe of trained elephants which became a sensation, especially in New York.

The elephant appearing with the Conklin Midway at the fair were a somewhat worn blanket which was the pride of Powers' "Lena." One of Mr. Power's elephant troupe was named Lena, but this gave rise to the belief that "Lena" had come home to "roost awhile."

However, the keeper of the elephant said his charge was not the Power's elephant. That particular "Lena" died the early years ago at the age of 97. The elephant now at the fair came from the Miami Zoo where it is Hollywood, and has appeared with many movie stars, particularly Shirley Temple when she was a child actress.

Sixty residents of the Institute Country Home for the Aged were special guests of the Fair Board at the exhibition yesterday. The elderly ladies enjoyed the grandstand shows while the other citizens of the home mood visited the barns where they saw the livestock, horses and other interesting farm products. The board's gesture was greatly appreciated by the superintendent Ken Yorke and Matron Mrs. Yorke saw to it that the elderly guests enjoyed themselves.

Master Ralph, the boy xylophone virtuoso, who is delighting crowds with the mastery of his instrument, is nine years of age and has been playing since he was three. His name is Held Rolph, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Rolph who travel with him.

The curly-haired handsome youngster is also known for a girl, but this he hotly denies. He also plays the piano and drums. He has travelled in most of the European countries as well as South America. His mother, a professional school teacher looks after the field's education while travelling.

The Rolphs first discovered Held had talent when they found him tinkling a tune on a xylophone on a big spoon.

The Rolphs are Swiss.

Jack Bush's high-stepping high spirited hackney mare drew gasps of admiration from the grandstand crowd prior to the judging yesterday afternoon. Mr. Bush's fine animals won first and third prizes and are a distinct credit to their owner to their owner and to the city. They have been and will be shown in other fairs of the district.

A noticeable improvement in grandstand performance policy was noted this year. The Fair Board decided to hold the harness racing as an entity rather than interspersing the heats with acts from the stage show. This course has proved popular with fair-going patrons, some of whom did not care for the racing, and were forced to wait for their favorite grandstand fare.

Visiting American show troupes should be properly informed as to what is Canada's National Anthem. We in Canada still honor "God Save the Queen." It is presumed that large shows usually close with the National Anthem of the country in which they are performing.

On Monday night it was announced after the finals that "O Canada" would be played and sung. Some of the grandstand audience stook at first. Others remained seated. Finally all stood. Some removed their hats, others did not.

Some of the American entertainers were somewhat mystified at the lack of spontaneity on the part of the audience when "O Canada" was played. Had "The Queen" been played there would have been no hesitation as to what to do.

Uniondale W.I. is catering in the dining room in the Club-Commodore building on Wednesday, while Wallbridge W.I. will do the honors tomorrow.

Tuesday night the smell of skunk was quite noticeable near the grandstand.

Belleville's dog catcher, Charles Thorne, is currently engaged as a special constable for the exhibition.

For the past several weeks he has been conducting a campaign to rid the city of delicats.

Although the kitty did not show its nose to Charlie last night, it apparently is one grown fond of rambles and followed him to the fair.

Fair secretary Ben Bleecker is a busy man these days, but he isn't too busy to exercise word or two to children.

Yesterday, Master Junior miss, in her early teens, approached the secretary's office and told him she had found a key case and a white plastic secretary's key and hoped would be returned to their rightful owner.

Mr. Bleecker was very impressed with the girl's wonderful show of honesty and offered her a quarter for turning in the article. She said she did not want a reward, saying the comb and keys were not hers and all she had done was find them.

Alex Hall Will Be Prosecutor At Preliminary

PICTON (Special) — Alex Hall, Q.C., Crown attorney for Ontario County and deputy Crown counsel at the Clarence A. Lings preliminary hearing is scheduled for Picton court house Monday, August 19th, at 1.30 p.m.

Mr. Jones, a prominent Picton merchant, is charged with murder in the shooting of his wife in July.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills of Belleville, will preside at the preliminary hearing with Fred L. Ward of Picton, assisted by G. A. Marion, Q.C., acting for the defence.

Attendance Figures to Date Indicate Normal Fair Year

Warm weather greeted the second day of the Belleville Fair yesterday but attendance was appreciably down in comparison to last year's figures.

Some 4,815 paid admission yesterday as compared to 7,867 of the second day in 1956.

Grandstand admissions yesterday were 982 adults and children. Last year 2,714 saw the second day grandstand performances.

Fair officials, however, state comparison is not fair. Rather they say, this year's figures to date are indicative of a normal fair year. Last year the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Musical Ride, which performed here for four days, proved a tremendous added attraction.

The "Gateway to the Stars" stage attraction drew rounds of well-deserved applause from the grandstand audience at the two performances offered last night.

The attraction continues to draw the plaudits of the public with its high-class variety acts and the artistry of individual and collective performers.

An added attraction last night and one which received popular acclaim was the performance of the Belleville Kilties Band in front of the grandstand. The band offered a fine musical presentation, while the majorettes caught the public fancy with their precision calisthenics.

Another feature was the parade of the finest horseflesh in the district. From the proud-strut Percheron and other heavy draft horses to the prancing pony, the grandstand patrons had an insight into what prominent horse-breeders and fanciers are doing.

Afternoon patrons had the opportunity of seeing the judging of the hackney ponies and other high-stepping equines. The ponies and cunning horses made an attractive picture as they proceed in front of the judges.

The first day of harness racing was productive of keen competition with every heat being hotly contested. Climaxing the harness events was a race between carriage horses.

CHANGES TEMPO

A feature of the afternoon, one used for the first time, was the segregation of harness racing from the stage show. In former years stage acts interspersed racing heats. This year the events are being run off with the stage performances climaxing. On a whole, the afternoon grandstand activities

This eliminates the waiting for grandstand patrons who do not care for racing but come to see the stage performance. It is proving a popular move.

Harness racing concluded its two-day card this afternoon with thrilling events again featuring the races. There was more horse-judging while the stage show was given later.

Tonight will see the judging of the six-horse and four-horse tandem teams, while the Drum and Trumpet Band of 6 R.D. RCAF Trenton will offer a concert and demonstration.

There will be two performances of the "Gateway to the Stars", the first starting at 6.45 and the second at 8.45.

Tomorrow will be featured the acts for which thousands of city and district youngsters, and oldsters, too, have been waiting.

The Lone Ranger and Tonto their famous horses "Silver and Scout" will join entertainment forces with "Lassie" the television wonder dog in three performances. The afternoon show starts at three o'clock and the evening shows at 6.45 and 8.45.

YOUTH AND AGE IN GOVERNMENT

Maurice Lamontagne, economic adviser to the Federal Cabinet, has resigned to become economics professor at the University of Ottawa. He is 39.

Criticism is sometimes heard that Canadians are governed by "a bunch of old men." Whether at the Federal, provincial or municipal level, it is simple to gather evidence to support this charge. All one needs to do is to average the age of elected representatives charged with top administrative responsibilities, the members of the federal and provincial cabinets and the mayors of municipalities. Even if one were to average the age of private members of the House of Commons and of provincial legislatures, we doubt whether this would reduce the resultant figure by any impressive margin. The situation might be a little difficult if we were to determine the average age of members of municipal councils. There are some young men and women starting their political careers at the municipal level, but this fact would be partially offset by the "grand old men" who have served for a decade or even two.

Lamontagne's resignation, though, calls attention to a factor which is not considered in these appraisals of the Canadian political scene. His relative youth is not unexceptional for those holding high advisory posts at Ottawa. Whether the same holds true in all the provincial capitals we do not know; that a similar situation does not exist in most municipalities we feel reasonably sure. But at Ottawa the Liberal regime which held office for so many years appears to have deliberately selected "bright young men" for advisory posts.

Whether Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and his Progressive Conservative colleagues will continue this policy is one question; equally important is the problem of whether this policy is wise one.

Reason suggests that a good administrative team should be made up of men and women with varied backgrounds and outlooks and that this demands that they should not all be from the same age group.

But the best way to mix the greybeards and the recent college graduates may not be to have all of the latter group as advisers to the former. Perhaps some of the men in the "ivory tower" ought to be speaking from the background of years of experience, and some of the men they are advising ought to be fresh from the halls of learning.

The difficulty, of course, is that it is much simpler for the Cabinet to select a "brain" and appoint him to an advisory post than it is to discover him among the ranks of the elected members of Parliament. And that is not the fault of the members of the Cabinet, who are insofar as they have failed, as influential members of a political party, to interest bright young men in running for Parliament, and voters in electing such men. One suspects, though, that the main stumbling block to an adequate supply of young men and women in the Commons is not lack of interest by the younger generations in politics, nor the reluctance of the bulk of the voters to neglect them at the polls, but local party organizations, which have a long list of "stalwarts" who have been waiting in the wings until the passing years shall have brought them their turn to receive the party nomination.

Men who have the ability to advise the Federal Cabinet on economic questions when they are still in their thirties are not the type who will act as poll captains for a couple of decades before getting their turns as candidates.

KILLING ANIMALS

Recently we have been hearing quite a hue and cry about methods used in abattoirs for killing food for our tables. Less is being written about the way other types of animals are killed outside of slaughter houses.

Some of the things that go on in some slaughterhouses are pretty bad, but so are some of the ways we have of killing wild game.

We have been hearing reports from people who would like to see hanging as capital punishment in Canada abolished. Seeing a human being hanged certainly is not pleasant, neither is watching a rabbit strangling in a snare.

We endorse the move afoot to abolish any methods of killing domestic animals that involves unnecessary pain; but so, too, would we endorse a plan to train hunters and anglers in the most humane way of ending the death throes of a fallen wild animal or hooked fish.

REGRET

Wish I hadn't made a scene;
Wish I hadn't slammed the door;
Wish I hadn't been so mean;
Ought to smile a little more.
And I think if smile I would,
I am certain that I could.

Know my temper I should hold.
Still I—I'll not aware.
For a fellow getting old
"Can't" is a foolish thing to say.

When I'm what I shouldn't be People only laugh at me.

Into tantrums children go,
Wildly scream and stamp their feet;
Better, grownups ought to know;
We—

Foolish seem, beyond a doubt,
The excuses I pass out.

In Praise of Phones

By Harold Web in The Vancouver Sun

I see by the paper that Scottish telephone girls have gone up and frugal Scots are having their phones removed at the rate of 178 a day.

I should like to assure the B.C. Telephone Co., which is doubtless puzzled to collect the boots, that if our local rate goes up I won't like it a bit but I'll keep on installing my telephone taken out for three excellent reasons.

1. Because, without a telephone, I should never hear the voices and opinions of several interesting and sometimes explosive people.

2. Because, without a telephone, I should never get the opportunity of controlling my impulses to fury, exercises which have given me almost supernatural mastery over my blood pressure.

3. Because the vagaries of my telephone are so extraordinary and so constant that they afford a fascinating study in the aberrations of machines. The famous Canadian theologian Berdiseff attempted to define evil in terms of the not-self. I define evil in terms of the idiosyncrasies of my telephone—a devil in that box.

With regard to No. 2, I'm happy to report that I haven't insulted operators for various months. I've every me telephone for months and months. Wrong numbers, cut-offs, malignant readers get a gracious and patient hearing, although bitter reproaches, sarcasm and blasphemies may be scalding my wicked throat I may hang up a trifle abruptly sometimes, but I should like the general public to be aware of the restraint due to the weariness of my arm and not to the shortness of my temper. So in this respect, at least, the telephone has brought me a step nearer heaven.

We get a great many wrong numbers in Vancouver, perhaps five or six every day. I'm inclined to ascribe most of these not to the mechanical imperfections of the telephone system, but to the intellectual imperfections of its subscribers.

Over the course of time, I've come to regard my telephone as something more than a mere mass of wires and diagrams. I'm convinced that my telephone has a personality and a mind of its own. Indeed, I'm rather a materialist personality, sternly protestant, discriminating, exclusive. For instance, when somebody says "I tried to call you last time I was here and didn't get an answer," I can hear my telephone chuckle malevolently and mumble, "Well that's one old trout that didn't get through."

Several incidents have convinced me that the reason people can't raise me on the telephone (it happens very frequently when I haven't even left the house) is not faulty connections and so on, but the deep and sometimes mistaken sagacity of my telephone. There was, for example, when a doctor's office was trying to get me with regard to a vacant bed in the hospital. I was awaiting the call, cheering my self on that my phone didn't ring. I learned later that the doctor's office, fearing that the line was malingering, had called several other doctor's offices in various exchanges and asked them to call me. I got no call.

When I complained, somewhat petulantly, to the telephone company, they sent out my line and through to me on every exchange in the area. The only possible explanation is that my telephone, obsessed with its role as implacable communication-bouncer, had resolved it would be damned if I should be disturbed. It simply refused any calls having anything to do with my affairs. This, obviously, is the sort of personalized service that money can't buy. It is a tribute to the action that can't be measured in terms of cash.

So no matter what the Scots do about their telephones, I shall be found ever cunning telephone stays right there on my desk at whatever cost.

Barbecues Are Menace

By Ted Doulas in The Windsor Star

The outdoor barbecue is fast becoming an institution in suburbanland. This may be all right, provided the entrepreneur in the crazy hat has the good sense to shut down at the right time.

The host with the long fork and charcoal tongs should realize that when he invades the outdoors, to use the rock cookery, he is not merely seeking benefit on the goodwill of the fellow next door.

It is impossible to confine the wafting aroma of cooking sirloin to the back chunk of land. The neighbor to windward has to ingest these — and he may not like it.

Of course, if the neighbor doesn't object, that's all right. He can always retreat to the leeward side of his own house, and there's nothing to be done.

But it is these midnight food orgies which seem to get the host in trouble with others on the block. The party may be conducted with such quiet it runs too high in decibles.

The suburbanite complains that on a recent hot night one of his neighbors got things in high gear between 11 and midnight. The celebrants must have been hungry, because the barbecues were just as hungry as they.

The noise level kept rising, and one might say the party got boisterous. Out came a phonograph, and some old records. The folks six and seven houses away were serenaded with a loud "God Night, Irene."

Then the barbecue enthusiasts he had a terrific desire to stick his head out the bedroom window and shout his own "Good Nights" of his own—with ample embellishments.

Could this bit of rolstering be considered a breach of the peace? The law says a man is entitled to the peaceful enjoyment of his home — and this applies to a neighbor as well as the party maker.

Certainly an angry neighbor could summon the law's minions, and raise a fuss—but it is improbable a fellow would blow the whistle on his convivial "friend."

Most likely the victim will do nothing but smolder like the coals in the barbecue, and give the culprit a short, sharp, chilly "hello" next morning.

Hosts with an outdoor culinary bent could read the neighborhood "weather signals". When the dogs howl, and children for several hours around begin to cry their lungs out—because they can't get to sleep —the party then should end, promptly.

moved to desperate things, not even a bad-blood "spite" fence would contain the ruckus.

Seat Belts Prove Value

Windsor Star

When seat belts were first proposed for automobiles, following the example of airplanes, there was much objection, as might be in the automobile industry. But there now is sufficient experience with them to demonstrate their worth and the experts are more enthusiastic.

Mr. Robert S. McNamara, vice-president of the Ford Company in the U.S., has produced some statistics to support the safety belt. If all cars were thus belted or equipped, traffic fatalities in his country could be reduced from 40,000 annually to 12,000, and serious injuries from 1,000,000 to 500,000. He would not run "strongly recommends" safety belts.

Those we have another instance of an innovation the value of which was originally doubted to be generally accepted. Indeed, if they are as valuable as Mr. McNamara says they are, they may soon become obligatory.

Trouble is, would everyone use them? There is no pretty steering adnser standing at the front of the automobile saying pleasantly, "Please fasten your seat belts!!

Envelopes' Color Line

Windsor Star

White paper being more costly than brown, many organizations use brown envelopes for mailing. That is why so many private letters, bills, tax demands, receipts, promotion propaganda and cheap advertising, etc., in brown envelopes.

This led to a humorous incident in a Windsor home recently. In it, the husband received by the mail other stuff as comes in brown envelopes. The wife eagerly awaited receipt of the white envelopes which may be of a personal character.

Receiving a letter, he was mailed an important document she was supposed to sign immediately and return. A couple of weeks later it became difficult to locate it had been returned. She insisted, and insisted again, she never got it. Then, when she had been away, urged her to take another look which she did, but she held up a large brown envelope, "This wouldn't be it," she opined. "It was." Upon open those brown envelopes," she snorted and, finally, with the most small regard for such inconsequential mail as bills, tax demands, receipts and promotional material.

Modern Dress On Bible Folk

Wall Street Journal

Biblical characters in modern dress were unveiled in the Anglican Church of Saint Mary the Virgin in Bamsted, Nottingham, England, the other day, and the congregation had some mixed feelings about the paintings.

Some of the parishioners seemed pleased by the novelty scene, where Joseph is depicted as a carpenter, Mary kneeling over the crib, has hair styled in the way known as the "urchin." Others thought that to paint St. Peter in a gray flannel suit was going too far even in these advanced times. Some seemed bothered because the paintings were different from the Italian school they were used to.

A great many of the great Italian religious paintings, however, dress that in those days was modern. And the main object of the paintings is to give a new interest in the verities of the Testaments. Does it really matter that the old virtues are presented in modern dress?

In any case, the intention is to promote that return to religious precepts so many thoughtful people think is the real need of our restless age. It does, we have an idea that even the gray flannel suit depicted in Baptist Avenue will stay that the British pastor did good, like a good pastor, even though a few people may criticize the way he did it.

Youngsters Take to Road

Fort William Times-Journal

A prolific fresh crop of hitchhikers is much in evidence in the area this week. They are apart from the adult group to which drivers have become accustomed over the years. Youngsters from the ages of seven and eight to late teens are throwing thumb signals to motorists both in the cities and on the highways.

One such driver was stopped for two boys of about 11 years is still muttering to himself. When the lads got in, he asked them how far they were going.

"The next corner," the next", replied one of the pair.

"Have you walked far?" the driver then asked.

"Naw", said the boy, "we were playing in the field over there."

RELIGION BEGINS WITH FAITH

Problems of the mind respond to logic. Religious problems, however, respond only to faith. That is one reason why many thought problems which deal only with the physical world and life round about us, but when we come to problems of the spirit, and the realm in which religion operates we logic does very little good. We have to have another power with which to appropriate the benefits of the unseen world. Our five senses are sufficient to grasp and understand the physical world, but we lay hold on the spiritual and understand it — to the extent we — only through faith.

One reason that there is so much religious skepticism in the world is because people use the wrong method in seeking to fashion for themselves a satisfactory religion. We get nowhere in religion with faith. We have to start with faith. We have to believe something before we can see something for which we cannot find adequate explanation. If we can take this first step we are on our way to understanding religious truth.

What is so soon as we realize that the baltal approach in religion is to be along road of faith rather than the road of reason, we can use all the reason we have at our disposal and make it continuously and increasingly helpful.

But our religion begins with faith.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Preparing for Maternity

Last January a Wisconsin correspondent told me: "Our doctor attends home deliveries, but used to allow the father" (the patient's husband) "to remain in the delivery room. But the State refused on U.S. Influence because the hospital didn't have a plate glass observation window nursery for newborn babies and let mothers keep their babies in their rooms."

Whatever an O. B. licence may mean, I reiterate what I have said many times — the place for a real man is at his wife's side when their baby is being born.

Irrespective of hospital "rules", "regulations", alleged health board orders or risks of infection, there is no scientific reason why man and wife should be put asunder at the supreme moment of their wedded life.

When any one complains that the doctor or the hospital will not "allow" a man to remain with his wife in any and all stages of labor, I yearn to kick somebody in the circumstances.

Many husbands of prospective fathers is attributable to their education, or rather lack of education, in parenthood. Instead of studying everything the expectant mother studies and accompanying her when she goes to the doctor for instruction, the unlettered husband prefers to run out and play, leaving his wife to carry on alone. After all, it is she who has the smooty hospitals and the con-niving doctors like it. So the poor boob enters upon the role of the heavy role while his wife is carted off to some secret chamber to have her baby. He or may be to be prevented from having it until the doctor arrives.

It is ridiculous to exclude the husband from the room where his baby is being born, on the ground that he might bring infection into the room, since the current all times intends together in one room, where too often, fatal infection is transferred from one patient to the next.

Now it is far beyond my capacity to maintain a directory service of doctors or institutions.

All I can do is let you know what's going on. If you really want to know, ask your doctor or any doctor whether he or she intends confinement at home, or if not whether he or she will refer you to one who does. If the doctor gives you the brush-off, the heck with him. Canvass the entire list of doctors in the community until you find one who is using 20th century methods.

Same goes with hospitals, institutions, public or private. Inquire whether you may have your wife at side in the delivery refer. If the answer is not entirely cordial, the heck with the place. If you can't find an institution that respects the dignity of expectant parents and families, remember what I have said here many, many times.

Home is the best place to have a baby.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

On my travels last week, I called in at a hotel that is famous for its dining room. People are apt to travel a hundred miles just to have dinner there.

The menu was magnificent and large. The wine list, enormous. On it were far more plates, knives, forks and spoons than I ever noticed. The flower in the crystal vase was real. The waitress stood back and did not answer my every request. It was, in every respect, a lofty, hoi-class joint.

From the lavish menu, mostly in French, I ferreted out my dinner. Cold Vichyssoise, a filet of pickerel, plain boiled potatoes, a small green salad, and a piece of blueberry pie.

The Vichyssoise had the parsley sprinkled on it in sure enough. But instead of the chill, rousing flavor of the true Vichyssoise, I detected a faint perfumery in it. And when I scooped with my spoon, I noticed what appeared to be slivers of carrot and sundry other sedimentary deposits.

When the fillets of pickerel arrived, I could not see them. They were under a thick, rich sauce. And when I explored it with my fork, I found it was full of shrimps. It had a rather mild flavor, which entirely ruined the delightful flavor of pickerel, there were other elusive, faint savors and odors.

I asked the head waiter and enquired about the dish.

In fact, he was a specialty of our chef. He created this dish himself. You will get it nowhere else. In fact, the sauce is the particular employment of shrimps and certain herbs, is named after our chef!"

The salad was scoped up. The pie was good, but had something sprinkled on them. The blueberry pie was also unlike. It too had wonderful elusive piquant aftertastes.

Before I left, I saw the chef come and stand in the service door and peer into the dining room. He was a fat, dark, imposing-looking man.

I wish chefs would leave food alone.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE HARMONY OF NATURE

Nature is the mother of us all. She spreads the wings about us; as a hen covers her eggs, and later her brood of chickens, for love and peace and harmony. She is the proprietor of the greatest laboratory in the world, where she holds substances that no man-established store has ever handled in having. Bury any kind of seed in her earth and the elements needed for its growth are immediately responded.

Trees and flowers are friends and neighbors to each other. They go to make up the eternal harmony that we discover in them. Everything is perfectly balanced. How many of us have ever known how if we would! It issues a permanent invitation, to all.

Nature's inhabitants live in work and thrifty. None are, on relief. Work is their life and their delight; or threats of war, make no difference. The birds sing the same, and with the same gusto at the end of a long summer as they did at the beginning of the season. The bees go about their business as usual, I wonder how matches on the top shelf.

Weddings

Van STONE — McGRATH

At All Saints' Anglican Church, Peterborough, on Saturday, July 20, the Reverend L. P. Purves, officiated in the marriage of Marjory Ann McGrath, daughter of Mrs. Florence McGrath, of Peterborough, to Ronald Allan Van Stone, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Van Slone.

Mr. Norman Hurrle, church organist, rendered the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Barbara Holgate, who sang "The Lord's Prayer", and the "Wedding Prayer."

The lovely bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. J. McGrath, of Peterborough, wore a bridal gown of French lace and tulle over satin in floor length, fashioned with molded, strapless bodice topped by a matching jacket having long sleeves and trimmed at the neckline with sequins and seed pearls. Her elbow-length veil of fine, nylon net was edged with lily-of-the-valley lace and caught to a semi-crown of sequins and seed pearls, and she carried a cascade of red roses mingled with white stephanotis and long, white, feathered streamers knotted with baby, red roses.

She was attended by Miss Eleanor Horsley, of Bobcaygeon, as maid of honor, wearing blue chiffon over taffeta, and the Misses Sherley Yarn, and Margaret Van Stone, sister of the bridegroom, attired in soft pink chiffon. All gowns were in ballerina length, and fashioned over net and taffeta. They wore while bridesmaid headdresses of sweetheart ribbon and Shasta 'mums, and carried cascade nosegays of Shasta 'mums.

Mr. Mack Burpee, of Peterborough, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. Gordon McGrath, brother of the bride, and James Mott, of Belleville, were ushers.

The reception, which followed the ceremony, was held at Rock Haven Motel, Peterborough, where the many guests were received by the bride's mother, gowned in peacock-blue shantung with pink insert in bodice which was outlined at the neckline with rhinestones; pink accessories, and corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted in the receiving line, wearing navy shot taffeta with white accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Ground Lake Ontario, for which the bride chose a dress of yellow crystalette over taffeta, white accessories, and white camellia corsage, the happy couple will reside at 487 Chamberlain street, Peterborough.

Out-of-town guests were present from Halifax; Gananoque; Belleville; Toronto; Niagara Falls, Ontario; Bancroft; Blenheim; London, Ontario; Cochrane and Timmins.

Eleven Institutes Display Many Fine Articles

A particularly fine exhibit at the fair this year is the display of handwork by the various Women's Institutes on view in the horticulture building. Those showing included Quinte; Roslin; Plainfield; Rednersville; Carmel; Parkdale; Cannifton; Foxboro; Wallbridge; Mountain View, and Chatterton. Each institute showed a collection of ten articles, of its own choosing which for variety, and fine workmanship demands much commendation.

Mentioning a few of the exhibits, many showed lovely braided cushions in colored satins ranging from bronze to wine.

Quinte showed embroidered guest towels, child's dress; a floral quilt in black, pink and green; and crochet centrepiece.

Roslin had a delightful, white swan centrepiece in crochet holding a sansevieria plant; a little blue basket in fine knitting; crepe ate pot holders; a rose and black panelled - apron; a lovely rose-edged frilled doily; also one in pink roses.

NEEDLEPOINT PLAQUE

Plainfield a child's yellow, smocked dress; needlepoint wall plaque; black cushion with floral appliques; cream ceramic vase in gold and green; baby's hand knitted jacket; linen gloves, guest towels, and printed apron.

Rednersville: a green and black plaid teen-age jumper dress with white blouse; a wedding ring quilt; a centrepiece in white crochet with ruffled edge interspersed with very varied pink roses; a fine hooked rug with ivy leaves outlined in yellow on a beige background; fancy towel with white swan washcloth pocket, hand-crocheted, and pretty doily.

Carmel: an exquisitely crocheted chair set in white; white cushion in cushion in wine with Christmas tree design; stuffed toys, a boy and girl in gingham; a wooden cart filled with flowers as centrepiece; tufted chair seats; and embroidered bridge cloth.

Parkdale: a salmon shade child's dress with fancy smocking; men's sweater in white wool with plaid shoulders; bathroom slipper in yellow; cream and sugar; child's smock and red plaid men's socks; white embroidered dress.

Cannifton a fancy apron in dark rose floral background with rose scalloped border and pocket; a lovely, medallion, crocheted chesterfield set; hot mats; fancy guest towels and beautifully knit guest towels with scalloped edges, and hammered copper wall plaque.

Foxboro: a pretty winter scene in oil depicting creek and bridge flanked by tall poplars and evergreens with distant hills highlighted by the gold of sunset; also a hammered copper horse; dressed doll in print and taffeta; green, satin coat and hood, pink-lined; large pineapple centrepiece, and lovely woven bassinet-tray, dainty as a cobweb; chair seats in needlepoint, child's long-sleeved dress in soft green and lacey, five-point doily in ecru.

Wallbridge: Rose centrepiece and doilies in fine knitting and crochet; tatted doily and Battenberg handkerchief and centrepiece.

HORSES' HEADS

Mountain View: a picture of the head of a horse, one grey and the other dark brown, done with wool through holes in canvas; also a fine piece of old time work taking one back to bygone days; a reinforced laundry bag; crochet cushion in brown and gold diamond pattern; padded coat hanger with sachet pocket; clothespin bag; dresser scarf and doily set; embroidered bridge cloth; pillow slips in white with crochet insertion; and a mat as a tractive, fringed rug in oriental design.

Chatterton showed among other things, a wine and silver tufted cushion; oil painting of a waterfall with deer; a driftwood lamp, with creeping vine; child's wool dress in crochet; a hat - shaped birthday cake in yellow with brown band, and feather; handcarved chains for tie-backs; green and white geometrical quilt; tufted rug centred by pansy and leaves on a beige colored ground. The centrepiece was outstanding — the Holy Bible, an heirloom in the Bleecker family — denoting the centre around which the home should revolve.

These are a few of the articles shown, all of which present the home and its furnishings as life's chief centre in the nation.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Mowle are pictured following their recent marriage in Christ Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Marion Agnes Rawson, daughter of Mrs. A. Rawson, Belleville, and the late Mr. Rawson. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Baker Mowle, of Brantford, Ont. (Photo by McCormick Studio, Belleville.)

Going Shopping?

Nobody should go shopping or anywhere else without seeing or smelling the first hint of fall in the air. Rich colors in fruits, vegetables and flowers are everywhere. The tomatoes are redder, bigger and more plentiful now. Soon the tang and spice of fall must be given up to the lazy air. Homemakers will live close to their calenders counting so many days in this, so many days in that, or sugar for so many days, while they fill jars and crocks with crisp pickles. Did you ever wonder, when making watermelon rind pickle, just where that fruit — and many others — come from? It seems that David Livingston, the great missionary explorer, settled the question for watermelon when he came upon large tracts in central tropical Africa covered with the fruit growing truly wild. It had been thought formerly that the watermelon was of Asiatic origin.

Peaches, one of our most luscious and plentiful fruits, has the scientific name of "Prunus Persica", which seems to imply Persian origin. But modern botanists have found a number of types of peaches to be native to China. References to "tao", Chinese for peach, have been found in the writings of Confucius in the 5th century B.C., and also in Chinese writings of the 10th century B.C.

On our own continent, Leif Ericson and his Norse sea rovers found, when they discovered the continent of North America in 1000 A.D., so many grapes growing wild that they called the country "Vinland."

If you are shopping for a practical and inexpensive shower gift, plastic bedroom accessories may be an answer. Any bride will welcome bags to keep her dresses, blouses and suits "trousseau new". Transparent hatboxes will prevent her hats from collecting dust and let her see at a glance which hat is in which box. Sweater bags not only keep sweaters clean and orderly, but also discourage moths. Smaller notion bags are a jumble of stockings, gloves, scarves and hankies in the drawer. Shoe bags keep shoes off the floor and prevent kicking and scuffing in the closet, while blankets cover protect new blankets for storing.

These plastic accessory items come in such a variety of lovely colors that they can be matched with the bedroom. When dirty all they need is soap and water to make them as good as new. The larger garment bags are best dunked in the bathtub and hung on the shower curtain rod to dry.

These are things that help to keep drawers and cupboards tidy and easy to find clothes. Any bride will thank you for helping her to start housekeeping on the right foot.

Dr. P. L. Bazeley, the director of the Commonwealth Serum Laboratories in Melbourne, says that Australia will probably be the first country in the world to conquer poliomyelitis completely. Dr. Bazeley was a member of the team who worked with Dr. Salk in the work developing Salk anti-polio vaccine. He said that anti-polio vaccination of children had covered an enormous field throughout Australia and that immunization of adults would probably be completed earlier in Australia than in any other country. This seems very fitting for the country who gave us Sister Kenny.

SEEK SPECIAL SUBVENTIONS

OTTAWA (CP)—Two Maritime premiers have asked the new Progressive Conservative government for special subventions on maritime coal used by thermal power plants, it was learned Tuesday. Governments officials said Premier Flemming of New Brunswick and Premier Stanfield of Nova Scotia made their request at a meeting with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Finance Minister Douglas Harkness.

Arctic Wild Life, Eskimo Carvings Shown

Canada's wild life, shown by Mrs. Fred Wallis, of Trent Road, was also an attractive point of interest with its lifelike red fox; its muskrats enjoying a clam dinner, and the pair of spruce grouse, the dun-colored female on her nest watched over by the gayer attired male; the Canada goose whose fidelity is beyond reproach, as they choose but one mate for life; the bright-eyed brown owl and the great, grey owl, amid the cedar boughs, brought a touch of the great out-of-doors to city dwellers. All the birds and animals shown were prepared by taxidermy by Mrs. Wallis, well-known member of Quinte Field Naturalists.

Close by the case of wild life was that of the Belcher Islands Eskimo carvings from soap stone, showing fish, birds and seals of the Arctic, along with bears, and the Eskimo kayak.

Another feature found in the horticulture building was that of the old "Cozy Quilt" owned by Dr. Russell Scott. This is made of innumerable patches of velvet in many colors and satin outlined with over sixteen types of old time feather stitching, and interwoven among the patches are the badges of the old time Tory fathers, showing their heads and shoulders.

This quilt is an heirloom in the family of Mrs. Scott and it said to have come down through the Flemings, the Dunnings, and Hamm lines.

Santa Claus, complete with his reindeer, red cutter, and the red-nosed Rudolf, also attracted considerable attention, as did Snowwhite and the seven dwarfs. These were done by a lady in Point Anne, in wood cutouts, practically life size, and prettily colored.

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Police constable Morris Samples thought a car he saw drive past on his beat looked familiar. He flagged down another auto and chased it. He got a look at the licence plate and confirmed it he was his. After he shot at the tires, it stopped and four youths jumped out and fled.

DIEFENBAKER TO OFFICIATE

TORONTO (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker will open the 11th assembly of the International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics to be held here Sept. 3. It was announced Tues. About 1,300 scientists from all parts of the world are expected to attend and discuss activities of the current International Geophysical Year.

INSPIRED IDEA . . . HER WEDDING PRESENT TO GROOM!

Mrs. Beechman:

We're to be married the first week in October, and one of the "plans" I've been thinking about is what to give my bridegroom as a wedding present. I know he's to give me a strand of cultured pearls to wear at our wedding and I've been considering giving him one of the gifts usually mentioned as "appropriate" for the groom — cuff links and the like. But he already has these articles —and yesterday, when I again saw in my favorite store here a chair of the type he has been raving about as marvelously comfortable for him, I thought to myself "As my wedding present to him, why not give him one of these chairs so he'll have one in our new home?" Would be a crazy idea? I would so like to know what you think about this? — Reader.

I think it's a wonderful idea. And your man will, I am positive, be thrilled with your inspired plan . . . will sing enthusiastically "This chair will be so nice to come home to!" This wise consideration sounds like the beginning of a good, thoughtful marriage.

HER "SHIFT" IN PLAN UNATTRACTIVE

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I was planning to be married last year, and had asked a friend to be my matron of honor. (I have no sister.) Because of most unfortunate circumstances, the wedding was cancelled. Now I am about to announce my engagement to someone else, and am making the wedding plans. My problem is attendant. I would prefer to another friend of mine to be my maid of honor, as we have become very close and devoted friends and I see her much oftener than I see the girl I asked last year. I don't want to hurt the first girl, and fortunately she has not bought her dress. What do you think about this shift in plan?

— Reader

I think this "shift" in plan is extremely unattractive, really cruel to the girl you invited last year to be your attendant. Naturally she would be hurt . . . and naturally you will be criticized (and deservedly) for putting an old friend in the discard and putting a new friend in her place. And I shouldn't think your new groom-to-be, if he knows about your plan, would respect you for doing this. My advice is that either you abide by your original invitation or have two attendants, your old friend as matron of honor, and your new friend as maid of honor or bridesmaid.

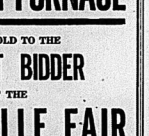
WHEN TO MAIL FORMAL WEDDING INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Please tell me how far ahead of our wedding date I should plan to send out the invitations (I mean formal invitations)?

— Bride-to-be

Today, formal wedding invitations usually are mailed four weeks in advance of the wedding date. And a wise plan this is, too, especially when the wedding is to take place during a month very popular for weddings (May and June, for example, and September and October). This time-allowance gives the couple leeway to schedule the date on their engagement-calendar, and, if a present is to be sent, time to choose it wisely and send it well ahead of time so that the bride-to-be will have time to write her thank-you note before the wedding day.



To make a lemon flavored hard sauce, beat one-fourth cup of butter, one and one-half cups of powdered sugar, the grated rind of one-half lemon, and two tablespoons of lemon juice. Cream butter, add sugar and beat well. Then gradually add grated rind and lemon juice.

Fruit Pie Favorite

By Mary Moore

Just as we were leaving the house to drive to Toronto to catch "The Canadian" for Marianne's and Gary's return trip to Calgary, she called to me and with a dead pan asked "Mum will you look in my ear?" I squinted expecting a gnat or something. "See any berries!" she piped.

Before coming East she had sworn she would eat so many strawberries, raspberries and blueberries that they would come out her ears and it's a wonder they didn't at the rate she consumed them.

I managed to cache some blueberries in Penetanguishene from Muskoka for a blueberry pie, which, according to Marianne, is second best to a bowlful of them as is. But if you go by Pete and me and if you can buy blueberries in your community, try this one for your once-a-year blueberry pie effort. If fresh berries are not available frozen berries are fine.

FRESH BLUEBERRY PIE

(9in plate 10 x 1½)

Four cups (1 qt.) fresh blueberries (or 2 packages frozen), ⅔ to 1 cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup cornstarch stirred into ¼ cup cold water, ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind. Wash and pick over berries and drain thoroughly. Combine sugar, ⅓ cup of the blueberries, cornstarch paste, stir well, then stir in hot water and cook, stirring until thick and clear, crushing the berries. Add lemon juice and rind. Pour over remaining berries in bowl and stir then let stand until cold. Pour into unbaked pie shell that has been sprinkled with 2 tablespoons fine breadcrumbs. Seal on gashed top crust. If you are artful try your hand at stems and leaves for apples, and latice decorate them and top of pie with tiny clusters of sugar-dipped

Dinner Menus

By Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY (Guests)
Hot or Chilled Consommne with Lemon; Salad Plate with Sliced Sandwich Loaf (see Tuesday), Sliced Liver Sausage, Cottage Cheese, Sliced Tomatoes, Raw Cucumber and Carrot Sticks; Blueberries and Sliced Bananas with Spice Cookies; Iced Coffee.

GREEN APPPLE PIE

(9-inch pie plate)

Six cups or more of pared sliced apples — almost any August apple is delicious, ¾ cup sugar or more if apples are underripe, ½ to 1 teaspoon cinnamon or nutmeg, 2 teaspoons butter. Mix these ingredients and turn into raw pie shell. Seal on gashed top crust. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. about 50 minutes or until apples test tender with toothpick through gashes.

Do you need a reminder for amounts for 2-crust pie?: Mix 2¼ cups all-purpose or pastry flour with 1 teaspoon salt. Cut in 2/3 cup plus 1 tablespoon best quality shortening. Sprinkle over, 1 tablespoon at a time, 4 tablespoons cold water, gathering moistened dough with fork. Press dough into ball and roll out on lightly floured board.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THIS IS SOMETHING FOR YOUR PARENTS TO HANDLE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm in my 17th year old, and for about six months have been going out with a man of 24 whose name is Mike. I've read your advice to other girls with older boy friends, and in most cases you say to get rid of the older party. But I don't think you said how.

After reading several of these letters in your column, I figured it was time for me to drop Mike.

I refused to go on dates with him and I kept company with a lad of 17. I thought that Mike would take the hint, but he didn't. Instead, he's pestering me constantly at all hours of the day and night, and whenever the 17-year-old and I go out, there's Mike. He never leaves me alone. He even sends letters telling me that he'll "get back at me somehow."

I'm afraid. What can I do?

— Wh.

Dear W.M.:

What you can do is to put this in the hands of your parents and let them put an end to this by whatever method they feel will be most effective. I can't understand why it is they haven't stepped in before now if, as you say, this fellow is driving you up "at all hours of the day and night."

Tell your parents the whole story. Show them these letters in which he threatens you, and then leave the whole thing in their hands. Be sure never to talk to him again. If you happen to answer the phone when he calls, hang up. And if he comes along when you're out with this other boy, ask the other boy to take you home immediately.

If you'll do these things, and do exactly as your parents tell you, you'll probably have no further trouble.

MORE INFORMATION, PLEASE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm a married woman 19 years of age, and I'm going to have a baby. I have a girl friend who is also going to have a baby by my husband.

I love my husband very much, no matter what he's done, but I just don't know what to do. I don't want to divorce him, but I see no other move to make. I've tried to be a good wife, but I goofed somewhere.

Please help me in any way you can. — B.F.

Dear B.F.:

Whether or not there is any other move to make except divorce depends, I think, mostly on your husband's attitude.

If you tell me nothing about the sort of man he is, how he's treated you since you've been married or anything else that would give me any impression of what he's like. Moreover, you tell me nothing that would throw any light on why you feel you may have "goofed," and this would be important, too, in helping me get a sufficiently clear picture of your situation to advise you.

If you would care to write me again and give me some of the details of your problem, I'll be glad to try and help you decide what would be best for you to do. Otherwise, I think you should go to someone in your town whom you know and completely trust and discuss the problem together after you have given every fact in regard to your relationship with your husband that could possibly have a bearing on the present situation.

If you belong to any church, perhaps your best course would be to talk with the minister or priest. If you are not a church member, or if for any reason you would prefer not to discuss this with minister or priest, then you might consult someone at your local Family Service organization, which is there for the very purpose of helping anyone in your city with a family problem.

9 LEFT HOMELESS

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Nineteen persons lost their homes Monday in a wind-whipped fire that leaped from house to house in a closely-built suburban residential section on the west shore of Irondequoit Bay. Residents estimated the loss at $70,000. The fire raged for 1¼ hours before more than 100 volunteer firemen brought it under control.

NEW TOILETRIES MAKE A LITTLE GIRL'S GROOMING PROGRAM FUN

Her own little calico bath mitt envelopes her in a cloud of fragrance; inspires good grooming habits.

Any time you find yourself among a group of mothers and are looking for a popular topic of conversation, try this opening: "What trick do you use to make your little girl take pride in her grooming?

It seems to be a question with as many right answers as there are mothers present. Evidently, since every youngster is different, no one formula is going to work. But some of the tricks mothers report may brighten your life and persuade your little daughter that keeping fresh and dainty at all times is fun.

One mother we know uses fragrant toiletries as a "bribe." Because her little girl, like little girls all over the world, loves the scents appropriate for a youngster, but won't permit her to use them until she's scrubbed herself from head to toe — not forgetting "behind the ears." There are several lines of children's toiletries on the market, of course, but our friend's fervent fondness for pretty heart-shaped soap and this also lets her Little Darling use silvers. But it's only after she's used the soap thoroughly and conscientiously that she's allowed to use her pretty bath powder mitt or talc shaker. And only after she is washed, dried and powdered may she use a few drops of Lily of Delightfully floral-scented toilet water made just for little girls.

The "bribe" has been working very well for a long time now and, because her daughter is becoming definitely beauty conscious, Mother's about to get her a manicure set and teach her the basic elements of hand care — but only after the little paws are thoroughly clean, of course. She probably won't have any trouble here because the manufacturer of the aforementioned toiletries has just come out with an utterly charming manicure kit. The assortment of hand-care essentials comes in a colorful story-book package. Designed to prompt a little girl from 6 to 10 to keep her hands tidy, it relates the fairy tale of "The Princess Who Sat on Her Hands," and it contains nail polish, remover, hand lotion, emery, orangewood stick and cotton attractively arrayed.

Other good grooming "inspirators" for youngsters are a "bath-o-clock," a toy clock dispenser of individual envelopes of fragrant bubble bath which teaches youngsters to tell time while encouraging regular bathing habits; a "party favor" which is presented as a flower-decorated doll house containing two products in miniature — toilet water and talc shaker; and three combination cosmetic kits called, respectively, the "bow," the "calico" and the "gingham" depending upon design.

Little girls will love them all since all stress the theme that early training in good grooming is essential and can be taught with grace and charm.

Mother's Helper

SHORTS, sunsuits, shirts of no-iron fabrics — smooth-surfaced as seersucker—still look much neater if you give them a light starching. Hang them up wet and with a little extra care, and they'll come out fresh and new-looking. Colors seem to look more vivid, too.

208 Members Of Tanner Clan Attend Reunion

The first Tanner reunion picnic was held at Bird's Beach, Oak Lake, with 208 present, on August 11th. At 1 p.m. grace was sung and all sat down to a dinner which was enjoyed by everyone.

This gathering consisted of the descendants of the late James F. Tanner and his wife Mary (Haggerty) Tanner, whose three sons, Edward, William and James, came from the parish of Kilmeen, Cork County, Ireland.

After dinner Mrs. Sarah Morgan welcomed the relatives, saying the Tanner ancestors had come to this country making their way before the days of modernization and all had been faithful, loyal and courageous, with a good will to all.

Mr. Elwood Bateman, Stirling, was asked to act as chairman for a business meeting. After a few remarks, announced the register showed 208 relatives and two visitors present. The secretary, Mrs. Dora Elvidge, Belleville, gave a report, having received letters of regret at their inability to be present from several.

The treasurer, Alex. Tanner, Stirling, reported having received donations of money and Clifford Tanner, Toronto, had donated the prizes and treats for the children. A hearty vote of thanks was given to Clifford for his generosity.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Election of officers took place with the following named: President, Mrs. S. Morgan; treasurer, A. Tanner; secretary, Mrs. D. Elvidge.

Prizes were given to the eldest man, Mr. W. Henley, Frankford; eldest lady, Mrs. Laura Tanner, Harold; person travelling the farthest, Miss Linda Wolfe, Regina, Sask.; largest family, Mr. and Mrs. William Henley, Frankford; youngest bride, Mrs. D. O'Connor, Belleville; youngest child, Sharlene Fraser, Belleville; oldest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Tanner, Harold, and person with birthday nearest August 11th, Dorothy Jones, Ivanhoe, and Clifford Tanner, Toronto.

The chairman called for a minute's silence for the departed relatives and the meeting adjourned to meet next year at Tweed Memorial Park on August 12, visiting with each other. After a solo and the chairman called in agreeing that the efforts of on Mr. M. K. Carson to take the convener, Mrs. S. Morgan, charge of the sports program, treasurer, A. Tanner and secretary, Mrs. D. Elvidge had been This included races for the boys tary, Mrs. D. Elvidge and girls of various ages, each well rewarded. receiving a gift. The older re- Mr. Thomas Tanner, Stirling, latives enjoyed an afternoon of was in charge of the register.

Summer Icing

By ALICE ALDEN

Put it down in black and white that black and white is just about the most popular town combination this season, registering, too, in informal and country clothes.

Charming indeed and feather light is this fisherman hat that should fish up plenty of compliments. It is in starched white lace and has a crown of inky black velvet.

Club Activities

SUNBEAM M.B.

WHITE'S DISTRICT — The Sunbeam Mission Band, joined by the Baby Band and the Bayside W.M.S., enjoyed a picnic on the shore of the Bay of Quinte Wednesday afternoon. The younger children enjoyed swimming and wading.

Mrs. A. Skaarup and Mrs. J. Glyden took charge of games and races with all receiving candy, peanuts, cones and balloons for prizes.

After the recreation, a lunch which consisted of cookies, doughnuts and a fruit punch, was served.

All departed for their homes voting this picnic one of the best they had attended.

IMPROVE WINDMILLS

A South African regulator for windmills allows them to operate in breezes of less than five miles an hour.

Women's Activities

ROSE HALL W.A.

HILLIER S. — The members of Rose Hall W.A. met at the home of the president, Mrs. A. Wannamaker, last Wednesday evening for their August meeting.

Meeting opened with hymn singing, followed by a verse and prayer by the president. The members were welcomed and Mrs. Wannamaker thanked Mrs. Conley, the first vice-president, for carrying on during her two months absence and for loyal co-operation given by the group during this time.

Mrs. L. McCartney was at the piano, and Miss B. Munroe, assistant secretary officiated.

A short business session followed. Cards of thanks were received from Mrs. O. St. Pierre, L. Vandusen. There will be no September meeting.

Mrs. W. Cunningham was in charge of the devotional exercises. Topic was "Season's come and go. What will our harvest be spiritually?"

She closed with prayer and benediction.

Readings were given by Mesdames Wight, Pearson, Channel and McCartney.

A contest was enjoyed with Mrs. G. Vandusen and Miss B. Munroe tied winners.

Mrs. Vandusen assisted the hostess in serving refreshments and a social half-hour followed.

Party Tactics for Liberals For Opening of Parliament Said Worked Out at Caucus

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberals are reported to have worked out party tactics for the new Parliament opening Oct. 14.

Former prime minister St. Laurent and members of his defeated cabinet are also understood to have discussed plans for a grass-roots reorganization of the Liberal party to prepare for the next general election, expected within a year.

The 75 - year - old opposition leader, whose forces were crushed in the June 10 federal election, met here Tuesday with his Liberal colleagues.

No statement was issued following the meeting. However, Mr. St. Laurent's office said he may call a press conference late Wednesday at the completion of the talks.

MAY DROP HINT

Those attending the meeting said the question of Mr. St. Laurent's own political future was not raised. However, after a second session today, Mr. St. Laurent may drop some hint as to whether he will seek an early retirement.

While former Liberal cabinet ministers were reluctant to comment on the discussions, there was one report that the party's national executive might be summoned to Ottawa next fall. The executive is made up of some 30 delegates from all provinces.

A meeting of such executive body could mean the first step in preparation of a new leadership convention, perhaps late this year or early next year. However, it could also mean that Mr. St. Laurent wanted to bring Liberals together to get an exchange of views on plans for reviving and strengthening party organization.

AFL-CIO Ready For Showdown With Teamsters

CHICAGO (AP)—The AFL-CIO is speeding toward a showdown with its largest union, the teamsters.

The AFL-CIO executive council served notice Tuesday that it is determined to complete action on charges of "corrupt influences" against the teamsters before the union's convention this month.

The move against the union of Dave Beck, James R. Hoffa and 1,500,000 members was taken after the case had dragged on for more than four months without a decision.

Charges that the union was "dominated, controlled or substantially influenced by corrupt influences" were drawn up March 26 after Beck, the teamsters president, was accused of misusing about $400,000 of his organization's funds.

FINAL HEARINGS

The AFL-CIO ethical practices committee has agreed to hold final hearings Sept. 5 and 6 in Washington. The executive committee will review the committee report Sept. 23 or Sept. 24. The council's decision could take the form of recommendations as to what steps the teamsters must take to remain in the AFL-CIO.

Beck has been ousted as a vice-president of the AFL-CIO executive council, but the teamsters have ignored demands of George Meany, AFL-CIO president, that Beck be removed as president of their union.

Beck later said he would not seek re-election to the $50,000-a-year post. Hoffa, the midwestern teamster boss, is generally expected to succeed Beck as head of the union.

Death of Father Saved Life of Daughter, Son

MALTON, England (CP)—A 23-year-old woman, who read her own name on a 'list of victims of Sunday's airliner disaster in Quebec, sat in safety in her parents' home today and said solemnly:

"I think I would rather swim back to Canada than fly home now."

It was death itself that saved Miss Rosemary Parry and her two-year-old son, Paul, whose original vacation plans called for them to fly home on the Montreal-bound Canadair Ltd. North Star. Miss Parry and Paul changed their minds at the last minute to travel by train to Liverpool and then by ship.

Miss Parry said she had decided to make the change after she had looked at the flight leaving for Britain July 10 for her first holiday at home and found the atmosphere in his grandparents.

They had a return reservation.

CANCELLED RESERVATIONS

Early in June Mrs. Parry received word of the death of her father, 67-year-old Robert Birnley Mansell. The original reservations were cancelled and she and Paul caught the first available plane.

Somehow, the two names remained on the MCA passenger list for the return trip, and when her husband's parents in nearby Richmond, Mrs. Parry learned that she and her son were on the casualty list.

"It was a terrible sensation," she said today. "Especially when you think that two people who took our seats might be alive now. But I suppose it was either Paul and me or them.

"It is a strange and significant thing that the death of my father, whom I loved dearly, has saved the lives of my son and myself."

Ron Stewart Will Play For Queen's

—KINGSTON (CP) — Ron Stewart, 22, who recently turned down a professional football contract with the Big Four Montreal Alouettes, is eligible for another year's football with Queen's University.

The fleet halfback, one of Canada's outstanding football prospects after three years with Queen's Golden Gaels, has been accepted at the newly-formed law faculty at Queen's, Dr. J.A. Corry, acting dean of the faculty, said today.

Dr. Corry said Stewart's application, one of 25 for 20 vacancies, received the same consideration "as the rest" and the decision whether Stewart would attend rests with him.

Stewart, draft choice of the Alouettes, asked the team to permit him to play with Toronto Argonauts while taking law in Toronto. The request was refused. Later Queen's said it would form a law faculty this year.

ACTRESS GIVES BIRTH

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A son was born Tuesday to actress Marisa Pavan, wife of Jean Pierre Aumont. The baby is their first child. Aumont has a daughter by his previous wife, the late Maria Montez.

Prostitute Says She Had a Ball With Desi Arnaz

LOS ANGELES (AP) — More revelations of Hollywood scandal-gathering were expected today in the criminal libel trial of Confidential magazine.

Among witnesses scheduled to testify for the prosecution were a woman private detective and a former member of Hollywood's informing madam, Ronnie Quillan.

The detective is Virginia Lee, whose employer testified Tuesday that she was engaged to check stories supplied by Mrs. Quillan.

The witness who once roomed with Mrs. Quillan is Carmen Jones.

NAMES TV STAR

Mrs. Quillan Tuesday testified that she sold a story to Confidential about an alleged affair with television star Desi Arnaz. Arnaz, husband of Lucille Ball, was the way Arnaz described the story.

"I don't remember meeting the lady, and I guess i'm being kind is calling her a lady," Arnaz said from his home in Del Mar. Mrs. Quillan had testified that she and Arnaz were together in a two-week southern California resort town of Palm Springs in October, 1944.

Arnaz, who has since starred in television fame with his wife, Lucille Ball, said:

"I was in the army in 1944 and I think I was somewhere up north. I don't remember being in Palm Springs. From the pictures I've seen of Desi, I don't think I could have done anything like that."

PAID $1,500

The 41-year-old Mrs. Quillan, whose career in Hollywood has been limited to bit parts, told the jury that she wrote a story for Confidential about her marriage to singer Herb Jeffries. Confidential, she added, paid her $1,500 for the stories about Arnaz and Jeffries.

She admitted that she was a prostitute while she was turning information over to Confidential.

Arnaz complained that editors of Confidential made the alleged 1944 incident involving Arnaz "sound recent" in the story published in January, 1955. But the defence attorney proved that the story did give the year as 1944.

Mrs. Quillan remarked: "What he did 10 years before was completely normal because the man wasn't married."

Arnaz and Miss Ball were married June 30, 1940. She sued for divorce Oct. 16, 1944, but they were reconciled.

Postal Congress To Debate Air Mail Payments

OTTAWA (CP)—Air mail, most important modern-age medium for fast interchange of correspondence around the globe, will come in for particular attention at the 14th session of the Universal Postal Union which opens a six-week meeting here today.

For more than 200 delegates from 96 countries will be considered with the reciprocal agreements by which one country recompenses another for carriage of mail in the latter's aircraft.

Each country makes payments according to its own airlines.

The congress spokesman said some countries want the present status quo maintained. Others want the present rates of recompense be t'wen countries lowered.

LITTLE CHANGE POSSIBLE

Actual air mail rates are matters for the various countries and no concern of the congress but the spokesman said any change in the present typical recompensing setup on the governmental level could eventually be reflected in changes in air mail rates in the countries concerned.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker opens the giant congress in the Senate chamber at 3 p.m. EDT today, welcoming delegates to the biggest international gathering in Ottawa's history. These delegates will begin their general sessions in the House of Commons chamber where extra seating and simultaneous translation system has been installed to meet their needs.

The UPU was organized among 22 countries in 1874 and is the oldest international body of its present kind in the world. This is the first meeting of the union in Canada and only the second in North America. The first was in Washington in 1897.

Khrushchev 'Very Satisfied' By German Visit

BERLIN (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev left East Berlin today saying he was "very satisfied" with his tour of Communist East Germany.

The Soviet Communist party chief told a railway station crowd his one-week visit would bind the German satellite even more closely to Russia "in friendship." "All members of the Soviet party and government delegation have been very satisfied with the visit," the Russian leader said.

Khrushchev broke into a broad smile when Walter Ulbricht, chief of the East German Communist party, spoke about the only dispute known to have come up during the visit.

"We promise to follow your advice and grow corn better from now on," said Ulbricht with a smile.

SELF-STYLED EXPERT

Khrushchev, a self-styled corn-raising expert who got into arguments with German farm specialists on the quality of their crops, cut in on Ulbricht:

"That means more meat, more bacon and more butter."

SIGNS FARM GOODS ACT

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower signed into law Tuesday a new surplus farm goods act, clearing the way for final deliveries to Poland under a $95,000,000 deal made two months ago. The bill raises by $1,000,000,000 the administration's authority to underwrite sales abroad of U.S. surplus farm products. It increases to a total of $4,000,000,000 the section under which sales of surplus products can be made to foreign countries for their currencies.

VISIT PLANE WRECKAGE

Fists clenched emotionally, Pierre Renaud (right) looks over torn pieces of wreckage, all that remains of the plane in which his brother Paul, the plane's first officer, was killed. Pierre later collapsed with grief and was taken away. A Quebec provincial police officer examines the wreckage after the disaster, worst in Canada's air history, killing 79 passengers and crew of a Maritime Central Airways plane. The plane, bound from London to Toronto with returning excursionists, crashed near Issoudun, 15 miles southwest of Quebec. (CP Photo).

PLAYS POLICEMAN WITH LOADED GUN

Joe York, left, three-year-old, has had his day of play with a real gun and real bullets. He found the gun, loaded and with extra shells, in a hollow tree near his home in Toronto, and happily played policeman with it. Two older boys, Allen Lattimore and George Lyle, thought the revolver looked too real and they took it away from him, then called police. Joe, when he found the police hadn't come to play with him but to ask questions, just wasn't interested in them.

Ancient India Marks Birthday As a Nation

NEW DELHI (AP) — Ancient India marks her 10th birthday as an independent nation Thursday. The occasion will also mark the 10th anniversary of India's first and only prime minister—Jawaharlal Nehru. And there's no indication he is thinking of stepping down.

As Nehru journeys to Kerala to make the traditional Independence day speech, many of his listeners may muse over the popular question both here and abroad: After Nehru, who?

The question arises because Nehru towers so high above all around him. No one is so idolized by India's millions. No one's word carries so much weight. No one in the government makes so many decisions.

MANY FACTORS INVOLVED

Many political observers believe that when Nehru finally does go, the government will swing sharply to the right.

The swing probably will not go too far, however. India's shortage of capital, the nature of some of the projects which must be undertaken, as in the underdeveloped country and countless other factors will probably call for a Socialist - type government for years to come.

Even today, Nehru is to the left of most of his own cabinet members. After his departure the influence of these conservative elements probably will be felt more strongly.

The man most often mentioned as Nehru's successor is Morarji Desai, 61-year-old minister of commerce and industry. Desai played a prominent role in the Congress party's campaign for Indian independence. In recent years he has shown himself a good administrator, as chief minister of Bombay state.

Nehru's closest adviser, V. K. Krishna Menon, is considered a possibility for Nehru's shoes, but his quick temper and aloof attitude, but with present equipment could not pick up rebuilt missiles.

Present equipment is "damned good radar; the best we have."

See U.S. Youth Certain to Win Chess Title

TORONTO (CP)—The United States Tuesday made virtually certain of winning the 1957 junior chess championships.

William Lombardy, the 19-year-old U.S. medical student and one-time his country's top-ranking player, won his fifth consecutive game by defeating Francois Johin of Quebec City.

He has only to win, or draw, one of his two remaining games —against Gilberto Milagros of Egypt—to capture the title.

Mathematician Robert Garmany is in the best position to tie Lombardy's present nine points should Lombardy lose his two remaining two games. To do so Mathias Gerard must defeat Johin with his remaining two encounters and one adjourned match.

Bernard Zeldin, U.S. tournament committee chairman, said Lombardy, from New York City, "would have to lose his mind as well as a game" to lose the title now.

EXECUTION STAYED

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Governor Averell Harriman Tuesday stayed execution of Angelo La-Marca, kidnap - slayer of baby Peter Weinberger, until a new plea could be brought before the Court of Appeals. LaMarca's execution had been slated for Aug. 22.

U.S. Air Force General Says 100 Per Cent Capability of DEW Line Has Been Proven

POINT BARROW, Alaska (AP) —The Distant Early Warning line, a 2,000-miles-long chain of radar stations guarding North America's northern rim, has been operating in test for months and already has shown "100 per cent" capability.

Brig.-Gen. Stanley Wray, chief of the United States Air Force electronic defence system, made the evaluation Tuesday at a ceremony marking formal delivery of the Alaskan section of the line by the builders, Western Electric Company, to the government.

In the first public demonstration for reporters, the DEW line station here picked up a U.S. jet bomber far out over the polar sea as it streaked toward the warning system at more than 600 miles an hour.

SPOT PLANES

Wray said stations along the line, most of them in Northern Canada, have spotted unidentified aircraft which have proved to be friendly planes off course or accidental visitors to the electronic fence in the north.

Wray also said there have been 12 in which the DEW line has tried to penetrate the line at high, medium and low altitude and from various approaches.

In instances where aircraft triggered the radar alarm, interceptors were sent to investigate.

Wray also gave these answers to questions:

No Soviet planes have yet been picked up by the 42 DEW line stations.

Present equipment is designed for detection of objects the size of bombers. It is "possible" jet fighters could get through the line undetected but it is highly unlikely that a missile or other aircraft would be used by an enemy at the vast range involved in a thrust toward the U.S.

The DEW line could pick up guided missiles at "reasonable" altitude, but with present equipment could not pick up rebuilt missiles.

Present equipment is "damned good radar; the best we have."

West Germany, Pays Huge Debt

BONN (Reuters) — West Germany shortly will become the third country—after the United States and Canada—to have fully paid up its quota of the World Bank's capital.

A letter from Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard to Eugene R. Black, World Bank president, published here Tuesday, said West Germany's share of $377,000,000 marks (about $89,500,000) will be paid up Sept. 1.

It represents 20 per cent of West Germany's total contribution. The remaining 80 per cent is in the nature of a guarantee sum.

Sent for Trial

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP)—Alvin Galloway, 17, of Peterborough was committed Tuesday for trial, charged with the armed robbery of $10 from two women hitchhikers Aug. 5 Ball was set at $5,000.

James George Avery, 22, and Robert Lee Black, 24, both of Peterborough, were remanded to Aug. 20 for sentence on charges of receiving.

The three were arrested in Newmarket Aug. 6 after a motorist reported two women had told him they had been held up at gunpoint.

Delphine Kaczorewski, 21, and Helen Lasko, both of Kitchener, said Avery and Byrd had offered them a ride to Toronto and Galloway was picked up later.

Record Rainfall Devastates Area At Boissevain

BOISSEVAIN, Man. (CP)— Three days of record rainfall has flooded this southwestern Manitoba community and devastated farms in a 600-square-mile surrounding area.

The weather office at Winnipeg said the 10.51 inches that fell on Boissevain between Sunday night and Tuesday morning exceeds the greatest monthly total of any station in the southeastern Prairies.

District agricultural representative Glen Arnott said Tuesday crops in a 25-square-mile area surrounding White Water Lake, five miles west of here, are a complete loss.

Damage to cereal crops alone will run to $400,000.

FAMILIES EVACUATED

In Boissevain itself, a town of 1,100 population, 13 families were evacuated from homes in low-lying areas. The community is 47 miles south of Brandon.

Eight inches of rain fell in the White Water Lake vicinity, but continued downward from the Turtle Mountains, eight miles south of here, and water flowing into the lake made this the most heavily damaged area.

Police crews washed out several bridges from Killarney, 30 miles east of here, to Deloraine, 25 miles west.

Rain stopped falling Tuesday and skies cleared.

The basement of the Boissevain Record building had eight feet of water in it Sunday backed up and several town streets still were impassable late Tuesday.

Former CNE Head Shaken Up in Crash

TORONTO (CP)—Pilot William Harris, 45, a former president of the Canadian National Exhibition was shaken up and suffered a black eye Tuesday when his amphibious Seabee aircraft made a forced landing in a field in suburban Etobicoke.

Co-pilot Jose Elshout, 16, was unhurt.

The plane had to be manoeuvred to the ground without power when it lost its propeller in flight.

Mimico Mayor Asked to Leave Metro Council

TORONTO (CP)—Mayor W. A. (Gus) Edwards of Mimico was ordered to leave the Metropolitan Toronto council chamber Tuesday after a heated argument with Controller Fred Hamilton during the council meeting.

Mayor Edwards defied the ruling and said he wasn't leaving.

Controller Brand told other members of council to ignore Mayor Edwards "because he really isn't in the council."

The argument came as Mayor Edwards was asking a question of Reeve Vernon Singer of North York Township. Controller Brand said the Mimico mayor had attended the council three times and had answered it himself.

Atlantic Provinces Win First Round Against Higher Rates

OTTAWA (CP) — The Atlantic provinces have won the first round of a fight against a general revision of domestic telegram tolls that will bear most heavily on that area.

The board of transport commissioners Tuesday gave them an adjournment of hearings on a railway company application for the change and at the same time turned down a company request for temporary increases pending a final decision.

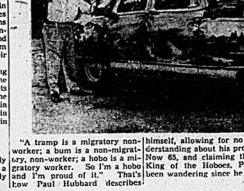
The railways had fought the requested adjournment—to Sept. 5 — which the four provinces sought on the ground that they needed more time to prepare a case opposing the proposed rates. The railways contend that the Atlantic area—which now enjoys lower tolls than the rest of Canada—would be hardest hit by the changes that would equalize telegraph rates across the country.

Rates in the Maritimes would go up by about an average 36 per cent, against 15 per cent nationally. Because of the heavy impact on the seaboard area, the companies proposed spreading increases over two or three rate stages.

They wanted the first stage to take effect Sept. 1 or failing that, to get a temporary increase.

Total additional income from the increases at the end of two years was estimated by railway witnesses at $2,150,000 a year. Maritimer counsel Frank D. Smith said the cost to the Atlantic area would be $750,000.

HOBO ARTIST USES CAR AS BILLBOARD



"A tramp is a migratory non-worker; a bum is a non-migratory, non-worker; a hobo is a migratory worker. So I'm a hobo and I'm proud of it." That's how Paul Hubbard describes himself, allowing for no misunderstanding about his profession. Now 65, and claiming the title King of the Hoboes, Paul has been wandering since he was 12, mostly in the U.S. Now touring Canada, his car attracts attention everywhere. He uses it as a canvas to display his skill as an artist.

Pilot's Disappearance in Bush Will Be Thoroughly Checked

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Air Force said Tuesday that it is making a "thorough but routine" investigation of Lieut. David Steeves' disappearance for 54 days in Canada's high Sierras.

The 23 - year - old pilot is assigned temporarily at Rolling and has been near here while air force experts check the story he told after emerging from the wilderness in June.

Steeves bailed out of his jet trainer over the mountains when on a routine flight. The air force listed him as officially dead but 54 days later he stumbled out of the rugged mountains.

His wife first welcomed him back, saying it was the "happiest day in my life." This week, however, Mrs. Steeves said that she plans to divorce her husband.

The air force said that it is pushing its search for answers and study any man involved in such an accident and particularly men who undergo unusual experiences.

Meanwhile, in Philadelphia, a spokesman for the Saturday Evening Post said the magazine has cancelled plans to publish a story on Steeves reported exclusively. This was denied by the spokesman said, because of what the Post considered discrepancies in Steeves' story.

Syria Says U.S. Tries to Upset Kuwatly Regime

DAMASCUS (AP)—Syria Tuesday accused the United States of plotting to overthrow President Shukri Kuwatly's government. The U.S. Embassy here labelled the charge a "complete fabrication."

An official Syrian government statement said the U.S. had indicated willingness to pay Syria between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000 in aid if a new government would make peace with Israel. The embassy issued this statement:

"The U.S. Embassy has noted the broadcast of the Syrian broadcasting system and press reports describing an alleged plot against the Syrian government. The statement is obviously a complete fabrication."

Political quarters here said Syria will lodge a strong protest with Washington.

The statement said major participants in the alleged conspiracy were ex-dictator Col. Adib Shishakly and the Syrian military attache in Rome, Col. Ibrahim Hussenil. Shishakly was sentenced in absentia last February to life imprisonment on a charge of leading a subversive group.

The statement said the U.S. assigned an intelligence agent, identified as Howard Stone, to conspire with Shishakly and Hussenil. Sizne was described as "the United States' number one expert on coup d'etats," who previously "organized similar plots in Sudan and Iran and was behind the American coup d'etat in Guatemala in 1953."

Similar accounts of the alleged plot were announced by Syrian military authorities in Beirut and Egypt's Middle East news agency in Cairo.

In Rome, Hussenil called the charge a frameup.

PROGRESS FOR HENS

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — The agricultural experiment station at the University of Connecticut has changed its mind about fluorescent lighting in hen houses. The station's scientists once advised chicken farmers to stick with the hot red and yellow rays from incandescent lights to stimulate egg-laying. Sunday, they announced that cool blue and green fluorescent rays are just as good—in fact 3% more efficient, with some hens.

Senate Approves Niagara Project

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Monday night passed and sent to President Eisenhower a bill authorizing the New York State Power Authority to build a $600,000,000 power project at Niagara Falls.

The vote ended a seven-year controversy over the way to develop the major resource in western New York state. The House of Representatives passed the bill 313 to 78 Aug. 1.

Eisenhower is expected to sign the measure promptly. There is a power emergency in the area because of the collapse into the river of the Schoellkopf power plant June 7, 1956.

Under the bill as adopted, up to 20 per cent of the public preference power, or 10 per cent of the total, could go to the neighboring states of Ohio and Pennsylvania.

In New York City, the state power authority chairman, Robert Moses, said the authority "will break ground this fall and will produce power in a little over 2½ years."

Charge Arson In Hamilton Fire

HAMILTON (CP) — Benjamin Yanover, 35-year-old co-owner of the Majestic Beverages plant Tues. was remanded until Sept. 4 on a charge of arson. He was released on $10,000 bail.

Yanover was arrested Monday. His soft drink plant was destroyed by fire Saturday night.

Police charged gasoline was used to start the fire.

The blaze caused damage estimated at $150,000.

ARSON SUSPECTED

HAMILTON (CP)—Fire caused damage estimated at more than $150,000 Saturday when it swept through the Majestic Beverages plant. Arson investigators began an immediate inquiry. Fire Chief Swanborough said the blaze apparently had been started in a storeroom at the rear of the plant.

HONOLULU HEAT RECORD

HONOLULU (AP) — The temperature reached 90 degrees in Honolulu Sunday and the weather bureau said it was the hottest ever recorded in the city. The previous high of 89 was recorded Aug. 15, 1947.

Home-Building Drops Sharply

OTTAWA (CP)—New housing construction dropped considerably, both in starts and completions, during the first half of this year, the bureau of statistics reported Tuesday.

January-June starts totalled 68,676 units, down 19.5 per cent from the 1956 figure of 60,200 for the period, with declines in all provinces except Saskatchewan.

Half-year completions dropped 18.1 per cent to 80,435 units from 98,013, with increases in Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, Saskatchewan and British Columbia being more than offset by declines in other provinces.

Units in various stages of construction at the end of June fell 19.8 per cent to 67,371 units from 79,955, with decreases in all provinces except New Brunswick and Saskatchewan.

PROTECTION FOR PRESLEY

VANCOUVER (CP) — Elvis Presley has hired 70 of the city's constabulary to make certain his fans love him tender when he arrives here for a one-night stand Aug. 31. Presley and a concert group of 80 will sing at Empire Stadium, which seats more than 30,000.

MARINE WARNINGS

Underwater sound signals are sometimes used as warnings by lighthouses because sound travels faster in water than in air.

Husband's Boss Slave-Driver, Wife Slugs Him

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Convinced her husband's boss was working him too hard and too long, Mrs. Virginia M. Scales paid him a call, clobbered him with a two-by-four and put him in hospital.

The boss, Frank B. O'Brien, nursing a battered scalp and a lingering headache, said Monday he holds no hard feelings against John Scales and his belligerent wife.

O'Brien did deny, however, Mrs. Scales' allegation that he was "stealing" her husband from her by working him long hours.

"Why, I pay Scales $16,000 a year and 10 per cent of the profits," said O'Brien, who operates an electronics shop. "The guy's a genius and I can't afford to lose him."

"You can't win," said Mrs. Scales. "After I hit that guy O'Brien, my husband socked me on the ear. But I fell justified."

The small koala bear of Australia does not drink water, but gets moisture from the eucalyptus leaves on which it feeds.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was looking at pop serious, saying, William, I'm thankful your not a heavy drinker, rolling home at all hours in a drunken condition.

I join my congradulations to yours, pop said.

Meaning he was glad he wasn't either, and ma said, Of course it would be almost worse if you were a conformed hopeless gambler, wagering your last dollar on some horse without knowing where your family was going to get the next meal.

It wouldn't even be very pleasant if I was a notorious burgler who picked pockits in the daytime as a side line, pop said. I'd be constantly in and out of jail, and occasionally even absent mindedly coming home in my prison stripes. What would the naybors think? he said.

Now William, that's beyond the realm of the wildest possibility ma said. I meen whatever elts happened, you could never be downright dishonest, she said, and pop said, Well, thanks for that crum of comfort.

Still, if you were wayed down with unbearable troubles you might become an incurable drug addict with your emotions either up in the clouds or down in the dumps, ma said, and pop said, By gollies so I might. And now, my dear, if it's any of my biznes, what's this all about?

If you had watched as many teene jelerision plays as I have, you would not have to ask, ma said.

And she terned on the teevee to a play called Alone in the Dark just when I had to go to bed.

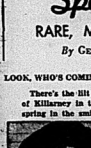
LOOK, WHO'S COMING

There's the lilt of the brogue on his tongue, the gleam of Killarney in the Irish eyes of him, and the morn of spring in the smile of the spalpeen.



TIM GEOHAGEN

In case you're Irish you'll be proud to meet him. In case you know him, you'll be proud of your friendship. There's the gentleness of a Kilkenny kitten in his touch and the strength of Atlas in his arms.

He's Tim Geohagen, as manly a broth of a boy as ever left the ould sod. Timmy is said to be the strongest man the Emerald Isle has produced since Fin McCool heaved the outlanders from the causeway.

He has been known to carry a man seated on a stool merely by gripping a chair with his teeth. He is reputed to have held back a speeding motorcycle and driver by a rope clenched in his teeth. He can bend heavy iron bars, as the Belleville wrestling faithful can prove. He can wrap one around his neck until it looks like a pretzel.

Timothy has a specialty hold which he calls his "Irish Sleeper." When he clamps the foeman in this grip he gently goes bye-bye. Often Timmy massages the sleeping one until he comes to.

There were some skeptics here a couple of years ago when Tim won on a periodical wrestling card. So he twisted an iron bar or two, then invited some ringside unbelievers into the ring to try out his "Sleeper." They left fully convinced Tim's foemen did not "take a dive."

This pleasant spoken, handsome young Irishman is a credit to Ireland and the wrestling sport. He is exceptionally well educated and holds a Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Dublin. His mother is a professor of Gaelic at that institution of learning.

Tim is an avid reader, a keen student of psychology, and believe it or not an accomplished hypnotist. If you don't believe it, he'll gladly prove it to you.

Tim has blonde hair that curls tightly to his head. His clear complexion and bright blue eyes denote vigorous health. He's built like a Greek statue. He's a picture of virility. He's handsome. He's a victory-inducing specimen of manhood. He's the answer to a maiden's prayer. He's the answer to a sweetheart's dream. He's the answer to a mother's hope. He's the answer to a father's pride. He's the answer to a sister's wish. He's the answer to a brother's envy. He's the answer to a boy's ambition. He's the answer to a girl's desire. He's the answer to a man's dream. He's the answer to a woman's fancy. He's the answer to a child's prayer. He's the answer to a grandparent's hope. He's the answer to a grandchild's wish. He's the answer to a friend's request. He's the answer to a sick one's health. He's the answer to a well one's vigor. He's the answer to a dying one's breath. He's the answer to a living one's life. He's the answer to a dead one's rest. He's the answer to a saint's heaven. He's the answer to a sinner's hell. He's the answer to a preacher's sermon. He's the answer to a teacher's lesson. He's the answer to a student's book. How Come The Hullabaloo, No Manager Got Fired--Yet

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—This probably is what you might call a negative story, as nothing happened. The guys weren't fired.

When a baseball manager gets the gate it is worth lengthy comment. But Freddy Hutchinson and Jack Tighe haven't been fired, and the only reason for mentioning them is that they both have received the backing of their respective bosses.

Gussie Busch, owner of St. Louis Cardinals, says he is perfectly satisfied with the job Hutch has done, and Johnny McHale, co-owner of Detroit Tigers, says nobody in authority is criticizing the work of Tighe.

Busch would be a hard man to please indeed if he found fault with Hutchinson, who has been keeping the St. Louis way up in the race for the National League pennant.

Virtually nobody picked the Cards to finish on top this year. They were considered a fairly sturdy dark horse.

Their spring wasn't expected to hold up, for one thing. And they had two newcomers, Eddie Kasko at third base and Dale Blasingame at second. Al Dark at shortstop couldn't be expected to teach them both at the same time.

DOING WELL

Nobody knew then that Von McDaniel, brother of Lindy, would appear on the scene and pitch with the poise of a veteran, or that Kasko would be an extremely precocious young man at third base. We believe Hutchinson has been doing a fine job.

Tighe is in a slightly different situation. Whereas the Cardinals have done better than expected, the Tigers haven't quite lived up to their advance billing. Their's was the best hitting team in the league last year, with an average of .279. They hit 150 home runs, a respectable total.

Harvey Kuenn was hitting .333, Charley Maxwell .288 and Al Kaline .314. Now the Tigers haven't a man in the top 10 of the league. Tighe cannot be blamed for that. He can't hit for his players.

Except for Jim Bunning, their pitching has been poorer than expected.

So Tighe has had his troubles.

Anyway, as I said before, it's a negative story. The guys haven't been fired.

Marksmen to Compete for Major Trophies

By ROY LABERGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CONNAUGHT RANGES, Ont. (CP)—Two major matches—the Macdonald and the Connaught—are the main events today at the annual Dominion of Canad Rifle Association meet.

About 600 competitors entered the Macdonald to compete for the $100 first-place money and the 240 other cash prizes. A like number entered the Connaught, top money in which is $25.

Both count towards the Bisley aggregate, in which the 18 top scorers are chosen to represent Canada next year at the National Rifle Association shoot at Bisley, England.

A 65-year-old retired federal civil servant was one of Tuesday's stars at these ranges 11 miles west of Ottawa.

ELIMINATES SEVEN

George Hanson, who retired last fall as director of Canada's geological survey, fired 11 consecutive bullseyes at 600 yards to eliminate seven younger competitors in a shootoff to break an eight-man tie in the Macdonald match. All had fired 99 of a possible 100 in the main match.

Teen - age cadets from the Camp Borden cadet trades training camp won the McDonald Cup for top four-man squad in the trophy shooting 787 of a possible 800 points. The event was fired Monday but team results were announced Tuesday.

Sgt. Ralph B. Cathline of the Royal Canadian School of Infantry at Camp Borden, fired a double possible 100 to win the Bankers' match, outshooting 599 other competitors. And Maj. R. W. Hampton, also of the infantry school, was declared winner of the Helmer aggregate with 466 of a possible 540 points. Both are Bisley team veterans.

Softball Gals Stage Fight; Two Arrested

OMAHA (CP)—A women's city tournament softball game ended in a fight Monday night. Police were called after spectators joined in the fray and a player was hit on the head with a bat.

Herbert Thompson and Eugene Agee Jr., the managers of the teams, were booked on disturbing the peace charges, as were players Sarah Howard and Barbara Kelly.

The trouble started when one of the players tried to steal second base and claimed she was kicked.

Tiger Cats Held To 15-15 Tie By Dutchmen

WATERLOO (CP) — Kitchener Waterloo Dutchmen staged a fourth-quarter drive Tuesday night to score two single points and tie Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Big Four league 15-15 in an exhibition football game.

The thrice - crowned Ontario Rugby Football Union champions thrilled a crowd of 6,000, which saw the opening of the new Seagram Stadium. Dutchmen led Tigers 7-0 at the half but fell behind after the second half kick-off as Hamilton took a 15-13 three-quarter lead.

The ORFU champions took over in the closing minutes and scored two singles on punts by quarterback Bob Celeri.

ONSIDE KICK

For the final point they used an onside kick on the next to last play of the game but it didn't come off for a touchdown. And Ralph Toohey had to yield a single on the play.

Dutchmen racked up 15 first downs to 14 for Ticats. Celeri passed 18 times, completing 10 for 134 yards. Ticats, with Tony Curcillo tossing six times, Mel Laughton seven and Bernie Faloney 16, completed 10 for 133 yards.

After a scoreless first quarter during which the Ticats replaced an early Dutchmen drive, the home team struck for a converted major in the second.

Ticats gambled for a third down, yard to go, and lost the ball. Steve Patterson set Celeri up and Don Loucks deep in the end zone for the convert.

In the third quarter Cookie Gilchrist booted a long kickoff to Ben Dimbrough who was rouged. In the first play from scrimmage Dimbrough connected with Curcillo recovered on their 18. Hal Wagoner went over from the six for a touchdown and Billy Graham converted to make it 8-7.

Dutchmen drove back from their own 17 for five first downs, got stalled, then kicked and Tex McPherson recovered Ed Macon's fumble for an unconverted touchdown.

Hamilton scored another converted touchdown when Ralph Goldston picked up a blocked punt and ran 18 yards to score.

Aussie Swim Champion Breaks American Record

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Olympic champion Dawn Fraser of Australia broke the American record twice within five hours Tuesday to win the 110 - yard freestyle event in the 1957 National Amateur Athletic Union senior women's outdoor swimming and diving championships.

Paula Jean Myers, 22-year-old Olympic diver from Los Angeles, bolstered her hopes for a grand-slam in indoor and outdoor diving by edging Irene McDonald, a Canadian competing with the Los Angeles club, in the one-meter championship final.

Miss Myers, winner of both indoor events in April, scored 436.96 points to Miss McDonald's 429.75.

Miss Fraser, 19-year-old Australian, won her first American title by leading eight qualifiers with a 1:04.5 and then bettering this mark in the final with a 1:03.9. The previous American record of 1:05.6 was set last year by Nancy Simons of Miami, Fla., Tuesday night's fifth-place winner.

JOHNNY MURETICH — WAYNE BROWN

Two latest players to sign playing contracts for the Belleville Senior "A" McFarlands are Wayne Brown and Johnny Muretich. Brown, former pro, signed last week, while Muretich, centre for the McFarlands last season, inked his contract this morning. This brings to six the number of players who have signed to date, the others, including playing coach Ike Hildebrand, defenceman Moe Benoit; left winger Minnie Menard and centre Jean-Paul Payette.

Canadian Tennis

Fontana, Bedard May Find Foeman Tough From Here In

MONTREAL (CP)—The seeded players, who have found the going fairly easy so far in the Canadian tennis championships will find things a little harder today—they meet each other.

Canada's first and second-ranked players—seeded that way among the Canadians in the tournament, too—meet the third and quarter-finals of the week-long tournament.

Bob Bedard, 25, of Sherbrooke, Que., Canada's best and a five-time champion of the Davis Cup team, comes up against Philadelphia's Straight Clark in one of the feature matches of the day.

Toronto's Don Fontana, 26, meets Bob Howe of Sydney, Australia, in the other. Howe is seeded fourth in the foreign players in the tournament.

IN TIMES BOUND

First - seeded Ramanathan Krishnan of Madras, India, and second-seeded Armando Vieira of Brazil were to play third-round matches today and are expected to qualify for the quarter-finals.

Bedard, bothered lately by a back ailment, had trouble Tuesday defeating Jacques Gigueve of Quebec City 4-6, 6-2, 6-4 and Clark eliminated Richard Munn of Montreal 6-4, 6-3 to enter the quarter-finals.

Fontana easily took Dave Piers of Halifax 6-2, 6-2 and Howe downed John Swann of Vancouver 6-2, 6-0 in their third-round matches.

In the women's singles, Mrs. Louise Brown of Toronto, the top-ranked Canadian, eliminated up-and-coming Ingra Weber of Kitchener 6-0, 6-2.

What amounted to the only upset of the day occurred in the women's doubles when Mrs. Anne Freedhoff and Mrs. Bonita Senn of Toronto defeated Miss Morgan and Sarah Mae Tuber of Evansville, Ind. — the top-seeded foreign pair—1-6, 6-1, 6-2.

Toronto Rink Wins Bowling Gold Trophy

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto rink of Gord McLennan defeated Hamilton quartet of Bob Bell 26-16 Tuesday night to take the Eaton Gold Trophy, main event in the provincial lawn bowling tournament.

The final end in rink play at the Boulevard Club was completed by the Hamilton group. A power failure delayed the game one hour.

Clubs from many parts of Canada and the U.S. begin Scotch doubles play today at various clubs in the city.

In competition for the Robert Simpson Trophy an all-Toronto final saw R. H. Reid defeat D. McKirdy 26-13.

The Toronto team of J. Taylor defeated the Hamilton rink of J. W. Young, 18-11 to win the Northern Electric Trophy.

In the Macgregor-Brewer event the Quincy, Mass., rink of J. Mc-Arthur defeated the Toronto rink of D. Cockshutt, 18-5, to become the only United States winners at the tournament.

The Pilot Insurance Trophy was won by the rink of A. G. Clarke, Evansville, Ind., rink of Dr. A. E. Walkey, Hamilton, 18-12.

Rough Riders Ask Waivers On Wirkowski

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders Tuesday placed quarterback Jack Wirkowski on waivers. They acquired him from Hamilton Tiger-Cats last Friday for an undisclosed cash payment and the rights to two intermediate players.

Coach Frank Clair said he decided on the step on reffirming Bud Grey, Ottawa-born Calgary Stampeders Monday night 26-7 and Winnipeg Blue Bombers 36-6 Saturday.

Wirkowski wasn't with the club Monday night when Clair made the swing and the club's boldover quarterback, Russ Ledyard, was injured in the first quarter of the Winnipeg game. He was replaced by Quarterback Tom Dimitroff.

"We thought at first that Dimitroff might be too young for the job but he played so well in Calgary that we decided to keep him," Clair said. "We can't use three quarterbacks."

SCHOENDIENST FINED

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The all-star baseball game here July 9 cost second baseman Red Schoendienst $50 Tuesday for a traffic count. He pleaded guilty to driving 58 miles per hour in a 30-mile zone.

Schoendienst, who was represented by an attorney, now is with the Milwaukee Braves and is a former St. Louis Cardinal player.

When the chips are down Buffalo Bisons play better than ever in the International League.

The Herd takes Bisons, playing before the largest home crowd of the season, 11,095 — to a doubleheader from Richmond Virginians, 5-0, and 2-1 Tuesday night. Buffalo, which finished last a year ago and hasn't won a pennant since 1945, dropped Richmond to third place, 3½ games back.

The Herd also picked up a half game on Toronto Maple Leafs, who edged Havana Sugar Kings 2-1. They now lead second-place Toronto by two games.

Elsewhere, Columbus Jets defeated Rochester Red Wings, 6-1 and Miami Marlins walloped Montreal Royals 10-3.

Fred Hahn, Buffalo southpaw, shut out Virginians on two hits in the seven-inning opener. It was Hahn's fourth shutout and seventh victory. Four runs were counted for all Buffalo's runs, as Lou Ortiz belted his 19th with two aboard. Mike Baxes hit his 10th and Bill Serena his ninth.

In the second game, Walt Craddock held Vees to seven hits while driving in the winning run with a sacrifice fly in the fourth.

Righthander Don Johnson drove in Toronto's winning run with a seventh-inning single for his sixth straight league victory. Johnson held Havana to seven hits while going the route for his eighth consecutive complete game and his 13th victory. The only harmful hit off Johnson was Chico Alvarez' fourth - inning home run.

Jerry Blackburn pitched Jets to their third straight over Rochester, allowing Red Wings seven hits. Columbus banged 11 of its 13 hits off Rochester's new lefty, Fred Raczewski.

Miami pushed across four unearned runs in the third inning and then began pulling away in Montreal's fifth of seven home games being played at Quebec. Marlins pounded four Montreal pitchers for hits and were aided by four Royal errors. Howie Judson went the distance for Miami, scattering 10 hits.

Claim Newcombe One Reason For Dodgers' Present Plight

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooklyn Dodgers fans are beginning to wonder if their team still is in the National League pennant race, after their team dropped three games to New York Giants last week.

There was considerable apprehension in Flatbush as the three defeats dropped the champions five games behind Milwaukee Braves. If the Dodgers aren't exactly falling apart, at least they a recreaking little at the seams.

On Aug. 9 last year they also were trailing the Braves, but only by 1½ games. They were playing .590 ball then. Aug. 9 this year they were playing at a .561 rate. Why?

Don Newcombe is one reason. On Aug. 9, 1956, Newcombe had won 17 games while losing only five, and had pitched three consecutive shutouts. He ended the season 27-7.

To a lesser degree, Sal Maglie shares some blame, although in Sal's case he might pass it along to his teammates who seldom hit when he is on the mound.

Maglie came to the Brooks May 15 last year, a rather late start. However, by Aug. 9 he had a 5-3 record on his way to a 13-5 season. As at last Friday he was 5-5, with five complete games in 13 starts. His earned run average of 2.72 also is respectable.

Johnny Podres has taken up a little of the slack by winning nine games while losing only five, completing eight of 18, and his earned-run average is better yet —2.50.

In fact, the Dodger pitching from the earned-run standpoint is quite proficient, with Don Drysdale at 2.96 and the workhorse of the bullpen, Clem Labine, at 2.72 for the 34 games in which he has relieved.

So maybe the fans should look elsewhere for the leak.

Claim Record Purse For Canadian Open

TORONTO (CP)—Prize money for the Canadian Open golf championship, which starts Thursday at the Scarboro Golf and Country Club, has been increased to a record $15,000.

The tournament, which has a field of 150 professionals and amateurs, has been increased by $2,500 over last year's purse.

Ben Hogan, Sam Snead and Gene Littler, the three leading money winners on the U.S. pro circuit, are among the entrants.

Canadians Lead League

Canadian youngsters, sons of RCAF personnel serving with Canada's NATO air division in Metz, France, are leading a four-team baseball league of boys under 13 years of age. The other youngsters in the Eastern France Little American League are sons of United States personnel. Winding up is Johnny Cassidy, son of WO J. C. Cassidy, of Hamilton, who pitched a no-hitter, Oct. [illegible] (at right): WO Bill Ward of Ottawa, pitching coach, and Sgt. Brian Campbell, son of Cpl. L. F. Campbell of Courtenay, B.C., and Rick Vandecasteele, who also pitched a no-hitter. Rick is the son of Cpl. Leo Vandecasteele, of Ladysmith, B.C. (CP photo National Defence.)

New Players Catch Berths With Eskimos

EDMONTON (CP) — Two new players have caught a berth in coach Pop Ivy's starting lineup for Edmonton Eskimos' Western Interprovincial Football Union opener against the Blue Bombers at Winnipeg Thursday night.

They are end Tommy Pearson from Oklahoma University and centre Kurt Burris, another Oklahoman who was released to the WIFU all-star squad in 1955 before being sidelined last season with a back injury.

Quarterback Don Getty and fullback Normie Kwong will be the only two non-imports in the starting backfield. Johnny Bright will be Kwong's mate in the double fullback system, with Jackie Parker and Rollie Miles running out of left and right halfback, respectively.

ANNOUNCE GOLF DATE

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Golf Association Tuesday announced that the seniors' championship, open to players 50 years of age and over who are members of clubs belonging to the OGA, will be played at the Toronto Oakdale club Aug. 23.

In addition to the championship, which goes to the player returning the low gross score for 18 holes, there will be awards in three age classes, 50 to 59 years; 60 to 69; and 70 and over.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

For Thursday, Aug. 15, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Make plans now for the balance of the week. Co-ordination of effort each day will be essential to real success. Maintain a steadfast pace augmented by a well thought out schedule.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Day-dreaming is a pleasant form of relaxation in which we can all indulge at times — but at the proper times. When your schedule calls for action, produce! Things don't just happen; you must stimulate "breaks."

May 22 to June 21—(Gemini) — Generally favorable rays for those with initiative. Preparation and follow-through will be important. A calm, constructive discussion with loved ones might well be on the agenda.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Planetary rays are stimulating for worthwhile endeavors. But caution! Avoid impulsive moves. Study your goals, then proceed with planned proficiency.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Your aspects among the best today; be generous with those who are less favored. Don't be patronizing just because things are going well for you.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Handle situations as they arise with your usual dispatch and ability. Though some of the going may be rough, you may accomplish far more than you expect.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Don't let routine get you down. Dress it up with a few workable ideas. New thoughts are always a stimulating tonic. Just be sure that they are based on logic.

October 24 to November 22— (Scorpio) — Let your actions mirror your thoughts and desires. Then consider whether you are pleased with the reflection. Take steps to finish important tasks before handling the less essential.

November 23 to December 21— (Sagittarius) — Don't deviate from your program, except in emergency. Concentrate on accomplishing what you set out to do. Do not underestimate your competition.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Perform chores cheerfully and with the courageous spirit inherent in the letter You. Work out a definite plan for the things you must do. Eliminate waste motion.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Avoid making hasty decisions. Be especially cautious in finances, business affairs. Your analytical abilities should help you weed out detrimental suggestions, corral the good.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Be alert to opportunities lest they bypass you. Others interested in you can help you, but you must initiate the movement.

You born today have many talents — usually hidden, because you have not uncovered them. There is always opportunity if you keep trying — and believing. 'Breaks' are made by hard-driving individuals 99% of the time. You are courageous, impulsive, personable, full of fun, fond of amusement. Don't indulge extremes. You follow with zeal, or denounce with bitterness; correct this to read: "follow carefully with zeal, denounce only when principles are violated." You would make an able physician, nurse, military leader, actor, religious Birthdate of: Napoleon I; Sir Witer Scott, Scottish novelist-poet.

FEW POINTERS

"It is a far-fetched sport," he admitted. "You get a ball down spearmen to stand by for protection. Then you go up to a coarse shark, which is pretty ugly enough but may run from six to 14 feet long—and can be as vicious as any other variety of shark when aroused.

"You grab him by the dorsal fins just aft of his gills, leap on his back and lock your legs around his body in a scissors hold. You can get a good grip because his skin is sandpapery, not slimy.

"By holding his dorsal fins you can keep him from turning his head and biting off your leg. Then he'll roll over and over in the water, buck like a Brahma bull and try to rub you off against the rocks.

"After six to 10 seconds—that's about as long a ride as you'll want—you double up your feet on his back, still holding on to his dorsal fins, and kick him violently away.

"If he turns on you, it's up to your spearmen to get him.

"But usually he is so embarrassed, he will swim away. After that you can ride as long as the sea, and he hates to stay around where he's been humiliated."

NUDES TO GO

(Reuters) — South Africa's controversial nudes — the work of South African sculptor Moses Kottler—will be shown next week from a public building in order to work. Minister Dekkerk. There had been a storm of protests from the public and church organizations that the figures were lewd.

EMPLOYMENT UP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employment in the United States rose to an all-time high of 67,200,000 for July, the government announced Monday. The increase of 700,000 workers over the June total was attributed mainly to the continued hiring of young people in summer jobs and a slight increase in farm work.

Toronto Police Hunt Missing Boy

TORONTO (CP) Police combed east - central Toronto's Lake Ontario waterfront Tuesday night for trace of Norman Crocker, 7, who disappeared about 4:30 p.m., leaving his clothing on the beach. It was not whether he had wandered from the beach or drowned in the water.

Dragging operations continued until midnight in the hope he could be found while the boy and other members of his family had driven for an afternoon's picnic outing to Balmy Beach Canoe Club.

Harbor Police Sgt. Frank Regan said that if Norman had been drowned his body would have been driven ashore by the waves. A loudspeaker police car cruised the shoreline Tuesday night with Leonard Crocker, the boy's father calling for him.

A city alarm also was sent out last the boy had been taken away in a car.

CBC-TV

If the CBC maintained the contract was not in force, he said, a strike could be called as early as this weekend.

1,500 MEMBERS

The IATSE claims a total membership of about 1,500. Montreal and Toronto locals number about 600 each, Mr. Dansereau said, and the rest of the membership was distributed fairly evenly among Ottawa, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Halifax.

Mr. Dansereau said a strike in Montreal would have the support of every local but Toronto, where four members of the IATSE applied for its decertification as bargaining agent while the union was negotiating a new contract with the corporation this spring.

WITSE claims the union movie cameramen, film editors, designers, costumers and wardrobe mistresses, casting clerks, projection assistants, script assistants, makeup artists and carpenters.

In negotiations for a new contract the union has demanded a 25-per-cent wage increase, time-and-a-half after eight hours in any one day, 2½ per cent annual increases and their replacement by a guaranteed 40 per cent increase every six months or yearly; and 10 or 15 per cent differentials for night work.

EXPRESS DISSATISFACTION

Before an agreement was reached, the Toronto group, supported by a statement in Hamilton from 100 per cent of the Halifax membership, applied to IATSE international for the union because it failed to see contracts were honored in the past because of a lack of local autonomy—all dues go to the United States—and because of low wages.

S. S. Alasaburgh, federal labor department conciliator, said the suspension to negotiations while the union straightened out its internal affairs.

A meeting in Ottawa today will decide on the date and machinery for balloting in all locals to determine whether the membership favors keeping IATSE as bargaining agent or whether it should withdraw.

If the membership votes for IATSE negotiations will resume.

POLISH

The broadcast said the workers are trying "recognizing the strike action was wrong, decided to return to work."

The broadcast made no mention of disorders reported t chave occurred in Lodz since the strike began three days ago.

The broadcast indicated that the Lodz disorders had touched off sympathy strikes in other Polish cities.

Communist authorities ordered out the riot squads Tuesday night after day of negotiations between the strikers and a mission from Warsaw had failed.

Officials and members of workers' councils who went into the negotiations Monday refused to press for a settlement were hooted down.

Tuesday night, however, negotiations were resumed between a representative of the Communist party central committee and a strike delegation at the main transport depot.

Police armed with automatic rifles guarded all approaches to the depot as the talks went on.

41 American Youths Leave To Tour China

MOSCOW (AP) — Forty-one American youths defied the United States government today and left for a forbidden tour of Red China.

Just before the train pulled out of Yaroslavsky Station, two Americans withdrew from the trip and two others said they might decide later to catch up with the group by flying to Peiping.

Jan Rosen of New York, group leader and organizer for the trip to the Communist-sponsored World Youth Festival, said he will go to Peiping by way of Kiev where he will attend another Communist - sponsored youth meeting.

The U.S. state department has warned that the trip might violate American law. The department told the youths their passports would be taken from them if they made the journey.

The U.S. has no diplomatic relations with Communist China and considers itself in a "quiet state of war" with the Mao Tze-tung government.

Ideas Advanced For Control of Forest Fires

CHARLO, N.B. (CP) — Some ideas, strange but with distinct possibilities, were advanced for control of the problem of forest fires at the closing sessions of a forest protection conference of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association's woodland's section here Tuesday.

They include: dogs trained to detect smoke from fires in their early stages and lead fire fighting crews to the scene; radar units to track thunderstorms and plot their courses across the country so forest officials will know where to expect lightning strikes; aerial observers equipped with a small electronic marker that can be dropped in the vicinity of fires when they are sighted and found by ground crews with a similar electronic device; and small capsules of calcium sodium borate given to cattle at travel bureaus to mix with water when dousing camp fires so the sparks won't spread.

These were a few of more than 100 recommendations from the closed discussions of the group to be passed to the woodlands research division of Pulp and Paper Institute of Canada and the administration of forest fire prevention of the National Research Council.

Senator Lists 13 Accusations Against Doria

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman John McClellan (Dem., Ark.) of the Senate rackets investigating committee ticked off 13 accusations against former labor leader Anthony Doria Tuesday. The senator called on the U.S. justice department for possible criminal prosecution.

McClellan told Doria that a transcript of his two days of testimony also is going to the internal revenue department in case federal tax collectors "want of Battle Creek.

to pay you a visit."

Mainly, the charges are that Doria, for 15 years secretary-treasurer of the Allied Industrial Workers and its predecessor, the AFL United Auto Workers, misused union funds and worked hand - in - glove with racketeer Johnny Dio.

Doria disputed the charges, swearing that he never spent union money for his personal benefit. —

THREE DIE IN CRASH

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Three persons were killed Friday in a two-car crash at a U.S. 16 intersection four miles northwest of Grand Rapids. Sheriff Arnold Pigorsh identified the victims as Harvey A. DeLine, 70, of Ionia, Mich., his wife, Bessie, 69, and her sister, Mrs. Lulu Aungst, 71, of Battle Creek.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort
Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids
Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive discovery. The right in the privacy of their own home without any discomforts or inconvenience.
In one hemorrhoid case after another, very striking improvement was reported and verified by doctors' observations.
Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.
And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!
In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Hemorrhoids ceased to be a problem!" And most amazing, sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.
All this, without the use of operation, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and relieve pain and itching. This substance is discovered by Dr. Jones, a well known practitioner and is perfected in Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Charter for Home Has Been Changed by Govt.

PLAINFIELD (Special) — On July 23rd, 1957, by order of the Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Ontario, the Charter of the Hastings Mental Health Association Incorporated, has been changed by supplementary Letters Patent to read: Ontario Homes for Mentally Retarded Infants, Incorporated. The change has been made because of the similarity of the previous name of the Association, which inadvertently conflicted with that of the Canadian Mental Health Association. The Ontario Homes For Mentally Retarded Infants Incorporated, has as its aims: a) To operate or to assist in the operation of homes for the care and treatment of subnormal or abnormal children; and b) for the objects aforesaid to acquire and take over as a going concern the undertaking now carried on at the Village of Plainfield, in the County of Hastings under the name of the Babies' Convalescent Home.

— The present membership will be notified and the new membership cards will be issued by the Board of Governors of the new Corporation. To inaugurate the work leading up to an eventual campaign for funds, the Board of Governors will hold a special Open House and Official Opening of the newly - erected and completed playground for the children at the Home. Announcement of date and particulars will be publicised well ahead of time. Since June 10th, 1957 there have been several donations made which are being listed below.

To encourage the work of the Home, Murray Motors Limited, through its president, Mr. Frank Murray has changed the previous automobile of the home into a Ford station wagon, foregoing all of the profit and giving the home the benefit of a complete new 1957 country sedan with a reduction of $643.75. Transportation of laundry daily to and from the Belleville General Hospital has been very much facilitated and Murray Motors is to be congratulated on their example of goodwill on their part to the cause of the mentally retarded infant.

Percival Furniture Company has donated a complete gym set for the smaller children and all children are participating in fun and healthy exercises.

The following donations have been received and hereby acknowledged: Josephine Gist, Belleville $5.00; Dr. D. E. Box M. D. $5; Woolworth, Belleville $10; Spencer Frigid Lockers $25; Walker Hardware Ltd. $25; Tweed Kinette Club, Tweed $100; Regent Refining $10; C. Beatty, Plainfield $5; M. Robinson, Corbyville $20; Group of Workers, Hamilton $18; Donald J. Whalen $10; Order of the Royal Purple $25; Staff of the Grey Trust Company $12; Mrs. Otho Hering $3; Staff Murray Motors Ltd. $10.25; Lorne McDougall $25; C. Duncan, Dave Brophy, L. Kennedy, Belleville $5; Collection Donna Robinson, Corbyville $7.50; Floyd Gates $10, Sudbury, died of a heart attack Saturday. He was president of A. Five Climbers Reach Safety

CHAMONIX, France (Reuters) Five snow-encrusted mountaineers cheated death Tuesday by fighting their way to safety through a storm that was raging around Mont Blanc.

But mountain guides were concerned about the fate of three other alpinists who have been on the mountain for nine days.

The five who returned—three Poles and two Swiss—stumbled to safety after eight would-be rescuers were forced to retreat down the mountain in the face of storms.

A rescue team of 10 men is spending the night in a mountain refuge but to continue the search for an experienced Pole and two inexperienced Yugoslavs believed missing more than 12,000 feet up the mountainside.

Minor Baseball

Rollins Construction scored a 7-4 victory over Parkdale to take a 1-0 lead in their two-of-three bantam baseball playoff series last night.

This was the second game of the series, the first ending in a 7-7 tie last week. The third game is slated for Pine Street School tonight at 6.30 and should a fourth be necessary it will be played at the Alemite Field tomorrow evening.

Don Skinner handled the starring role for Rollins last night. He smashed a grand-slam home run in the top of the fifth with Parkdale leading 3-0. The winners bagged one other run in the same frame and two more in the sixth while McGrimmon hit a bases-empty homer for Parkdale in the seventh. McGrimmon also drove in two runs for Parkdale in the second frame with a double.

Two were out in the fifth when an error, hit batter, Nolan's single and a walk scored one and left the sacks full for Skinner's big homer.

Billy Carson tossed six-hit ball for the victory, fanning six and walking three. Ron Stratton allowed seven hits on the loser's mound, whiffing nine and passing but one.

Skinner homered, Dahl doubled and Nolan, Lloyd, Scott, Zacks and Carson singled to account for the Rollins safeties. McGrimmon with his homer and double topped Parkdale. Michaud and Martin also doubled with Durst and LaMoore singling.

Only Reds Win As Syria, U.S. In Diplomatic Brawl

Two Syrian Envoys Ousted In Retaliatory U.S. Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia is seen in some circles here as the big winner so far in a diplomatic dogfight between Syria and the United States.

The Soviet policy of making trouble for the Western powers in the Middle East appears to have paid off handsomely in this conflict which led Wednesday to the American ouster of the Syrian ambassador in Washington.

Announcing that Ambassador Farid Zeineddine was no longer personally acceptable here, the state department also declared the U.S. ambassador in Damascus, James S. Mouse, will not be returning to his post.

In addition, the state department ordered out of the country by Friday four members of the Syrian Embassy. They will be the action against Zeineddine, who was at first ordered out by Syria, were taken in retaliation for Syria's ouster of three American Embassy officials earlier this week.

NO DIPLOMATIC BREAK

But the department said the actions do not mean a break in diplomatic relations. Officials disavowed any intentions to go that far.

The moves against Zeineddine and Zakaria were caused by protests against a Syrian charge Monday that the U.S. was involved in a plot to overthrow Syria's President Shukri Kuwatly. That charge was followed by the Kuwaity government's order directing that Howard Stone, F. J. Jeton and Col. Robert W. Molloy of the U.S. Embassy staff leave Syria.

William Rountree, assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern affairs, who conducted the campaign which has been carried on against the United States." He also protested "interference with an American diplomatic courier at the Syrian border Aug. 12."

HALTS AT BORDER

Press officer Lincoln White identified the courier as Jerry Turner, and said he and Mrs. Turner was travelling to Lebanon when he was halted at the border.

His car was searched, White reported, by a person in civilian clothes who seized Turner's diplomatic passport and that of his chauffeur. The man in civilian clothes refused to identify himself, White said, and "even went to the extreme of seizing one of the diplomatic pouches, which is an attempt to have it opened."

Such pouches are sealed under the pouch, and after some delay he was allowed to depart with his pouch intact. Eventually he changed four went with him.

Zeineddine and Zakaria were declared unacceptable because "the continued presence of these two men in the United States does not contribute to friendly relations between the United States and Syria." He did not explain what he meant.

Deep Fear Gripping Alabama Town As Ku Klux Klan Beats 6 Negroes

MAPLESVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Four Negro sections box this Alabama town of 850—and in each there is a deep and restless fear.

For the first time since anyone can remember, Negroes have begun to come to Maplesville, whose population is about 85 per cent white.

Maplesville has just suffered what amounts to the latest outrage—the beating of six Negroes, four of whom were made to run and dodge rifle shots.

The only thing that prevents a new and bloody outbreak is the fact the solid citizens promise that there won't be any repetition of it.

Five Negroes, one a soldier on furlough, were taken one night at Earnest Gorce's house that evening watching television.

Will Brown, a sixth Negro, was in bed when the Klan called. He had been ill off and on for several months, but the Klansmen forced him to get out of bed, beat him and told him to leave town. He has. So has Goree, who owned his home.

Virgil Brewster, one of those beaten, tells this story:

"We was sitting on a bench. We was watching television. While we was sitting there, we turned around and the yard was filled with folks."

Masked men forged the Negroes to turn around and beat them from the rear, using rubber hoses or leather blacks.

Before the beating, four of the Negroes were taken out into the woods and told to start running.

Were any of the men armed? "Yes, sir. They had guns pistols."

"We started running, and I run about a quarter of a mile and hid in the woods. While I was running I heard about five shots."

Brewster later went home and promised to leave town. The next morning he told his employer, Ray Simond Stremming, that he was leaving, and Stremming persuaded him to stay.

Stremming operates the Stremming Veneer Company, which employs about 275 people, only 15 per cent of whom are Negroes.

Stremming and his wife received a telephone call Wednesday night advising them against staying at home.

ST. LAURENT MAY MAKE ONE MORE BID FOR POWER

Providing Election Held Early in Spring

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal chieftain Louis St. Laurent, his party beaten in the election campaign set, may make at least one more attempt to recapture government power before hitting the road to retirement.

The 75 - year - old Opposition leader, ending a two-day conference with former cabinet colleagues, indicated to reporters Wednesday he will be on deck for the next parliamentary session and will lead his Liberals into another election fight if one is called by next spring.

But beyond that he would not go. In some observers' it appeared the Liberals would hold a new leadership convention if it appears the Progressive Conservatives can hold onto office for more than a year.

NOT DISCUSSED

Mr. St. Laurent assured a reporter categorically that the question of a change in Liberal leadership was neither discussed nor alluded to in his talks with his colleagues. No consideration had been given to the appointment of a deputy leader to ease the party's burden.

He indicated he still was firmly in the saddle, saying: "I would expect that if there is an election by next spring, nothing will be done to change the situation as it now exists."

Duncan MacTavish of Ottawa, president of the National Liberal Federation, was considering summoning the federation executive committee at an "appropriate time," Mr. St. Laurent said, but that was a matter for the federation. He himself had no right or responsibility to call the committee.

There was no indication why the committee, which represents Liberals in all provinces, would be summoned to Ottawa. Some sources say it would merely help "breathe new life" into a party which could be "strengthened." Others say it could set the stage for a party leadership convention. Mr. St. Laurent said he didn't believe the convention will come before Parliament opens Oct. 14.

Campbell Fails To Break Record

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (AP)—Speedboat king Donald Campbell sped his jet-propelled hydroplane at 204.05 miles an hour today, but missed topping his world record of 225.63.

His crew said wind and water on Canandaigua Lake were excellent for the runs, but Campbell appeared to be pushing the throttle cautiously in case the swell that wrecked an earlier attempt this month should appear.

It was his first attempt at his record since August 2, when the official timers left for the Gold Cup races.

Use Bone Marrow From Twin To Aid Baby With Leukemia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A 20-month-old girl suffering from acute leukemia is the first known what doctors say may be the most successful transplant of human bone marrow.

The child is Laura MacDonald of suburban Drexel Hill. The transplant was made from her twin sister, Mary, 7, one of two children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert MacDonald.

Laura was released today from Fitzgerald Mercy Hospital with the leukemia no longer evident, though doctors say it could return. She was admitted in mid-June in poor condition. Leukemia is a cancer of the blood cells and is almost always fatal.

"Because little hope was held for her survival," a hospital spokesman said, "heroic measures were agreed upon when it was proposed that Laura and Mary, had the same blood type as hers, the doctors were made to try and transplant Mary's healthy bone marrow to her sister.

"On July 11 Laura underwent a massive dose of total body irradiation in an effort to destroy the disease process immediately before the transplant.

"The following day the children were taken to an operating room where marrow was drawn from Mary's shin bone and hip bone into syringes treated with anticoagulants. This marrow was then injected into Laura's blood stream.

The youngster responded steadily to the transplant and had no violent reaction. In the ensuing days, there has been an encouraging improvement in the condition of her blood.

The attending physician, who declined to be identified, issued this statement:

"This is not to be construed as a cure for acute leukemia.

"This possibly may be the first probable successful transplant of bone marrow on twin to another with the preliminary use of new chemotherapeutic medicines and irradiation, and there has been a favorable effect upon the leukemia, the end result of which will require a much longer period to evaluate. . . ."

Exempt Witnesses' Children From Religious Instruction

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday that members of the religious sect of Jehovah's Witnesses may attend Roman Catholic schools without taking religious instruction.

The seven-judge bench, a majority of the province's highest court, ruled 4-3 in favor of the sect of the appeal. Three of the six said regulations governing public schools should be amended in view of the situation.

Expulsion of two children of Cajetan Chabot, a sect member from the Roman Catholic school in Lamorandiere Township near Ste. Anne, Que., brought the case before the courts. The school commission ordered the children out of school after they refused to take religious instruction.

In Superior Court at Amos, the father asked for a court order to have the children readmitted and declared exempt from religious instruction. Judge Fernand Choquette dismissed the suit, ruling the religious instruction is a part of the school curriculum.

The appeal was heard before a strong bench. Chief Justice Casgrain and six puisne judges.

Wednesday's ruling ordered the Lamorandiere commission to reinstate the children and exempt them from religious instruction in future.

Quebec school law provides that the religious majority group in each district sets up the school board. Other religious groups may organize dissident boards, but it is the majority that controls.

Says Challenges for Youth Would Wipe Out Delinquency

CAMP IPPERWASH (CP) — "Juvenile delinquency would disappear if the youth of today were presented with enough challenges in day-to-day living," says a scoutmaster of army officer.

Brig. T. G. Gibson, Western Ontario area commissioner, points to experience at the summer military training program at Camp Ipperwash where 1,000 cadets from southern Ontario are now represent a good cross-section of Canadian youth. They have been presented with these challenges through basic military training, modified to suit their age."

In that time, he said, only two cadets were sent home for disciplinary reasons.

The brigadier, who doubles as chief during the summer as commandant of this camp on Lake Huron, 20 miles northeast of Sarnia, said: "The emphasis on our training has been laid on the initiative of the cadet with his fellows, developing a better outlook on life and a responsible sense of leadership in the boy.

"Our methods of discipline aim to restore a boy's privileges, and if that doesn't work, to send him home."

Massed on the parade square each morning for the flag ceremony marchpast under Cadet Lt.-Col. Alan Rogers of Montreal, a cadet band, under Capt. R. Cathcarines, the cadets are an impressive sight.

GOMULKA WINS BATTLE TO PEG LEVEL OF WAGES

Handles Lodz Strike Without Bloodshed

LODZ, Poland (Reuters) — Poland's new communist party leader, Wladyslaw Gomulka, today appeared to have chalked up a victory in his efforts to stem industrial unrest and peg wage levels.

But the victory is one which probably affords him pain as well as satisfaction.

His lieutenants in this textile city, where 19,000 striking transport workers returned to work Wednesday after a 48-hour stoppage, handled the situation firmly but avoided bloodshed.

ECONOMY STRAINED

The national economy at present is subject to severe strain. The difficulties of some categories of workers have led to increases in streetcar men. Spread over the country, this means only a small increase for each worker.

The Lodz transport strike was thus insufficient, and demanded broadly a 50-per-cent increase in wages. Gomulka put the trial of strength between the two sides, the government stood firm and the strikers capitulated.

NO CASUALTIES

Instructions are reported to have been given to the civil police and internal security troops to avoid violence. No casualties were reported from the action on the night of Tuesday-Wednesday. There is no real similarity between the events here in Lodz and the bread riots in Poznan last summer.

The Poznan riots represented an explosion based on discontentment. That October "revisionist" or "reformist" line of Gomulka here, swept Gomulka to power.

Gomulka retains his personal popularity, and the mental mood Poles believe he is doing his best in a difficult situation.

Gaspe Strikers Face Eviction

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (CP) — Fifteen strikers have been ordered to appear in court Friday to show cause why eviction from homes rented to them by Gaspe Copper Mines Limited.

The writs issued by Quebec Federation of Labor and the United Steelworkers of America Chief said Wednesday the men have been told to appear at Percé, 20 miles southeast of here, Gaspe Peninsula town, to show cause why they should not be evicted for non-payment of rent.

Rents have not been paid since the CSCM-CLC and called the strike last March 10.

Roger Lapointe, local USWA spokesman, said union lawyers have advised the men to ignore the writs. Irregularities in drafting the writs is claimed.

Fire College To Be Started By Government

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario will establish Canada's first fire college to provide advanced instruction on standard fire fighting techniques, Premier Frost announced Wednesday.

The college will operate on weekend courses in groups of 30.

While the formal opening will be next spring, a one - week course will be held this autumn to show how to deal with fires involving atomic material, Fire Marshal W. J. Scott said.

ERROL FLYNN INJURED

NEW YORK (AP)—Actor Errol Flynn was in hospital today with knee and rib injuries received in days ago in a spectacular accident in the Mediterranean. Flynn was taken to hospital Wednesday night by a yacht.

23 Aboard Soviet Airliner Killed in Crash

COPENHAGEN (AP)—A twin-engined Soviet airliner coming in for a landing in light snow and mist clipped a 270-foot power station chimney today and crashed in Copenhagen harbor.

All 23 persons aboard apparently were killed. Six bodies were found floating in muddy harbor waters after the crash and eight more after crash and eight more bodies were recovered from the submerged wreck.

The Scandinavian Airlines System said the plane, a turboprop Ilyushin passenger and crew of five. The crew members said 11 of the passengers were identified as Soviet citizens. The others were two Britons, three Germans, one Dane and one of unidentified nationality, SAS said.

MOVIE MAKER DIES

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Harry Jacques Revier, 55, a veteran movie maker in Hollywood, France and England, died Wednesday. He produced about 200 pictures, including many westerns and some of the Tarzar series.

Dresden Cave-In Buries Six Alive In 35-Foot Hole

Construction Workers Die Beneath 150 Tons of Earth

DRESDEN (CP)—Six Western Ontario construction workers perished Wednesday night when, with a sickening slide, 150 tons of earth and sand collapsed on them at the bottom of a 35-foot hole in which they had been pouring concrete.

The accident wiped out all but one of the crew that was working on the steel-and-concrete foundation for a new waterworks system pumphouse at this town 12 miles north of Chatham.

Dead are:

Jan Oldevenring, 45, who lived six miles east of Aylmer;

Dick Eykens, 40, also of Byron, near London;

Jan Brenner, 42, of Aylmer;

Enne Hovius, 45, and his son Wilfrid, 18, both of Harrietsville, eight miles north of Aylmer.

Henry Dreath, 50, of Springfield, nine miles southeast of Aylmer.

Five bodies were recovered during the night. About 40 rescue workers digging in relays continued the search for the other body. Their operations were halted for about an hour early today so that supports could be brought in to shore up the hole and prevent further cave-ins.

HOLE FILLED QUICKLY

Joseph Grabec, who lives nearby, said "it was over in the twinkling of a finger. It couldn't do much, it happened so fast. it didn't take two seconds to fill the hole.

Rescue work continued slowly and cautiously. A large crack appeared in the blue clay above the ledge of six volunteers digging in the bottom of the pit.

The men were employed by Dresden Construction Company of the Waterworks which 11 days ago had the contract secured to fill the upper lip of the excavation, on the opposite side from where the men were working, crumbled and gave way.

Sent for Trial On Murder Count

COCHRANE (CP) — Bush worker Herman Peltola, 33, was charged with murder in the death last Saturday of his wife, 38, was committed Wednesday for trial in September.

Mrs. Reunni Peltola was found dead in their farm home 3½ miles southwest of here.

At the preliminary hearing, coroner Dr. P. Bernstein testified he accompanied police to the Peltola farm home and found Peltola drinking beer while his wife lay dead in the kitchen.

Dr. Bernstein said Peltola admitted that he struck his wife with his fist, and had punched and kicked her.

The coroner said Mrs. Peltola's death was caused by a hemorrhage at the base of the brain.

Princess Anne Receives Presents From Parents on Seventh Birthday

BALLATER, Scotland (Reuters)—Princess Anne today celebrated her seventh birthday at Balmoral Castle, the Royal Family around the table to wish the blonde, blue-eyed daughter of the Queen a happy birthday.

There were rumors of a real surprise for the princess, but of course there was one more pearl for the necklace which her grandfather, the King and George VI, started with one bead at her christening.

Anne has grown so quickly in the last year that she has outgrown all her brother Charles, who will be 9 in November. Sometimes she is delighted—her dressed—but sometimes she is delighted—or bored—and pouts obligingly for the cameras when something goes wrong.

She watches her brother's activities with admiration, and probably the greatest calamity in her young life this year was the day Charles entered a campaign to go out to school, too.

She reads well and writes a neat hand. Two of her favorite subjects are history and poetry.

Like most youngsters, she is a keen television fan.

Left Car Parked For Quick Start After Speedsters

TORONTO (CP) — Joseph B. Miller was tired of seeing youthful drivers speeding down the street in suburban North York.

So he left his car parked ready for a quick start. The next time he heard the scream of tires, he dashed out and gave chase.

In court Wednesday Magistrate Fred Thompson listened to supporting evidence from neighbors and imposed a $50 fine on the careless driving on Joseph Barron, 21-year-old driver of the speeding truck Mr. Miller had cornered.

Journal Says Queen 'Sold' As 'Movie Queen'

LONDON (Reuters) — A Trotskyist journal, the Militant Weekly, says the Queen has been "sold" to the people not as a monarch but as "a movie queen, as one up on the Americans."

The publication, which has a non-conformist readership, says in its issue out today that the Queen's tour is being used as a spectacle, and as a means of "Queen's are now going to reap when spectacle, movie-queen status and horse-racing become an effector in the vote-not of future bad times," it adds.

Referring to Lord Altrincham, the 33-year-old peer whose recent criticisms of Queen and court led to a storm of controversy, the weekly comments:

"Even Queen's cousin wants to shoot Altrincham, others want to kick him out of the Conservative party, he is warned away from his club, his face is slapped by an old lady in the street and neurotic Empire Loyalists, and no wonder because he is right down to Billingsgate (a tough London fishmarket) by saying that the young girl at her confirmation has nicer thoughts than Albert Schweitzer. He made a remark unworthy of the Archbishop of Canterbury but not unworthy of Mary. (God-frey) Fisher.

The weekly says those who see the monarchy as of importance to their status should be repudiated. Those who see it as a constitutional device with many valuable uses should be encouraged to discuss it publicly and seriously.

THROW AWAY SUPPER

DETROIT (AP) — Raymond Nelson, testified today in his wife, Elsie, 53, was often temperamental in their 12 years of marriage. He got a divorce Tuesday after telling the court Mrs. Nelf threw his supper into his lap because he listened to the last inning of a baseball game on the radio before eating.

Southern Ontario will receive a few clouds and widely - scattered thunder showers this evening. Slowly clearing skies are forecast for today this disturbance as it moves through Ontario.

Postal Experts Open Conference In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Postal experts from 96 countries get down to the hard facts of international mail co-operation today as the 14th congress of the Universal Postal Union swings into sessions that will last six weeks or better.

Presiding at that first Canadian meeting of the world postal body is Canada's deputy postmaster-general, Walter J. Turnbull, a newly-elected president of the congress. He was chosen Wednesday after an opening welcome to delegates by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

The 59-year-old Mr. Turnbull, a veteran of 42 years of government service who is due to retire this year, said in an interview following his election that the Cold War has brought "political" problems to the union.

MAIL GOES EVERYWHERE

Despite these problems he said co-operation within the union is such that mail "flows freely to all parts of the world," including highly - populated Red China, which is not a union signatory.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker officially opened the more than 200 delegates—all men—at opening ceremonies in the Senate chamber.

"It can be said that due to the work of the universal postal union, mail knows no frontiers," the prime minister said.

The delegates also heard short speeches by Speaker-General William Hamilton and congress dean Sir Dudley Lumley of Britain. Then they retired to work specially - prepared Commons chamber where general meetings and afternoon sessions will take place until the end of September. The first session was closed to press and public.

ASK SECURITY CHECK

TORONTO (CP)—RCMP were asked Wednesday to report on security measures existing against sabotage at water and sewage disposal plants in Metropolitan Toronto.

COUNTY COUNCIL TO MEET WEDNESDAY

Hastings county council will meet for their summer session next week with members to convene for their three-day meet on Wednesday morning, August 21st. County Warden Leslie McLaren will call the three-day summer session.

TRACTOR MISSING FROM LUMBER FIRM

Apparently horse thieves have gone modern with the times.

R. Houston's Lumber Company on St. Paul Street this morning reported to city police that a tractor was missing from their premises.

The tractor was said taken from their lumber yard some time since Monday morning.

COMET SEEN IN NORTHWEST SKY

COMET SEEN etc CD

Folks in Hastings and Prince Edward counties may be able to see a comet tonight if they look in the northwest quadrant of the sky about 15 degrees elevation above the horizon (below the Big Dipper).

The comet is unidentified but is the same one reported by a couple of Belgians a few months ago.

Its appearance is not unlike that of a star, but it has a tail like a fluorescent light which appears to stand straight up.

The comet was sighted last night at Trenton Air Station and also by a few people in Cannifton and Belleville. Look for it any time after dark tonight, preferably around 10 o'clock.

BOY SHAKEN UP IN COLLISION

Larry Stewart, aged 9, of 17 Dundas Street, suffered a shaking up and a bruised chin yesterday when his bicycle was involved in an accident will a car at the corner of Pinnacle and Bridge streets.

The boy, unfamiliar with the operation of the brakes on the English-type bike he was riding, was said to have collided with a car driven by a Trenton man. The lad was taken to Belleville General Hospital where an examination showed him to be okay.

Car Abandoned Shortly After Reported Stolen

Melville C. Thompson, 3rd concession of Huntingdon township discovered his car missing and reported the matter to police just about the same time the vehicle was being used in a manner roughly in an uptown alleyway.

At 8:20 a patrol officer reported seeing a northbound car on Front street swing into the narrow alleyway between the Crystal Hotel and the McCarthy Theatre. The vehicle struck the theatre wall and was then driven on through the alleyway and abandoned at the rear of the income tax office.

Five minutes later the owner complained to police at the station that his car had been stolen.

Highlights of the Fair

The "special police" posted by the Fair Board to apprehend "fence-jumpers" are doing a splendid job. A large number of "pay-after-you enter" patrons were seen in the fair already. The police spot them when they fence-hop, march them to the secretary's office where they are parted from fifty cents of the cash on the person.

One "special" has compiled a good record. He has brought in 11 would-be free loaders adding $20.50 to the fair exchequer.

• • •

The fair board's exchequer is in exceptionally good hands. The money-checking personnel operating under Fair Treasurer Bob Phillips includes city treasurer Drury Denyes, Board of Education secretary treasurer Roy Dulmage, Ross Bailey, former county treasurer and Wally Moore of the Toronto-Dominion Bank.

The day's proceeds are carefully checked and a balance drawn every night in the treasurer's office.

Also doing a splendid job are a number of public and separate school teachers who are acting as ticket-takers at the gates.

Twenty-five pedagogues toil from nine a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

• • •

Everyone has heard about turning a used car in on a new one, but how many have heard of trying to trade a used pennant in for a brand new one?

Ralph Tuck, who has been on duty at the Stephen Licence display at the fair was confronted with a group of youngsters yesterday who wanted to turn Raleigh bicycle buntings in on Robin Hood bike pennants.

Unfortunately Mr. Tuck had only 4,000 pennants to hand out free during the fair and most of them are now in youthful hands, so the boys and girls who got Raleigh pennants on Monday and Tuesday, instead of Robin Hood, or both, are out luck as far as trading is concerned.

The St. John Ambulance Brigade first-aid post in the Coming modern building has been doing a thriving business treating minor complaints of limb and body.

• • •

Children on West Bridge St. near the fair grounds are getting an early start in the business and financial world. Since the fair opened a few lemonade stands, manned by youthful proprietors, have sprung up along the route to the fair gate.

• • •

Remarks heard from folks who have seen the grandstand show indicate that this year's performances far exceed any of the last. Fair president Dr. Russel Scott said: "We can't backslide now. Next year's grandstand show will have to be even better than this year's, if that is feasible."

• • •

Firemen at the station on the fair grounds are beginning to breathe sighs of relief now that the fair is in its last days. They have had only one call since the fair opened on Monday and that was to give first aid to a man who cut his wrist. One of the firemen said this morning they are waiting to rush to the assistance of any of the many beautiful girls who have invaded the grounds, should one or all have a fainting spell.

• • •

City police have been having an extra heavy time of it directing traffic to and from the fair grounds, although they have nothing of any seriousness to report.

• • •

Someone gave Emma the elephant a lighted cigaret the other day. That person was lucky she did not throw him 35 miles into the air with her trunk, bash him against the tree to which she is chained. Emma may appear docile enough, but it must be remembered she is basically a wild animal and should be handled with "kid gloves."

Oshawa Edges Combinettes 3-2 In Playoff Game

Oshawa Merchant Maids shaded the Belleville Combinettes 3-2 in the opening game of their ladies' Fastball International "A" playdown series played at Oshawa.

The second game in the two-of-three series is slated for the CNRA Park here Friday evening at 6.30 p.m. Should the Combinettes win, the only game will be played in Belleville on Saturday afternoon.

Last night's game was a thriller all the way. Belleville took a 2-0 lead with single markers in the third and fourth innings. Oshawa roared back to the matters with a pair in the bottom of the fourth and pushed across the deciding run in the eighth frame.

Halliday and McCabe formed the Merchants' pitching combine while Linda Wagg, Wagg was touched for five safeties. Betty Empey was her receiver.

Junior Farmers Hold Contest At Local Fair

Quinte district junior farmers and 4-H club members continued their activities at the exhibition Wednesday with inter - club events.

Individual competition in making adjustable rope-halters saw Ron Hamilton, Lyle Vandell, Doug Rollins and Doug Farrell emerge as the top four winners.

The dairy calf showmanship preparation event saw teams each with two juniors quickly and efficiently prepare animals for the show ring.

Lyle Vandlet and Lloyd Spencer of Prince Edward county won this event with other teams placing as follows: Carolyn Thompson and Patsy Dafoe; Ron Hamilton and Harold Reid; Gary Herrington and Doug Farrell, and Doug Rollins and Bill Vermilyea.

Final junior event of the day was a demonstration competition open to teams of two or three 4-H club members. Contestants could choose any phase of agriculture for their demonstrations which were limited to seven minutes in length.

Today will see the windup of junior events with the Belleville 4-H Beef club, the Hastings 4-H Swine club; South Hastings 4-H Sweet Corn Club and the Hastings 4-H Potato club holding achievement days.

Wolfe Island Partridge Show Big Increase

The population of Hungarian partridge on Wolfe Island has increased to such an extent as to should be in sufficient numbers by fall to afford a good shoot, District Game and Fish Protective department officers are doing a broad count this month, using a bird dog, to establish what kind of crop might be expected during the fall season.

Until 20 years ago, the Hungarian partridge was a stranger to Ontario. They were imported from the United States and established in the eastern counties, particularly in the Kemptville area from which they have spread until they have been reported from western Quebec north in the Ottawa Valley, to Belleville and south to the Adirondacks as a result of the birds' migratory instinct.

Although the province is at the bottom of a cyclical decline two or three years ago, the birds are now reported making a strong comeback.

IN MEMORIAMS

WRIGHT — In loving memory of Ida M. Wright, who passed away Aug. 15th, 1955.
What wound I give if I could say
Or word unkind
To cheer your voice and see you smile
To kiss with you and chat a while,
If you who bore a mother's
Ineffable affection
For you'd never the heartache
Or see her vacant chair.
Sadly missed by daughter Alma, Len, Pud, Nipt, and Roma.

WRIGHT — In loving memory of my dear husband, Ida M. Wright, passed away August 15th, 1955.
God knew that she was suffering.
He took her home to rest.
So he closed her weary eyelids,
And whispered "Peace at last."
Away in the beautiful hills of God
Is the resting place for me.
Sometime, sometime I know
I will meet my mother there.

Few of Dosco Directors Voted To Sell to Avro

HANTSPORT, N.S. (CP) — A farm boy who quit school at 13 and ranks now as one of Canada's leading financiers may lead a bitter battle to prevent sale of the giant Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation to British-controlled A. V. Roe (Canada) Ltd.

Stocky, plain-spoken R. A. Jodrey said Wednesday in an interview "damn few" of the 14 Dosco directors voted to sell the wide-spread industrial complex during a Montreal meeting last week at which an Avro proposal to buy was discussed.

Mr. Jodrey said earlier he wants to see control of the company retained by interests concerned with using raw materials produced in the Atlantic Provinces. He also foresaw "grave danger" that Dosco production may become concentrated in Ontario and Quebec, rather than in the Atlantic area where Dosco is an important phase of the economy.

NO COMMENT

Dosco President C. B. Lang and Avro officials declined comment on Mr. Jodrey's statement. Avro, which proposed in a letter of intent to give 1.25 shares of Avro common stock plus $10.50 for each Dosco share, is controlled by the Hawker Siddeley Group Ltd. of England. The bid, amounting to about $60,000,000, is contingent on Avro's obtaining at least 1,600,000 shares of Dosco or 52 per cent of ownership.

Asked if he plans to lead a fight to keep control of Dosco in Canadian hand, Mr. Jodrey replied: "I haven't made any plans yet."

The 66-year-old industrialist said he does not know how many shares opponents to the sale could accumulate to block Avro if a fight for control ensues.

Mr. Jodrey is president of the Minas Basin Pulp and Paper Co., chief director of many firms including the Bank of Nova Scotia, Crown Life Insurance, Canada Cement Co. Ltd., Eastern Trust Co. and Teck-Hughes Gold Mines.

British Guiana Voters Return Jagan to Power

GEORGETOWN (AP) — Four years after British troops landed here to back up London's ouster of Dr Cheddi Jagan's pro-Communist government, British Guiana voters have handed the once-jailed Jagan another decisive election victory.

Complete returns from Monday's voting showed today that Jagan's People's Progressive party won nine of the 14 elective seats in the 28-member legislative council. The party is dominated by Jagan and his American-born wife, Janet, both accused by British administrators of being Communists.

Jagan, 39 - year - old dentist, called his victory "a defeat of musty reactionary forces."

British residents appeared stunned. They believe that the governor of this South American colony, Sir Patrick Renison, can not avoid restoring Jagan to the prime minister's post he lost after 133 days in 1953.

Since then, however, British has added enough constitutional controls to assure that the governor has a virtual veto over the prime minister. The governor appoints the other 14 members plus a speaker, who can outvote the elected party winners.

The governor has not indicated what course he will follow on appointed council members.

Mayflower II May Make Trip Up St. Lawrence

WASHINGTON (AP) — The British owners of the Mayflower II have agreed to a proposal to send the replica of the pilgrim ship up the, route of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

All that remains to make the trip a reality, Senator Charles Potter (Rep. Mich.) reported Wednesday, is approval from the group of Americans who will take over ownership of the vessel in November.

Potter said he has received approval of the proposed tour of Great Lakes ports from Warwick Charlton of London, head of the British group which sponsored the ship's record voyage from England to Plymouth, Mass.

The lakes trip would be made either in October or early next spring.

The seaway will not be open for all ocean-going vessels until 1959, but Potter said it now is deep enough for the Mayflower II.

Labor Lashes Eisenhower's Economic Policy

CHICAGO (AP)—The AFL-CIO lashed out at the Eisenhower administration's economic policies Wednesday with a statement calling them "confused," "self - defeating" and "blundering."

The executive council of the 15,000,000-member labor organization approved a three-page statement that contended the climb in mortgage, loan and bond interest rates is "designed to hasten a recession."

The statement said that this year industrial output dropped about three per cent in the United States while production facilities grew and prices rose.

"In the face of this crisis," it added, "leaders of the administration and of business are blundering dangerously."

What the U.S. needs, the council said, is steady economic growth.

It suggested that the current hearings of the senate finance and anti-trust committees be pressed vigorously and that the facts be placed before the people.

Sixty Workers At Greyhawk Mines Strike

BANCROFT (Special) — Sixty underground workers at the Greyhawk Uranium Mines, four miles west of Bancroft on No. 28 high way, walked off their jobs at the commencement of the night shift Wednesday afternoon.

The strike is said to be in protest of working conditions at the mine.

Underground workers at the mine are members of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers union. It is reported that the union has been certified, but no contract has yet been signed with the mine.

Provincial Police at Bancroft are keeping the strike under observation.

St. Laurent Will Not Use House

OTTAWA (CP)—Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent said Wednesday he will not take up residence at Stornoway, the suburban Rockcliffe mansion set aside for Opposition leaders.

"The reason must be obvious," he told reporters. "It is a big house and must be rather difficult to furnish, maintain and operate."

The new Opposition leader will reside in a small apartment a few blocks from Parliament Hill.

Stornoway was last used by Hon. George Drew.

Four Former Liberal Ministers To Quit Politics

OTTAWA (CP)—At least four former Liberal cabinet ministers have indicated they are quitting federal politics for good, Opposition Leader St. Laurent said Wednesday.

Names and portfolios: Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, 71, trade; Hon. Robert Winters, 44, works; Hon. Ralph Campney, 63, defence; Hon. James McCann, 70, revenue.

All were among the nine Liberal ministers defeated in the June 10 election.

Mr. St. Laurent told a press conference that of the others defeated, Hon. Stuart Garson, 58, former justice minister, doesn't plan any immediate return to politics.

He didn't know what decision Hon. Milton Gregg, VC, 65-year-old former labor minister, had reached. As for Hon. Walter Harris, 53 - year - old former finance minister, he said, "I don't think he has come to any conclusion as to what he will do."

Playgrounds, Grain, Aylmer Exhibits Shown

Completing the displays in the horticulture building were those of the Aylmer exhibit with a nicely arranged booth with pillars of canned vegetables, and cabbage, accented by a placard of a country lad, with tanned and healthy cheeks, shaded by a broad-brimmed straw hat, and sitting behind a collection of green corn, celery and glowing red tomatoes.

The farmers seed and grain collection was also nicely arranged with its background of pressed weeds; tall heads of barley, wheat and oats, and various hays, bags of seed grains were also shown, and a collection of husked corns of varying kinds, and a tall stalk of ensilage corn.

PLAYGROUND DISPLAY

The playgrounds display was attractive with its bands of blue and white entwined bordering the long counter and framing the different exhibits on the wall behind. These included paper cut-outs; felt flowers for corsages with pipe-cleaner stems; jardineres made from tiny butter paddies; paper Indian teepees; vases from discarded pickle bottles covered with angular colored papers; plasticene animals and rabbits as well as rabbit heads with wool on picnic naper plates; a green octopus with tentacles made from wool; woven paper baskets and ornate paper hats, and a penguin made from an electric light bulb, looking as if he has just come from the Arctic circle, and a numerous amount of other handicraft made by little deft fingers at play time.

Thirteen Torrid Tales Are Told At Libel Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Thirteen stories accusing movie stars of illicit adventures have been poured into the ears of jurors in the criminal libel trial of Confidential and Whisper magazines.

The prosecution gave the recital Wednesday in an attempt to prove that the magazines libelled the subjects of the articles and published false and obscene matter. The stories have provoked libel suits asking about $35,000,000.

More sex-packed stories are expected to flow from the witness stand when the trial resumes Friday after being in recess today.

ARGUE SUBPOENAS

Arguments were scheduled for today on the prosecution's attempt to bar the defence from calling nearly 100 movie celebrities as witnesses to ask them if stories written about them were true. The prosecution contended that such testimony would be immaterial to the 10 stories on which the grand jury indictment was based.

Jurors listened without changing expressions as the readers' monotonous voices droned for hours through accounts of alleged scandal.

The principals and the stories included:

Mae West—Her alleged predilection for "muscle men" and her employment of a Negro boxer.

Robert Mitchum — The story called him "the male who came to dinner." Mitchum sued Confidential for $1,000,000, but the action was dismissed because of a question of jurisdiction.

Jayne Mansfield and Mickey Hargitay—The buxom blonde entertained Mr. Universe in her honor.

Eddie Fisher—While an army private in 1952, the singer is reported as having had a gay party with a blonde, a redhead and a brunette in Detroit hotel.

Frank Sinatra—The story calls him "the Tarzan of the boudoir" and says a breakfast food is the reason.

Dorothy Dandridge—The story says "what Dorothy Dandridge did in the woods" involved a romantic encounter with a bear. Miss Dandridge filed a million-dollar libel suit, settled for $10,- 000 out of court.

Maureen O'Hara—She was accused of engaging in torrid love-making with an unidentified Latin American in the back row of seats in a Hollywood theatre. Miss O'Hara has sued Confidential for $1,000,000

An inexpensive pool can be made from a discarded bathtub. Look for one at a demolishing company. Water may be piped to openings in tub, or they can be plugged and pool filled and emptied manually. Set low creeping plants to hide edges.

Elementary, Secondary Schools' Exhibits Interesting

Among the school exhibits, including the elementary, and secondary schools, some nice wall murals were noted which showed imagination. These were of "Little Indian," the "Dutch" scene and the "Indian encampment," as well as a number of domestic animals in wool, dogs, cats, and bird cut-outs from magazines, in color; plasticene animals, two of which represented horses, one rearing, one lying down, both exhibited life-like propensities, and little South Sea Islands, complete with palms.

In the secondary portion there were several fine pieces of painting; that of the Indian's head and the Thunder Bird, the stained glass window depicting the Christ and the title "My Last Duchess," done in Olde English, were most outstanding.

The stencils done by the SCIVS students were also attractive, showing careful work and the paintings, "The Nursery," showing the parents leaning over the scene, the "Eskimo Fishing" was exceptionally well done, also the still life of the flask and the peeled orange. Others of interest were the architectural designs of various ranch homes. A fine piece of woodwork was the desk in golden oak.

The non-competitive display, shown for the first time included the work from grades one to eight of crayon coloring of flowers, flags, spatter work of leaves; pencil drawing of a dog's head, was very well done, also the geometrical designs in color, the maps of British Columbia, Africa, and Ontario; county of Hastings; samples of penmanship, which received standings of first, second, third and fourth.

There were also fine posters denoting water safety warnings by the junior and senior elementary classes. These dealt with artificial respiration, non-swimmers should wear life jackets; safe places for swimming; no fooling in deep water such as swimming beneath others to give them a thrill, and dangerous places for diving, and wading because of broken bottles, and other such things as broken wheels whose spokes might catch on a piece of garment and cause the drowning of the wearer.

All in all, a fine display of the future citizens of this fair province.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cook are shown following their recent marriage in Christ Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Patricia Trusler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Trusler, of Belleville, and her bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cook, of Gloucester, England. (Photo by McCormick Studio, Belleville.)

COOK — TRUSLER

Pastel-tinted gladioli adorned the altar in Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, August 10th, at 11 a.m. for a lovely summer wedding when Reverend Everett Smith, assistant rector, united in marriage Patricia Trusler, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Trusler to Edward Cook of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cook, Gloucester, England.

Traditional wedding music was provided by the guest organist of St. Thomas Church, Mr. Robert Bell.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Thomas Trusler, was charming in a ballerina length tiered dress of white chantilly lace and silk tulle over slipper satin with matching bolero. Her finger-tip veil of silk illusion was held by a tiara of seed pearls and sequins, and she carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses, and American Beauty roses mingled with Baby's Breath and fern. A single strand of pearls and matching earrings completed her ensemble.

Miss Judith Trusler, attended her sister, as maid-of-honor, gowned in ballerina-length pink chiffon with matching pink feather headdress and matching nylon gloves. She carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses and white 'mums, mingled with Baby's Breath.

The little flower girl, Pauline Kybert, of Campbellford, was in pale mauve nylon. Her headdress was a coronet of white flowers, and she carried a basket of multi-colored 'mums.

Mr. George Taylor, of Belleville, brother-in-law of the groom, acted as best man, while Mr. Frank Kybert, of Campbellford was usher.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at the Hotel Quinte.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with white and green mask centred by a two-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom and flanked by vases of pink and white gladioli, and the bridal bouquets.

Mr. George Taylor proposed the toast to the bride and bridegroom.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing brown taffeta sheath with flowing panels, beige accessories and a corsage of white 'mums. She was assisted by the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. George Taylor, who was attired in rose nylon, with white accessories and a corsage of white 'mums.

For the wedding trip to New York, the bride wore a white and black dress with white accessories. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Cook will reside in Belleville.

Women's Institute

Chatterton W. I.

The August meeting of Chatterton Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Gardener with the president, Mrs. H. Bloor, presiding.

After the usual opening, several items of business were discussed.

A gleaming, red wagon was presented to a family of children who had recently lost their barn with toys stored in it.

Mrs. Finkle gave a paper dwelling on historical research and Canadian history. Helping her was Mrs. DeMille, Leslie Gardener and Mrs. Mitts.

"Nellie McClung's Life" was read; Misses Leslie and Mickey Gardener favored with a duet.

A season of community singing was followed by a social half hour.

GREAT BRIDGE

The Golden Gate suspension bridge at San Francisco is 4,200 feet long.

Women's Section Has Most Attractive Display

The women's section this year did not display as many articles as of former years, which was conducive to a much more attractive exhibit providing ease of viewing the delightful handsewing presented. The several sections displayed men's, boys', children and women's clothing, the latter including pretty organdy aprons in lovely designs; flowered with lace-edged scalloped panels; dark green aprons; bed jackets in soft shell pink; darcon blouses; knitted sweaters; gloves and pretty, lace edged handkerchiefs.

The household linens exquisite in their design and fashioning with luncheon cloths in eggshell linen done in cutout design; tea cloths with crochet trim; crochet table runner and place mats; embroidered bridge sets; beautifully tatted centrepieces; pillow cases with crochet insertion and crochet lace edges; also in cutwork style, and embroidered. Two lovely, hand-crochet table cloth in filet crochet, one in white and one in ecru with geometrical and grape design, respectively, were also noted.

COLORFUL RUGS

The rugs, as usual, were colorful, and in the oval, oblong and round design with florit centres of pansies on a grey ground bordered by dark blue done by the hooked method. The braided rugs were in dark shades and mingled with wines, dark green and yellow. The machine-made rugs were also nice, with their rows and rows of printed material.

The cushions were of many designs and shapes, some in round, tufted satin sections in blues, golds, scarlet and bronze; others all wine color in braided style, and the huge slice of watermelon complete with black seeds almost made one's mouth water. The elephant cushion, ornamental, was life-like in its metallic material.

Several of the quilts were newcomers, but one or two were repeaters. All were attractive and beautifully quilted. One quilt or spread in floral design on a cream ground, was bordered with satin in Hunter's green and had matching drapes; a star quilt was composed entirely of stars in squares from print designs; a knit spread was eye-catching with lace edge, and the dogwood flower quilt never grows old in its appeal with its pretty four-petalled blooms and cross-like centres. A legend concerning the dogwood is that the "Cross of Crucifixion" was made from the dogwood tree, hence the markings of the centre in the form of a cross.

This was done in the square design, each flower square outlined in narrow grey, the whole bordered by half circles of grey centred by a dogwood flower. Another quilt was made from green and white squares, in several sizes, which was attractive.

MEN'S, BOYS' WEAR

Men's and boys' wear included shirts in sports design, work shirts in plaid, pyjama suits, knit gloves and warm pullovers; socks, fine and for work, all handknit. Children's clothing showed delightful little dresses, slips, jackets, baby sets, little white bootees with rose cable-stitch inserts, and many other garments. Shopping and knitting bags were also shown, completing a fine display.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THE FACTS WILL SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

A year ago my fiance left with the army for duty in Germany, promising with him my promise to be faithful.

Miss Fairfax, it was impossible to keep my promise, and I became involved in an affair with another man. It began as a casual friendship and developed into a serious affair, so now I'm going to have this man's child in two months, which is just about the time my fiance will be home.

What shall I do? — R.A.L.

Dear R.A.L.:

What do you mean it was "impossible" to keep your promise? There was only one thing that made it impossible — you yourself.

And as far as I can see, you won't need to do anything, when your boy friend comes home except let the facts speak for themselves.

However, if you have enough telling left for the man to care to and temper the shock of finding out what you've been up to in his absence, then you had better write him a letter and confess the whole sorry business.

It's possible, of course, that this chap may still love you enough so that he'll want to marry you anyhow, perhaps even accepting the child of another man. There certainly are men who have been big enough to do a thing like that. On the other hand, he may be so disillusioned, and lose his faith in you so completely, that he will want nothing more to do with you.

Again, it may be that you have become more interested in this other fellow than you are in the man you promised to marry, so it wouldn't make any difference to you what he thought or did.

There are all sorts of possibilities that might result from this situation, and one couldn't predict which of them is likeliest to occur.

But however this mess resolves itself, it's to be hoped that you will have the character to assume the proper measure of responsibility for what you did, to shoulder resolutely whatever consequences may have to be faced, and so to become a trustworthy person who will never again let anyone down.

Sour Notes

By Mary Moore

Now I ask you, what's to do when you obey all the rules, by keeping the refrigerator at a low setting, don't leave the bottles standing out after the milk is poured, don't leave the milk in the milk box when it is delivered - and still it sours! I can cope with a couple of cups of it but when a whole quart goes plus some cream - I am annoyed.

Anybody else in the crowd rolled up over the milk souring? If so, do you want to try this recipe for a meat loaf calling for 1/2 and a quick cheap cake? and some muffins (to which blueberries may be added? O.K. Let's go and I will stop snarling.

AUNT CYNTHIA'S MEAT LOAF:

One pound hamburg, ¼ cup ground salt, fat pork, or smoked jowl, 1 egg, 1 cup breadcrumbs, 1 cup canned tomatoes, ½ cup sour milk and mix well. Grease teaspoons prepared mustard, ½ teaspoon pepper, 4 tablespoons finely chopped onion. Combine bread crumbs, egg, onion, seasonings. Add tomatoes, meat and sour milk and mix well. Grease a loaf pan well and put mixture in. Sprinkle top with crumbs and dot with butter. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr for about 1 hour but no longer. Use the egg lifter to ease out on to the platter and serve either hot or cold. Good either way.

RAILROAD CAKE:

Cream 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar with ½ cup margarine or shortening until fluffy. Add 1 egg and beat well. Sift 1¾ cups all-purpose flour that has been stirred but not sifted with 1 teaspoon nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon salt. To 2-3 cups sour milk add 1 teaspoon soda. Add flour mixture alternately with sour milk to egg mixture. Bake in loaf pan in moderate 350 deg. Fahr. oven for about 25 to 30 minutes.

SOUR MILK MUFFINS:

(Blueberries may be added).

Two cups sifted all-purpose flour, ¼ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder ½ teaspoon each baking soda and salt, ¼ cup soft shortening, 1 egg, 1 cup sour milk. Sift the sifted flour, sugar, baking powder, salt and soda. Make a well in the centre and add soft shortening, unbeaten egg and sour milk. With the fork break up shortening and egg then beat with spoon until barely blended don't overbeat muffin batter and don't use electric beater. Fill greased muffin tins 2-3 full and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 20 to 25 minutes.

NOTE:

1. If desired, 1 cup fresh washed and dry blueberries may be folded in at the last moment. 2. One cup each of whole wheat flour and white flour may be used instead of all white flour. We made 50% whole wheat blueberry muffins and all thought they were elegant.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

LET YOUR GIFT-GIVING BE GLAMOROUS

Gifts of fragrance are always welcome. Keep a few on hand for unexpected occasions.

There are so many occasions during the year when gift giving's in order that the really smart girl ought to prepare in advance. Just think of how many times you've forgotten birthdays and anniversaries until the last moment. To say nothing of unforeseen presents for hospitalized friends, or the unexpected, but perfectly delightful, weekend that calls for a hostess gift.

Yes, these occasions are perennial ones. Which is why hep gals always keep a supply of small, fun, various types of pretty wrapping paper and ribbons on hand. This eliminates those mad last-minute rushes when the occasion" has arrived and you're not ready.

Among the best bets for such presents is fragrance. What woman doesn't welcome them? If she's a homemaker, especially, she'll be glad to receive it because beauty aids are often luxuries that don't fit to the budget.

What to give? We've a number of suggestions at all prices.

A compact is always welcome. Make it a glittering gold one in the higher price bracket or choose one of the plastic type that holds pressed powder. These compacts, budget boys, are getting prettier all the time.

Consider fragrance, too. There isn't a woman who doesn't enjoy perfume. If you know her favorite brand, so much the better. If not, choose one you think will suit her type. Buy her the perfume, if money's no object, or count pennies and purchase less expensive toilet water or cologne.

In the fragrance line, consider, too, scented soaps, dusting powders, sachets.

Jeweled lipstick cases are other glamour gifts. A nail care kit, complete with a variety of manicure aids, is a welcome present providing a gal doesn't already have one. You might also consider the expensive side, a travel case fully equipped with creams and lotions.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

FOUR QUESTIONS, MUCH DISCUSSED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

All of our group are faithful readers of your columns, and so we have decided to ask you to answer several questions about which we have had a lot of discussion, have different opinions.

1. What is the proper way to answer an invitation that includes the church ceremony and the reception following? Both the "yes" answer and the "no" answer.

2. Should you send a gift whether or not you are accepting the invitation? Also, if you do send a gift, should you send it early, or do you take it with you to the reception?

3. When you don't know the bride-to-be, and so don't know her likes and dislikes, what kind of gift should you choose?

4. Would it be proper to wear a light suit to an evening wedding in this late-Summer season? And should white gloves be worn?

— Thank you.

1. Customarily today the short form is used for answering wedding invitations that include invitations to the reception. On the first page of double-sheeted notepaper, write the acceptance like this, carefully spacing the lines:

Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Clark accept with pleasure the kind invitation of
Mr. and Mrs. Hill
for Tuesday, the first of October
at four o'clock

And the "regret":

Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Clark regret that they are unable to accept the very kind invitation of
Mr. and Mrs. Hill
for
Tuesday, the first of October

2. First it should be said that actually there is no "obligation" to give a wedding present. Whether or not you send a gift depends first, and naturally, on whether or not you wish to send a gift; and second on the circumstances. Generally, when you are given the honor of being invited to the reception, and have accepted the invitation, your wish is to send a gift, even if something simple and inexpensive. If you are not accepting the invitation, you need not send a gift — but may if you especially wish to. You send the gift as soon as possible after you have received the invitation, to give the bride-to-be time to write her thank-you note before the wedding. Although it is customary in a few communities to take your present with you to the reception, this really is not a wise or practical procedure.

3. Even when you don't know the bride-to-be, it's not too difficult to choose something rather impersonal for the new home; for example, a white crystal bowl or vase or serving plate; 8 or 12 tea-napkins or cocktail napkins; guest towels or finger-tip towels; breakfast or luncheon set; set of interesting place mats, perhaps with matching napkins; a useful article for buffet service (a very welcome present these days); an article for the desk; decorative box; small pitcher, perhaps lustreware; medium size painted tray or small tea tray.

4. This would depend on the type of wedding and the type of suit. For an informal evening wedding in this late-Summer season, it would be appropriate for a woman guest to wear a lightweight silk suit, preferably in a not-too-dark color . . . perhaps with a light-hearted pretty small hat or corsage . . . and, appropriately, with white "shorties" gloves.

MELROSE WMS

MELROSE — The August meeting of the Melrose Women's Missionary Society was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Grant McLaren with an attendance of 17 adults and two children.

In the absence of the president, Miss Bailey presided over the meeting and led in the worship service.

Mrs. C. Milligan read the Scripture lesson, and Miss Bailey gave a brief address on, "Faith Without Works is Dead."

Mrs. Embury read hymn 519 "Lord, while for all mankind we pray."

A short business period was conducted. The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. Badgley.

A reading, "Time Does Change Our Lives", was given by the Stewardship secretary, Mrs. R. MacFarlane. The citizenship secretary, Mrs. E. Badgley, gave a reading "Public Opinion Counts"

Mr. Robinson spoke briefly on mission work.

Mrs. Grant McLaren, group leader, introduced the study on "United Nations Special Assistance Programs." "I have showed you all things how that laboring you ought to support the weak" Acts 20:35.

Mrs. Jack McLaren spoke on the "Colombo Plan" and told how many of the countries were giving assistance to those in need.

Mrs. Roy Badgley told of her visit to the United Nations Building, a unique beauty spot of eight acres. Of interest was a fountain built by donations from children of all the United Nations.

Mrs. Grant McLaren gave a paper on "Church All to These Countries in Need", and followed up with a question period which brought out many interesting points on the assistance programs.

Mr. Robinson commented briefly on the work and said, "We must minister to the whole man; first his physical need, and second his spiritual welfare," and then closed the meeting with prayer.

A social time was spent when the hostess served refreshments.

Murray Reunion Held at Victoria Park, Cobourg

The Murray reunion was held on August 4, at Victoria Park, Cobourg, with about 60 in attendance.

A dinner was served at 1.00 p.m. with roast turkey, pork and ham, and all kinds of salads, pies and cake to go with it.

Mrs. Alfred Murray of Belleville, delighted everyone with her homemade bread. There was ice cream and pop all day for the children.

A roll call was made of the members, and officers elected for the next two years.

Mr. Peter Murray, Hamilton, won the prize for the eldest man present, and Mrs. Frank Shortt, Belleville, for the eldest lady present. Mrs. Raymond Murray, Holland, N.Y., for coming the longest distance. Sandra Lee Brown, Carrying Place, youngest baby. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Murray, Trenton, newest married couple. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Murray, Carrying Place, largest family.

Races, games and scrambles were enjoyed by young and old. Peanut scramble won by Linda Murray; balloon race, Gayle Murray; candy kiss race, Davy Drake and Danny Murray; teenage scramble, Bill Oliver; popcorn race, Muriel Oliver; wheelbarrow race, Jim Murray; peanut scramble, Muriel Oliver; cigaret race, Harvey Murray; balloon race, Pat Murray; egg throwing race, June Brown.

A family tree book is being made and will be shown next year.

It was decided to have the 1958 reunion held the first Saturday in August at a park in or around Buffalo, which will be decided later.

Everybody had such a wonderful time they regretted leaving.

A larger crowd and better time is hoped for next year.

Mrs. Robert Reid Honored by WMS Members

On Thursday afternoon, Aug. 8th., a number of the members of Providence United Church W.M.S. met at the home Mrs. Wilmot Scott in honor of her aunt, Mrs. Robert Reid, who was celebrating her 84th birthday.

In spite of her advanced age, Mrs. Reid is enjoying good health and is a regular attendant at both Sunday School and church services; also a faithful member of the W.M.S. and is seldom absent from the meetings.

A short program was enjoyed by all. The first number being a sing-song of old and familiar hymns. This was followed by a reading by Mrs. J. A. Lott. Mrs. Walter Morrow favored with a vocal solo, after which Mrs. Fred Charlesworth, president of the W.M.S., on behalf of the ladies present, extended appreciation and good wishes to Mrs. Reid, and presented her with a basket of beautiful flowers, a box of candy, and a handkerchief. Mrs. Reid thanked the ladies for their kindness, after which all joined in singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Several pictures were taken—both of Mrs. Reid, and the entire group present.

Refreshments were served, including a lovely and delicious birthday cake, which was made and decorated by Mrs. Scott.

Mrs. Hugh Badgley, who also celebrated a birthday in August, assisted Mrs. Reid in blowing out the many candles.

After partaking of all the good things, the guests, with many personal good wishes to Mrs. Reid for health, to enjoy many more birthdays, left for their homes, feeling that it was indeed good to have been present on such a happy occasion.

SURPRISE PARTY

MARMORA — Mrs. Cecil Neal was hostess with Mrs. Norman Ellis and Mrs. Glen Fresick as co-hostesses at a surprise party for Miss Jane Fox recently. Miss Fox has enrolled in the School of Nursing, at Civic Hospital, Peterborough.

The spacious rooms were decorated with gladioli and other summer flowers donated by Mr. E. C. Prentice and the dining table floral centrepiece was donated by Mr. E. O'Connor. Mrs. Clayton Potts added to the decorations by dressing a doll in nurse's attire, complete with cape.

After a short social time Miss Fox was presented with special gifts by intimate schoolmates and the others presented her with a well-filled wallet. Janey, in a few well chosen words, thanked her friends and all joined in wishing her the best of luck in her course.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Mr. W. J. Cottrell, who is a patient at Mrs. Alexander's Nursing Home, Queensboro, visited Rev. R. G. Fleming on Wednesday and renewed acquaintances in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Goldie McInroy visited the latter's father, Mr. Harry Campion and her sister, Mrs. L. Lawrence over week-end.

Mrs. John Bedore and sons, William and Eddie and Mr. Leo Hulman were weekend visitors with the former's daughter, Mrs. George Beaulieu and Mr. Beaulieu of Garson, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Belanger, of Hull, Quebec, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Belanger over the weekend.

Miss Sandra Neath of Toronto, who has been renewing acquaintances in Marmora returned home recently. She was accompanied by Miss. Kathleen Belanger.

Mrs. A. Dostanko and daughter, Sheila, and Mr. Sam Katz of Clifton, N.J., are holidaying with Mrs. Dora Dostanko and family of Marmora township.

Mrs. F. N. Marett of Marmora, and Mrs. Morton of Belleville, are enjoying a vacation cruise on the Saguenay River.

Mrs. J. Wilkes is in ill health at her home here.

Mrs. H. C. Barlow of Gananoque, is in residence at her Crowe Lake cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Bonter and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Campion spent a few days recently at Baptiste Lake.

Mrs. Leighton McGinnis left on August 11 for a trip to Edmonton.

DEATH BY GUILLOTINE

SAIGON (AP)—A South Viet Nam military court Monday sentenced former Gen. Nguyen van Thanh of the Cao Dai religious sect to death by guillotine for desertion and for being an accomplice to high treason. Thanh was captured in October, 1955, while fighting with Cao Dai rebels against the forces of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Attorney-General Roberts Says Department Advised Not To Serve Warrants for Arrests

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Attorney - General Roberts said Wednesday night that warrants for the arrest of four finance company officials were not served because legal advice was that the complainant, A. A. Verdier of Sudbury, was trying to use criminal-court procedure to collect civil damages.

Mr. Roberts' statement followed the release in Ottawa by Social Credit Leader Low of a letter which he had sent to the attorney-general inquiring about non-service of the warrants.

Mr. Roberts said Mr. Low had injected himself into the situation without real knowledge of it. His statements constituted "irresponsible allegations which have no justification in fact."

(Mr. Low said in part, in a written statement ". . . As a member of Parliament I do not intend to stand idly by watching our criminal laws not being properly administered and corruption and favoritism creeping into law enforcement agencies.")

The company involved is the Traders' Finance Corporation. Mr. Low's statement said two automobiles are involved, but Mr. Roberts' dealt with only one, on which the agreed payments had not been kept up.

Mr. Low said the Verdier complaint alleged theft, by repossession, by four Traders' officials to an amount of more than $3,000.

Mr. Roberts said that although a resident of Sudbury Mr. Verdier had sworn out the warrants in Kenora, representing himself to be living in Winnipeg. Mr. Verdier had said it would be an inconvenience to him to lay his complaint in Sudbury, or in Toronto, where the automobile was purchased.

Mr. Roberts said Crown Attorney E. D. Wilkins of Sudbury advised Mr. Verdier early in the matter that Verdier was seeking to use criminal proceedings to collect civil damages.

The attorney-general said the Kenora magistrate, in accepting Verdier's complaint, mailed the warrants to Mr. Wilkins with the instruction that there be issued only if Mr. Wilkins approved. When he learned of the circumstances the magistrate asked Mr. Wilkins to return the warrants to him.

Mr. Robert said Mr. Verdier later served notice of motion upon Mr. Wilkins, returnable in the Supreme Court of Ontario, asking a compulsory writ upon Mr. Wilkins obliging him to issue the warrants. He said Mr. Verdier never appeared in support of his motion.

Mr. Roberts said, "Mr. Low has indicated in his correspondence that he would support the laying of charges and bringing of people before our courts on the flimsiest of evidential feeling that if innocent, and I use his own words, 'it would have been a very simple matter for them to appear in court and prove that the accusations against them are unfounded.'

"This in my view is a complete misconception of the duties of those charged with the administration of criminal justice."

SEIZE ARMS CACHE

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—U.S. Customs agents Tuesday uncovered a huge cache of arms they said was destined for Cuba and arrested two men, one a former high official in the Cuban government. The arms were seized at the home of Gil de Olbaiz, 46, a naturalized American citizen. Olbaiz and his cousin, Alfred C.Z. Gonzalez Garcia, 47, a former official in the government of Carlos Prio Socarras, were arrested and charged with violating the Neutrality Act.

Liberal Nominated

ALEXANDRIA, Ont. (CP)—John McLennan, 60-year-old Maxville farmer, Tuesday night was nominated Liberal candidate in the Sept. 5 provincial by-election in Glengarry constituency.

No opposition was made necessary by the resignation of Osie Villeneuve Progressive Conservative, who was elected to the Commons in Glengarry-Prescott in the June 10 federal election. The Conservative candidate, nominated 10 days ago, is Fern Guindon of Apple Hill.

Quick Adjustment of Farm Wheat Payments Requested

OTTAWA (CP) — An Interprovincial Farm Union Council delegation met with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his cabinet today and recommended that the government make an immediate adjustment payment to farmers of 20 cents a bushel of wheat on the 1956-57 crop year deliveries.

The delegation's brief also recommended a payment on oats and barley to bring farm price to producers to a level the same as the payment on wheat.

The brief's emergency program also included the institution of a two-price system on wheat, cash advances on farm-stored grain, PFAA benefits to hailed and flooded areas, and import restrictions to protect the Canadian producer against heavy shipments of produce at firesale prices.

The council is composed of representation from the Farmers' Union of Alberta, Saskatchewan Farmers' Union, Manitoba Farmers' Union, Ontario Farmers' Union and Alberta Farmers' Union of British Columbia.

The brief said a cost-price-squeeze has taken a heavy toll in grain-growing areas during the last three years, and that ever-increasing production costs, inability of farmers to get cash from grain sales, and below-cost return for grain delivered, make it necessary for an emergency program to be implemented.

It urged that a royal commission, to examine the question of spreads in prices of farm products, be established at once.

New Deputy Minister

TORONTO (CP)—Travel and Publicity Minister Cathcart announced Wednesday that Guy E. Moore, an Ontario civil servant since 1946, is his new deputy minister.

He succeeds the former deputy minister of travel and publicity, C. D. Crowe, who died recently.

Mr. Moore served with the RCAF in the Second World War.

Step up Search for Bodies, Plane Parts in Bog Where 79 Lost Lives on Sunday

ISSOUDUN, Que. (CP) — Investigators probing the wreckage of a DC-4 aircraft that crashed here Sunday stepped up their search today for the shattered bodies of its 79 victims and parts of the downed plane.

Spotlights were installed in the swamp where the plane nosed in and Gordon Ramer, chief Inspector for Maritime Central Airways, owners of the plane, said the search will go on around the clock until everything has been recovered from the bog.

No trace has yet been found of the fuselage of the plane, believed buried in a deep crater the aircraft dredged when it crashed. A propeller was found Wednesday night, some 2,000 feet from the spot where the four-engined plane went down.

Unidentifiable parts of bodies recovered from the wreck were buried temporarily Wednesday in a farmer's field. Any remains that offered any possibility of identification were transferred to the Quebec morgue.

Charles-Edouard Cantin, deputy attorney-general, said in Quebec an explosion on impact may have disintegrated the entire fuselage and its human cargo.

Mr. Cantin said a common burial ground for the victims seems the best course but "final disposition will be up to the individual desires of the next of kin."

None of the victims can be declared legally dead until a coroner's inquest has been held, he said. In cases where remains can't be identified, bits of clothing or personal belongings will be used for identification. Investigators have recovered 30 passports.

Every piece of the plane pulled from the bog was carefully checked and numbered by investigators from the department of transport trying to determine the cause of the plane's sudden descent.

Police have appealed to residents of the area to return any plane pieces or personal possessions they took from the wreck scene as "souvenirs."

EXTEND SERVICE TERM

WASHINGTON (AP) — Future pilots of the United States Air Force are going to have to serve five years instead of three. In announcing the two-year extension of duty, officials Tuesday said the move is aimed at economy, as air force pilots have been spending two years and three months of their three years becoming combat-ready. At the end of the three years, two out of three pilots have quit the service.

DESERONTO

Corporal Barker Explains Traffic Laws

DESERONTO — The July meeting of the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Mutual Aid Fire Association was held in Deseronto on Wednesday night, of last week. There were 50 members present from the various fire departments and the guests included the president and secretary of the Frontenac and Lennox and Addington Association.

At eight o'clock the gathering retired to an oil pit near the bay where the Deseronto Department demonstrated the extinguishment of oil fires with a fog gun. At 8.30 the crowd moved on to the Legion Hall, where the business portion of the meeting took place.

The main speaker of the evening was Corporal Barker of the Belleville detachment of the Provincial Police. He dealt with the highway traffic act, particularly those sections referring to fire departments and other emergency vehicles. He warned his listeners however, that despite the fact that speed laws do not apply when answering a call, caution should be exercised because a smashed vehicle was of no use in an emergency. CANNOT PASS STOPPED BUS

In the question period which followed his talk, it was brought out that a great many drivers ignored the sound of a siren when the traffic act states that they should pull over to the side of the road and come to a stop. Another law which should be more rigidly enforced was the one prohibiting a car to follow closer than 500 feet when a fire truck is responding to an alarm. He also advised that there was no clause in the traffic act which permitted an emergency vehicle to pass a stopped school bus. But, he said, "the driver of the school bus is compelled to pull his bus to the side of the road when he hears the siren."

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Corporal Barker for his concise and clear explanation of the traffic laws. He was assured that such efforts as his brought about better understanding between police and fire departments.

Chief Vance, of Belleville, spoke on the difficulty of administering oxygen to a patient being revived by the Holger Neilson method of resuscitation. He advised the department to rely more on the resuscitators if they carried them on their emergency vehicles.

The question of the next meeting place was left in abeyance pending confirmation from the Picton Department. In event they cannot hold it, the meeting will be held in Tweed.

Following the meeting, a social hour was enjoyed with excellent refreshments being served by the ladies of the Deseronto Legion Auxiliary.

Rawdon

RAWDON — Messrs. Ed. Bateman, Delbert Mumby, Lorne White and Hugh Jones attended the commemoration of the "Seige of Derry" at Fenelon Falls, Saturday, and also visited Peterborough Fair.

The heavy rain last Friday evening was greatly appreciated for gardens and pastures. A number of farmers have completed their threshing or combining and are attending the Belleville fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Stan Galloway and children, Trenton, and Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Pond, Holloway, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest White and family.

Mrs. Don Scott entertained in honor of her daughter, Sharon, on the occasion of her birthday anniversary.

Shirley McMullen, Springbrook, visited her auncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McMullen, Frankford, last week.

The Preston family of the 5th concession Rawdon, and the Dunkley family of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon, attended the funeral of Harry Dunkley, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Johnson, Hoards, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Richardson, Norwood, and other friends enjoyed a picnic at Tweed's park, Sunday.

Mr. Arthur Brown spent Saturday at Fenelon Falls.

Mrs. Francis Reid, of Bethal community, returned home last Thursday from Belleville General Hospital following an operation on her knee.

Mr. and Mrs. Stan Royle spent a few days with relatives at Sudbury. Their children visited their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Brady, during their absence.

The Rev. R. R. Bonsteel, Bethany, called on Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown, one day last week.

Mrs. Jack Canning and Mrs. Jim Wood and daughter, Sandra, Belleville, spent Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Sid Williams. Mrs. Williams accompanied them home.

Mrs. Fred Clark and baby, Markham, and Mrs. Aubrey Reid, Tweed, spent some time with their sister, Mrs. Harry Brown.

Mrs. Phil Broadhurst and children, Toronto, are holidaying with her sister, Mrs. Jack Prest and Mr. Prest, at Bonarlaw.

ARCHAEOLOGIST FINED

CAIRO (AP) — American archaeologist Charles Arthur Mines was convicted today of attempting to smuggle antiquities out of Egypt and of violating currency exchange laws. He was fined £18,000 Egyptian ($51,840) and given a 15-month suspended sentence. Mines was arrested June 30 at Cairo airport. Police said he was trying to smuggle out four bags full of antiquities, which under Egyptian law are the property of the state.

Royals Blank Leading Bisons; Toronto Wins

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The International League has an outstanding array of second-men who not only turn in master-pitching performances but are capable of getting key base hits. Many can play other positions, too.

Take Wednesday night for instance:

Jim Coates, Richmond's fire-balling righthander and Rene Valdes, Montreal's side-winding Cuban, each pitched one hit victories. Coates ended Virginians' five-game losing streak with a brilliant 7-0 victory over the league-leading Buffalo Bisons and put Vees back into fighting contention. They trail Buffalo by 2½ games. Valdes, also outstanding at the plate with a triple and a single, led Royals to a 7-0 triumph over Miami Marlins.

Toronto's Eddie Blake pitched and squeezed home the tying run in the Leafs' 4-3 decision over Havana Sugar Kings. Eddie O'Brien, a shortstop by trade, pitched eight innings in relief as Columbus Jets rolled to their 20th straight over Rochester Red Wings, 9-7.

Coates' one - hit performance was backed by Virginians' 13-hit assault. He also produced a key double in the second to drive in the first two Richmond runs. Russ Sullivan got the only Bison hit—a single in the fourth.

Valdes struck out nine and walked only two in posting his ninth victory against eight defeats for Royals. Montreal pounded out 13 hits against three Miami pitchers. Satchel Paige went down to his sixth defeat.

Toronto's victory moved Leafs to within one game of first place. Blake, who went all the way for his seventh victory in 15 decisions, laid down a perfect squeeze in the ninth inning that allowed pinch-runner Loren Babe to score home with the tying run. A hit batsman and Hector Rodriguez' double produced the winning run.

Rochester jumped out to a four-run lead in the first inning off Columbus starter Cholly Naranjo before O'Brien arrived to hold Red Wings to six hits the rest of the way. The victory was the first ever for an International League pitcher. Jets scored two unearned runs off loser Bill Greason in the eighth.

Large Field Seeks Top Trophy At Rifle Meet

CONNAUGHT RANGES, Ont. (CP)—About 610 of the country's best riflemen today entered the Governor - General's qualifying match at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association shoot.

Top 300 scorers in the event earned the right to compete Saturday for the Governor-General's Medal, prize award of the week-long meet at these ranges 11 miles west of Ottawa.

Wednesday's main matches—the Macdonald and the Connaught—ended in a dusk shoot off to break ties.

Lt.-Col. Eric Cowan, 40, won a four-man shoot off to win the Macdonald and a $100 first prize. The veteran member of Canadian Bisley teams, who once lived in Ottawa and now is stationed at Eastern Ontario headquarters, Kingston, shot 124 of a possible 125 in the main match at 300 and 600 yards. So did the three others in the tie-breaker.

Winner of the three - shooter Connaught tie-breaker—and the $25 first prize—was Lieut. Nelson Colville, 37, of the Royal Winnipeg Rifles.

Second in the shoot-off—among three shots who had scored "double perfects" 10 bullseyes at 300 yards and 10 at 500 for 100 points—was Mary Robinson of Victoria, B.C.

PRIMO WRESTLES AGAIN

SANZANA, Italy (AP) — Big Primo Carnera, one-time world heavyweight boxing champion, has resumed his Italian wrestling tour on the advice of doctors who said he did not need an operation.

He entered a hospital here last week suffering severe abdominal pains and doctors at first said he might have intestinal occlusion. Carnera was back wrestling a few nights later saying he felt much better.

Cannifton Wins Over Latta 10-3 In Third Game

Cannifton Clippers whipped Latta 10-3 at Latta last night in the third game of their four-of-seven South Hastings baseball finals.

Latta now holds a two games to one edge with the fourth fixture slated for Cannifton on Saturday evening at 6.30 p.m.

Cannifton came through with a big 4 big 4 big four-run rally in the fourth to take a 6-3 lead. They added double scores in the fifth and sixth while Latta netted all their runs in the third frame.

Keith Foster and Harvey Stoliker shared mound duties for the victors, Foster starting, being relieved by Stoliker and later returning to the hill. They allowed seven hits, walked six and fanned two between them.

G. Hall opened for Latta with Stan Reid taking over in the 3rd. They gave up 13 safeties with a pair of strikeouts and six walks.

Harder and Cole spearheaded the Cannifton attack with a double and single each. "Shaker" Baker, Hugh Petrie and Harvey Stoliker each singled twice while Sheffield, Moore and Foster had the other base hits.

Gary Gowe clubbed a brace of doubles and a single in a losing effort while Frank Ray singled twice. Sullivan and Empson had two-baggers.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

AT LONG LAST!

They tell me there is nothing better for a man than to wake in the morning to the bizarre staccatos of an alarm clock, yawn, stretch, then fire the yakking piece of mechanism through the nearest window or door with a straight-ball pitch.

They tell me there is nothing better for a man to rise at his leisure, eat his breakfast without recourse to wrist-watch or clock, then lazily recline on an easy chair and let the rest of the world go by.

They tell me that to put a man in an agreeable frame of mind is to let him lower his bulk into a lawn or beach chair, shaded from the sunshine, quaff slowly at a long cool drink while he watches bees and other insects flitting-turning around speckling the vision of fleecy clouds wandering slowly in a blue sky.

They tell me it is good for a man's frame of mind to float down a lazy river or creek with his favorite fishing rod in his hand, and forget time and weather regardless of whether the fish are in a hungry mood.

They tell me it doesn't hurt him to forget the office and the daily routine, the boss and the workaday gang with whom he associates for the greater part of the year. It will do him good to see new faces, new scenery or an annual glimpse at more or less familiar landscapes.

In fact they tell me it will do a man the world of good to get away from it all, forget everything but the call to meals, and bedtime.

Some say a man benefits from new environment if only for a brief period.

Many seek the lure of the big city with its nightlife and other attractions. Some crave the big summer resorts with day and night social activity. These usually return to the daily routine for a rest.

You can have the glare and glitter of metropolitan life. You can have the busy whirl of a social summer resort. You can have everything but a quiet spot on a rippled lake housed in a comfortable resort where it is against custom to shirt out of low gear. Where everything is as you want it and you dress for dinner in a sports shirt and slacks. Where folks are folks who enjoy the rest and comfort of a relaxed life until it is time to get back to the toil.

That's the kind of a vacation we like — and that's the kind we're going to enjoy, starting tonight.

From now until September 3, the sports department will be in the capable hands of Gary Alexander.

Until then, adios.

Canadian Amateur Tournament Attracts Prominent Linksmen

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — The big parties in Canadian amateur golf, who are few in number, and the aspirants, in number, are many but no less hopeful, are gathering for the annual national tournament of those who play the game for fun.

This will be a wide open year for the Canadian amateur title with two-time champion Moe Norman of Kitchener and 1956 runner-up Gerry Magee of Toronto gone to professional ranks.

In addition the interprovincial Willingdon Cup matches and the national junior championship will be run off Saturday at the St. Charles club overlooking the Assiniboine River.

Monday, the Canadian tournament will be swelled by several Americans and the 11-man British Walker Cup team as the 36-hole qualifying round for the Canadian amateur championship gets under way.

64 TO QUALIFY

Eighteen holes will be played Monday and Tuesday, with 64 qualifiers competing in match play beginning Wednesday. There will be two 18-hole matches Wednesday and two more Thursday, reducing the field to four players.

The semi-finals Friday and the final Saturday will each be 36-hole matches.

Leading contenders among the 134 entries for the amateur include the veteran Nick Weslock of Windsor, finalist in 1930; Jack Penrose of Miami Beach, Fla., low-amateur in the Canadian Open at St. Charles in 1952; Gary Cowan of Kitchener, 1956 Canadian junior champion; or any one of the British aggregation, led by its captain, Gerald H. Micklem, twice English amateur champion.

ONTARIO DEFENDS

With Magee and Norman leading the way, Ontario won the Willingdon Cup last year at Edmundston, N.B., with a combined 36-hole score of 566.

Bill Morland of North Bay is the only holdover from the 1956 Ontario team. Weslock, Cowan and Ray Coole, 36, of Hamilton make up the balance of this year's squad.

Manitoba supporters feel that 1957 is their year.

With defending champion Cowan over-age, the junior competition also is wide-open.

Clobber Cincy for 13-3 Win, Cubs, Bums Score Triumphs; White Sox Cut Yankee Margin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

That mad scramble for the National League pennant that went on for so many weeks finally appears to have sorted itself out.

Or perhaps its Milwaukee Braves who have done the sorting.

Milwaukee has opened up a 7½ game lead—by far the largest any team in the league has held this season—by the simple expedient of winning its last nine games in a row.

Wednesday Braves again humbled Cincinnati. They have won 13 of 15 meetings this season, with a 13-3 pasting as Bob Buhl beat Redlegs for the first time in a five-year career.

TOP PITCHER

It was Buhl's 16th (tops in the league) and matching Chicago's Jim Pierce in the American League) and seventh in a row. But while the 29-year-old ace now has beaten every team in the league in one season for the first time, he still hasn't polished a complete game against Cincinnati.

While Braves creeped, second place St. Louis was bopped 3-1 by Chicago Cubs. Cardinals now have lost eight in a row—their longest slump in 10 years.

Third-place Brooklyn just did manage to break a three-game skid, beating New York Giants 7-6 and climbing within one percentage point of Cards.

Last-place Pittsburgh whipped Philadelphia 10-3, leaving the fifth-place Phillies 11 games behind.

EIGHT-RUN NINTH

Braves nailed their victory over Redlegs now nine games out, on Johnny Logan's two-run homer in the sixth, but they then romped for eight in the ninth. Wes Covington, who drove in five runs, hammered a grand-slam homer and reliever Don McMahon belted a three-run double in the frame.

McMahon relieved Buhl in the eighth, following George Crowe's 28th home run. Buhl gave up seven of Cincinnati's eight hits, including home runs by Joe Taylor and Gus Bell. Brooks Lawrence, winless since July 21, lost it for an 11-10 record.

BALKS IN NINTH

Cub rookie Dick Drott (11-9) struck out three in a row to end it after losing his five-hit shutout because of a balk in the ninth. Cubs made it five in a row over Cards as Wilmer Mizell lost his ninth, giving up back-to-back homers to Walt Moryn and Ernie Banks with two out in the sixth.

Dodgers almost blew a 7 - 1 lead built on homers by Gil Hodges, Elmer Valo and Don Zimmer. Giants scored five in the seventh before Ed Roebuck, who lost the night before on relief, ended the rally and protected rookie Danny McDevitt's sixth victory against one defeat. Ray Crone lost it. Giant Willie Mays was hitless for the first time in 20 games.

Pirates rapped three unearned runs in the first against loser Curt Simmons (11-8) and wound up with 17 hits off rix pitchers. Vern Law was the winner, going all the way for a 9-7 record.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manager Casey Stengel of New York Yankees has a problem. His pitching staff, once considered "unbeatable," is under the weather.

Young Johnny Kucks hasn't completed a game since June 6, Bobby Shantz (9-3) is winless since June 23 and reliever Tommy Byrne has been ailing. Bob Turley (8-3), reliever Bob Grim (10 - 3), Tom Sturdivant (10-6) and Art Ditmar (8-7) have been the big guns. But only Turley and Grim have been consistent.

Whitey Ford, the erstwhile Yank ace, and Don Larsen, who pitched the world series only perfect game last year, both had the miseries Wednesday as Boston's third-place Red Sox rapped New York 6-4 opening the way for second-place Chicago White Sox to whittle the Yankee's American League lead.

DIDN'T BOOT IT

For a change, White Sox didn't boot it as they got victories last for Dick Donovan's 13th victory and fifth in a row.

The Chicago win left them 4½ games behind New York.

In other games, Baltimore defeated Washington 4-2 and Detroit beat Kansas City 7-4 as Frank Lary won his first since June 15.

Ford, the stubby southpaw who set Yanks with 19 victories last season, now is 7-4, leaving in the second inning with a "throbbing" left shoulder. It was a pulled shoulder that sidelined him from May 21 to July 1.

Larsen, 6-4, complained of a chronic "tender" shoulder after pitching his seven innings. He gave up only three hits, but one homer in the sixth, by Ted Williams, his 31st, that holsted Red Sox into a commanding 5-0 lead in the second.

BOSTON OUT-HIT

Williams was 2-for-3 and put his average at .320, eight points better than Yankee Mickey Mantle, who was 1-for-4. Tom Brewer won his 14th, but needed relief in the ninth as New York outhit Boston 15-6.

White Sox, who trailed by seven runs nine days ago but have been 6-2 since to Yankees' 3-4, hammered 14 hits, including three home runs, to beat Early Wynn (13-13) as Indians lost their sixth in a row. Jim Rivera, who has driven in seven runs with three homers in two days, and Minnie Minoso locked it up with homers in the third off Wynn.

PITCHER HOMERS

Donovan also homered, while giving nine hits, all singles, The veteran righthander, who lost three, has won eight of his last nine starts. He walked but two, struck out five. Two of the Cleveland runs were unearned.

Gus Triandos, two-run homer in the sixth did it for Orioles with rookie Brooks Robinson adding his first major league home run. Hec Brown won it with Pete Ramos the loser.

Lary, who led the league with 21 victories last season, gained a 5-15 record after losing eight in a row. Lary won with an eight-hitter while Al Kaline hit his fourth home run in three games and two days—for a total of 13.

Tennis Sisters Seek Three Junior Titles

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP)—Sisters Carrie and Julie Heldmon—tiny dynamos from Hamtramck, Mich.—figure in three of the eight titles up for decision today at the Canadian junior tennis championships.

Julie, 11, and her 13-year-old sister will play off against each other for the juvenile girls singles crown.

More than half of the remaining 13 open titles being competed for by about 200 Canadian, United States and Bermuda players will be decided.

The Heldmans play against each other again in the mixed juvenile boys' and girls' doubles —Carrie with Rod Seifert, 12, of South Bend, Ind., as her partner and Julie with Mike Belkin, 12, of Montreal.

DOUBLES SEMI-FINAL

As a team they have reached semi-finals of the girls' doubles and meet Della Fregelluf of Toronto and Margaret Crosby of Saint John, N.B., for a final berth.

Other titles to be decided today at the Rideau Lawn Tennis Club are the junior women's singles, juvenile boys' singles, boys' singles, junior women's doubles and the boys' doubles.

The Heldman girls won one of the two titles decided yesterday, beating out Karin Lukk, 12, of Sarnia and Judy Sinkeseper, 12, of Halifax, 6-4, 6-1 in the juvenile girls' doubles.

WIN JUVENILE DOUBLES

Belkin, runner-up in the open juvenile boys singles, teamed with Ron Seifert to win the juvenile boys' doubles, beating out Mike Carroll, 12, winner of the closed juvenile singles, and Yvon Leonard, both of Ottawa.

Ann Barclay, 15-year-old favorite Canadian in the junior women's singles, made it to the final of that event with a 6-1, 6-1 win over Pat Ryan, 16, of Ottawa. The Vancouver miss won the junior women's closed singles.

Virginia Hesse, 15, of Hamtramck, defending champion in the junior women's, went into the final by eliminating Sharon Caldwell, 17, of Toronto 6-1, 6-2.

All's Right With Argo World The Larks Were on the Wing

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts, combining a diversified attack with an alert defense, last made interceptions and fumbles pay off with points, walloped Montreal Alouettes 40-20 Wednesday night in the final exhibition game for the two Big Four football clubs.

Argos, who finished in last place in the 1956 season and had won only one of three previous exhibition games, surprised a crowd of 10,890 with their display.

They scored 20 points in each half on six touchdowns, three converts and a single. Alouettes trailed 13-0 at the end of the first quarter, 20-13 at the half and 40-13 going into the final 15 minutes.

WITHIN RANGE

After Argonauts built up a 20-0 margin early in the second quarter Als got within range on touchdowns by Jimmy Madison and Hal Patterson before the half-time rest.

His second their final touchdown at the 29-second mark of the last quarter when Larry Isbell fin capped off a 69-yard march with an 11-yard sweep around the end. Dave Zelenka then converted two of the three Montreal touchdowns.

BEST OF SEASON

Argonaut touchdowns were scored by quarterback Charley Dubelinski and Clarke Doane, fullback Rich Potter, ends Art Powell, Pete O'Grady and Dave Howard. Bart Moll converted three of the six touchdowns and the other single plant came on a kick by Reg Meserve.

Coach Hamp Pool of Argos used his first-stringers both on offence and defense for the first time this season and the team came up with its best performance. The defensive team was outstanding, rushing Sam Etcheverry on his pass attempts and intercepting six passes.

The defeat was Montreal's first exhibition loss in two years, and it was decisive, although the statistics didn't show it.

Argos gained 201 yards on the ground, five more than Als, and their yardage through the air totalled 339 against Montreal's 264. Alouettes rolled up 23 first downs, 11 more than the Toronto club.

Golf Gold Rush May Be Cut Next Season

CHICAGO (AP)—Tam O'Shanter's four-ring golf circus, during which approximately $150,000 in prizes is distributed, may have its huge field trimmed in half next year.

This was indicated Wednesday by George S. May, 67-year-old owner of the plush course at suburban Niles, Ill. At the same time, May denied rumors Tam O'Shanter would be sold for subdivision purposes.

"We're working on plans for next year's All-American and World tournaments," said May. "We're considering very seriously cutting the field to approximately half the size it was this year. That would protect the course and make for a better tournament."

A total of 227 golfers, including men and women in pro and amateur fields, started the All-American Aug. 1. Considerably fewer, due to cuts and withdrawals, wound up the "World" last Sunday.

WINS SPLIT DECISION

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Dave Moore, 129, of Springfield, Ohio, won a 10-round split decision Wednesday night over Victor Manuel Quijano, 130, of Mexico City in a bout at the War Memorial Auditorium.

Ottawa Riders Cut 6 Imports

OTTAWA (CP)—Coach Frank Clair Wednesday cut six imports from Ottawa Rough Riders roster, leaving 15 United States players seeking the 12 import berths.

Turned loose were centres Bill Brown, formerly of Syracuse University; Pete Ladygo; Mike Flynn, Villanova; Al Sigman, Michigan; and Bernie Flowers; and halfback Jim Garrett, Utah.

Flowers, 26, and Ladygo, 25, played with Riders previously. Another former Rider, tackle Milt Graham, 22, will join the club today. He played the last season

Al Pfeifer, former end with Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four, will arrive in Ottawa today to join Rough Riders. Pfeifer was picked up on waivers by the Riders Wednesday.

Marines Even Series With Win Over Bobcats

By GARRY ALEXANDER

A five-run explosion in the third and the three-hit pitching of Al "Bearcat" Adams sparked the Gover Marines to a 7-3 victory over the Bobcats last night to even their three-of-five OASA Intermediate "AA" series at two games each and one tie.

The sixth and deciding game is scheduled for Saturday night, CNOAA Park, at 6.30 p.m. The winners will advance against out-of-town competition.

Adams gave up a single run and one base hit in the first two more runs on a homer by Floyd Crawford in the sixth and by two-base safety in the ninth. That was all. During the rest of the game the Bobcats were helpless at the plate, having just six baserunners all night. Adams struck out seven batters, but had the Cats grounding or popping for the putouts. He walked two batters and one reached base on an error.

Wally Baron, who has registered both Bobcat wins in the series, each one charged with the loss while being driven from the mound in the third. He gave up five runs off four hits. Bob Bunton was his replacement for the remainder of the game, allowing four hits. Baran fanned one, walked two, while Bunton gave up two free passes.

Bobcats pulled three double plays to smother a larger Marine scoring total with third baseman Harry Wardhaugh starting two of the double plays. third. One of novelty type was completed in the seventh with Leo Goyer on first and Paul Russell on third. Goyer went half way to second and Russell edged off third while catcher Doug Deane had the ball. Deane fired to Wardhaugh at third and as Russell retreated to the plate, he tossed quickly to Locke at first who tagged Goyer. Locke relayed the ball back to Wardhaugh who put the ball on Russell, again off the bag.

The Cats' best double started the winning Marine rally in the third. Adams sacrificed, Gerry Goyer singled home one, Russell walked and Leo Goyer doubled across two. First baseman Chuck Kingston followed with a homer to centre to chase Baran from the hill. Vern Goyer got another run for his club in the fourth when he singled sharply and later slid home on his belly after a wild pitch.

Casey walked and Floyd Crawford smashed a terrific home run into the horseshoe pit in deep right field for a pair of Bobcat tallies in the sixth. John Casey singled in the first and Stan Creegan pinch hit a double in the ninth, the only other Bobcat safetics.

Leo Goyer doubled and singled, Paul Russell had two singles and Chuck Kingston a homer to spark the Marines at the plate. Doug Soules doubled while Vern and Gerry Goyer each singled once.

The teams:

Bobcats — Casey, Brown, Crawford, Cousins, Faulkner, Wardhaugh, Locke, Doran, Baran, Bunton, Creegan.

Marines — Goyer, Russell, Goyer, Green, Kingston, Brooks, V. Goyer, Soules and Adams.

Umpires — "Shud" Ehler (p), and Tim Williams. Time 1.18.

Fontana, Bedard Only Natives Left in Championship Singles

By GEORGE FRAJKOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Seeded Canadian players were uprooted en masse in the Canadian tennis championships Wednesday.

Only two native players—Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., and Don Fontana of Toronto — were left today in the men's singles. Homebrews did better in the women's singles, where all four seeded foreign players were eliminated and only one foreign entry remains. She's Mrs. Anne Bagge Vieira, formerly of Copenhagen and Toronto and new wife of Brazilian Davis Cup player Armando Vieira.

Bedard, Canada's top — ranked player and first-seeded Canadian in the tournament, advanced into the semi-finals with an 8-6, 9-7, 3-6, 6-3 victory over Straight Clark of Philadelphia.

MEETS THE WINNER

Bedard now meets the winner of a quarter-final match between another Philadelphian, Richard Sottlen and Vieira. Sottlen is the rated sixth of the foreigners and Vieira second.

Aside from Bedard, the Canadians had little luck. Vieira advanced to the quarter-finals with a 6-3, 6-3 win over Jim Bentley of Toronto and tournament favorite Emmanuel Darmon of Algeria struggled to a 7-5, 6-4 win over Montreal's Henri Rochon.

Val Hariot of Montreal, the fourth-seeded Canadian, fell 6-4, 6-4 to Sottlen. Paul Valley, Canada's third - rated player, also took a licking after a brief spell of glory.

Willey overpowered Brazil's Carlos Fernandez 6-3 in the first set, then lost his touch and dropped the next two 6-1 to allow Fernandez into the quarter-finals against Krishnan.

Fontana comes up against Bob Howe of Sydney, Australia in another quarter-finals.

In the women's singles, Susan Bott of Victoria goes against Mrs. Anne Pothringham of Montreal in a quarter - final match for the right to meet favored Mrs. Louise Brown of Toronto in the semi-finals.

Two more titles were decided Wednesday.

Ray Summers of Toronto defeated Ben Prenchoff, also of Toronto, 6-0, 6-3 to win the veteran's singles championship.

Dr. George Leclerc and F. A. Shaeffer of Montreal beat Summers and Frank Murphy of Toronto 6-3, 6-4 for the veteran's doubles crown.

Yesterday's Stars

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching: Dick Donovan, White Sox—won his fifth in a row and eighth in last nine decisions for 13-3 record while striking out five, walking only two and giving nine hits, all singles in 8-3 victory over Indians, who had two unearned runs.

Hitting: Ted Williams, Red Sox —had two hits in four trips, one his 31st home run that capped a deciding four-run second in 6-4 victory over Yankees and pushed his league leading average to .390.

ACCEPTS CHALLENGE

LONDON (Reuters) — Fred Davis, eight times world snooker champion, has accepted a challenge by Canada's 44-year-old champion, George Chenier, to meet him in a 61-frame match at Scarborough next February.

"I also hope to join Chenier—in fine player—on an exhibition tour of Canada," said Davis.

French Fans Want Programs That Do Not Tire the Brain

By WILLIAM GLOVER

PARIS (AP)—"Most of all," sighed the lady with a shrug, "they want the program that does not tire the brain."

Michelle Rebel, program head of Television Francaise, was kicking off the catalogue of events, receipts, remote control shows and films designed to entertain, enlighten, educate and otherwise relieve ennui in 700,000 French homes 30 hours a week—reduced to 30 in July and August.

"At times," continued Mme. Rebel, "they just do not understand what we are trying to do."

We assured her that TV fans are pretty much like that in the United States—at least as far as the rating experts have determined.

"There is only one way to get a big audience response," she said. "That is to get on some show they do not like."

MORE SPORTS

At the present stage of TV development in France, the audience is most vocal over wanting more sports events.

The television picture is also a bit more complicated than usual at TV-dom centre because of elaborate expansion and refurbishing of telecast facilities.

Twenty transmitters currently cover 60 per cent of the French population, an increase of six stations and 15 per cent since last spring. By next year 85 per cent of the people will be embraced in the transmission area. The Iccs-populous southwest region, where there are mountains to bother the receivers, is the chief uncovered sector.

The 700,000 TV sets now in use contrast with 6,000,000 radio sets. For comparison, there are some 40,000,000 TV sets in the U.S. and almost everyone has at least one radio.

As happened in the U.S., the first big consumer demand in France for receivers occurred in limited-budget families. A set usually costs $250.

SUPERVISED CHANNEL

All of France's TV action takes place on one state-supervised channel. Receivers are set for that single spot on the dial, except in fringe areas where the annual 5,000-franc licence fee ($14) also wins a second dial that will bring in perhaps Luxembourg, Brussels, the Saar or Monte Carlo.

French TV has gone in for the quiz show.

"Nothing like your $64,000 question," Mme. Rebel says. "The big prize on one is 100,000 francs." That's about $284.

But the show item you can't take away from French television is film. The picture transmission proceeds scans at 819 lines—highest in the world.

TICATS CUT THREE

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Union Wednesday dropped three American imports.

Cut by coach Jim Trimble were end Al Bruno, guard Gene Doubleday and halfback Frank Ferraterra.

The cuts came a few hours after Ticats were held to a 15-15 tie at Kitchener in an exhibition game with Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

The victory was worth $67,150 to Hasty House Farm.

Adele Rutchick's Miss Blue Jay raced to victory in the 32rd edition of the $22,500 Test Stakes for three-year-old fillies at Saratoga Springs, N.Y.

Miss Blue Jay covered the distance in 1:24 2-5 and earned

Nine Former Winners Quest Millar Trophy

TORONTO (CP)—Nine former winners of the Canadian professional match play golf championships have entered this year's three-day tournament beginning today at the Islington Golf and Country Club course here.

These nine are among 64 who will vie for the $1,000 first prize and $4,000 in other prizes. The first-prize winner will take home the Millar Trophy, emblematic of professional match play supremacy in Canada.

Former winners who are entered include Stan Leonard, Al Balding of Toronto, who tied with United States pro Sam Snead for second place in the Tam O'Shanter World championships last weekend.

Other former winners and the number of times they have won are Millar Thompson, 4; Earl Kerr, Beaconsfield, Que. (4); Bob Gray (3); Norman Sutherland (4); Gordon Brydson, Toronto (2); Jimmie Johnstone, Bon Grove, Ont. (2); Murray Tucker, Toronto Rosedale (1); Dick Borthwick, Hamilton (1); Willie Lamb, Toronto Lambton (1).

This 31st renewal of the annual tournament is sponsored by the Ontario branch of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association. Only Canadian professionals may enter.

The only mn to win the tournament six times is not entered this year. He is Lex Robson of Peterborough.

Detroit Lions Wallop Browns In Exhibition

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Lions fullback George Wilson's debut as head coach was successful one Wednesday night, coming on strong in the late stages for a 20-10 win over Cleveland Browns in a National Football League exhibition game.

Detroit was led by the sharp passing of quarterback Bobby Layne and Tobin Rote and the ball carrying of Tom The Bomb Tracy — formerly with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four— and Howard Cassady.

Tracy scored twice on runs of 10 and 15 yards.

STRAIGHT FURROW

BRIDGEWATER, England (CP) — Two farm workers plowed almost perfect furrows in a contest in this Suffolk community. The 100-yard furrows deviated only 1¾ inches. They cut cards to decide who should have the cup.

AT THE McCARTHY — Harry Belafonte is cast as the fiery labor leader, "David Boyeur", in Darryl F. Zanuck's first independenet production for Twentieth Century-Fox release, Alec Waugh's "Island in the Sun", now attracting crowds to the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. The CinemaScope, Deluxe color production also stars James Mason, Joan Fontaine, Dorothy Dandridge, Joan Collins and Michael Rennie. It was directed by Robert Rossen.

AT THE BELLE — Yul Brynner portrays Pharaoh II in Cecil B. DeMille's production "The Ten Commandments", playing tonight for the last times at the Belle Theatre. The massive cast of Cecil B. DeMille's masterwork include Charlton Heston as Moses, Anne Baxter, Edward G. Robinson, Yvonne De Carlo, John Derek, Debra Paget and Sir Cedric Hardwicke. "The Ten Commandments" is in Technicolor and VistaVision.

Muscle-Man Paul Anderson Bringing Back Showmanship

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Paul Anderson, the 360-pounder who did not stop growing, aims to bring showmanship to the ungentle art of lifting weights.

"Weightlifting hasn't been a real star in the strong-man business since Sandow," said Paul, referring to the turn-of-the-century Hercules promoted by Flo Ziegfeld. "And even Sandow wasn't the strongest man in his day. But he had showmanship."

Paul's feats would make Sandow seem a weakling. He can raise 1,000 pounds in a back lift, 550 over head, and do deep knee bends with 1,000.

He turned up some lucrative television and night club dates to appear in his first movie. Once Upon a Horse. As is fitting, he plays a blacksmith in the riproaring western — which gives him the chance to lift a few horses.

ALL MUSCLE

How does he feel, lugging around 360 pounds on his five feet, eleven-inch frame?

"I feel great," remarked the 24-year-old, "No, it's not hard for me to get around. If I were fat, that would be different. I'm all muscle, and muscle carries itself; it's not a burden.

"I'm pretty light on my feet. Matter of fact, I can run the 100-yard dash in 12 seconds."

Just as a simple exercise, he proceeded to lift me and my chair into the air. Obviously, this was no man to tangle with.

Folks often ask him how the appetite of a Diamond Jim Brady but he said on.

"I don't eat an awful lot. I might have some orange juice and cereal for breakfast with a protein food substitute. I work out most the day, so I seldom eat any lunch. For dinner I might have a steak. I average three quarts of milk a day.

"I don't worry about ever getting fat because I've never been too interested in food. I could diet and never suffer."

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP) — Nearctic and Choppaday, ranked first and second as money winners in Canada's juvenile division last season, will represent the powerful stables of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor in Saturday's $7,500 Achievement Handicap at Fort Erie race track.

The 1 1-16-mile race is expected to draw the best field of Canadian three-year-olds to face the barrier since the June running of the Queen's Plate.

Nearctic won purses of $34,305 in 1956. Chopaddle's earnings were $30,280.

The only notable absentee from Saturday's field will be Lyford Cay, Queen's Plate winner who was retired after bowing a tendon.

Other colts considered certain starters are Ali's Pride, Flying Atom, Lad Ator, Henry B. Good and Our Sinfar.

FORT ERIE (CP) — Kitty Girl, owned by the partnership of Larkin Maloney and Conn Smythe, won the $5,000 Duchess Stakes at the Fort Erie race track Wednesday.

The Duchess, raced at a distance of a mile and one-sixteenth over the grass course, drew a field of only five horses but it produced one of the best contests of the season. With less than a half mile to the finish, the five runners were separated by less than two lengths.

CHICAGO (AP)—Poly Hi, top two-year-old filly in the United States, suffered a smashing defeat Wednesday as Hasty Doll scored a 2½-length win in the $103,325 Princess Pat Stakes at Washington Park.

Poly Hi, seeking her seventh straight stakes victory and her 10th win in 12 starts, finished fifth in the six-horse field.

Hasty Doll, ridden by Bill Hartack, came on with a rush down the stretch and finished going away from Margaretta. Third in the six-furlong dash was Delnita. Hasty Doll's time was 1:11 1-5.

Your Horoscope

—By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, Aug. 16, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Your Mars and Pluto are the only planets in auspicious positions today. They encourage initiative; favor military, air and naval activities. You can produce in all worthwhile endeavors. Avoid selfish moves.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Mild influences govern your special interests, but you can have good returns if you give your activities the verve and 'go' required to put them across.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Day's doings should be carefully planned beforehand; some rules laid out to save time and energy. Confer, too, and follow wise suggestions. Be ambitious, conscientious.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—While the influences are not wholly auspicious, this can be a fairly profitable day for familiar work, research, testing new devices, inventions, materials. Vacation activities under good aspects.

July 24 to August 22 — (Leo) — Avoid brusqueness and impatience. This may be a trying day in some ways, but it will pay you to think more of the general good than of your own wishes. Be efficient; use your artistery.

August 24 to September 23—(Virgo) — Diversity of interests, unusual projects and ideas and the promotion of new and worthwhile plans and advertising are among this day's favored activities. Fine influences.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Emphasize your fine traits and God-given talents during this somewhat trying period. Intelligent reading, wholesome pleasures sponsored.

October 24 to November 23 — (Scorpio) — This should be a stimulating day, but do not overtax yourself or be unreasonable in your expectations. Get your schedule properly arranged, and save time, errors. Action!

November 24 to December 21— (Sagittarius) — You may have to go carefully in financial matters, but the day can be productive of good in all well managed endeavors. Your specific work and other activities should prosper.

December 22 to January 20— (Capricorn) — Don't overlook the little details important to the excellent final results you people are capable of producing. Sometimes you are careless and regret it later.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Your Uranus' position now urges strength of purpose and system in handling day's tasks. Don't assume debts if not necessary. Keep earning and spending well balanced.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Channel your ambitions and actions smartly. Don't try to pull in two ways at one time. Indecision can be harmful now, cause you to fall back. Handle this day well.

You born today are active, progressive, intuitive, and generous. You are usually friendly, gay and magnetic in personality. If true to the better you, you win the trust and confidence of others by your sincerity and dignity. You have many fine qualities to help you reach the pinnacle of success. You should study and improve constantly. Curb impatience, any tendency to domineer. Birthmate: Jean de La Bruyere, Fr. essayist.

WOULD BOOST POSTAGE
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives today voted and sent to the Senate a bill to raise United States postal rates. Included is boost to four cents for the three-cent letter rate. The increases would be effective Oct. 1. The bill also would boost air mail charges from six to seven cents an ounce.

TROUBLE-FREE MONTH
KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (Reuters) — Malaya was completely free of major incidents by Communist terrorists in July for the first time since the state of emergency began in June, 1948, it was announced Tuesday. No police or soldiers were killed or wounded, and only one civilian was wounded during the month.

HIGH REBEL TOLL
ALGIERS (AP) — French officials today said 125 Algerian rebels have been killed since Sunday in a running battle near Bou Zegza, southeast of Algiers. French losses were put at 11 soldiers killed and 15 wounded.

MR. TWEEDY by Ned Riddle

"I notice you don't seem to have the pep about this time of day that I have."

ST. LAURENT DRESDEN CAVE-IN

The Liberal leader, prime minister for eight years, appeared in good physical shape as he met reporters in his new office on the fourth floor of Parliament's Centre Block. He said he was "rather flattered" to see that the press was still interested in what he had to say and felt apologetic for having no announcements to make.

Mr. St. Laurent said he has no plans for any extensive trips beyond those absolutely necessary as leader of the Opposition.

Reporters tried to get Mr. St. Laurent to comment on the fact Prime Minister Diefenbaker has not yet completed his cabinet roster. The Liberal leader just stated during the election campaign that the Conservatives would have difficulty finding good cabinet timber. But he told reporters Wednesday that he didn't want to do any "sniping." He would make his statements in Parliament.

He recalled also that he had stated that his party would not try to obstruct the Conservatives in carrying out their election promises of increased social security and lower taxes. His party would be interested to see how the Conservatives handle these problems.

It appeared from his remarks that the Liberals would not try to force an election this fall. Elections, he said, were "always disturbing."

Mr. St. Laurent said he planned no "shadow" cabinet. The Liberals would do no "sniping" either, ing." Various exports among the 103 elected Liberals would handle various issues. In addition special committees among the members could be set up to concentrate and prepare stands on government proposals.

He and his colleagues had various views on why the Liberals were defeated. It appeared to him that one factor was that the Liberals had been in office for 22 years and voters thought it was time responsibility was turned over to an alternative group. The Conservatives also had waged a "vigorous campaign" against the Liberals—more vigorous than I anticipated."

Alvin Kellor of St. Thomas, head of the firm, was standing at the edge of the pit when the ground slipped away. He was carried up to his waist but managed to scramble free. Early today he was placed under sedation, reduced to near-collapse by his efforts to help his entombed workmen.

Residents said the ground collapsed with a thundering roar that shook nearby buildings. Steel girders, timbers and concrete forms used in laying the foundation were twisted and smashed in the fall. One workman was impaled on a steel reinforcing rod.

Eyewitness Grabec said: "The men were pushed against the other side of the steel structure and as the fall increased they were covered. They didn't have a chance.

"For three minutes the men scrambled, then their cries died away," he said.

"The foreman Mr. Keillor rushed down and jumped on top of the earth and worked feverishly with a spade.

"He kept crying, 'My men, my men.'"

Firemen, police and citizens attacked the pile with shovels but the hard and heavy clay made speed impossible. A 14-ton power shovel was sent in from Wallaceburg, covering the 11-mile distance in 30 minutes, and digging continued under floodlights.

Girders were cut with acetylene torches to clear a path.

SEVENTH MAN AWAY

The men lived in a bunkhouse and boarded at the home of Mrs. Ivan der Veen. The seventh man in the crew. He operated the 1½ bucket used to lower concrete.

Mr. van der Veen said he went home around five o'clock to tell his wife the men wouldn't be in for supper until 7 p.m. Soon after they were working overtime to complete the foundation work.

Mr. van der Veen said she had just finished setting the table for the meal when neighbors told her of the accident.

"I looked down the road. I saw my husband coming and I ran and kissed him as soon as he got near," she said. "I thanked God that he was alive."

Deseronto L.B. Club Holds Tournament

Last Sunday was a fine day for the second mixed doubles bowling tournament of the present season, sponsored by the Men's Bowling Club.

Competitors were present from Kingston, Madoc, Stirling, Belleville, as well as 5 rinks from Deseronto. There were 18 rinks in play.

Prizes were given to all three game winners, high two game winner, high one game winner, and no wins high.

There were two, three game winners with Mr. Elliott, sitting rink, with a score of 43 plus 9 being high, and Mr. M. Galt of Kingston rink, with a score of 40 plus 10 being second. High two game winner was Morley Rendall, Deseronto rink, with a score of 42 plus 8; high one game winner A. Walker's rink, with a score of 34 plus 4. No game high was won by Conner's rink of Madoc with a score of 29.

During the afternoon, the members of the Ladies' Club were busily engaged in the club house preparing an inviting dinner which was served from 5.30 to 7.00, and was heartily enjoyed by everyone.

The weather was excellent for bowling. The greens were in perfect condition. The competition was keen and the food was good, so everyone had a most enjoyable time.

It is hoped that there will be another tournament in the near future.

Anyone wishing to try bowling will be welcomed by the club members any Monday, Wednesday or Friday evening at 7.30 or 8.00 o'clock, weather permitting.

Tweed

TWEED — Mr. and Mrs. Bob White, formerly of Tweed, now of Peterborough, were renewing acquaintances in Tweed on Sunday.

Miss A. L. Courtnyea, Toronto, who is on the staff at the Parliament Buildings, has been visiting at the home of Miss Loretta Woodcock, Metcalfe St., for a few days.

Mr. W. J. McCormick, of Montgomery Bld., Belleville, spent Saturday at Hilltop with Miss A. M. Rayburn and Mrs. Marrin.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ruttan, formerly of Tweed, were visiting in town on Sunday with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Joseph LeSage has returned from spending a holiday with Mrs. Clair McAllister of Kingston.

Evan Morton and Joseph Quinn are attending boys' camp at Bark Lake. They left last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Thompson recently visited with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thompson, Picton.

Miss Joan Black, Mr. Wayne McCloud, Mrs. Bruce Black and Dianne Maylee, motored to Toronto on Sunday for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Woolfrey spent Monday in Kingston and while there visited old Fort Henry. Mr. Woolfrey is on holidays this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rivers, Mrs. Levi Lajoie and Mrs. John Fobert spent the evening at Napanee at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Lajoie.

Chisholm's Mill donated plywood for the use in handicraft classes at Camp, Tweed Memorial Park, and Bert Sedore of Tweed, made a donation of aluminum pieces. These are materials that are very useful in the day to day classes of the youngsters. The Kinette Club is very grateful and any such donations will be thankfully received at any time. The continued interest in the camp is very encouraging to the supervisors as well as the club itself. The supervisors are Carol Quinn and Harold Tuepah; their assistants are Karen Hughes and Barbara Sexsmith.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kinlin and family have been visitors at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Murphy and Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Lajoie, recently.

Miss Ida Woodcock, of town, who had the misfortune to fracture her hip some weeks ago, is getting comfortably in the Belleville General Hospital, but although she will remain there for some little time, she is progressing favorably.

Mr. Doug Spencer, of Spencer Insurance Agency, who sustained a fractured neck, eight weeks ago, has been advised by the doctors at the Belleville General Hospital and local doctors as well, that it will be necessary for him to remain in the east he is now wearing, for an additional six weeks, but he is doing fine and is very tolerant considering the weather.

Police At Gaspe Disperse Workers With Tear Gas

Act After Six Injured In Clash With Pickets

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (CP) —Provincial police threw tear gas bombs to disperse non-striking workers of Gaspe Copper Mines Limited today and pushed back a 800-man picket line of Canadian labor representatives after six men were injured and three cars overturned in a violent clash.

The opposing groups obeyed police commands. The 110-man provincial police detachment, armed with nightsticks, ordered the non-striking company staff to return to their jobs at the mine gate and pushed back pickets to the company gate where picketing continued.

The tear gas was tossed apparently as a warning. There was no scuffling with police. Earlier, stone-throwing and name-calling set off violence.

Several months the labor group was demonstrating in support of Murdochville local of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC), on strike against Gaspe Copper Mines Limited.

FORCES GATHER

Police had intervened as a second group of union men left the town to join the pickets against about 200 non-striking employees.

Violence broke out when the nonstrikers sent a shower of stones on the pickets. Shots and name-calling rang out.

Hill in an interview called the use of migrants on farms the "20th century slave racket."

CRITICIZED

He described one camp he visited as "literally a concentration camp." He said it was hidden in an isolated area at Hawkesbury in New York state and surrounded by barbed wire. Guards prevented him and Rev. Lois Freeman, president of the Elmira NAACP branch from entering, Hill reported.

There are about 1,000 migrant camps in New York. Each houses from five to 500 workers, predominantly Negro. State officials say all camps are closely supervised by health and police inspectors.

Most migrants live in central camps set up by co-operatives. Large farm operators run their own camps.

Each spring, New York farm employment service representatives go south to arrange for the migration from Florida and other states.

NAACP Charges Working Camps Are Unsanitary

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — About 25,000 migrants flock northward each year to harvest New York state's billion-dollar farm crop and PEAD for themselves wages estimated at $20,000,000.

Are they housed in unsanitary hovels and treated as slaves, as a leader of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People charges?

The complaint that camps in central New York are violating state health and labor regulations was made by Herbert Hill, labor secretary of the NAACP. Hill said he had found "blatant and widespread violations" in camps in four counties.

Investigators were sent out immediately by the state industrial commissioner, Isador Lubin. He promised that they will check all labor camps in the state and that violators of the law will be prosecuted.

Hill in an interview called the use of migrants on farms the "20th century slave racket."

Crashes Cause Traffic Jam 15 Miles Long

WHITBY (CP) — Five automobile crashes, in one of which a car burst into flames, caused a 15-mile traffic jam along Highway 401 between Toronto's eastern outskirts and Oshawa.

A few minutes after a three-car pile-up Sunday night near the Whitby cloverleaf the leaking gasoline tank of one car was ignited by a spark on the road.

Firemen put out the blaze.

There were four other collisions within a half-mile stretch and another just east of the Rouge River bridge. Provincial police said it was one of the worst jams of the season.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Cooler air that has swept down across Hudson Bay began pushing into Northern Ontario early today. Some cloudiness and a few showers will accompany this cool air as it moves down across Ontario, reaching the North Bay and Sudbury area Tuesday morning and Southern Ontario Tuesday night.

AIRLINER INTACT WHEN 79 KILLED EVIDENCE SHOWS

4 Engines Recovered Will Be Studied

ISSOUDUN, Que. (CP)—Investigators on the scene of Canada's worst air disaster have uncovered evidence indicating the Maritime Central Airways DC-4 was intact when it took 79 persons to their deaths in a nearby swamp Aug. 11.

Gordon Garner, chief MCA inspector, said Sunday the flying control surfaces—external parts of the wings and tail which control a plane's flight—were recovered. The engines, all virtually intact, to "indicate the plane was in one piece when it hit the ground."

The four engines also have been recovered and probably will be sent to the Pratt and Whitney plant near Montreal for study which may determine cause of the crash, Mr. Rayner said.

Parts of the bodies have been found attached to buckled seat belts, but it is believed the victims had some warning the plane was in trouble before the crash.

SEVERAL MONTHS

Operations to recover what is left of the DC-4 and its occupants probably will not be completed for two or three days, but federal transport department investigators expect the inquiry into the cause to last several months.

Most of the remains remaining resumed today after a one-day halt in search for the 60 investigators and laborers to take a much-needed rest. They had been on the job day and night since the crash.

Edward F. Laich, service representative for Douglas Aircraft which built the plane, arrived from New York City Sunday to help in the inquiry.

The remains of the passengers and crew—the bodies were blubeyond recognition—are being sent to the provincial police morgue at Quebec City where a coroner's inquest is expected to be held later this week.

Dives to Aid Two Girls, Is Drowned

PORT COLBORNE (CP)—Vincent Bonavoglia, 43, was drowned Sunday when he dived from his outboard motorboat in an attempt to help two girls who were encountered difficulty while swimming.

Mr. Kramer, a Welland ship canal hand, had taken his daughter, Jean, 11, and three of her girl friends, to swim in the harbor's breakwater, a popular spot on Lake Erie. The girls were 50 yards from his boat when shouts from them indicated they were in trouble.

Mr. Kramer, said to have been a poor swimmer, donned a lifebelt and dived fully clothed into the water to help them but collapsed on reaching them. The girls tried to keep his head above water, but in being manoeuvred to the breakwater he apparently inhaled water.

Phyllis Clarke Pulled From River Unconscious; Had Swum 26 Miles

GANANOQUE (CP) — Phyllis Clarke, 25 - year - old Toronto switchboard operator, was pulled unconscious from the St. Lawrence River at 8 a.m. today after she had swum 26 miles with the river's current.

Miss Clarke was pulled out near Crossover Island about eight miles west of Brockville. She had covered 26 miles of the proposed swim from here to Brockville in 11 hours and 25 minutes.

Coach Norm Suffrin said the end came suddenly. Miss Clarke seemed to fall asleep in the water and he and Barbara Reid, 14, one of three young girl swimmers standing by in case of emergency, were unable to revive her.

Miss Clarke was taken to hospital in Brockville suffering from exhaustion.

There was little current and a light breeze when the slim, 125 pound brunette left this town 17 miles east of Kingston at 8:34 p.m. Sunday. Miss Clarke rested briefly on Sunday, getting up only 90 minutes before entering the water.

A small toy duck called Gananoquis — a contraction of Ganaraska and Iroquois — bobbed along beside her in one of the boats.

It was Miss Clarke's second attempt to make the distance. She was pulled out of the water at the 25-mile mark in an attempt July 26. She was taken to hospital suffering from cramps and pains in her legs, arms and body.

KIDNAPPED BY HITCHHIKER

Carl Wagner, 21, of Salina, Kansas, shows how he and his wife were locked in the trunk of their car for nearly six hours by their kidnapper, James Richard Essex, an escapee from the Ohio state penitentiary. Wagner pried the trunk lid open with a tire tool and dangled his hand out until it attracted the attention of a Kansas City police officer. Essex pointed a revolver at them several times and pulled the trigger. There was only a click. He had been picked up by the Wagners while thumbing a ride on the highway.

Blast in Tunnel at Oswego Kills Three, Rescuer Gassed

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP)—An explosion tore through a tunnel cut in rock 100 feet below Lake Ontario and killed three construction workers Sunday, then turned the 2,250-foot tunnel into a gas-filled death trap that claimed another worker's life early today.

The fourth man was overcome fatally as he worked with a crew trying to bring out the bodies of the three blast victims. Further efforts at retrieving the three bodies were called off until ventilating equipment could be installed.

Lloyd Matteson, 22, one of the approximately 100 workers who labored Sunday and Sunday night at the scene, ran out of oxygen about 1,500 feet inside the gas-filled tunnel. Fellow workers said he started running back toward the entrance, apparently became panicky and tore off his oxygen mask. Then he collapsed.

The other workers said they hadn't enough oxygen to get to Matteson. They carried him to surface, but he was dead when they brought him out.

Two coast guardsmen working with the rescue squad entered the bodies of the three construction men eight hours after the explosion. The bodies were about 4,000 feet inside the tunnel, being built as part of a new city water supply system.

Cause of the explosion has not been determined.

Coroner Donald Backus of the New York state bureau of mines called off attempts to bring out the bodies after Matteson's death. Nine other men were overcome during the night by lack of oxygen and were treated at a hospital.

The workers had succeeded in bringing one body 1,500 feet before they were forced to quit.

From 30 to 50 men worked in the tunnel at a time.

The three killed were John Lange, 48, an electrician; Phil Aylor, 36, the tunnel foreman; and Linwood Bleiken, 47, construction superintendent. All were employed by the Herbert F. Darling Co. of Williamsville, N.Y.

The three had started for the end of the tunnel to prepare for a dynamite blast which would open the last 18 feet and let in the lake water.

More than a mile of fire hose was laid to pump air to rescue workers from possible water. The United States Army Signal Corps set up an emergency communications system between the shaft and the men working in the tunnel. Four kitchens were set up by civic organizations to feed the workers.

Dieppe Raid, 15 Years Ago, Forced Allies to Change Plans

OTTAWA (CP)—Fifteen years ago today, Canadian soldiers forced Allied leaders to change their strategic plans for the second front.

They had to do it the hard, bloody way. Only 2,311 of a Canadian force of 5,362 returned to England after the Dieppe raid of Aug. 19, 1942.

Up to that time, the Allies thought that the chief principle for the invasion of Normandy would be surprise. After Dieppe, it was realized that heavy support by bombers and capital ships would be required. These measures are emphasized by General Laich in the landed in France June 6, 1944.

Col. C. P. Stacey, official army historian, says in his Six Years of War, published in 1955, that the planners of the Dieppe raid—Combined Operations Headquarters—underrated the strong German defences and the influence of topography.

In 1944, Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, commander of the 1st Canadian Army, said the Dieppe raid was a Canadian victory, but not one to be repeated.

One outgrowth of the raid was the undermining of the prestige of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, then commander of the 1st Army.

American correspondent Constantin Reynolds published a book on the raid and although, Col. Stacey says, he had no knowledge of the planning, he commented on it freely.

The history says Reynolds implied that the Canadians were responsible for altering a more intelligent plan of attack and in so doing, to the utmost wrath. This was completely inaccurate.

Gen. McNaughton was asked by defence headquarters to issue a "corrective statement" but he felt this would prejudice future Canadian relations with British authorities, he interpreted as seeking to shift responsibility and give valuable information to the enemy. Night Flight Dieppe proved the bankruptcy of Canada's military leadership, the history adds there is little doubt that such criticism "did something to undermine the future confidence of the people of Gen. McNaughton with the public."

Prime Minister Churchill held a small conference June 30, 1942, on the Dieppe affair. He showed some anxiety about it but was told by Gen. Ismay, chief of the imperial general staff, that the operation was indispensable to the overall defensive program.

Col. Stacey concludes his account of the raid in this way:

"So ended the brave and bitter day. Under the shaded dockside lights in the English ports, tired and grimy men drank strong tea and told their tales, and the ambulance trains filled and drew slowly out. Back on the Dieppe beaches the Germans were still collecting Canadian wounded and Canadian dead in their hundreds day yet where they had fallen."

FREIGHT TRAIN DERAILED SUNDAY EAST OF NAPANEE

CNR Line Blocked, Reroute Trains CPR

KINGSTON (CP)—Fifteen cars of an eastbound freight train were derailed Sunday five miles east of Napanee on the Canadian National Railways' main line between Montreal and Toronto.

The accident occurred at Fredericksburg, 20 miles west of here. The train tore up both sides of the line for almost half a mile.

Freight cars were strewn in fields bordering the tracks. One car was thrown on to the westbound line at a right angle to the track. A red-lettered sign was sliced through a wooden boxcar.

Cause of the accident was not immediately known.

Toronto-bound passenger trains were rerouted at Brockville on Canadian Pacific Railway lines through Peterborough, Sharbot Lake and Smiths Falls. Trains were up to eight hours late.

Eastbound trains were rerouted along the same line at Brighton, near Belleville.

Sleeping Pills Kill Husband of Sarah Churchill

LONDON (AP) — An overdose of sleeping pills has taken the life of Anthony Beauchamp, husband of Sir Winston Churchill's actress daughter Sarah.

The 34-year-old society photographer and television producer apparently died alone Sunday in his apartment overlooking Hyde Park. He had not been seen lately with Sarah, who is four years his senior.

Their marriage was rumored finished, London newspapers say, but there was supposedly an agreement for a reconciliation when Sir Winston is alive." The former prime minister is 82 years old. A friend explained that Beauchamp in 1945 on grounds of desertion. Officially announced, the divorce check in Alexandria.

Sarah has been married to communists to power in the army of Syria began with charges of forgetting ready to overthrow the government.

Informed sources here said Syria's charge last Tuesday that the United States was behind the latest Kuwait coup was used as a blind for the leftists.

CONFIRMED U.S. PLOT

The government ordered three American diplomats out of the country after claiming that there had been a U.S. plot to "buy" a pro-American regime with cash and aid offers after a coup d'etat. The U.S. state department called the charges "completely fabrication," and expelled two Syrian diplomats in retaliation.

Two weeks ago, a Syrian mission to Moscow resulted in a public announcement of a new economic aid to Syria and, sources in Cairo said, a secret pact for new Soviet arms.

The economic pact included plans for Russian aid in building roads from Syria's Mediterranean coast to the northeastern provinces, where the country most closely approaches Russia.

Pro-Western Turkey and Iran lie between Syria and Russian Armenia. Other neighbors of the 4,000,000 Syrian people are Lebanon, Iraq, Jordan and Israel, all with Western leanings.

Poisoned Seventh-Century Dagger Stolen From Indonesian Diplomat

NEW YORK (AP)—A poison covered dagger that might have quick and painful death with a single cut has been stolen from the apartment of an Indonesian consular official.

Police issued a warning when the theft became known Sunday.

"Don't take that kris out of the scabbard. The blade is poisoned. Just touching it to any open wound could be fatal."

The seventh - century dagger, with an ivory handle and gold-covered teakwood scabbard, is valued at $3,000. It was stolen Saturday night from the Riverdale a pa rt me nt of Koesmarsono, Indonesian consul-general, deputy chief of the supply mission attached to the Indonesian consul-general's office.

He said the kris has been in his family for generations. It is considered sacred and capable of warding off evil spirits from the rightful owner's family.

Each year it is sent to a Hindu monk who bathes the blade in a solution of poisonous herbs, roots and sulphur.

Communist Bloc Takes Control Of Syrian Army

Thirteen Officers Fired, Number Flee to Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Volatile Syria apparently moved closer to the Communist bloc today as pro-leftist officers purged rightists from the politically powerful army.

Gen. Afif Bizry, known throughout the Middle East as the most extreme leftist in Syria's army, took control of the army during the weekend, according to reliable reports reaching neighboring Lebanon.

Bizry, 47, a known Communist, immediately began to purge right - wing opponents. Thirteen officers were fired or resigned in Damascus, and a number fled to Beirut.

While Premier Sabri Assali's Moscow - oriented government seemed to have been strengthened, President Shukri Kuwatly's professed neutrality in a new East and West was already closely behind Russian arms deals—became a little more indistinct.

Kuwatly had once threatened to resign rather than let Communists supporters take complete control of the army. But the weekend's virtual coup d'etat by leftists came with formal approval of the six president.

MADE COMMANDER

Kuwatly signed a presidential decree promoting Bizry from lieutenant-colonel to general and making him army commander-in-chief and chief of staff on official announcement said.

Then, said rumors that Kuwatly had resigned—which Assali denied — the president flew to Egypt Sunday. In Cairo for the third time in six months, he talked with President Nasser.

The Syrian and Egyptian armies are united under the joint command of an Egyptian officer and both are heavily stocked with Soviet arms, but Nasser has kept his own Communists suppressed.

Purpose of Kuwaty's trip was officially announced on his return check in Alexandria.

Informed sources here said Syria's charge last Tuesday that the United States was behind the latest Kuwait coup was used as a blind for the leftists.

Union Wants Clergymen to Mediate Strike

DETROIT (AP)—A union official asked today that a neutral third group, preferably made up of clergymen, be asked to help settle a labor dispute which led Detroit's three daily newspapers to suspend publication.

Raymond E. Brown, vice-president of the International Mailers Union (Ind.) Said: "We are willing to meet with the Detroit Publishers at any time. However, after trying all Sunday I finally contacted Mr. Robert Buse (executive secretary of the Detroit Newspaper Publishers Association) early today and he told me this: "I won't meet to discuss the situation until newsboys have been fired and they're going to stay fired.'

"If the newspapers refuse to meet with us we would be willing to meet with a rabbi, a priest and a minister as a neutral group in a joint meeting."

The Detroit News and Times, both afternoon papers, and The Free Press, a morning paper, all suspended publication indefinitely Sunday because of a dispute between the News and the Times. Identical notices were posted at all three papers ordering the majority of employees not to report for work until further notice.

SAYS STRIKE ILLEGAL

A statement issued by the DNPA, which represents all three firms, said: "An illegal strike against the Detroit News is forcing shutdowns at all three papers. The DNPA makes contracts for The Free Press, News and Times Labor. Under these joint contracts a strike against one paper is a strike against all.

Salk Vaccine Protects Both Mother, Child

MONTREAL (CP) — Vaccination of a pregnant woman with Salk polio vaccine protects both mother and child, a report to a Montreal medical team in the United States says the American Medical Association Journal.

The team comprised Drs. Gerald Friedman and Hyman Goldfield, specialists in women's diseases at the Montreal General Hospital, and Drs. V. Pavlianis and Joseph Sternberg, virus experts at the Canadian Army Institute of Microbiology and Hygiene.

They took blood samples of 14 pregnant women. Six were vaccinated with Salk vaccine and two with Connaught vaccine.

Their conclusion: There are no harmful effects and the baby will get a dividend.

MAY REDUCE FORCES

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson said Thursday the United States army is working on plans that might reduce its 1,100,000 military forces to 2,500,000 men by July, 1958. That is about 300,000 below the current level. No decision has been reached as yet.

Logue Family Greets Member From Belgium

Greeting of a family member visiting Canada for the first time in 37 years, was a feature of the Logue family reunion held Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Logue, Foxboro.

Approximately 60 persons, all descendants of the late John Logue and his wife Elizabeth Stewart, many of them from distant parts of Ontario, attended the reunion, highlight of which was the presence of Robert Logue of Belgium on his first visit to Canada since 1920.

Mr. Logue served with the 21st Battalion in World War I and following the war married a Belgian girl and with the exception of one visit has since lived in Belgium.

Three of Mr. Logue's four surviving brothers were present at Saturday's reunion. Bill — Mrs. Walter of Oshawa, and Fred of Trenton. The fourth brother, Jim of Detroit was unable to attend.

Two other brothers of the family are deceased. Leo was killed in France during World War I and John at Point Anne. Killed several years ago.

Refreshments were served to the various family members by Mrs. Thomas McEwen of Oshawa, voicing a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Logue for their hospitality.

Children Said Cause of Fire Which Killed One

BANCROFT (Special) — Children playing with matches, was believed the cause of a flash fire which Saturday morning swept through the upstairs apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dombroski and killed their three-year-old son, Randy.

Mr. and Mrs. Dombroski escaped from the apartment with their other two children, Kay, age 5, but were unable to save Randy.

A uranium mine worker, Mr. Dombroski had come home from the night shift, and had gone to bed. Mrs. Dombroski had just gotten the children's breakfast and had lain down for a rest only to be awakened by smoke and flames.

Firemen had the blaze under control in half an hour but heavy smoke and water damage was reported in the Mitchell general store on the ground floor beneath the apartment.

Police Busy With Accidents, Drunks, Thefts

One of the busiest Saturday nights in many months was reported by police over the weekend with motor vehicle accidents, traffic tie-ups, drunks, drunk and impaired drivers and breaks-ins keeping officers on the move.

Patrol officers P. C. Foster and P. C. Davis apprehended two men early Saturday morning at the Kinsmen Community Swimming Pool canteen on Dundas street where it is claimed they broke in. A shopping bag was found filled with the chocolate bars, gum and peanuts.

Apprehended were James Riley and Kenneth J. Reid, neither of any fixed abode.

Two Willowdale youths were questioned following the complaint of a Belleville district man that one of them had pointed a revolver at him when he objected to the attention being given to his wife by the youths.

Lorne Brant, R.R. 3 Belleville, told police that when he objected to the action of the two youths, one of them pulled a revolver from his hip pocket almost at him.

Police charged Barry K. Lockwood, 19, with having an offensive weapon and also with having liquor in his possession. Also in his possession was a cap-shooting revolver. The second youth was not held.

Cash of an undisclosed amount was stolen from Ted's Restaurant on North Front street. Patrol officers P. C. Bunker and P. C. Foster found the barrel lock removed from the door and a check of the premises by the owner revealed the money missing.

Man Fell Out Of Motorboat; Feared Drowned

BANCROFT — George Porath, aged about 53, of Purdy, in the Combermere area, was drowned in Paignead Lake late Saturday afternoon when he is believed to have fallen out of his motorboat while fishing.

There were no witnesses to the accident and the first indication that anything was amiss was when Mr. Porath's motorboat was seen travelling in circles with no one in it. It is believed that the drowning victim had been fishing and had started to row, then overbalanced and fell overboard.

The accident occurred in about 200 feet of water and dragging efforts headed by provincial police have so far failed to locate the body. Fifteen boats took part in the search Sunday, assisted by the provincial police boat from Belleville in charge of Constable Kenneth Williamson. Provincial police from Bancroft are investigating.

Unveiling of Plaque Will Feature Hay Bay Pilgrimage

Canadians for a hundred years or more were so busy carving homes out of the bush and laying foundations for a nation that they gave little thought to the preservation of historic sites. In the last few years there has been quite a change. Interested people and organizations have been given much time to preserving historic sites.

One of the notable of these shrines is the old Hay Bay church. Formerly a Methodist Church, and now in the United Church of Canada, it was built on the shores of beautiful Hay Bay.

The church stands today just as it was built on the shores of Hay Bay, a little brown frame building. It is kept in good repair by a board of trustees appointed by the Bay of Quinte Conference of The United Church of Canada.

An increasing number of visitors from other parts of Canada and the United States visit the old church every summer. They are met by a minister of The United Church, who supplies a cottage erected a few years ago on the property. He explains the historic significance of the old church and acts as a guide and custodian of the property for the tourist season.

The old building is now no longer used for regular Sunday worship. Once a year, however, a pilgrimage is organized and on the last Sunday in August cars by the hundred converge on the old church for an afternoon service.

Long before three o'clock, the time of opening the service, the church grounds are filled to capacity. Hundreds of others are to be found in parked cars or stand around the outside of the church participating in the service which will be relayed over the P.A. system.

REV. DR. HARRY G. TUTTLE

The service this year will be held on the afternoon of August 25th, at 3 p.m. E.D.T. The Rev. Harry Tuttle, D.D., secretary of the department of pensions, of the United Church, will be the guest speaker. Dr. Tuttle was born in Newfoundland and is a graduate of the United Theological College, Montreal. He was appointed to his present position in 1946.

A special feature of this year's pilgrimage will be the unveiling of a historic plaque by the Ontario government. Representatives of the government will take part in the ceremony.

The church is situated on the south side of Hay Bay and can be reached by car either from Napanee in the east, or by Picton, Glenora and free ferry to Adolphustown.

Hydrant Broken In Car Crash, Boy Injured

Householders in the Bridge and George street area were without water for several hours Sunday as a result of a two car crash which saw a hydrant broken off and sent one boy to hospital for a checkup.

The accident occurred when a northbound auto driven by Owen Spencer, Wells Bay, Yeomans Bore and in collision with another car on Bridge Street driven by Gerald J. Hode, 74 Second Street.

Following the impact one of the vehicles spun around and struck the water hydrant, breaking it off beneath the ground. Water spewed out from the broken hydrant and ran down the street and public utilities employees had to shut off the hydrant off to effect repairs.

Taken to hospital was Douglas Mason, aged 5, son of G. Mason, 68 Southview. The lad was given emergency treatment and allowed to go home.

The accident was investigated by Police Sergeant A. C. Hayes and Constable Rott. Hall. Damage to the two vehicles involved amounted to about $300 each. Mr. Myers has been charged with careless driving.

CNR Trains Trundle Down Pinnacle Street

Canadian National Railways passenger and freight trains trundled down Pinnacle street Sunday as trains in the Belleville area were switched to the C.P.R. track to allow their bypassing of a main line derailment in the Napanee area.

About a dozen cars of an eastbound freight left the rails at Fredericksburg and ripped up the track, tieing up rail traffic.

Some of the through C. N. R. trains were re-routed by way of Smiths Falls and Peterborough over the C.P.R. tracks, while others in the Belleville area made the switch to C.P.R. tracks at Belleville, using the Pinnacle street interchange.

TURN DOWN ANNEXATION

STREETSVILLE (CP) — The Ontario municipal board Friday turned down the application of the village of Streetsville, 10 miles west of Toronto, to annex 1,975 acres of Toronto Township land. J. G. Kennedy, vice-president of the board, said he doubted the village was in financial position to extend services to the area it proposed to annex.

Six Dairies in City, Trenton Resume Wholesale Deliveries To Stores on Tues. Morning

With the milk delivery strike in Belleville and Trenton now going into its fourth week, all six dairies in the two centres will attempt to resume wholesale deliveries to stores tomorrow (Tuesday) morning.

This was announced today by dairy operators in Belleville and Trenton.

Leonard Reid, of Reid's Dairy she one local dairy where milk deliverymen are on strike, said today that store owners were getting tired of making their own pickups of milk with the strike now over three weeks old.

"There may be some trouble but we are going to load our trucks and attempt wholesale delivery of milk," he said.

Mr. Reid said all six dairies affected by the strike, four in Belleville and two in Trenton, will try wholesale delivery tomorrow.

The milk delivery strike started on July 25th when deliverymen at Reid's Dairy in Belleville and Trenton walked off their jobs demanding higher wages, five days and a return to delivery of other benefits.

By agreement among dairymen the other four in Belleville and Trenton, then also ceased delivery.

Since then all dairies in Belleville and Trenton have been selling milk on a cash and carry basis, with picketers also have been picketing all dairies.

NO HOUSE DELIVERY

Two weeks ago Local 647 of the Milk Drivers and Dairy Employees Union brought in bottled milk from Oakville and sold it door to door in Belleville. They were only one day and since then there has been no attempt by either dairies or strikers to make door to door delivery in Trenton or Belleville.

This morning Keith Johnson, manager of Riverside Dairy in Trenton, advised picketers in front of the plant that his dairy would be putting out trucks Tuesday for wholesale delivery.

He told the picketers if they wished to come back to work he would take them back but if not Trenton and Belleville police would be called.

At Belleville Mr. Len Reid noted that the attempt at wholesale delivery would be the first test of the part of the dairies since the commencement of the strike.

"Throughout the strike the Milk Control Board has given us good support and we felt that it was time the dairies did something for themselves," he said.

PLANE SAID SAFE

OTTAWA (CP) — A light aircraft, missing in the North since Friday with two men aboard, was reported Sunday to be safe at Lake Harbor on Baffin Island. The plane pilot Jack Fleming, 35, of Ottawa and Professor John B. Bird of the Arctic University's geography department, a specialist in Arctic terrain analysis.

RCMP OFFICER RETIRES

TORONTO (CP) — Superintendent Frederick Karrow, 50, in charge of the criminal investigation branch of the Southern Ontario division of the RCMP is retiring Sept. 1 after 29 years service. Supt. Karrow was chief prosecutor for the RCMP at Ottawa from 1949 to 1954 and served earlier in the Sarnia and St. Thomas areas.

Bowling Notes

A Trenton rink of Stephen Way, Bob Baker and Horace Ormshaw were the winners in the trebles tournament staged at the local bowling greens on Saturday afternoon. The winning rink posted a score of 51 plus 17. In all 22 rinks competed and they came from Stirling, Campbellford, Kingston, Belleville, Brighton, Trenton and Madoc.

In second place was Cleo Colling, I. E. McLean and Bruce Miller with a score of 50 plus 11, while Gare Dobbs, Wm. Wright and Walter Elliott were in third with a score of 50 plus 10.

The two-game high winner was Douglas Duncan, Wilmot Duncan, Jr. and William Duncan, Sr., of Kingston, with a count of 48 plus 5, while the one-game high winner was Gordon Vince, J. W. Davison and Gordon Watkin.

Gordon Watkin was chairman for the tournament which was the draw, assisted by his brother, Austin Watkin, president of the club. The greens were lightning fast and some excellent bowling was in evidence.

"On Thursday afternoon the women's section held their regular weekly games with Mrs. T. Mascoro, Mrs. Grace Clapp and Mrs. George Watkin, skip, being first; Mrs. R. Bowerman, Mrs. F. Watson and Mrs. C. L. Hyde, skip, second; Mrs. R. Coleman, Mrs. M. Ralph and Mrs. Ann Smith and Mrs. Gordon Vince, skip, third, and Mrs. I. Symons, Mrs. E. Bulford and Mrs. D. Argue, skip, fourth. The bridge winners were Mrs. Mellar, Mrs. Wesley, Mrs. Sandercock, Mrs. Hick, Mrs. Vanner and Mrs. Fred Ireland, hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Pearl Fonger, Mrs. H. Putman, Mrs. Burkitt and Miss Winnie Smith.

Friday afternoon a doubles tournament for the women was held at Centennial Park. Mrs. Nora Kyle and Miss Margaret Fairbairn of the Belleville club, won the three-game high prize with Mrs. Stephen Way and Mrs. H. Coutts of Trenton, runners-up in the two-game high. Mrs. Grace Jones and Mrs. Orie Smith, of Belleville, as skip, won the second-game high, while Mrs. Ford Jones and Mrs. Witts as skip, of Trenton, winning the one-game high.

Did Not Know How to Call For Assistance

GODERICH (CP) — A French-Canadian youth was drowned before a crowd of 2,000 persons Sunday because he apparently didn't know how to call for help in English.

Marius Blaquierè, 18, of St. Francois d'Assisi, Que., died in Lake Huron after he dived from a high board and got into difficulty.

As a crowd watched events at the third annual water sports day show, Blaquierè screamed for aid in French but police said no one understood him.

Doctors on hand for the races worked for more than an hour in an attempt to save the youth. Blaquierè had been stationed at the Clinton RCAF station.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was narrowly lower today in light morning trading.

Industrials lost a bit more than one-quarter of a point on index but golds outnumbered losers. Base metals and western oils were each down one-half point on index. Golds gained a few cents mal points.

The trading pace was one of the slowest of the year. Volume at 11 a.m. was 587,000 shares compared with 703,000 at the same time Friday.

McColl led industrial winners with a 3½-point gain to 71¼. Can- list.

Kicked by Mare, Child, 4, Dies

OWEN SOUND (CP)—Deborah Ann Stern, 4, died Sunday from injuries received when kicked by a mare on her father's farm at Chesley, 30 miles southeast of here.

The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Clements, went alone to a field to see the mare and her day-old colt which was to become hers.

The horse apparently kicked her in the stomach as she petted the colt. Dr. E. G. Brown of Chesley said death was due "more to shock than anything else."

Plane Lands Safely Despite Bomb Threat

TORONTO (CP)—A Trans-Canada Air Lines Viscount, target of a telephoned threat in Winnipeg Sunday night, landed safely at Malton airport today with 36 passengers.

An anonymous caller told the TCA's office in Winnipeg: "Flight four will never reach Toronto."

The call was received before the departure of flight four from Vancouver and resulted in a one-hour delay there while passengers and luggage were checked. Further checks were made at Edmonton, Saskatoon and Winnipeg, where the RCMP examined mail sacks and baggage going aboard. Nothing in the nature of an explosive was found.

U.S. STUDENTS TO VISIT CHINA

Reuther Offers Cut Prices For Modified Union Demands

DETROIT (AP) — Proposing what he called a joint fight against inflation, Walter P. Reuther, United Auto Workers union president, has asked the American automobile industry's Big Three to cut car prices in return for modified union contract demands.

There was no immediate comment from the auto firms.

Reuther wrote the heads of Chrysler, General Motors and Ford during the weekend asking them to cut prices by at least $100 a car. In return, the UAW would modify its new contract demands next year.

The labor leader called his plan a "positive and practical proposal for making an effective beginning in stopping and reversing the inflationary trend."

Reuther told the auto leaders, whose contracts with the UAW run out around next June 1, that "we are not asking you to take any risk that we are no prepared to share."

"Transcending both (labor and management interests) by far are the interests of the American people as a whole in a stable price level. For that reason, we are confident our members will be willing to take the consequences in collective bargaining if the price reductions we propose should make it impossible that not all of their just demands can at once be met and still maintain a reasonable rate of profit."

Reuther said earlier that when new contract negotiations begin next year his 1,500,000-member union's major goal will be a shorter work week and more take-home pay.

A proposal by Reuther earlier this year that the auto leaders meet with the union before the negotiations to discuss how the shorter work week was rejected by the auto firms.

Of his latest proposal, Reuther said:

"Specifically we propose:

"1. That your corporation and other leading companies reduce prices on 1958 models to levels averaging at least $100 below the prices for comparable 1957 models.

"2. That, if you do put such price reductions into effect, we for our part will give full cooperation to the effect of such reduction on your corporation's financial position in the drafting of our 1958 demands and in our negotiations.

"We are doubtless aware that the second part of this proposal is self-centering. As an old maxim in collective bargaining has it: 'You cannot wring water from a stone.' If price reductions should have any adverse effect upon the industry's financial position, we would have no alternative but to take that fact into account in our negotiations."

Alleged Spy Flies to Prague

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—Mrs. Martha Dodd Stern, daughter of a former American ambassador to Germany and who was named as a Soviet spy before the un-American activities committee, has travelled on KLM Royal Dutch Airlines from Mexico City to Prague, it was reliably learned today.

She was accompanied by her husband, businessman Alfred Stern. A source here said the couple arrived at Schiphol airport by plane after 21 and then left for the Communist capital.

In Washington, congressional investigators have said that testimony by United States counterspy Boris Morros established that Mr. Stern was "part of the Soviet apparatus."

Mrs. Stern is the socially prominent daughter of the late William E. Dodd, ambassador to Nazi Germany from 1933 to 1938. She and her husband recently vacationed from Mexico City. Stern is a wealthy investment broker.

Morros, Russian - born Hollywood composer-director, was revealed last week as a double-agent who had fooled the Communists for 12 years.

Windsor Chief Cracks Down On Hoodlums

WINDSOR (CP) — Chief Constable Cecil W. Farrow has ordered a "crackdown" on hoodlums responsible for vandalism here.

The chief issued the order Saturday after a fire which destroyed the dock and locker rooms of the east Windsor bathing beach. Vandals were blamed. West carnival was forced to close down after an unruly mob of teen-agers, some armed with knives and whips, tried to "take over" the show. No arrests were made.

Saturday the carnival moved out of the township without attempting to reopen the show.

Commenting on the recent disturbances, Chief Farrow said: "We have tried to treat them like humans and it has failed to work. They certainly don't treat the public like humans. I am tired of the whole mess."

He said he will instruct his men to watch for gatherings of youth on the streets and about the park areas.

"If for any reason we find their activities suspicious we are going to bring them in and lock them up."

Final Details, Senior 'A' Hockey Schedule Ironed Out At Meeting in Kingston

Ottawa-Hull Canadiens have completed financial arrangements with the Hull Arena Company to play the majority of their games in that city during the winter and have entered the Eastern Ontario Senior 'A' loop to round out a six-team league. It was presumed that the Junior Canadiens would be an entry in the loop but no announcement could be made until these arrangements were completed.

This news was welcomed by the representatives of the various teams when they met at the Community Centre in Kingston on Sunday to finalize the schedule and iron out any difficulties that would be brought up. The meeting was a lengthy one, starting shortly after two o'clock and not adjourning until after six. Reg. Walton of the Kingston Club was the host for the meeting, and splendid arrangements made for the comfort of the visitors. Those in attendance were Wren Blair and Walter Brabbin of Oshawa, Sammy Pollock and Scotty Bowman of Ottawa-Hull Canadiens, Drury Denyes and Claude D. Tice of Belleville, Jack Watson and Bun Cook of Kingston, Ray Miron of Cornwall and Wally and Winfred Lenser of Trenton along with sports writers from the several cities. Bun Cook, president of the O.H.A., chaired the meeting.

It was decided that the Ottawa District Hockey Association secretary of 515 per Cornwall and Pembroke would be paid out of the league pool and the fees for the Kingstician will be paid by the several clubs. Mr. George Carver, sports editor of the Ontario Intelligencer, has been appointed to this post. The league will go with one referee and two linesmen, the same as last year, while the maximum for linesmen will be $7.50.

Sammy Pollock asked for a new arrangement in scoring points in the standings for the Canadiens and the system was adopted. The Canadiens will get three points for a win, one point for the first tie and two points for any other ties. The Canadiens do not play as many games as the other teams in the league and this system will give a better picture of their standing in the loop.

SUDDEN DEATH OVERTIME

The delegates agreed on sudden death overtime, believing it will create more interest if the game goes into extra time. Under a C.A.H.A. ruling Wren Blair, manager of the Whitby Dunlops, the team chosen to represent Canada in the World Tournament in Europe next spring, has been forced to dress fifteen men and an extra goalie for all games. All the clubs in the league were given the same privilege at their league. Whitby or Ottawa at home or away but the other clubs must dress fourteen players and the extra goalie when playing against each other. The Ottawa club will be allowed to play three overage juniors subject to the penalty imposed by the league.

When the delegates dived into the finalization of the schedule the words flew thick and fast but in the end the delegates kept the members under control and the difficulties were finally cut. The trouble arose with Whitby and Ottawa not playing the same number of games as the other teams and also having other commitments. Whitby will be playing a number of exhibition games, while Ottawa will take part in the Eastern Junior Canadian senior champions will open the league in this city on Wednesday, October 30.

Everything points to another keenly contested race in the league with reports coming in that all teams will be considerably strengthened over last year's edition.

POLICE AT GASPE

The protest demonstration started peacefully. But tension developed as 200 striking miners attempted to cross the picket line. Police armed with night sticks watched from a distance. One officer carried a machine gun.

Top Canadian labor officials on the scene besides Jodoin were Gerard Picard, president of the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor and President Walter Mason of the USWA.

Earlier, vehicles carrying the representatives of the CCCL and three buses — passed provincial police check points before arriving at the mine gate. The officers made a thorough search of all vehicles, checking trunks and glove compartments. None was refused passage.

Enthusiasm ran high in the picket ranks. The men sang songs and called to the police "arrest us if you want." Their taunts were ignored.

Some pickets carried signs with the slogan "the union is here to stay." A Quebec construction strike is to get permission for the USWA to picket.

Jean Marchand, secretary-general of the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor, has objected to a statement made in Montreal Saturday by the provincial police director, Hilaire Beauregard. Mr. Beaurregard said the men would be allowed 24 hours for their picketline demonstration today.

Mr. Marchand said it is not up to Premier Duplessis to decide what picketing is legal one day and illegal the next." Mr. Duplessis is also Quebec's attorney-general and in this capacity heads the provincial police.

Roger Provost, president of the Quebec Federation of Labor, said another protest cavalcade will be organized if unlimited picketing is not permitted after the demonstration.

Gerard Picard, CCCL president, and Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Congress of labor leaders. There are representatives of the National Catholic Federation (CCCL) whose 6,500-member local is on strike against the Gaspe Copper Company of Canada at Arvida, Que.

Purpose of the demonstration is to bring the plight of Murdoch Mulligan and his family to the attention of the province and the nation, Mr. Jodoin said.

Bus Blows Tire, 4 Persons Killed And 30 Injured

WALL TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — A bus bound from Atlantic City to New York blew a tire and smashed into a Garden State Parkway abutment Sunday, killing four persons and injuring 30 others.

The vehicle, travelling at 50 miles an hour, skidded for 100 yards and smashed into the concrete barrier with such force that the bus' roof was peeled back to the fourth seat.

Ten of the injured were detained at hospital. The accident, worst on the superhighway since it opened in 1954, occurred as thousands of weekenders were returning home from resorts.

Child Trapped In Sleeping Bag Burns to Death

IRON RIVER, Wis. (AP) — A two-year-old Canadian child apparently trapped in a sleeping bag burned to death today when a gasoline lantern exploded and set flames roaring through a tent where he was sleeping with his family.

Dead in the fire at the Moon Lake camp grounds near here was Ricky Easter, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Easter of Sarnia, Ont.

Taken to hospital at Ashland with burns were Ricky's parents, his eight-year-old brother Gary, his 14-year-old uncle, Allan Stiles, and his grandmother, Mrs. William Stiles.

Allan, who escaped from the tent, then returned to drag Gary out of the flames, was burned critically. The others were less seriously injured.

Ricky's grandfather, William Stiles, who suffered from a heart ailment and was sleeping in a nearby trailer with his wife, was uninjured. Mrs. Easter is a daughter of the ilies.

LABORER FATALLY BEATEN

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)— East Pakistan officials say a recent riot at a construction site resulted in one death after security guards beat to death a laborer for stealing from the factory site. One person was killed and nine injured in rioting between guards and laborers, according to the official version.

LOW CLASS OF "FENCE-HOPPERS"

One of the sidelights on the Belleville Fair picked up by The Ontario Intelligencer's reporter aroused our interest, and fire.

We refer to the item reporting that "special police" posted by the Fair Board to apprehend "fence-jumpers", had been doing a splendid job.

Now we are not going to raise our hands in horror at the mere thought of anybody trying to hop the fence. Most of us, we suspect, have done just that in our younger days. What annoyed us was the discovery that 41 "fence-hoppers" had been taken to the secretary's office by one special constable and that they had contributed $20.50 to the fair's exchequer. Since the admission fee was 50 cents, this means that each and every one of these would-be free-loaders had enough money to pay his way into the fair. Futhermore, we understand that few, if any, of these "fence-hoppers" were children.

We can understand a person lacking the price of admission hopping a fence. We can even understand a youngster with a yen for a midway junket and a half dollar keeping his pocket-money for the rides and sideshows and scaling the fence. But when every one of 41 persons, mostly adults or young adults, has the required half dollar, the suspicion lingers that a large percentage of them hopped the fence merely from a desire to obtain something for nothing. Perhaps "fence-hopping" is the same as theft in any case, but we would argue the case for some classes of "fence-hoppers". We, though, for the time with money who tries to cheat the Fair Board of its just due.

LABOR COUNCIL GIVES ADVICE

We note with surprise that the Toronto and District Labor Council has urged the city to pay a $41,000 judgment and court costs levelled against former mayor Allan Lamport in a libel case.

We should have been just as surprised if the Labor Council had urged the city not to make this payment.

Labor councils frequently voice views on questions of public policy, and almost as frequently are roundly criticized for such expressions of opinion. In the majority of cases the labor councils are right in expressing their views, although not necessarily right in the views expressed. In many controversies, though, one will find either a clear-cut matter of principle involved, or the interests of that group for which labor councils speak directly involved. In this Lamport case, though, neither of these conditions exists. There is obviously no direct bearing between the libel judgment against Mr. Lamport and the rights or privileges of organized labor. As for a question of principle, if one exists it is certainly not a point that Toronto's citizens have shown a sharp cleavage of opinion and we would be surprised if this cleavage did not exist amongst the ranks of organized labor. In other words, when the labor council recommends that the city pay the judgment, it is making a recommendation which is probably contrary to the private opinion of a large majority, if not a small majority, of the people it represents.

It is fairly obvious that the Labor Council's resolution stems from the fact that Controller Ford Brand, a Labor man, is one of the two members of the five-man Toronto Board of Control who favors this payment. This seems to us to illustrate a dangerous possibility in regarding members of municipal councils as spokesmen for this or that particular group. Either they will find themselves blocked from using their own best judgment on controversial issues, parroting the opinions of the groups they are considered to represent or, as in this case, a decision may be saddled with a decision originally reached by one member of it, the group's representative on the council.

BRIDGE TROUBLES

The Vancouver Sun says traffic over the beautiful Lions Gate suspension bridge, joining Stanley Park and North and West Vancouver, has totalled 10,400,000 vehicles per year since 1953.

This means that cars and trucks whiz across the bridge, day and night, at the rate of one vehicle every three seconds. City engineers are concerned with the growing traffic congestion on the three-lane bridge and already a second bridge, several miles east across the Second Narrows, is being built.

We can localize this story by asking ourselves how many cars and trucks each year use the antiquated, two-lane bridge across the Trent River in Trenton. Engineers recommended and townsfolk want a new or a second bridge built across the Trent to relieve the five o'clock traffic from the air station and factories on the east side of the river. Unfortunately for motorists passing through Trenton, the old bridge is still there and plans for the erection of a new one have not been announced.

It will be interesting to watch the progress of traffic on Highway No. 2 as the years go by and more people have cars. Something will definitely have to be done to "assist" the Trent River bridge. The new Highway 401 is not going to eliminate all the traffic through the town of Trenton.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

August 19th., 1937

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Andrews and little daughter, Marilyn, have returned to the city after spending a vacation in Port Arthur and Sarnia.

Mr. H. Vernon Clarke, M.A., B. Paed., son of school inspector H. J. Clarke, B.A., Foster Avenue, has been informed by the Department of Education, Toronto, that he has passed the required examinations making him eligible for appointment to the position of a public school inspector should he desire at some time to seek such a position.

Miss Margaret Lee, member of the staff of St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, is spending her vacation here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Lee, Bridge Street east.

Mr. Franklin Lang of the Bank of Montreal staff at Niagara Falls, Ontario, is spending his vacation here with his parents at their home on Catherine Street.

Mr. Ralph Ashton of North Bay is spending his vacation at his home here.

30 YEARS AGO

August 19th., 1927

Messrs. Charles E. Hanna, Harry Stock and Hope McGinnis spent yesterday in Sidney township assisting in putting up posters advertising the Belleville Fair.

Mr. Fred W. Duckworth, a former employee of local newspaper offices, is here on a visit to relatives. For some time he has been living in New York City and is an employee of the New York Evening Journal.

Mrs. Charles Spaulding and daughter, Winifred, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Burrows, Bridge Street east.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wheatley have returned home from the Maritime Provinces where they spent a vacation.

From our files copy, at this time in 1897; Mr. John W. Lonsdale, who has been associated with the Daily Intelligencer for many years, has purchased the book store business which has been successfully conducted for some time by Miss Carrie Martin. Mr. London will take possession August 20th.

Change View About Seaway

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

Among the most bitter foes of the St. Lawrence seaway project were many major United States railroads, particularly those with important services in the north part of the country. They fought the project tooth and nail, and in some of their more dramatic moments predicted the collapse of the rail transportation system in the country if the seaway were completed. Now, reports The Milwaukee Journal, some of the railroads are beginning to think the seaway may not be such a bad thing after all. A publication called "The Railway Age," intended for those in industry, said that the view of most railroads today is that it is too early to tell for sure what effect the seaway will have on their futures. However, many of them are starting to show some enthusiasm for the project's ability to bring new business as a result of the seaway.

The railroads are beginning to realize that the seaway means industrial development in the area, and where there is industrial development there is business for the railroads. They will lose some bulk cargoes, to be sure, but they also will have great quantities of higher class freight to haul, which the railroads want. The magazine says "The prospect of picking up industrial plants on the fringes of the seaway, has, in fact, railroad men in many roads both east and west."

United States railroads, which are particularly solidly blind to this feature of the seaway for the present, are coming around to the attitude that has long been accepted by Canadian railroads. It would be silly to say that railroad men in Canada have been enthusiastic about seaway, or at least its short term effects. The late president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, remarked just a few weeks ago that the seaway was probably going to mean a substantial loss to the railroads. But, like Bell with both railroads, top management has been far-sighted enough to see that in the long run, the seaway means industrial expansion and that means good business for the rail lines.

When you get right down to it, the attitude of the U.S. railroads was amazingly shortsighted. Take the St. Lawrence that has gone through its major period of growth, the big firms with immense amounts of money tied up in capital equipment and transportation in Canada, where there is still plenty of room to grow and everyone knows it, the railroads realize that anything that is good for the country generally will be good for the railroads.

Husband Best Buy

Toronto Financial Post

Widow who recently consulted a broker got some useful and original advice. She's in her early 40's, her children have grown up and the mortgage on the house is nearly paid off.

Total amount of her husband's life insurance and her savings: $40,000. How should she invest it?

Broker said she could be sure of $1,500 to $1,700 a year from conservative bonds. He went on to prove this figure by putting part of the money in high-grade corporate stocks.

This still didn't look like prosperity to the lady.

"In that case," said the broker, "I have a notion that you drop one of the stock buys I mentioned, get a wardrobe of new clothes and go out and find yourself a new husband."

Excellent advice, too, for nearly every woman in that position.

Radar Lines Open up North

Montreal Gazette

Only two weeks ago, it was announced the the DEW (Distant Early Warning) radar line was completed and going into operation. Already, there have been statements that the range and accuracy of radar installations are being extended considerably by the co-operation of research and industry.

Such research is only the initial part of electronic defence. The enemy builds counter-measures. The defender builds counter-counter-measures.

If an invader carries an anti-radar device, then the defender must be equipped with a device which counters the anti-radar device.

To be really confident, then, that a radar screen is intact, the operator of the screen must be able to see, on the face of the screen, the devices to baffle it; only from these devices can the trained eye of the second line of defence, the counter-counter-measures.

All of this seems very complicated. But it is work that goes on every day, in the electronics plants of the civilized world. And it isn't nearly as complicated as it sounds.

Radar screens, across the Canadian North, for instance, are built to accommodate all the super electronic devices that are not yet in use. When other kind of chronic (a year or more in duration) joint disability is there to work upon?

My reproving colleagues often say, in this connection, that "You are correct in stating that the arthritic and rheumatic people is one associated with a degenerating or aging process affecting the whole organism."

My colleague is wrong in assuming I said and printed that. I put his own words in my mouth. Come hell or high water — and a hundred years ago the leading physicians — are hopelessly committed and they must isn't it?

Hire Orphans As Workers

Hamilton Spectator

A news item tells us there is a shortage in the Italian Parliament to put an end to the practice of hiring orphans to weep at funerals.

In central and southern Italy the ancient practice of hiring out an orphange for "professional weepers" and having miserable little children dressed in mock grief they don't feel still persists.

All nations have distorted customs that strike strangers as grotesque. In Dictension England it was quite common for an employe for a shilling or two, "mutes," to march in front of funeral pictures who loitered around the undertakers' yards waiting to be prepared to walk, head down, pipe hat pressed to chest, in the train of the corpse.

The greater the number of mutes, the greater the supposed respectability of the deceased.

In some Asian countries, the wailing of the professional mourning women is also a big business in a good deal of play-acting — in a sign there is death in a house. Paid by the hour as a rule, they cease immediately their time has run out, but begin again promptly when more cash is produced.

Italian orphanages often lack funds and the 2,000 lire (about $3.20) which children receive for their professional tears helps to maintain them. Tommy Tucker may be singing for his supper, but it seems shameful that those whose children should have to weep for theirs.

TRUE TOLERATION

We read in the one hundred and third Psalm that God knows our frame and remembers that we are dust.

Do you ever lose patience with the world about you and wonder how God suffers the infamy of man to continue? This utter contentment is natural. All of us have at times. We have but to very decidedly God does not have it. With His infinite love, with His full understanding, and with His mercy that is wide as the sea, God remembers that we are dust.

And since this is true it should, when We think about it fill us with a deep sense of gratitude to God for His mercy. Also it should make us tolerant of others and kinder and more understanding in our dealings with them. Since God remembers that we are dust, let us remember that those about us are dust also. Let us not in demand our pound of flesh. Let us not cry vengeance upon them, since God in His mercy so often refrains from taking vengence on us.

Tolerance does not mean toleration of sin. Toleration at its best means an understanding of human weakness. Kindly attitude toward those who have fallen as we so often have fallen. God in His mercy remembers us all in our low estate.

SAVE AND PAY

The most comfortable feeling in the world is to be able to say that you do not owe another person, or organization, anything. This state can be reached solely by saving a regular amount each week from earnings and putting it into a savings bank. It will bless you more than you can imagine if you have never done this.

Get the idea out of your head that the government is going to take care of you. Bear, this in mind: You are the government. We all are. The government gives to the thrifty a nice boost when they get into their later years, but it is what You have saved, or invested, that is sure to count most, and most happily. Keep saving, and pay as you go, or don't go!

You will cheerfully pay your bills when you know you have money saved for that purpose. You will feel like a distinguished Somebody when you refuse to go into debt, and pay your obligations promptly as they come due. I once knew an interesting man who had become very wealthy, but who started out as a boy putting aside ten cents each week. When you put your savings into a bank, or invest them in a good security, that money then starts to work for you—and it works for you while you sleep, play, or travel about. Do this and your old age will be a kindly and pleasant one. Unworried people bless themselves.

Save, and always be ahead, so that you can pay your obligations promptly. Credit is a courtesy. Do not abuse it, or allow it to become cold. I recall hearing that a certain minister used to borrow ten dollars every Saturday, from a member of his congregation, and promptly repaid him the following Monday. He said he did this because he preached a better sermon with money in his pocket. He should have saved, and then it would have been self helping self!

I think if one man dared to say,

Nor seek the office for the pay
Nor barter what is right for votes,

"For friends forget about the laws,"
When first he ran 'tis likely he,
With self-success below the cause,
Would by a large vote chosen be.

But, if he stayed an honest man
And kept his word, beyond a doubt
If for a second term he ran
Even his friends might vote him out.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Quaint Old Doctor Osler

A medical colleague who is on the staff of a large hospital's "arthritis clinic" writes:

"Please do not introduce any new terms. We have enough trouble teaching interns, nurses and residents the old ones. As a matter of fact my impression is never used as a diagnosis any more because it does not describe either a pathological or a pathological lesion.

(. . . . M. D.)

Maybe it is clear enough to interns and residents, but I confess I can't understand how an anatomical lesion would differ from a pathological one.

The doctor then describes what he calls chronic arthritis of the degenerative type, "more properly called an arthritosis."

This type, my eye! Classifying cases of rheumatic — that is, degeneration of joint tissues — by "types" is just pretentious skullduggery practised by doctors who don't really know what ails the patient.

Introduce new terms?

I'm trying to abandon just one term — rheumatic, for degenerative or chronic arthritis. This one word identifies 95% of all chronic joint disability. The other five per cent are due to some damage by injury or strain — which call for surgical or orthopedic treatment; and comparatively rare cases of specific infection which may be called arthritis. That's all — rheumatic, trauma and "type" of arthritis. What the other kind of chronic (a year or more in duration) joint disability is there to work upon?

My reproving colleagues often say, in this connection, that "You are correct in stating that the arthritic and rheumatic people is one associated with a degenerating or aging process affecting the whole organism."

My colleague is wrong in assuming I said and printed that. I put his own words in my mouth. Come hell or high water — and a hundred years ago the leading physicians — are hopelessly committed and they must isn't it?

Parents are prejudiced. On no occasion does this become more manifest than on mother's day. That is the occasion of most regrets at summer conventions of Mothers' Associations, or another date, that will be the occasion for the condemnation.

Prejudice appears to be greatest in inverse ratio to the age of the children. From my own observation, children between the ages of five and eight inspire the most intense manifestations of prejudice in their parents. For example, little girls of around seven, who come last in swimming races, who grow rose such in the garden, and especially their grandparents, that the passion is practically lethal them. The poor souls do not merely imagine their fondlings are the first, or at least second, but are convinced of it. And the way they rush up to the finishing line to greet and accuse them of malfeasance, fraud, swindling and denial of right dazzling is the reason so many summer seasons grow cool, and why the weather, towards the latter weeks.

Of course, when six or seven little girls and boys are furiously milling in the water over distance swimming, it is not at all a little difficult, even for the most upright of volunteer regatta judges, to spot definitely who arrived first; for they do not arrive at the same place. They arrive more or less at the goal; and judges should be selected accordingly.

Older children are capable of judging fairly, even by eyes of grandparents. By the time they are sixteen, they have lost the prejudice that is the fond hope of parents and grandparents blind.

Serving as a judge at a regatta, especially for the younger events, is a thankless job, and it is a wonder anybody can be found to serve, other than strangers to the scene. Nobody but hardened cases, without any friends, let alone nephews and nieces, should be elected to serve.

But no matter who serves, regatta day is said to be the final explosion of all the pent up and politely restrained prejudice that accumulates during the summer season. It is the blow off. For the balance of the season, should can come back down to earth, in preparation for the winter when the ice cool realities of city life. The geniality and warmth of the season which has been characterized the front half of the year are now stilled. The regatta is the catalyst. Everybody can be mad at everybody else, now. All the wrong children, wrong gets, to spot definitely who arrived first; for they do not arrive at the same place. They arrive more or less at the goal; and judges should be selected accordingly.

Peter V. Boach is a farmer in Rugby, N.D., and a stubborn one, at that. On May 6, 1955, one of his cows was injured while receiving a standard government vaccination. He has been trying to collect for that cow ever since. The Senate twice passed a bill to remunerate Boach to the extent of $175 for the cow. The House sidetracked the bill both times. Now the Senate has passed it for the third time and this time the House went along. Boach will get cow money unless President Eisenhower exercises the veto.

Congressional clerk's estimated the cost of printing the various bills and reports on the matter has exceeded the cost of the cow.

W.I. Enjoys Interesting N.Y. Travelogue

ROSLIN — The August meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Arthur Bates with around 30 present.

The president, Mrs. Don Chisholm, presided. This was "Grandmothers Meeting." The roll call was answered with "What Grandmother had that I Haven't."

The secretary, Mrs. William Bates, read the minutes and financial statement. Correspondence included letters of thanks from the treasurers of the three local cemeteries for cheques of $20 from the recent dinner.

Garden club achievement days will be held in Stirling on August 21 and in Madoc on August 22.

The leader, Mrs. Leslie, conducted the program and gave a paper on the motto, "Let's Come Together and Be Merry."

Miss Margaret Bates favored with two violin selections, accompanied by Mrs. A. Bates at the piano. Mrs. K. Sharpe gave a reading, "Wee Grandma," and a poem, "Down to Grandma's."

The guest speaker, Miss Getha Joslin of Foxboro, was introduced and gave an interesting travelogue with slides of her trip to Washington and New York.

The trip was sponsored by the department and was an award for outstanding work in the 4-H Club work in the county.

She said Washington was a very clean city; a large number of the buildings are of white marble, and as there are no factories or smoke, they stay clean. She also showed pictures of the White House, the home of the presidents; a number of monuments and war memorials and the famous cherry trees in blossom, on others.

She enjoyed the scenic beauty of the Potomac River, the city of New York by night, with its myriads of colored lights, the Empire State Building and the skyline.

Of course, the highlight of the trip was the United Nations Building, with views inside and out. Miss Joslin explained how debate is carried on and how different delegates can adjust a microphone to their own language and it is interpreted so they can understand what is being said at the time.

Pictures of the Pentagon were also shown, with explanations. It is a complete city in itself, and it is where civil defence is planned. Another picture of interest was the Little Church Around the Corner. She mentioned that there is one street in N.Y. where the sun never shines because of the way the buildings are built, it can't get in.

She missed the green grass. Playgrounds are paved courtyards, and roof tops. Live cattle are taken by trucks to the different schools so children can see them.

Mrs. M. Fargey gave a paper on "Little Courtesies Worth Knowing."

Mrs. Carman Bailey gave an interesting account of girls 4-H Club work achievement day. At present there is no girls' club here and a number from here have been attending the "Chapman Chums" Club.

Prizes were given to the oldest and youngest grandmothers present, Mrs. D. Leslie and Mrs. F. Meeks.

Thanks were extended by the president, to the guest speaker,

POLICE ON THE JOB AS BOOKIES

When police raided an alleged bookie joint in San Francisco Calif., they "took over" literally. They moved so fast that while suspect Thomas Sullivan left, listened glumly, Police Inspector Robert Martin answered the phone and recorded a number of bets placed by unsuspecting clients.

Miss Joslin; to the hostess, Mrs. Bates, and to all others who had assisted with the program.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants, and a social time was enjoyed.

Want Immigrants To Arrive at Canadian Ports

OTTAWA (CP) — Transatlantic shipping companies have been warned by the Canadian immigration department that they may lose immigration business unless they disembark most Canada-bound immigrants at Canadian ports.

The warning followed protests from the Halifax port commission about the number of Canada-bound immigrants landing at New York. This takes shipping business away from Halifax.

W. R. Baskerville, acting director of immigration, wrote the foreign shipping companies July 24, asking them to stop disembarking large groups of Canada-bound immigrants at United States ports.

The letter said that if the situation doesn't improve, the immigration department will recommend to the cabinet that Canada not accept immigrants who break their journey by going through the U.S.

The letter said Canadian immigration offices at U.S. border points are not staffed to handle large groups of immigrants arriving by train or bus from New York.

Present at the ceremony besides the congregation were two parents, three brothers and two sisters, a grandmother, Mrs. Clayton B. Hamm, a cousin, Mr. Peter L. Johnston, and great-aunts, the Misses Bessie and Annie Fleming, Ivanhoe, who were guest organist and soloist respectively.

Carmel W.I. Enjoys Picnic at O'Hara Mill

Carmel W. I. members held their annual picnic recently at the official opening of the restored O'Hara mill near Madoc, and seemed to these ladies a wonderful past time and opportunity to share in the history of Hastings County.

The Hon. W. M. Nickle Q.C., minister of Planning and Development, addressed some 300 people. He paid tribute to the late Col. Vanderwater whose dream it was to see the restoration of this mill completed. He also complimented Field Officer, M. Chubb and Bruce Smith, for their co-operation for the contribution to Ontario.

Many others took part in the program including, Mr. Richardson, chief engineer, Mr. Sager Reeve of Madoc, Warden McLean of Hastings, Warden Wagar of Lennox and Addington, R. Robson, M.P.P., of Hastings East and Reeve Graham, of Tweed.

Mr. Nickle called on everyone to give to those who are willing to serve. He was referring to the capable, enthusiastic and co-operative officers of the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Piles of lumber have been moved and replaced by picnic tables and barbecues. It was a day well spent and much was learned by the group who shared in the outing.

MONTGOMERY — McCORMICK

Tall white standards of white gladioli, interspersed with ferns, and candelabra, formed a beautiful setting in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, for a lovely wedding on Saturday, August 15, at 3.00 p.m. when Elinor Marguerite McCormick, of Belleville, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ernest McCormick, became the bride of Douglas Wilson Montgomery, of Montreal, Quebec, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Nathan Montgomery, of Valleyfield, Quebec. The Rev. R. A. Rowley, B. A. pastor of Tabernacle United Church, assisted by the Rev. A. Pellettier, of Valleyfield, Quebec, officiated.

Mr. Charles Allen, of Peterborough, guest organist, presided at console of organ, and accompanied Miss Leona Riggs, of Belleville, soloist, in her rendition of "The Lord's Prayer" during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Edward D. McCormick, of Port Credit, Ontario, was charming as her white organza bridal gown over white taffeta featuring a double tiered, organza, bouffant skirt with chapel train appliqued with lace and seed pearls. The molded bodice was fashioned with a scoop neckline, outlined with appliqued lace and seed pearls, and the short sleeves were complemented by elbow-length white, kid gloves. Her full length veil of nylon tulle was held by a headband of white satin ribbon and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and white gardenias, with knotted white satin ribbon. A single-strand of pearls completed her ensemble.

She was attended by Miss Frances Jean Fiskie, of Belleville, as maid of honor, and by Miss Sherrill Dowd, of Montreal, and Mrs. John (Lucy) Stephenson of Montreal, as bridesmaids. All were gowned in blue organza over white organza with large, natural straw, picture hats and carrying baskets of yellow Shasta 'mums.

Mr. William J. McCormick, of Belleville, brother of the bride, attended the bridegroom; while Messrs. David Gregory, of Sherbrooke, Quebec, Paul Dingle, and Robert Hunter, both of Montreal, Quebec; and Melbourne Cronshaw, of Valleyfield, Quebec, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Ackerman Hall, Albert College, Belleville, which was prettily decorated with tall standards of white and pink gladioli. The guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing grey organza over taffeta

Women's Institutes

Girls W. I. Club

RYLSTONE — On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Don Kerr, leader of the Girl's W.I. Club was hostess, when a good crowd of ladies and girls was in attendance. Mrs. Mary Kerr, Institute president, was in charge of the business part of the meeting. Correspondence was read, among which were several thank you notes and an invitation to attend the 40th wedding anniversary of a former member and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rutherford, on Thursday of last week, at their home in Campbellford.

It was decided to buy enough silver spoons to bring the Club Girls up to date, for fulfilling their projects. Those who received spoons at this meeting were: Marina Wright; Joan Watson and Earline Kerr. The rest of the girls will receive a different pattern at a later date.

Mrs. Thomas Campbell, Girls' leader, from Seymour West, gave an interesting and inspiring address on club work.

The balance of the program was under the convenorship of the assistant Girls' Club leader Mrs. Fred Akins, and was as follows — piano solos "Minuet" by Patsy Spencer and "The Bat", by Donald Kerr. An especially good account of the 4-H Club bus trip to Niagara Falls was given by Agnes McKeown; piano solo "Mocking Bird Hill", and "You Are My Sunshine" by Beverly Linn, and "Rhapaz Band", by Norma Tinney.

The cotton slips and record books, prepared by the Club Girls' "The Tidy Tillers", during the past year, were displayed; also dresses, blouses and pillow slips, made in the sewing project by the Girls' Club members now entering high school.

Mrs. Fred Barnum voiced the thanks, of all, to the girls for their splendid program and display.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her lunch committee.

The Women's Association of Rylstone United Church, held a cooking sale and farmers' market at the Woodland estate, summer resort, at Healey Falls, on Wednesday afternoon.

Several members of Rylstone Women's Institute were guests of the Seymour East Women's Institute, at the Institute Hall, Menie, on Wednesday afternoon, when they held an afternoon tea.

Smart Separates

By GRACE THORNCLIFF

Here is a brace of smart separates that combine to form a delightful dress, both pieces of rayon crepe, in red royal or navy blue. The blouse is softly feminine with a shallow scooped neckline and flowing sleeves caught into snug bands. The peg-top skirt has unpressed pleats from the waistline that disappear toward the hem. The blouse can be worn with a matching pleated skirt, also.

Community Concert Has Fine Program

On Sunday evening, Rylstone Women's Institute held its third community concert of the season, at Crowe River Bridge Picnic grounds, with a very good attendance.

Though a band could not be procured for this concert, it was much enjoyed, although the program was a bit shorter than usual. Mrs. Stanley Kerr, president of the Institute extended a warm welcome to all, which was also extended by Mrs. Bourne operator of the picnic grounds. Mrs. Lindsay Anderson, convener for Community Activities and Public Relations, was master of ceremonies for the following program:

Community singing — "Come to the Church in the Wildwood", "What a Friend We Have in Jesus", and "Tell Me The Old, Old Story"; vocal solo "Bless This House," and encore "Smile on Thru" by Don Baldwin of Healey Falls, with organ accompaniment by Mrs. B. Barnum of Campbellford. Piano accordion solos "Cohen's Weight" and "Memories" by Mrs. Bruce Barnum, of Campbellford; vocal solo — "Saviour of Galilee," by Eileen McKelvie of Seymour West, accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Don Rutherford, of Seymour West; community singing — "Beneath the Cross of Jesus," "Day is Dying in the West", and "Stand up Stand up, Onward"; vocal duet — "Only if You Praise the Lord", and "Mansion Just Over The Hill-Top" by the McMullen sisters, Muriel and Shirley of Spring Brook; vocal solo — "Give Us This Day", and "Faith of Our Fathers," by Catherine McKeown and Shirley Burkitt, of 12th line; chorus by the 12th line choir conducted by their teacher, Mrs. Ward McInroy, "My Redeemer," "Mansion Over the Hilltop" and "Only If You Praise the Lord."

The neat and final concert of the summer will be held at Crowe River Bridge on Sunday evening August, the 25th. It is expected that Campbellford Citizens' Band will be in attendance, and a good program of numbers from all the surrounding communities will close the season with "Neighbor's Night." If your community is silent, the committee would be pleased to welcome them on this program.

Graceful Dress

By VERA WINSTON

Cut on classic lines is this eminently wearable summer dress in black or navy blue sheer crepe. The bodice has a simple melon neck onto which the cowl scarf buttons. This can hang as a cascade in back or can be draped around the shoulders, which makes it a versatile style. The skirt is composed of multiple box pleats. A good choice for the travel-light voyager since it can appear at the theatre, at a party in the afternoon or evening, at an informal dinner and always looks at its best.

Women's Activities

CENTENARY W.A.

CENTENARY— The members of Centenary Women's Association met in the church hall recently. Mrs. M. Nobes opened the meeting and the roll call was answered by 17 members and there were two visitors. A letter of thanks was read from the Roslcrucian Society for the catering at the banquet held.

It was announced that the fall rally of the West Hastings Women's Associations is to be held in Centenary Church in October.

Mrs. Ray Hagerman read that Mrs. Fred Aikens, Mrs. Reg. Edmondson, Mrs. M. Nobes and Mrs. G. Sills should be a nominating committee in time for a new slate of officers for the November meeting. This motion was seconded by Mrs. Roy Thrasher.

CENTENARY W.M.S.

The August meeting of Centenary W.M.S. was held in the church hall with Mrs. Byron Harder, vice-president, in charge of the meeting. During the business period it was moved by Mrs. M. Nobes that the new study book on Japan be ordered. Invitations to the neighboring societies to be sent out for the autumn thank-offering meeting September 26. Plans are being made for the entertainment of several women from the county home on an afternoon late in August.

Mrs. Skinkle opened the program with hymn singing. Mrs. R. Hart led in prayer and Mrs. R. Hart read the Scripture lesson from Acts 28: 3-21.

Mrs. R. Edmondson gave a reading, "Return to Living", and Mrs. Skinkle gave an account of the United Nation's assistance program. Mrs. F. Aikens gave a reading. The meeting was closed with a hymn followed by prayer.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. G. Sills and her group and a social half-hour enjoyed by all.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE SHOULD BE A LANDLADY AND A GAY ONE

N. Y. has come to a point in her life when she thinks she must choose between being "a wife or a landlady."

It seems that her husband has announced that he will stay in their home only "as a roomer."

"My husband spends his leisure hours in another woman's company," her letter says. "We had been married over 30 years when he discarded me and the sweet life we lived to take up the sinful life. I have never neglected him in any way nor given him any cause to seek the company of another.

"I feel so helpless and forsaken. Although he's good to me, this doesn't adjust the trouble. No woman is fair for her companion to keep company with a don't-care person. I don't want to give him up, so I'm asking your advice.

What I be a wife or a landlord? Should I treat him as a husband or a roomer?"

Well, since Mrs. Y. and her husband had been married over 30 years when he began philandering, the chances are that this is a case of a middle-aged man suddenly realizing that youth is gone and old age not too far off. So, in a desperate attempt to recapture something of the feeling of youth, he shakes his settled middle-aged ills and goes out in search of what he believes to be youthful adventure.

Since, again, the couple was apparently happily married, the wife having spoken of "the sweet life we lived," it is probable that in time, middle age will reassert itself and he will tire of his simulated youthful chase. Then he'll think kindly again of the comfortable arrangement by the fireside, or by a television, as the case may be, and return home in triumph as well as in physical presence, and want everything to be just as it was before. There is no doubt, that he will be welcome at home on that basis and that his wife will be so glad to have him back that she will give him no hard time about his amorous interlude.

Since Mrs. Y. states that she doesn't want to give her husband up, he may be right about this. But the question is, what role shall she play in the meantime — that of wife or landlady?

What I think is that she should not only accept the role of landlady, but play it for all it's worth.

In other words, I urge her to go in actively for all the outside interests she possibly can, so that she will be in the house as little as possible. Let her get herself some smart new clothes, visit a beauty parlor, restyle her locks so that she'll be one of the best-turned-out middle-aged women in town. Let her devote herself to both the social life and the useful life in her community, dividing her time between activities which will be pure enjoyment with her friends and others that will be of practical help in community work.

If her husband wishes to be a "roomer," he has no business to resolve what the "landlady" is doing with her time, nor has he any right to complain if she spends most of it away from the house, so long as his room is kept in order. Moreover, a mere "roomer" is not a boarder, too, so he has no right to demand that he be fed. Let him eat his meals out and satisfy come to his room as he wishes, at other roomers do.

If Mrs. Y. will give up any arguing and reasoning she may be doing, quietly adopt such a plan, and be as agreeable and gracious, but no more, as a landlady should be on occasions when she happens to see her roomer the returning wanderer may come about more quickly than now seems possible.

Has she the strength of character and the good common sense to do this?

If you slice watermelon on a large tray, the job will not be so untidy, with seeds all over the kitchen.

Union of U.C. Women's Groups Into One Organization Planned

Writing in the Toronto Globe and Mail, reporter Jane Baker has graphically described the proposed integration of the women's groups in The United Church of Canada.

Miss Baker writes "Women of The United Church of Canada contemplating integration in one church organization may be paying the way to a striking change in the order of the Christian Church in Canada. With their goal the complete unity of men's work and women's work in the total work of their church, success in their venture may be followed by integration of work in other churches.

Chiefly concerned are the Woman's Missionary Society and the Woman's Association, although all women's groups will be included. But, for WMS and WA, the move will spell finis to an ever-increasing over-lapping in membership and effort. For these two groups, widely differing in purpose at church union, have spanned a broad gulf over the years so that, today, their main interests are identical.

Nothing else points up this fact so sharply as the proposed merging of WA to WMS work, indicating that the women's work and responsibility to the church's total program. Included in WA contributions to the $42,000 for the WMS and $72,000 to the Missionary and Maintenance Fund.

At the 1956 United Church General Council, the principle of one women's organization was approved. A commission, was set up to study what was involved, prepare a constitution and make recommendations. It included representatives of the Dominion Board, WMS; Dominion Council, WA; the Men and Women on the Deaconess Order and Women Workers; and women members of the policy committee. From each of the 11 conferences are one WA and one WMS member as well as one minister.

Four subcommittees were appointed to work out the constitution with specific regards to finance, Christian education, home and overseas missions and community service projects such as the recent aid to Hungarian refugees. A fifth committee program and final constitution, is being set up.

Chief values of the WMS to be retained in the order of things to come are the study of the church's mission and direct responsibility in leading, appointing and maintaining missionary personnel. The United Church is dependent on two budgets for its missionary work, that of the missionary and maintenance department and money raised and administered by the WMS.

From the WA offices will still come the personal interest that organization has always taken in local congregations, needs of the community's people, care of the manse, the minister and his family, and the constantly growing need of church extension on the home front.

The work at Dominion headquarters of either WMS or WA is evidence that neither must be drastically changed a move which could be chaotic in result. Rather, there must be a gradual growing together of the two bodies as well as in single congregations.

The Board of Evangelism United Church officials feel that in combining their efforts, and age group interests will overlap, there is an even broader scope for helpful interests and activities in their churches, communities and homes.

It is expected the new organizations will come into being about two years after Confederation was instituted by the 1958 General Council.

United Church women are beginning to meet and work, study and pray together so that their work will be better understood by all. More than ever they are realizing their sense of community responsibility and fellowship in Christian women, their concern for the local church and the deeper, more spiritual problems of Christianity.

"They must be," says Dr. Long, "willing to support not only local church activities but also those of the church throughout the world."

Charming Head Hugger

By TRACY ADRIAN

This flattering hat is perfect for wear with the first autumn costume and is versatile enough to go through the day and right on to cocktails and an informal dinner date.

It is a close-fitting cuff made of clipped iridescent coq plumage in a warm brown-brown tone known as "Town Brown." The shapeau is topped with a shirred tip of matching brown satin.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

A "BEAUTY DAY" FOR THE HOMEMAKER

"Time out" for a beauty routine pays big dividends to the busy homemaker.

Even the most enthusiastic of homemakers experiences days when chores "get her down." And why not? The monotony of routine . . . making beds, washing dishes, cooking meals, feeding the kids . . . can be mighty wearing at times. And a woman's nerves would have to be constructed of steel if they didn't give way once in awhile. If you have days like this, why not "skip them," figuratively speaking. That is to say, let the housework go for a change and devote a day to yourself. Give yourself the full beauty treatment instead. You'll be surprised at what it will do for your morale.

As soon as your family clears out in the morning, get to work on you. Take a nice relaxing bath — plenty of suds and some fragrant bath oil, bubbles or crystals to make the rite a glamorous one. Relax in the tub while you catch up on that magazine story you never had time to finish.

Next comes a shampoo. Add a few drops of cologne to the last rinse so that your hair will be as fragrant as your body. When you set curls, experiment with a few different ways of arranging your coiffure. If you don't wear bangs, try them. If you do, comb your tresses back. The idea is to try something . . . anything . . . as long as it's new.

Once your hair has been set to your satisfaction, give yourself a facial. If you don't happen to have a commercially prepared mask on hand, you can whip one up yourself — for practically nothing. A simple one for giving a velvety texture to the skin is made by combining the rich top cream of the milk with almond meal. Bring the mixture to the consistency of whipped cream, spread over your face and throat and leave it on until it begins to flake.

Make the drying process a period of relaxation, too. If you can catch forty winks, fine and dandy. Or you may prefer the idea of your reading again. In any case, after the mask has dried, remove it with tepid water, dry with gentle pats, apply your foundation and you are ready for make-up.

Take time for a complete manicure, and a pedicure, too. You'll feel like a real glamour girl — from the top of your curly head to the tips of your dainty toes. And what's better for a woman's morale?

Mother's Helper

WHAT'S PRETTIER than a nosegay? Make one with a bunch of small lollipops stuck through a lace paper doily, tied with generous loops of ribbon around the sticks. Little ones are nice for the children's table — and the table very gay. Good cheer-up present for a convalescent, too.

Thrifty Cooking

By Mary Moore

"Sometimes when I'm here mother, I think you are a moneyextravagant cook. Then at other times I think you are thrifty. Just what kind of a cook are you?" "I'm both. My work requires me to be."

This morning if Marianne were at home she would see me in my thrifty guise. Last night being a holiday we had a crowd here that grew from three to seven to ten and I had not planned or bought for so many, and the stores were closed. I had ½ lbs. each of wieners and hamburg meat, a 5-lb. beef roast that had been sliced from hot the night before for us. I had one un-iced layer from a 2-layer chocolate cake, and a 10c box of Duchess apples, and a generous quart of green beans. So after taking careful stock I made both wiener-shaped and hamburger-shaped buns, but had only one package of yeast to do it with. They were much less expensive than bought ones or hamburg buns. (See below.) At the drug store I bought ice cream. From there in it was smooth sailing for I made potato salad and sliced some tomatoes, and Pete and Danny lit the barbecue fire in the garden and set the table.

From what was a slim beginning for so many, we had leftovers (reminded me of feeding the five thousand), so the next morning with the beef bone I made soup. Every housewife with 4 people or more should be soup conscious for it gives the cook an opportunity to use up her vegetable waters and coarse outer vegetable leaves and dibs and dabs of leftover meat and salads and vegetables.

SUMMER'S HOMEMADE SOUP

One roast beef bone, 1 quart or more of cold water, 2 beef or chicken bouillon cubes, 2 tablespoons each rice, barley, macaroni alphabets, small dry limas or white beans, lentils; 1 shredded cabbage, cup each chopped celery tops and parsley, 1 or 2 tomatoes peeled and chopped, 1 large chopped onion or ½ teaspoon onion salt, 1 teaspoon each salt and sugar, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 bay leaf, and some leftover green beans. I boiled it until lunchtime, filled out the bone and had just enough for a generous chowder and I package of Dinner Menus

HOT ROLLS

Scald one cup milk and to it add ½ cup sugar, 2¼ teaspoons salt and 6 tablespoons shortening and let stand until lukewarm. In mixing bowl measure ½ cup lukewarm water, 2 teaspoons sugar and 1 package granular yeast. Do not stir, but let stand 10 minutes, then stir, then add to lukewarm milk mixture. Add also 2 cups sifted flour and beat hard until smooth. Stir in an additional 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour or enough flour. Mix, then turn out on floured board and knead 2 minutes. Return to bowl, cover and let rise until evenly light — it may take 2½ to 3 hours. Punch down dough and knead again and shape into rolls, buns or long rolls or cloverleafs or fan tans. Let rise on greased baking sheet until very light to touch and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. 15 to 18 minutes; 20 minutes for whole wheat buns.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

CHARMING OCCASION TO WELCOME HER SON'S BRIDE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My son is to be married in a distant city and I, who is not from our home town. They are coming directly or after to make their home. I would like to invite a group of friends, approximately 30 or 35, on a Sunday afternoon to meet the bride. Please tell me how I could invite them over and not make them feel that they should present a gift to the newly-wed couple on this occasion. Most of them will be my friends.

2. Also, I would like to know if there should be anything in the way of entertainment. And what refreshments should I serve?

— Thank you

1. This is a charming and gracious gesture for you to make, to ask this group of your intimate friends to come to your home to meet your son's wife, your "new daughter." This kind of bow-of-welcome is quite flattering, and generally the guests have no feeling whatever that they should bring gifts to the newly-wed couple. I think that mentioning the welcoming of the guests, the so-important introductions . . . the delightful procedure of "getting to know this girl very well, very simple sandwiches, perhaps some delicious cookies and cup of coffee; some small cakes or interesting cookies to supplement the wedding cake; nuts and mints perhaps; tea and or coffee.

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN "GIRL" AND "I"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. If John Paul Jones has a son John Paul Jones, is the son's name John Paul Jones, Jr. or John Paul Jones, II?

2. If the grandfather's name was John Paul Jones, but this was not the father's name would the grandson be John Paul Jones, II? — L.A.

1. What one's name is exactly the same as his father's, and his father is living, the son is "Jr." — John Paul Jones, Jr.

2. Yes, II is used after the name of a younger man rather than a son who has the same name as his grandfather, uncle, or other older living relative. Therefore, if John Paul Jones was named after his grandfather's father the grandfather is living, the younger man's name is John Paul Jones, II.

Beach Outfit

By VERA WINSTON

Ever so versatile is this little jacket for we see it at the beach, on cooler days or evenings, on a boat or in the car. A navy band is set in at the shoulder and at the patch pockets of the jacket which is of white cotton. It has a zipper front closing and knit inset. The hood comes from the pull-over blouson worn beneath and it can be dropped to form a cowl collar in back. Navy blue is used for the slim rib-knit slacks. All are interchangeable, but they go so well together that they should never have to live apart!

MUSICAL HARMONY

The octave of any musical note has exactly double the number of vibrations of the lower note.

RECORDS

Not many records are kept for an entire lifetime. The official records of birth and death are kept longer of course, but such records of almost all business enterprises are rarely maintained longer than 10 years.

Among the exceptions are the records kept by insurance companies, PHYSICIANS, OPTICIANS and PHARMACISTS. The absolute need of a PHARMACIST are vital.

In an article recently published in "Better Homes and Gardens", author Donald Cooley tells why:

"Suppose a child swallows a handful of tablets from an old forgotten bottle. Are the tablets harmless or dangerous?

"If there is a prescription number on the bottle, a call to the PHARMACY that dispensed the drug — even many years before — will instantly give the attending DOCTOR the information he needs for emergency treatment."

Yes, the PHARMACIST'S records are kept for a purpose — on the possibility that they may be needed to save a lifetime.

Williams And Mantle, Two Great Sluggers, Taking Aim At .400 Mark

Braves' Lead Cut in National While Yankees Win Twin Bill To up Margin to 7½ Games

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The spectacular battle between Ted Williams of Boston Red Sox and Mickey Mantle of New York Yankees for the American League batting title overshadowed the pennant races today as two great sluggers take dead aim on the elusive .400 mark.

The Yankees stretched their American League lead to 7½ games following a doubleheader sweep over Baltimore Sunday but the baseball spotlight centres around the personal duel between Williams and Mantle.

Mantle had three hits in seven times at bat Sunday as the Yankees defeated Baltimore 7-0 and 3-2 to boost his average to .395. Williams had one hit in four times at bat as Washington defeated Boston 6-5 and his league-leading average dipped a point to .390.

CHANCES BRIGHT

With a little over a month of the season remaining, chances of one or both finishing with .400 are far brighter than they were a month ago when both were hitting about 35 points below their current mark. Not since 1941, when Williams batted .406, has any major leaguer achieved the magic .400.

Should Mantle and Williams continue their torrid pace, it is conceivable that both may reach .400. Since in modern history—both times in American League—only two batters hit .400 the same year. In 1911 Ty Cobb defeated Joe Jackson for the batting title, .420 to .408. In 1922, George Sisler beat Cobb for the title, .420 to .401.

Dick Donovan's eight - hit pitching enabled second place Chicago White Sox to salvage the final game of their four-game set from Detroit 4-1 after Tigers had won the first game of the doubleheader 5-1 behind Frank Lary.

A grand slam homer by Roy Sievers enabled Senators to overcome a 3-0 Boston lead and stretch it two in a row over Red Sox. Cal McLish defeated Cleveland Indians in a 9-2 triumph over Kansas City with a six-hit performance.

Tom Sturdivant's five-hit pitching in the second game of Yankees' doubleheader featured five hits in both games highlighted Yankees' twin victories. Bauer drove in five runs, including all three in the second game. Bob Cerv saved Don Larsen's seventh victory in the nightcap.

Lary, posting his sixth Detroit victory against 15 losses, helped his cause a two-run single that snapped a 1-1 tie and handed Billy Pierce his ninth setback against 16 triumphs. Sherm Lollar drove in two Chicago runs with a single and his ninth homer of the season in the second game as Donovan registered his third straight victory and his 14th in 17 decisions.

On Saturday, New York beat Baltimore 6, Detroit edged Chicago 9-8, Washington routed Boston 16-2 and Kansas City defeated Cleveland 4-3.

League all-stars vs Brooklyn (National League) at Montreal (N)

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Where would the seventh-place Chicago Cubs be today if at the start of the season, they had the same team they have now?

"I don't know," says manager Bob Scheffing, "but I think we'd be a lot better off than we are."

Riding a six - game winning streak and winners of 12 of their last 15 games, the Cubs manager believes his club has knocked both St. Louis and Cincinnati out of the pennant picture.

Cubs beat Redlegs 8-2 Sunday to make it six straight wins, including three in a row over Cincinnati. Rain wiped out the second game of a doubleheader with Cincinnati ahead, 4-2.

A BETTER CLUB

"We're a better club than when we started the season," says Scheffing. "We have Bob Speake in centre, a second Dale Long at first and then there's Chuck Tanner, Bob Morgan and Bobby Adams. Also we're getting some pretty pitching from Dick Drott, Bob Rush, Moe Drabowsky, Jim Brosnan and Don Elston."

Stan Musial took over the batting lead in the National League by cracking two hits in each game of a second-place St. Louis double-header and raised doubleheader from Milwaukee 8-6 and 6-0. It cut Braves' league lead to 7½ games.

Musial's two-run homer in the 10th inning decided the opener and Vinegar Bend Mizell's four-hitter featured the shutout.

Milwaukee's Hank Aaron got a hit in his nine times at bat and dropped into third place in the batting race with .327 behind Musial's .329 and Al Dark of Pittsburgh.

FOUR-RUN EIGHTH

Brooklyn's third-place Dodgers advanced within 7½ games of Braves despite splitting a twin bill with Pittsburgh. Pirates took the opener on a game 6-4 tie with four runs in the eighth for an 8-6 victory after Duke Snider's two-run homer had given the Dodgers a 2-1 edge in the first game.

Hank Sauer's two home runs in the first inning and Red Worthington's three-hit pitching in the second game gave Giants a 5-0 and 1-0 sweep of their doubleheader in Philadelphia.

Sauer's first game big map for Chicago Sunday as he drove in three runs, including the 10th homer of the year. Bob Rush gained his fourth victory and Joe Cunningham his 11th.

Snider hit his 30th and 31st home runs for Brooklyn. The first came in the seventh of the opener to overcome a 1-0 Pirates lead and give Sal Maglie his sixth victory. The blow came after Gino Cimoli had singled for the first hit off loser Bob Friend. Pittsburgh's four runs in the eighth of the nightcap were unearned, all runs coming after two were out.

On Saturday, Milwaukee defeated St. Louis Cards 5-4 and Aaron doubled home two runs in the 11th, Pittsburgh Beat Brooklyn Dodgers, Philadelphia Met New York 3-1 and Chicago edged Cincinnati 2-1.

Police Capture Booth Trophy

Secretary Bill Muirhead announced today that the Police team has captured the Booth Trophy emblematic of the "B" section champions of the City Commercial softball league.

This is a new trophy which goes to the first-place finishers in the "B" section. Mead Johnson won the "A" section and the Jerry O'Connor Trophy.

The top four teams in both sections will now playoff for the Frank S. Falwell Trophy. Beautiful plaques have also been donated by the Belleville Hotel Association to be presented to the overall winners.

428 RECORD TO WIN

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Rookie pro Ken Venturi of San Francisco carded a par 72 and waiting to steer for it's bowup in the 1956 Masters tournament by winning the St. Paul Open golf title Sunday with a record-equalling 266—22 under par.

A clinching birdie on the last hole gave him a final round of 68 that erased the challenge of fellow townsman Bob Rosburg.

First prize money was $2,800.

Bill Mawhinney Wins Millar With 20-Foot Putt

TORONTO (CP) — Al Balding "kept telling me to drop one and get it over with," said Vancouver golfer Bill Mawhinney. So he sank a 20-foot putt Saturday to win the $5,000 Millar Trophy golf tournament by a stroke.

"And of course I was trying but it isn't that simple," the 26-year old golfer said later.

Mawhinney and the Toronto golfer played three extra holes and when the Vancouverite finally sank the 20-footer after Balding's 25-foot putt attempt just missed the cup.

Both golfers were on the green in two. Mawhinney watched Balding miss. Then he said to the crowd meaning "sor or never." The crowd laughed and so did Mawhinney. Then he made the putt that ended three days of scrambling golf which saw him defeat Gary Kesselring of Toronto Downs 4 and 2, to make the final.

Balding dropped Bill Kerr of Montreal Beaconsfield 4 and 3 to reach the final. Despite losing the final Saturday, he says it was a profitable week. The $650 he won added to the $750 he got for finishing second in Chicago's Tam O'Shanter tournament probably will cover his expenses for losing.

It was the first Millar Trophy golf with the winner's name would have been the third for Balding.

Mawhinney earned it. He was 35 under par for the fourth week match play.

Mawhinney birdied the first three holes and was two up as Balding won the fourth. Mawhinney settled down. They halved the fourth and as Balding birdied the fifth Mawhinney was struggling to make par.

Then Balding's third Millar when on the 165-yard, par-three sixth he drove to 15 feet and sank the putt while Vancouver golfer failed to make the large split-level green.

Then Mawhinney calmly wedged the ball into the hole for the first time. Medal score was a five-under 31 after the ninth and Balding had a 32.

He had to be good again on the 10th. He was short on the green on right but still halved the hole with a bogey four. Balding won on the 11th when he sank a 10-foot whinney returned to par golf. Then they halved the 12th with par and Balding took the 13th again with a birdie.

Mawhinney took the next seven holes before Mawhinney's winning putt.

SWIMS LAKE ERIE

LEAMINGTON (AP) — Dr. Harry Briggs Jr. Sunday night completed a 32-mile swim across Lake Erie from Port Clinton, Ohio, to nearby Point Pelee. It took him 34 hours and 55 minutes to make the crossing.

Briggs, a 36-year-old University of Alaska history professor, was the first person to make the crossing.

It was his third attempt. Twice before he attempted to swim from Point Pelee to Sandusky, Ohio.

Quinte Golfers Win Twelve Awards in Annual Field Day

M. Cassidy of Toronto St. Georges shot a low gross score of 76 to capture the Corbin Trophy over a field of 131 golfers, largest in the tournament history, for the annual Bay of Quinte Field Day on Saturday.

Cassidy's score of 76 was tied by the Bay of Quinte's Al Bridge but Cassidy placed first because of a better score than his opponent on the second nine holes.

D. Barrett of the Bay of Quinte club topped the field with a score of 68 to take low honors for playing in "B" flight.

The host club won twelve tournament awards, taking the team prize, three firsts, a second and a third in the low gross scores and three firsts and three seconds in the net.

Toronto St. Georges was second with a first and second, Toronto Rosedale was third while Trenton, Toronto Weston, Toronto Yan O Shanter and Toronto Islington each recorded a third. Picton, Belleville, Brantford, Smithville, Cobourg, Glen Lawrence, Oshawa and Forest Hill also had entries in the event.

Members of the winning Bay of Quinte team were: "A" flight, M. McIntosh 78, V. Smith 81 and P. Jones 79.

The runner-ups were led by Ken Hanson, who also played under cloudy skies but the condition of the course was unaffected by the competition keen in all three flights. In the "B" flight, H. Hanson of Picton had first low gross with 81, M. McIntosh also of the Bay of Quinte took the honors in "A" flight with 72. J. Walker and E. Wright of the Bay of Quinte club took the "C" flight honors with 78 and Lappin with a 71 low net.

Prize got under way in early morning with the first foursome, G. Noble, R. Cavanagh, C. Lovett, all of Belleville, getting away at 7.30 a.m. Starter was Ernie Pierce Jones, Picton, B. Hunt, Picton, P. Crawford, Picton and A. Fenwick, Trenton, teed off at 2.14 in the afternoon.

Special prize paid to George Balazs, club pro, in preparing the course for the tournament.

Well as the many others who helped to make the day such a successful one.

The Results:

"A" FLIGHT

Low gross — M. Cassidy, St. Georges, 76; A. Bridge, Quinte, 76; G. Hall, Quinte, 77.

Rollins Defeat Shannonville in Bantam Softball

Rollins Construction defeated Shannonville 10-5 on Saturday to even their OASA bantam playoff down series at one game each. The deciding tilt is scheduled for Tuesday evening playfield at Anne, 6.30 p.m.

The winners will advance against Peterborough with the first game scheduled for Peterborough on Thursday with second here next Saturday.

Lorne Fitzpatrick pitched the route for Rollins on Saturday, allowing just three hits. Lewis and Gayer paced the Shannonville pitching chore, tagged for seven safeties.

O'Brien and Cooney each slammed a home run and single to spearhead the winner's attack. Allenby and Fitzpatrick also hit safely.

Barberstock homered for Shannonville with Ellis and Opey getting extra-baggers.

Goyer's Marines Win Over Bobcats To Enter OASA Int. AA Playdowns

By GARRY ALEXANDER

This Day In Sports

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., AUGUST 19, 1922

Goyer's Marines thumped the Bobcats 12-4 in a wilds open game that earned the winners the right to represent Belleville in the OASA Intermediate "AA" playdowns before a large crowd at CNRAA Park Saturday night.

The Marines completed somewhat of a comeback to take the series three games to two with one ending in a tie. They trailed the set at one game apiece but tied the next before racking up two consecutive victories. This is the first year in the history of Temple's Bobcats that they have not advanced to the OASA playdowns.

Goyer's crew greeted pitcher "Bep" Guidolin, who manager Bob Temple brought down from Windsor to hurl this one game, with a five-run first inning. Wally Baran replaced Guidolin on the Bobcat mound but his club booted the ball for three more Marine markers in the second. The 'Cats whittled away with single runs in the first, second, fourth and ninth and a pair in the eighth but they were never in real contention after opening marine rally.

Belleville Lum Carson, working seven innings in aid of starter Al Adams, picked up the important victory. He allowed five hit runs on seven hits while striking out four and walking but one. Adams was hit for six safeties and two runs, being chased with two on and nobody out in the third. He fanned none and passed three.

Guidolin took the loss with five runs and four hits charged against his record. He walked one. Baran gave up six runs on five hits while pitching the last three frames. Lloyd Bobcat miscues plated three in the second without a hit.

The Bobcats had at least one hit in every inning except the fifth but could not bunch them into a dangerous rally. They stranded ten base runners. The loser's error total of seven also was costly.

Johnny Green and Leo Goyer each clouted a double and single to spearhead the victor's ten-hit attack. Vern Goyer and Chuck Kingston each poled two singles while Leo St. Denis and Paul Russell had the other base hits.

Stan Creegan, who started in left field in place of John Casey, was the big gun on the Bobcat side. He smashed two doubles and two singles, walked once, drove in two runs and scored two more himself. Earle Cousins doubled twice while Harry Wardwell and Don Locke each singled twice.

Bep Guidolin, Wayne Brown and Duke Dunn also filled the base knocks.

The Marines and Point Anne will start their city championship series, a three-of-five set this week. The first game is in Point Anne on Tuesday and the second at CNRAA on Thursday.

THE TEAMS—

Marines: G. Goyer, Russell, L. Goyer, Green, Kingston, St. Denis, V. Goyer, Soules, Adams, Carson.

Bobcats: Creegzan, Brown, Crawford, Cousins, Locke, Palmer, Wardwaugh, Doran; Guidolin, Baran, Dey, Casey.

Umpires — Donald Gavey (P) and Tim Williams. Time: 1.45.

Deacon Goalies Defeated 12-5 By Peterborough

Belleville Deacon Quakers dropped a 12-5 decision to Peterborough in the Littlock City on Saturday in the opening game of their two-of-three OSA peewee playdown series.

The second game is slated for the Fairgrounds here next Saturday at 7.00 p.m. and if a third is necessary it will decide as part of a double-header.

The Quakers jumped into a lead 5-4 after two innings in Saturday's game but they committed several errors in the fourth to pave the way for a six-run Peterborough rally.

Albert Fisher hurled four-hit ball on the Peterborough mound over the seven-inning route. He whiffed 11 men while walking six.

Fred Spafford was the starter and loser for Belleville, while Bob Jeffery relieved him in the fifth. They allowed eight hits between them, fanning four and walking two.

Gary Aitken with three singles and John Wildgoose with a pair, paced the winner's attack. Mike Gelf, Dwight Lowell and Joe Norrad had one hit each.

Fred Spafford slammed a triple for Belleville and added a single for half of his club's hits. Gary Benson doubled and Wayne Woods had a single off Aitken's slants.

B.C. Lions Trample Riders 44-20 to Tie With Eskies

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

British Columbia Lions have started their fourth season in the Western Interprovincial Football Union with the right foot forward. For today at least they share first place in the standings with defending-champion Edmonton Eskimos.

Saskatchewan Roughriders, figured as the team to beat Eskimos this year, fell the brunt of Lions' foot Saturday night at Vancouver's Empire Stadium where 26,807 fans watched B.C. trample Riders 44-20 in an upset.

"They just kicked the daylights out of us," said coach Frankie Filchock of Riders. "Nothing else I can say about it."

The game was the second of the new WIFU schedule and the first for both Lions and Riders. In the league opener at Winnipeg Thursday, Edmonton defeated Blue Bombers 42-18.

FIRST FOR STAMPS

Calgary Stampeders, in last place for two years, see their first league action Saturday against the warmed-up Lions. Roughriders, nursing several injuries following the Saturday game, clash with Eskimos in Edmonton.

At Vancouver Saturday, fullback Ted Urness and halfback Paul Cameron scored two touchdowns each for British Columbia while end Vic Chapman and halfback Primo Villanueva each got one touchdown. Kenny Ducky converted four touchdowns and Ted Hunt, a soccer player in his first year of pro football, booted one convert.

Chapman punted for a single and Lions got two more points when linemen Chuck Quilter and Chuck Hodgson nailed Rider quarterback Frank Tripucka behind the Saskatchewan goal line for a safety touch. Quilter was credited with the points.

VETERAN LOSSES

Veteran halfback Ken Carpenter, rookie halfback Sam Wesley and end Jackie Vic Shaffer scored touchdowns for Riders with guard Reggie Whitehouse converting.

Lions crashed to 369 yards along the ground while Riders got 97. In the air, Tripucka had a slight advantage over quarterback Peppy Vasu and Saskatchewan getting 220 yards to Lions' 210 on forward passes.

Filchock said four of his players suffered injuries in the game — tackle Jerry Smith, halfback Gene Gaudet, end Jim Worsley and centre Ed Husmann.

Glen Leach, Ed Buchanan and Bill Clarke, all of Toronto, beat Victoria's Susan Butt and Brazil's Mrs. Anne Shilton Vasey 6-4, 6-1, 6-7 in the doubles.

Only foreign entries among the winners were Bob Howe of Sydney, Australia and Mrs. Vieira, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil and Paul Willey of Vancouver 9-7, 6-2 Sunday in the mixed doubles final.

Bedard's victory surprised almost everyone—including Krishnan, who had been beaten by Bedard twice before and was not expected to do this time.

"His trouble was that he tried to use his ordinary shots against my topspin," Krishnan said. "At top - spin hops high when it bounces either off the ground or a racket.

"He kept him from placing his drop volleys accurately and forced him into errors.

The Indian national champion tried to play a control game throughout, rushing the net to dribble cross-court volleys and backhands into the sides of the court over the net.

Bedard lobbed him back from the baseline, sometimes with short drops and sent them whistlin' down the side-lines, and he's been following playing base-lines.

"I want a good look at this fatty coming up next. I read he hit .356 last year!"

Superior Speed Wins Tennis Title for Bedard

MONTREAL (CP) — Bob Bedard's superior speed carried him to a 6-1, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4 victory over India's Ramanathan Krishnan Saturday in the finals of the Canadian Tennis championships.

The Sportsbrooke, Que., player spoiled Krishnan's inability to catch up with a fast passing shot and capitalized on the weakness to upset the heavily-favored Indian player.

The 25-year-old mainstay of Canada's Davis Cup teams combined with Toronto's Don Fontana, 32, to win the men's doubles 14-12, 6-3, 12-10 over Canadians Davis Cuppers Armando Vieira, 31, and Carlos Fernandez, 19. It was a repeat of the 1955 tournament when Bedard won the singles and paired with Fontana for a double win.

ALSO WON TWO TITLES

Bedard and Fontana of Toronto also came through with two championships as Canadians took four of the five at stake.

Mrs. Brown crushed Montreal's Magdalen Boeck 6-4, 6-3 in the women's singles final and she paired with Miss Dolesehall, also of Toronto, beat Victoria's Susan Butt and Brazil's Mrs. Anne Shilton Vasey 6-4, 6-1, 6-7 in the doubles.

Latta Downs Cannifton 8-4 For Third Win

Latta took a three games to one lead in their quest for the South Hastings baseball league championship on Saturday by downing the Cannifton Clippers 8-4 on the cannifton diamond.

The winners came through with a five-run explosion in the fourth inning to overcome a 3-0 Cannifton lead.

Gary Gore started for the winners and pitched until Stan Reid took over in the sixth. Gowe struck out ten and walked six in recording the victory.

Outfielder S. Sullivan each hit a double and single in sparking the Latta nine at the plate, F. Ray and Reid, twice, Gowe and Wayne Gowe doubled while Steward and Gary Gowe also hit safeties.

Baker colleqted two of the Cannifton safeties with Sheffield, Stoliker, Forsythe and Walker each claiming one.

THE TEAMS:

Latta: Parks, Glass, Steward, G. Gowe, Sullivan, Ray, W. Gowe, Izzard, Meeks, S. Reid, H. Reid.

Cannifton: Baker, Petrie, Harde:, Sheffield, Stoliker, Cole, M:ore, Forsyth, Walker.

WINS GOLF PLAYOFF

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—Fred Wood of Vancouver, B.C., won the Inland Empire senior open golf tournament Sunday in a sudden death playoff with Gene Sarazen.

Wood dropped a 15-foot putt on the extra hole while Sarazen missed one of 3½ feet.

Both finished the 72-hole tournament with 10-under par 270. The victory gave the Canadian top money of $2,000 in the $12,500 tournament. Sarazen picked up $1,400.

Toronto Leafs, Buffalo Bisons Tied for First

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The International League takes its annual star-break today with Buffalo Bisons and Toronto Maple Leafs deadlocked in first place.

Maple Leafs, who have been climbing steadily all month, tied for the lead Sunday by defeating Miami Marlins 9-8 in 14 innings. The second game of a scheduled doubleheader was halted after 3½ innings by Sunday curfew with the scores tied first place. this is the last Toronto - Miami meeting, the game will not be completed.

Buffalo, which had been in first since July 7, split its twin bill with Columbus Jets, Bisons won the opener 8-5, but Jets came back to take the second 12-4.

Richmond Virginians remained in third place, 3½ behind, by dividing their twin with Rochester Red Wings. Johnny Gantz salvaged the nightcap for Richmond, 4-3, after Red Wings beat the Vees 5-3 in the opener.

In other action, Montreal Royals swept home over Havana Sugar Kings in their doubleheader, 2-1 and 5-2.

BABE BROKE IT UP

Loren Babe's 14th-inning home run broke up an 8-8 tie for Toronto, in the four-hour and 45-minute marathon, in which there were 33 hits. Mike Goliat's bases - loaded home run in the seventh put the Leafs in front 8-4, but Miami rallied with four in the eighth to send the game into extra innings.

Columbus belted four Buffalo pitchers for 13 hits, including home runs by Roman Mejias and Johnny Powers in the second game. Powers' drive, his 25th, with two aboard climaxed a five run uprising in the third against Steve Nagy. Buffalo's only other run homer in the sixth inning of the opener capped a five-run rally for the Bisons.

James pitched 5 1-3 innings of no-hit, no-run relief to provide Richmond with the second-game victory. Outfielder Tommy Burns made a game-saving catch in the eighth and drove in the tying and winning runs in the sixth for Rochester in the curtain raiser.

Southpaw Fred Kipp won his own ball game with a seventh inning single to drive in the lone run for Montreal in the abbreviated nightcap. Kipp, who beat Havana hits, also had a double, while winning his eighth. Larry Novak homered for the Royals in the opener, but it took an unearned run in the seventh to wrap up Rene Valdes' 10th victory against eight losses.

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP) — Chapadette, owned by Mrs. E. P. Taylor, won the $7,500 Achievement Stakes at Fort Erie race track Saturday and then survived a claim of foul lodged by Silky Gray, who rode Stinson's Boy which finished second. Our Sir Gus was third by a nose.

Chopadette was the fourth winner for Canadian jockey Avelino Gomez. Gomez booted home his fifth winner when he rode Billmike to victory in the eighth race.

With Lew Ator and Nearctic late scratches, only five colts went to the post in the feature and Chopadette went to the front at once in the run of one mile and seventy yards and won handily in 1:44 4-5.

Before scoring with Chopadette, Gomez had won the third on Light Traffic, the fourth on Brown Bullet and the fifth on Rosemere Greer.

SARATOGA, N.Y. (AP) — Calliant Man, Irish-bred son of Migoli Saturday became the first foreign horse to win the $44,000 Hopeful, richest race in the United States, since Sun Briar turned the trick 29 years ago.

William Shoemaker, whose misjudging of the finish probably cost Gallant Man the Kentucky Derby won by Iron Liege brought Calliant Man's three-year-old home a half-length in front of Ogden Phipps' Bureaucracy.

Calliant Man, who had won two other stakes winner in-the field raced to five by scratches and then to four when Pop Corn tossed Ted Atchinson—soon after leaving the starting gate.

Gallant Man, who just about equalled Bold Ruler's 6d for the three-year-old title in the Belmont Stakes, picked up $29,800 to run his earnings to $194,500.

Long shots won the $57,000 Alabama Stakes, historic Handicap at Washington Park and the $25,000 Arlington Futurity at Arlington City. Hoop Band ($28) owned by Mrs. Ada L. Rice beat the favored Manassas by 4½ lengths in the Arch Ward Mrs. Connie Ring's Market Basket ($24.20) took the Pageant by 3½ lengths over Pink Velvet, owned by Bill Boeing Jr.

George Covert's Sally Lee ($7) took the $40,000 Debutante Stakes at Del Mar.

'Mismatch' Fight Thursday Will Attract Large Crowd

By JACK HEWINS

SEATTLE (AP)—For a fight which has been called far and wide as a mismatch—one principal even called Miss Tipsy posterous" at one time — Thursday's heavyweight title fight between champion Floyd Patterson and upstart amateur challenger Pete Rademacher is attracting unusual turnaway crowds before it even starts.

Twenty miles south of here at Kent, Wash., Patterson's training ring is set up on a tennis court. When the champ arrives for his workout the place, which seats 1,500, has no more spare space than an unopened sardine can.

"It's amazing," says Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager. "We've never attracted crowds like these."

Rademacher is drawing only half so many at his camp in Issaquah, east of Seattle—but Pete works out in a recreation hall and when he gets a crowd of 750, more than half are standing.

Observers at Kent pay 99 cents; those at Kent get in for 50 cents. No explaining why the Olympic champion has his nine-cent bulge on the professional champion.

That's merely one of the eyebrow items surrounding the first meeting of an amateur and professional for the world's championship. Pete himself once said the whole idea was "preposterous." But he had a chestful of tongue when he said it. The fight was already in the making—secretly.

Patterson will collect a guaranteed $250,000 if the bout is a $400,000 sellout — and the advance sales indicate it might be an SRO affair—Rademacher is fighting for nothing.

His Golden Huskers have put up the Patterson guarantee and will take 30 per cent of the gate, the other 40 going to promoter Jack Hurley. Rademacher's reward—if he wins—is a crack at the title.

Both fighters planned to wind up their workouts Tuesday afternoon. They'll weigh in Wednesday night and for Seattle and the public weighing-in ceremony at noon Thursday.

Marlene Draws Elizabeth Brand In First Round

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Defending champion Marlene Stewart Streit Saturday drew Elizabeth S. Brand of Sacramento as her opponent in today's opening round of the U. S. women's amateur golf tournament. The match was the first for each in the contingent of players at 11.45 a.m. PDT (2:45 p. m. EDT).

The pairings for the 32 other contestants drew pairings.

The week long match play event over the par 36 36 — 76 course ends next Saturday with the finals.

Other pairings include: Fourth seeded Mrs. Jo Mary Coy, Calgary, vs. Glenda Felkner, Hollywood. Fla.

JORDANIAN CONFESSES

BEIRUT, Lebanon (Reuters)—Security police Friday said they had arrested a young Jordanian near the American embassy who subsequently confessed that he had been sent to commit "violent acts" against the embassy by an Egyptian diplomat in Syria.

British Columbia Wins Willingdon Cup at Winnipeg

By AL VICKERY

WINNIPEG (CP) — One hundred and thirty-nine golfers were entered today in the 53rd amateur championship of Canada at the par-72 St. Charles Country Club.

The field is 31 more than competed in the Canadian amateur at Edmundston, N.B., and consists of 110 Canadians, seven from the United States, 13 from Great Britain and one from Venezuela. The British entry included the 10-man Walker Cup team and the non-playing captain, Gerald Micklem.

Eighteen holes of medal play were scheduled for today and again Tuesday, with the low 64 qualifying for match play running Wednesday through Saturday. Ties in qualifying would be played off late Tuesday.

COWAN LOW MAN

Nineteen-year-old Gary Cowan of Kitchener stamped himself as one of the players to watch when he shot rounds of 66 and 70 in the 36-hole Willingdon Cup matches here Saturday, won by British Columbia.

However, 1956 Canadian junior champion! was low man in the interprovincial team match at par and boosted his defending champion Ontario squad into second place.

Members of the winning B.C. team with its total, score of 284, were: Doug Bajus, 71-70 — 141; Ralph Wild 70-72—142; Bert Hurst 71-72—143; and Ron Willet 74-70—144.

Ontario trailed British Columbia by four strokes. Scores, in addition to Cowan's 136, were: Nick Weslock, Windsor 70-71—141; Bill Morland, North Bay 69-74—143; and Bruce Cole, Hamilton 80-74—154.

Other trailed were: Alberta 575; Manitoba 583; Quebec 585; Nova Scotia 600; Saskatchewan 613, and New Brunswick-PEI 617.

WINS BY STROKE

Billy Wakeham, 16, of Victoria gave B.C. a sweep of the first two events when he captured the Canadian junior title with a 36-hole score of 75-70—145, one under par and one stroke better than 18-year-old Jim Pendleton, 16, of Toronto.

Wilfrid, host professional Leo Collett predicted last Friday that it would take 150 or better to qualify for the amateur medal play, many observers now be-lieve that, in view of the low scoring in Saturday's play, 150 might not even be safe.

Pendleton, who was backed up Sunday when nine members of the Toronto squad shot even par or better. The other two members did not play.

KRAMER BEATS HOAD

VITTEL, France (AP) — Veteran Jack Kramer Sunday defeated Australia's Lew Hoad, recently turned pro, 6-3, 10-8.

The match was part of Kramer's "world professional tennis championship."

Ken Rosewall, Australia, knocked off Pancho Segura 6-4, 6-4 and Kramer and Segura teamed to defeat the Australians in the doubles, 6-4, 1-6, 6-4, thereby clinching the over-all victory.

Dutchmen Gain Finals in Win Over Oakville

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen have gained the finals of the Intercounty Senior League at the expense of Oakville Oaks.

While Dutchmen were killing Oakville's playoff hopes by a 6-2 score Saturday night St. Thomas Elgins, league champions, edged Listowel Legionaires 4-3 to make it 3-2 in their best-of-seven semi-final. Elgins' game is in Listowel tonight.

At London, North Tonawanda Chicks moved to within a game of making the playoffs in the Great Lakes-Niagara League by defeating the league champion London Majors 6-3.

NEED TO WIN

Chicks play London again tonight and need a win to tie the loser of a game between Welland-Crowland Terriers and Niagara Falls Xerrics. The latter two clubs are tied for last place in the Niagara division.

So it is up to Dennis Pinkbeiner went the route for Dutchmen and scattered Oaks' seven hits while striking out nine. He gave 4-3 at the end of the sixth but couldn't get a run in the last three innings.

Dutchmen, led at the plate by third baseman Ernie Bowers who hit three for five, scored twice in each of the first three eighth innings. They totalled 10 hits off loser Rene Bouchard.

Elgins scored with two first inning runs. Legionaires loaded the bases in the first half of the inning but winner Bill Jamieson retired the side without a run crossing the plate.

THIRD LOSS

Jerry Binckie, who had a 3-8 season record, was the loser, giving up three runs in the seventh when Elgins scored their winning run.

The Great Lakes - Niagara League's leading pitcher, Roy McKay, was the loser at London. He was first beat in his last seven games. McKay gave up one run before he settled in the third.

Ray Yelle took over and gave up four runs before he was pulled for Dutch Perfetto. Chicks' big inning was the sixth when Chuck Scarlett hit a three-run homer.

Chicks got eight hits from the three London pitchers while veteran Ray CC tallied with six safeties.

Lachine Canoe Club Wins Cup With 14 Points

GANANOQUE (CP) — Lachine Canoe Club took two close kayak races Sunday to win the aggregate trophy in the North American canoe racing championships with 14 points.

Yonkers CC of Yonkers, N.Y., was second with eight points and Ottawa CC third with six points. Lachine crew also won three events in the canoe races.

Wind half-way through the meet churned the water to a choppy mess, which continued through eight and left.

One day's biggest upset was when Lachine's Don Stringer, formerly of Sudbury, was disqualified for paddling outside marker buoys in the single-blade canoes, an event he has won for the last five years. Norm Lane of Toronto's Balmy Beach Canoe Club was the winner and finished three lengths ahead of Stringer. Ottawa's Bob Hunter was a fifth ahead of Sudbury in the double-blade canoes for the only American win of the day. Joe Sharp, John McMorran, Doug Hendrick and Ray Gray were the Sudbury crew.

Lachine crew and Frank Sullivan of Toronto Island CC won the single-blade tandem with John Beedell and Joe Perchuk of Sudbury second.

Lachine decided to hold next year's meet at Lake Dunmore in Vermont.

Giants' Board of Directors Likely to Give Green Light

NEW YORK (AP)—The board of directors of New York baseball Giants went into closed session today to vote on whether to accept president Horace Stoneham's proposal to move the team to San Francisco.

Another board of directors meeting—if Brooklyn's Dodgers have been scheduled for "the last week in August" to consider the possibility of moving the National League champions to Los Angeles.

There appears no question that the Giants will be in San Francisco in 1958 and it is nearly as certain that the Dodgers also will do their playing next season in California. Despite frequent reports to the contrary, president Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers never has considered any New York area other than his new Flatbush Avenue site. Unless the city officials do a complete about face—which is most unlikely—that area will not be made available to O'Malley.

MADE IT PLAIN

Stoneham, who has made it plain he wants to take his club to San Francisco next season, has said he intends to announce his decision as soon as he receives the green light from the board. Voting there has been mum regarding his intentions.

The Giants club has received generous bids. San Francisco's offer includes a stadium rent bill, $500,000, 42,000 capacity stadium to be ready in 1958 and an attractive low rental fee. Los Angeles' offer to the Dodgers includes a 55,000-capacity stadium with a low rental fee, parking and concession rights.

Figuring largely in the plans of both clubs are contract proposals for radio broadcasting rights of Giant and Dodger games in San Francisco and Los Angeles, with minimum guarantee of $1,500,000 a year.

Stoneham told stockholders a move to San Francisco could "almost guarantee a net profit of $200,000 to $300,000 a year." The Giants' profit last year was a reported $80,000 when their crew only 630,000. The Dodger's profit amounted to $47,000 last year when they drew 1,231,00. Attendance is off in both parks this year.

Once the Giants and Dodgers definitely announce their intentions, they will waste little time in getting the wheels in motion. While the move doesn't promise to be smooth no real obstacle is expected to confront the New York clubs.

Marilyn's Helper Will Try to Swim Channel

MARGATE, England (Reuters) The courage and cheerfulness of Marilyn Bell, who at 17 became the youngest person ever to swim the English Channel, will help her pacemaker in his first attempt Tuesday.

Barry Woodward, 22, who helped the Toronto girl in her 1955 successful bid, is one of 24 swimmers entered in Billy Butlin's sixth annual cross-channel race.

He keeps Marilyn's picture in his room at the hotel headquarters here.

In 1955, when Marilyn swam the channel in 14 hours, 35 minutes, Barry swam with her for about eight hours of the crossing.

Canadian Boy In Money at Soap-Box Derby

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Terry Townsend, 14, of Anderson, Ind., won the all-American soap-box derby today, and a Canadian entry—Andy Vasko of St. Catharines—broke into top winning circle for the first time in the mighty miles' 20 - year history.

Andy placed third—highest position any boy from outside the United States has ever taken. He also won a special race for boys from outside the U. S. held before the main event. He defeated the Alaskan and West German champions to win the guest title.

His third-place in the main race won him a $5,000 scholarship.

Terry's victory meant a $5,000 scholarship for him, plus a two-week tour of Europe as a special good-will ambassador.

There were 159 entries.

In the special race before the main event, Andy beat Dieter Menne of West Germany and Michael Bernacki of the Philippines, but Edward Chambers of Anchorage, Alaska, in the first Lesta, Wash., beat Bernacki to win the guest title.

Toronto Rider Wins Dirt-Track Championship

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—John Sargent, 26, of Toronto, an English immigrant who raced motorcycles professionally for six years before coming to Canada two years ago, became the expert dirt track motorcycle champion of Ontario Saturday.

Sargent defeated Don McHugh of Brampton, the 1956 Ontario expert dirt - track champion, McHugh placed second. Third was Buddy Koehler of New Dundee. Koehler won the 200 - cc. class championship.

Bob Simon, 25, of Kitchener won the junior Ontario dirt track championship and Jim Clarke, 21 of London, won the senior trophy. Total points won at events in whether a competitor is in the senior or junior class.

Second in the junior event was Roy Balson of Oshawa. Second in the senior event was Fred McDonald of Oshawa.

Summaries: Junior 200cc. class open to competitors in the junior, senior and expert categories: Lew McHugh and Jack Schumacher of Kitchener.

Miss Supertest Wins at Buffalo

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Canada's Miss Supertest roared at speeds up to 90 miles an hour Sunday to win the race on unlimited hydroplanes in the international speedboat regatta on the Niagara River.

The London, Ont., boat captured the William J. Connors Jr. memorial Trophy despite placing second behind Wildcrot Charlie, a local boat, in two of the three heats.

The first heat had to be run twice when Wha Hoppen Too caught fire and sank. The driver, Martin Henrich of Detroit, escaped with minor burns.

Miss Supertest, driven by Art Asbury and owned by James G. Thompson of London, whipped five times around the three-mile course to win the first heat with an average of 90.1 miles an hour. Wildcrot Charlie, driven by Bob Schroeder of Niagara Falls, finished last in the field of four.

In the second and third heats Miss Supertest placed second with speeds of 90.1 and 90.2, but won the race with 1,000 points to Wildcrot Charlie's 969.

Kenmors Shade Cornwall 6-4 in Midget Playdown

Belleville Kenmors defeated the Cornwall New Yorker Aces 6-4 in Cornwall Saturday night to grab a one-game lead in their two-of-three OBA midget playdown series.

The second game is scheduled for the Fairgrounds here Tuesday night at 8:30 p.m. The series winner will meet Kingston in the next round.

The Kenmors jumped into a commanding 4-0 lead early in the game Saturday but Cornwall roared back with single markers in the fifth and sixth and two in the seventh to trail by a narrow 5-4 score. A single Belleville marker in the top of the ninth eased the pressure somewhat.

Glen Dalnard pitched the first six frames for Belleville, allowing just four singles before being relieved with two on base in the seventh frame. He was charged with all four Cornwall runs, fanning three and walking an equal number.

Don Masters fired hitless ball over the remainder in an excellent relief stint. He walked none and walked two.

A walk to Locke, two stolen bases by the same player and Larry Soden's perfect squeeze bunt brought the first Cornwall run inning tally. Bob Follwell and Gary Gordon singled to open the a double steal in the second while Dalnard's squeeze bunt, an error and Jim Locke's sacrifice fly scored the three runs.

Gary Gordon played the starring role for the Kenmors, lining four consecutive base hits, including two doubles and scoring two bases.

Belleville plated five of the runs scored on squeeze bunts.

McGill Stadium Will Be Scene Of Shrine Game

TORONTO (CP) — The 1957 Shrine all-star East-West football game is to be played at Montreal's McGill Stadium Saturday, Sept. 7, two weeks after the Grey Cup game, Harry McBrien, secretary of the Canadian Rugby Union said Sunday.

The announcement followed an all-day meeting between the CRU executive and representatives of the national Shrine football committee here.

The game pits top football players in the Western Interprovincial Football Union against the best from the East.

The Big Four rejected a bid by the Ontario Rugby Football Association to have the OFU champions play the losers of the Big Four semi-finals in a post-season match.

The game had been proposed by Big Four president Bob Moran of Toronto at the CRU meeting in Ottawa in March. Moran said Saturday, however, that his league had changed its mind since and had instead played three exhibition games with ORFU teams this summer.

Alaska Teacher First Man to Swim Lake Erie

POINT PELEE (CP) — Dr. Harry Briggs Jr., a teacher from Alaska, willed Sunday after a 36-hour swim that made Briggs the first man to conquer Lake Erie.

Briggs, 30, who teaches history at the University of Alaska, Anchorage, finally succeeded on his fifth attempt to swim Erie's lake. On two previous occasions he had come to within Canadian shore and headed toward Ohio.

Saturday morning he slipped and almost away by Lake Erie O., and struck out across the lake for Point Pelee, 32 miles away.

Crowds lined the shore of the beach and watched with bated breath while Briggs battled with 10 to 100 mile per hour winds and undertow. Earlier this month two Detroit youths were drowned when swept away by it.

Briggs, completely exhausted, was hauled from the water by companions who followed him across the lake in three boats. As soon as he reached the beach he fell unconscious without uttering a word. He remained unconscious while he was given a rubdown, bundled in blankets and placed aboard his escort cruiser for the trip back across the lake.

Home runs—Aaron, 34.
Stolen bases—Mays, 19.
Pitching — Schmidt, St. Louis, 10-1, .909.
Strikeouts — Sanford, Philadelphia, 167.

Confidential Magazine Trial Done up in Hollywood Style

By BOB THOMAS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If you blinked your eyes a bit, you might think you were on a movie set instead of sweltering in Confidential Magazine trial.

It's all there, the way Hollywood would put it on. The scene is the Hall of Justice, one of the older edifices in Los Angeles' civic centre. It is a picture of traditionalism and the slick marble walls of the more modern government buildings.

It is not one of those sterile modern courtrooms with chrome and acoustic walls and pine-tile air. It has an ornate gilt ceiling, and the walls feature dozens of panels filled with paintings of the state seals. The clerk has a rolltop desk, and portable air conditioners sit in the windows.

THEY LOOK THE PART

The judge, Herbert Walker, is a big man with typewriting. He is a kindly gent who smiles to the jury as he takes time out to explain legal procedure. He often smiles as he regders decisions, then shrugs as he begs forgiveness either side. He will break no noise. He will not shout that includes laughing, no matter how rehald the testimony becomes.

The prosecutors are representations Deputy district attorney William Ritzi is dapper and boyish, with a lock of black hair dangling on his forehead. Barrel-chested Clarence Lam of the attorney-general's office has a bulldog look about him.

Then there's sleek - domed Arthur J. Crowley, counsel for the defense. Marjorie Fiske, Fred Meade, and their Hollywood Reporter staff, is fast-talking and alert, always peppering the court with the objections that will become a full record of any clients" has become as familiar to reporters as a TV commercial.

THE PASSING PARADE

The parade of witnesses has provided several character actors could have stepped right out of a movie. There was the nervous, middle-aged dame who had covered with his answers, apologize that he was hard of hearing. There was the noted madam, who smoothed her long red hair and told of her past.

indeed, there has been a wealth of characters.

The show has been SRO every day. There are only a few seats for the public, and the hall is often crowded by citizens hoping to get seated . . . Press coverage was so heavy that the court ordered reporters to present assignment slips from their editors. That weeded out some of the phonies. Place cards were tacked to the press seats in the first two rows.

Some of the crowding is caused by the abundance of lawyers who drop in. A pass for admittance appears to be a briefcase.

Dodgers Meet All-Star Team Of Int. League

MONTREAL (CP) — International League president Frank Shaughnessy picked hopefully today Tuesday night's all-star game which he expects will show there isn't too much difference in class between our league and the majors."

The game may shed light on the subject at that, since the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers will oppose the IL's pooled best players in the second annual classic.

In the inaugural last year at Toronto, Milwaukee Braves shut out the International League 2-0, on Bob Trowbridge's pitched a one-hitter for Braves.

Tonight's game is to be a homecoming of sorts for most of the Dodger players. Montreal is Brooklyn's top farm club, and most of the present Dodgers, including manager Walter Alston, served an apprenticeship here.

Alston and all-star manager Dixie Walker of Toronto Maple Leafs have not named starting pitchers, but right-hander Jim Coates of Richmond Virginians was expected to start for Walker.

LARGE DEPENDENCY

Malya, living close to the equator, occupies some 50,000 square miles.

AT THE BELLE — Janet Gaynor and Adolphe Menjou are shown in a scene from the typewriting film in "Twentieth Century-Fox's Cinemascope, De Luxe color comedy, "Bernardine". It's at the Bonnie Terry theatre today and Tuesday. Terry Moore plays the leading role in the story of a teen-age girl's romance in the bubbly story, playing today and Tuesday at the Belle.

AT THE PARK — Sal Mineo—today's hottest young star, stars in "Dino". Mineo sizzles the screen in a role that is sheer dynamite. Brian Keith and Susan Kohner co-star. On the same program a gripping drama presented in wide screen Naturama and Trucolor "Accused of Murder", starry David Brian, Vera Ralston, Sidney Blackmer and Virginia Grey. Both attractions are first Belleville showings, opening today at the air conditioned Park Theatre for a three day engagement.

At The McCarthy

There are as many opinions among America's movie-going public as to what they want to see on the screen as there are differences of political opinion among this same group.

The only time a semblance of unanimity is found in matter of taste the public takes to its heart a screen couple that turns in a romantic performance that brings the people streaming to the theatre and is talked about long after the picture has made its rounds.

Such a situation is anticipated with the casting of Cary Grant and Deborah Kerr opposite each other in Jerry Wald's production of Leo McCarey's "An Affair to Remember," the Twentieth Century-Fox Cinemascope, De Luxe color romance opening Wednesday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

Director-scenarist McCarey predicts that the team of Grant and Kerr will duplicate its great success of Jennifer Jones and William Holden in "Love is a Many-Splendored Thing." Skipping back a few years the John Gilbert-Greta Garbo screen kisses brought the people back again and again as did the team of Gable and Jean Harlow, Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell and other romantic team as was the team of William Powell and Myrna Loy for the "Thin Man" series.

If mon and dad don't remember them supply grandma and grandpop will recall the sizzling screen romancing of Rudolph Valentino and Vilma Banky. Getting to the more modern era were Tyrone Power and Loretta Young and still making the celluloid smoke are Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn, whose latest is "Desk Set."

Today's teenage crops drool over the screen romancing of Debbie and Eddie and Tony Curtis and Janet Leigh.

It seemed only a matter of time before Cary Grant, who has wooed and won most of the fair ladies of the screen and Miss Kerr, who only recently played opposite Yul Brynner in "The King and I" and Robert Mitchum in "Heaven Knows Mr. Allison," should get together as screen lovers.

The bidding in room one went like this:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 C	2 S	Pass
3 C	All Pass

The bidding in room two went like this:

East	South	West	North
Pass	3 C	All Pass

Thus, each team reached a club contract with south as the declarer. Each room took ten tricks for a part score of 130, a part score bonus of 50 plus 80 points for tricks.

But where was the east and west pair in each room all this time? Except for the room one spade bids the horizontal pairs held their breath or let things slide. Nobody mentioned hearts.

Bridge has a count of five tricks and west counts five or more, if east mentions hearts, west has the support for it. In any case, they have tricks enough for game in hearts or spades.

All the opponents could bet lore are a club and two diamonds. If they did not take the diamond tricks fast, a declarer in spades can make six, and a declarer in hearts can make six.

Over the room one spade jump overcall by west, east could have shown his hearts first without worry. And over the three club opening by south in room two a west spade overcall is within reason.

In any case, there must be some way such players could find a way to tell each other! But perhaps they should not be blamed for overlooking such an opportunity. After all, they are only masters.

CANADIAN SCORES UPSET

BUFFALO, N.Y. (CP) — Boyd Erafield, 18 - year - old Toronto pilot, scored an upset Saturday when he trimmed United States champion F. C. (Doc) Moor of Miami, Fla., in the race for 46 cubic-inch hydroplanes at Port Niagara River.

Erafield kicked his Little Imp II to an average 49.479 miles an hour in the first heat and was second in the second heat. Moor, driving Southern Air IV, placed third and first.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, August 20, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Mixed influences should make for challenging day, yet it may be annoying in spots. Fine rays for artistic matters and mental work; influences less generous for purely practical affairs.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Your natal planet and some others augur for success through your own efforts, but Saturn and Mercury portions stress a need for caution in written matters, signing contracts, etc.; also in difficult tasks.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — A challenging set-up for you bright, active people. Remain alert to good possibilities — and there are many today. Avoid carelessness in signing documents, however. Think through-out.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Move thoughtfully but cheerfully and hopefully. You can accomplish much now through you own ingenuity and cleverness. Do not lose heart at upsets; they could work to your eventual good.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Some rays are promising and benefic; others are less generous. You can have a satisfactory day by using tact and managing cleverly. Be sensible; don't overdo.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Mercury and Mars, in inauspicious positions, urge extra care and patience in any trying and difficult situations which may occur. There are some good influences, however, so take things in stride.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Familiar matters, laborious work for which you are trained, dealings in leather, lumber and metals, as well as the uses to which they are put, are under good aspects. Care is urged in written matters, however.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Good aspects for substantial matters, activities concerned with the arts, decorating, gardening, etc.; dealings with those in authority; seeking advancement and favors. All in all, a good day.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Be careful if taking on added responsibilities, and in legal affairs. Know exactly what you are assuming. Day can be delightful for home, family, artistic interests. Be enthusiastic, helpful; but don't overdo.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Assistance from important friends, some new prosperity indicated. The Sun and Moon, by auspicious aspects, promote fresh interest in family, business affairs. Saturn's aspect, however, urges caution in all matters.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Your day begins a very good week. Aspects for tomorrow will be especially generous. Take time now to plan and arrange a good schedule for the balance of the week. It will prove profitable.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Emphasis is placed at work for your advancement; also some restrictive ones. Be careful in important or difficult situation. You should find artistry, skill at your command, however.

You born today have an engaging, magnetic personality; are daring, brave in nature, but sometimes careless of results. You are naturally kind, generous and willing to help others along the road to success, but may also be too demanding and exacting at times. Keep the "Golden Rule" ever in mind. Study, improve your talents and abilities all you can. Birthdate — Benj. Harrison, 23rd U. S. president.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, August 20, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Mixed influences should make for challenging day, yet it may be annoying in spots. Fine rays for artistic matters and mental work; influences less generous for purely practical affairs.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Your natal planet and some others augur for success through your own efforts, but Saturn and Mercury portions stress a need for caution in written matters, signing contracts, etc.; also in difficult tasks.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — A challenging set-up for you bright, active people. Remain alert to good possibilities — and there are many today. Avoid carelessness in signing docu-

Maybe he thought it was tired, pop said, and I said, I know how it'll get with him in a few years. The ice cream cones and delibrity eat one in front of Pods while I hold the other one and let it get soft and waist itself dripping without letting Pods on here on his shirt. Oh boy, if there's anything he hates it's to miss something to eat. I said.

Revenge is never as sweet as you expect it to be, pop said. Whenever you are tempted to do something for revenge, try to change your mind and do something else instead to trace that you don't bare malice. Then afterwards instead of blushing with shame you will blush with righteous satisfaction and that's the most becoming blush the human face is capable of, he said.

Well then heck, I'll try it anyways and make him sorry he's just the same, but I'll do it off a pure charity to teach him how generosity is the best of all, I said.

Which it probably is.

I was talking to pop about different subjects such as whether it would get monotonize to drive a jet plane faster than the speed of sound without seeing anything on the way, pop thinking it would and me thinking it wouldn't, and I said, Darn that guy Pods.

Why so? pop said, and I said, Because he's an stinger it's a wonder he dont get a bead aken on it. His byicicel was his worst agenst...they wall not only stop, bring, and he wouldn't even let me take a little ride on it, I said.

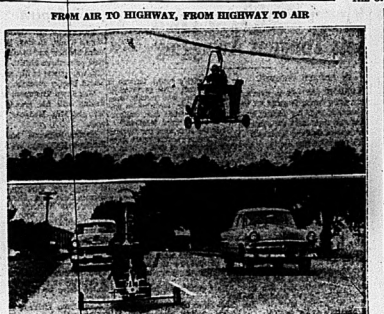
ELECT PRESIDENT

EDMONTON (CP)—Dr. Robert Gauthier of Ottawa, director of French education for Ontario, Friday was elected president of l'Association Canadienne des Educateurs de Langue Francaise.

FROM AIR TO HIGHWAY, FROM HIGHWAY TO AIR



Igor Bensen is shown, top, testing his gyro-copter, a one-man air-ground craft which he invented. He's shown (bottom) driving the vehicle along a highway near his home town, Raleigh, N.C., the craft is powered by a 40-horsepower, 4-cylinder engine. While in the air the craft is held aloft by a horizontal rotor which spins freely. In the event of power failure, the free spinning rotor allows the craft to lower gently to the ground. On the ground the rotor remains motionless and a small propellor behind the driver provides forward thrust for speed. It can do 50 m.p.h. in the air and 30 m.p.h. on the ground.

Highway Mishaps Claim 32 Lives, 15 in Quebec

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Thirty-two highway accidents pushed Canada's weekend accidental death toll to at least 47, a Canadian Press survey showed. Nine persons were drowned and six met death in mishaps.

The survey began at 6 p.m. local time Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

Quebec had the heaviest toll—20. Fifteen were killed on the highways and five were drowned. Ontario was next with 16, including eight highway deaths and four drownings.

British Columbia reported three deaths—all traffic. New Brunswick and Manitoba had two traffic deaths. Saskatchewan had two, one traffic and one miscellaneous. Alberta had one traffic fatality and Nova Scotia one miscellaneous death.

Three persons died at a level crossing near Tillsonburg, when their car was struck by a train, Ontario deaths:

Dr. W. J. Holley, 46, pathologist at Brantford General Hospital, was killed Friday night in a two-car collision near Brantford.

Peter Fairburn, 6, was killed Saturday when hit by a car as he walked to his grandmother's Bracebridge home with a companion.

Jerry Dick, 52, was killed in Port Arthur Saturday when hit by a train.

CHILD SUFFOCATES

Randy Dombrosky, 3, died Saturday of smoke suffocation when fire broke out in a general store in Bancroft, Ont.

Bulldozer operator Clifford Miller, 22, of Hamnton, six miles northeast of Oshawa, was smothered to death when his machine toppled over Friday night into a gravel pit and buried him in a minor landslide.

David John McMinn, 37, became Ottawa's 18th traffic fatality this year when killed Saturday night as his car rammed tree.

In Port Arthur Charles Biederman was fatally injured when hit by a car Saturday night.

Melvin Richard Aber, 22, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., was killed Sunday when thrown from his motorcycle in the Ridgeway district.

A passenger, Linda Schuk, 15, also of Niagara Falls, N.Y., was taken to hospital with burns on both legs and shock.

Randall Bray, 20 - month - old baby, was drowned Saturday in Atkins Lake, near Bracebridge.

ATTEMPTS RESCUE, DROWNS

Vincent J. Kramer, 45, was drowned Sunday at Port Colborne, trying to aid two girls who got into difficulties while swimming.

In Goderich Marius Blaquiere, 18, of St. Francois d'Assise, Que., was drowned in Lake Huron.

Douglas Sampson, 16-year-old fork-lift operator from Atikokan, was killed Friday when his machine overturned.

Canadian Boat Beaten

TORONTO (CP) — Herman F. (Swede) Whiton took the Seawanhaka Challenge Cup back to Seawanhaka, N.Y., Saturday by defeating the six - metre Royal Canadian Yacht Club's challenger Titia in a weekend brace of races.

Whiton, piloting the Goose, defeated Bill Goodersham's Titia in three races. The Titia last year was the first Canadian boat to win the cup in more than 50 years. To enter a Canadian boat must be Canadian-designed and built.

PLANE HITS HOUSES

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A twin-engined bomber came in at telephone pole level Saturday and smashed into three houses, killing all four officers aboard. No one on the ground was injured although tales of narrow escapes were many. Two girls sleeping in a room were covered with debris and a bed on which a two-year-old boy was lying was cut in two.

DENIES BULGANIN OUSTED

MOSCOW (Reuters)—A spokesman of the central committee of the Soviet Communist party Thursday denied that Premier Bulganin had been ousted from the Presidium of the party. He was commenting on a New York Times story which said that according to information from Prague, some leaders of Communist bloc states had been notified of the ousting of Bulganin.

O'Hara Abroad At Time Given For 'Cuddling'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The month in which a trial witness says Maureen O'Hara and a Latin lover cuddled at a Hollywood theatre loomed today as a major battle point in the crim inal libel trial of Confidential magazine.

The red-haired actress, who previously denied the story, issued a statement Saturday saying she was not even in the United States at the time the witness said it happened — November, 1953.

Her lawyer, Guy E. Ward, said that as a result of the testimony Miss O'Hara will raise the damage suit against the magazine.

James Craig, now an independent movie producer in London, testified Friday for the defense. He said that while he was assistant manager of Paramount's Chinese theatre in Hollywood in November, 1953, he ordered Miss O'Hara and the unidentified Latin out after twice finding them in amorous embraces.

HAS PASSPORT RECORD

Miss O'Hara said she has passport records and corroborating evidence from other witnesses to prove that she left the U.S. for Spain Oct. 6, 1953, to make a movie. She said she did not return until Jan. 11, 1954.

The defence is fighting the libel charge by trying to prove the truth of the stories Confidential printed about celebrities. Lawyer Arthur J. Crowley, representing two co-defendants, Fred and Marjorie Meade, alleged Hollywood agents of Confidential, said Sunday:

"James Craig . . . was not positive of the exact date of the occurrence. The date is not matter. We know it was in the fall of 1953 and we have other witnesses who will testify they saw her in the theatre that night. We also know the identity of the Latin-type man who was with her in that rear row."

Deputy District Attorney William Ritzi, prosecuting the case, said he proposes to produce rebuttal witnesses after Crowley concludes his case, but "whether Miss O'Hara will be one of them I don't want to say at this point." He said one of the reasons the prosecution hadn't called the actress to testify was to let the defence first set the date of November, 1953, for the alleged incident.

"He (Craig) said it two or three times," Ritzi said, adding: "They (the defence) have dug their hole; they've set the date."

APPROVES INCREASE

WINDSOR (CP)—The board of directors of the Ontario Credit Union League Sunday night approved a revision of dues for its teen-age members, effective next Jan. 1. The directors, in monthly session here, approved a new schedule of $1 for all members over the age of 18. The old rate was 50 cents for those 16 years or over.

SHOULD DISCIPLINE

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Graham told parents Sunday night they should discipline their children, and approved, with scriptural quotation to support him, use of the rod and woodshed. Graham, holding special meetings for teen-agers in his Madison Square Garden crusade, also told the teen-agers present they could get inner beauty and outward charm from Christ that would "last you all of your life."

Travelling in China Is Easy With Intourist as Nursemaid

By DAVID HOTHAM

PEIPING (AP)—Travelling in China is the easiest thing in the world, especially if you are someone the Chinese wish to impress, such as a foreign journalist.

From the moment you cross the frontier from Hong Kong you are in the hands of the Chinese Intourist. Intourist acts as your guardian angel wherever you go in China. They book your seat for you, put you on the train, put your luggage on the train, pay the porters, hand you your tickets, help you through the customs, make excellent conversation in your own particular language—and of course charge for it. But not unreasonably.

The Intourist interpreters are young men employed by the Chinese state, and all of them have three or four good years of Marx-Leninism at the university behind them as well as the study of English or other languages. They are also ideologically well equipped, and there is no fear that they will be corrupted by any bourgeois ideas.

Nursed in these paragons, one has nothing to eat but lean back in one's comfortable seat as the train rolls through the countryside of China, to the inevitable accompaniment of Chinese music from the train radio.

BAR WINDOW VIEW

The windows of Chinese trains seem to be designed to prevent the traveller looking out of them. This is achieved by placing a broad band of extremely untransparent wood across the window at exactly the level of the eye. In order to observe the countryside, one must either crane one's neck like a giraffe or bend oneself almost double.

What does one see as one chugs for hour after hour through this immense country: What does China look like through the carriage window?

To begin with, what surprised me, despite the fact that I had so often been told, China is surprisingly beautiful. South China is a land of strange and haunting beauty. It consists of an infinity of terraced paddy fields between smallish rounded hills.

The whole country is sliced, as with a giant's pelette knife, into a bewildering series of geometrical areas—squares, triangles, semicircles, oblongs and trapezoids—each of which is a little field, and each packed with the shoots of the rice crop.

Every cranny between the hills is terraced and sown, and the carpets or rice plants descend like long gentle staircases of bottle green to the level of the lower ground. The whole land is chiselled and moulded by the toil of centuries.

There are few overt signs as one travels that China is a country under Communist rule—the red star at the stations, an occasional picture of Mao Tse-Tung, a good deal of official talk on the radio. Otherwise it all looks much like what one sees travelling in any other country.

CLEANLINESS IS AIM

One of the most curious aspects of Communist China is the passion for cleanliness. At every station the buffet attendants wear white coats impregnated with menthol. The practice is not obligatory, but many people have become conscious through publicity campaigns of the dangers of germs in the air to which they are continually exposed.

Sometimes this becomes almost a mania. Several times an hour throughout one three-day journey we were forced to lift our feet off the carriage floor while it was mopped by the railway attendant. Wherever one looked, people seemed to be mopping and scouring.

Even so, Chinese spitting, which has always been a remarkable feature of the race, seems hardly to have diminished at all under communism.

At the great plain of the Yellow River, and still more to the north of it, wheat and kao-liang —a sort of Chinese corn—replace rice as the main crop. The ox and the donkey, and the occasional horse, replace the water buffalo. The farming becomes almost European in character, but I did not see a single tractor throughout the journey. Nor, for that matter, a single machine more complicated than a wheelbarrow.

day enroute to their home in Oakville after visiting relatives in Bathhurst, N.B.

The Reverend David Heslip, Mrs. Heslip and little son, Bruce, Carberry, Manitoba, spent last weekend with the former's father, the Reverend M. W. Heslip, Cecelia and Miss Heslip, at the Manse in Madoc. Sunday at the morning service the young son of the Rev. David and Mrs. Heslip was baptized Bruce Marshall Heslip, by his father, the Rev. M. W. Heslip. Mr. Heslip also assisted his father in the morning service bringing a thoughtful message to the united congregations of St. Peters' and Trinity United churches.

PROPOSAL REJECTED

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives judiciary committee Thursday rejected by 17 to 11 an administration-backed proposal to grant permanent residence in the United States to 25,000 Hungarian refugees. The vote means that the refugees may continue to stay in the U.S. indefinitely, but may not become naturalized or apply for citizenship. Whether Congress ultimately will grant them this privilege remains for the future.

Vivien Leigh's Vacation Sets Tongues Awagging

By RONALD THOMSON

LONDON (AP)—Is a married lady doing wrong in going off on vacation with her former husband and their child even though her present husband approves?

This question has become a debating point in Britain. In the centre of the talk is actress Vivien Leigh, who has set tongues wagging with a jaunt to Italy in the company of her first spouse, Leigh Holman and their 22-year-old daughter Suzanne.

Adding a fillip to the controversy is the fact Vivien's present hubby, actor Sir Laurence Olivier, is spending his holiday in Britain with his son by his previous marriage to actress Jill Esmond.

It was all too much for a lady member of Parliament. She denounced Miss Leigh's vacation as setting a "terrible example" for the country's young people.

RUDE, SAYS VIVIEN

From Italy Miss Leigh shrugged off the criticism as "ill-considered and rude." But the affair has been taken up with gusto by press and public. The prevailing view seems to be that the dark-haired actress—the screen's Scarlett O'Hara—has a perfect right to be on the friendliest of terms with the man from whom she was divorced 17 years ago.

Later this month Miss Leigh plans to go on alone to Yugoslavia. There she will be joined by her present husband, the handsome Sir Britain's first family of the theatre.

Mrs. Jean Mann, a grey-haired Labor MP who has been divorced only once in her 67 years and has five children, found the vacation business too much for her Scottish tastes. She told a conference of social workers:

"You can pack your first husband up—this is what our young people will be telling us—and you can go on holiday with him now and again. You might even be able to spend weekends with the first and the middle of the week with the second. It is a terrible example for people who occupy high places in life to place before our children."

In a television interview later, Mrs. Mann made this further point: "It indicates to me that divorce has been too easy if a woman can find her ex-husband so congenial company that she can spend a holiday with him."

Miss Leigh's reply, through a reporter, was: "The presence of my daughter, who usually lives with her father, furnishes to any reasonable person the explanation of our vacations together."

It is the first time the Oliviers have spent a vacation apart since their marriage in 1941.

If Mrs. Mann hoped to win support from British newspapers she was badly disappointed.

William N. Connor, vitriolic columnist of the mass-circulation Daily Mirror, who writes under the name Cassandra, ripped into Mrs. Mann.

PURPOSE QUERIED

"What is her purpose?" he wrote. "Does she want matrimonial unhappiness to endure for ever? Does she want the bitterness of divorce to bloom endlessly like a spray of belladonna?

"What pestiferous rubbish this is!"

Two other newspapers ran editorials urging Mrs. Mann to apologize to Miss Leigh. The Daily Express said she has been guilty of "crass impertinence." The Daily Herald said Mrs. Mann was opening the door to the nastiness of a witch hunt."

Columnist Sarah Jenkins of The News Chronicle was a lone voice congratulating the Scotswoman for assailing "these airy attitudes to life."

U.S. Hopes Arab Lands Will Fight Syria's Red Ties

Neighbors Said Alarmed By Drift Toward Kremlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — American diplomats in the Middle East are seeking to impress on the Arab states the danger of Syria becoming a Soviet satellite.

Officials here say, without elaboration, that they have indications already that Syria's neighbors are gravely concerned, and they expected these other Arab countries to counsel Syria's government against drifting any further toward Kremlin domination.

United States officials are adding support, authorities say, to this counsel in talks with Arab diplomats in the capitals of Jordan, Lebanon, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and even Egypt, which itself is closely involved with Moscow through heavy arms purchases.

Possible action by the Arab League has not been ruled out. Nor is it considered beyond possibility that Egypt's President Nasser might throw his weight behind the breach opened in the Communists in the Arab position against undue influence from either East or West.

HAS THE CHANCE

Nasser has ample opportunity to do this, he wished to. Syria's President Shukri Kuwatly now is in Egypt to consult with Nasser and get medical attention. Kuwatly went there just before assassination of Adib Shisy, variously called a Communist and a conservative, was reported to head the Syrian Army.

But beyond talking to Syria's neighbors, the American plan has boiled as yet for coping with probably the most determined debut by Moscow for Middle East domination.

Sir Harold Caccia, British ambassador to Washington, Monday declared that Syria is following a pattern which may make her Syria's first Middle East satellite.

It that happens, the Communist will have succeeded where the Czars failed. The Russians already have a foothold in Egypt thanks to Nasser's purchase of some $250,000,000 worth of Soviet arms, which includes submarines. Syria, too, expects to get submarines in its estimated $70,000,000 arms deal with Russia.

DAMASCUS (CP)—Syria today instructed its United Nations delegation to call the attention of the Security Council to a "serious threat to Middle East security" stemming from an alleged American plot against the Syrian regime, but did not demand any action by the council.

The Syrian government said last week the U.S. was involved in a plot to assassinate its president. This was followed by an attack by the Syrian foreign minister, Sayed Salah el Bitar, on the U.S. for trying to destroy Syria's independence.

Bitar, in a prepared statement, issued at a press conference Monday night, called the Eisenhower doctrine "the most dangerous plan adopted by Western powers wards Arab countries," and said that because of it Arab states have a right to take any decisions and dissension among themselves.

Referring to current reports abroad about a purge in Syria, Bitar said: "Imperialist agents have set up propaganda machinery in Beirut to provide certain Lebanese newspapers with distorted news items so that they will be used as a tool for agencies to the world as if they were spontaneous signs of Arab newspapers."

He discounted reports of the arrest of a number of army officers, saying only that 10 were retired because of the interest of the country required it.

CLAIMS FREEDOM LOSS

Bitar charged that countries accepting U.S. aid under the doctrine of American support against Soviet aggression have lost their freedom of action in domestic affairs and are "obliged to the intrigues and plots against Syria and Egypt."

The main purpose of Eisenhower's doctrine is to destroy the nationalist unity of Middle Eastern countries and to give them pieces-meal to Zionism and imperialism and lead them to an end to nationalism."

The U.S. had tried to teopardize Syrian sovereignty by imposing a political economic blockade. Considerable quantities of American wheat had been offered at exorbitant prices to countries which used to buy Syrian wheat.

Asked if Syria will break off relations with the U.S., Bitar said "this entirely depends upon the future position of the American government and its next steps."

Meanwhile, a Syrian parliamentary delegation has accepted an invitation to visit the Soviet Union.

REPORT DELAYED

TORONTO (CP) — A controversy on the location of a new transit system has delayed completion of the metropolitan Toronto planning board's report on rapid transit expansion, a board official said Monday. The deadline was set for submission of the report to Metro council but it is expected to be early in 1958.

Drives His Car At Armed Thug, Four Shots Miss

TORONTO (CP)—John White, 23, told police and his girl friend he didn't think the gun he pulled from a glove compartment and aimed at the man fired four shots. Two missed White's car, one went through the front window, narrowly missing White, and one struck the front of the car. White was cut by flying glass.

Police later arrested Richard James Miller, 21, at his suburban York Township home and charged him with armed robbery.

CHARGE MOTORIST

BRANTFORD (CP) — Armand Parisien, 24, of Brantford, died Friday in a two-car collision in which Dr. W. J. Holley, 46, Brantford pathologist, was killed was charged Monday with criminal negligence. Remanded for a later hearing, he was released on $1,000 bail.

This cooler air advanced as far south as North Bay-Sudbury this morning and is expected to cover the remainder of the province by Wednesday morning.

TWO MINISTERS, FOUR ASSISTANTS CHOSEN BY P.M.

Cabinet Now Complete Until House Opening

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker has appointed a second member from Saskatchewan and a sixth from Ontario to the cabinet.

They will be all "for the time being" he said Monday in announcing the appointments of J. Waldo Monteith, 54, as minister of health and welfare and Alvin Hamilton, 45, as minister of northern affairs.

Both were surprises. Mr. Monteith, who represents Ontario's Perth constituency, is the only member of Mr. Diefenbaker's cabinet who is not on the front bench of the Progressive Conservative ranks in the last session of Parliament. Mr. Hamilton, who has no Commons experience but won the June 10 vote in Qu'Appelle constituency, gives Saskatchewan more than one cabinet member for the first time since 1945.

ACTING ON BASIS

Two portfolios of Mr. Diefenbaker's 26-member cabinet—citizenship and immigration and citizenship and immigration—are still being held by acting ministers. Acting ministers of other departments, and Mr. Diefenbaker said Monday he has no intention of "any change" in the external affairs portfolio which he himself holds.

Mr. Diefenbaker also named four parliamentary assistants.

Mr. Monteith, a Stratford accountant, has represented Perth since 1953. Veterans Minister A. J. Brooks, Progressive Conservative Brunswick's Royal riding, had held the health portfolio on a temporary basis. Hon. Paul Martin held the post in the former Liberal administration.

Mr. Hamilton, a former Saskatoon collegiate teacher and former Conservative party leader in Saskatchewan, was unsuccessful Conservative candidate provincial and two federal—before winning the June 10 vote in Qu'Appelle. He holds the same portfolio who represents Prince Albert, to give Saskatchewan two cabinet representatives out of three Conservative Commons members.

Seek Injunction To Halt Pickets

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit newspaper publishers sought again today to obtain a court order prohibiting picketing of the Detroit News and open the way to publication of the city's largest daily.

Judge Horace W. Gilmore denied a preliminary injunction Monday after preliminary arguments. He promised a final decision today.

The publishers sought the injunction against the International Mailers Union (Ind.), which threw picket lines around the News building Saturday in a dispute over the firing of 97 mailers. The Detroit Times and the Detroit Free Press later suspended publication in accordance with an agreement among the publishers who contend that "a strike against one paper is a strike against all."

Policeman Severs Burning Wires, Averts Blast After Fatal Crash

MONTREAL (CP)—One man was killed and another injured when a 10-ton truck careened down a busy street through a red light and crashed head-on into five vehicles Monday night.

The tragedy nearly became a major disaster when short-circuited wires in the truck — a cement mixer — caught fire near spilled gasoline and threatened to explode as hundreds of people watched from around the accident scene.

The fire was put out by a quick-thinking police sergeant, who cut the wires and extinguished the flames.

Eugene Boisvert, 23, died two hours after being rushed to hospital. Police said he was a native of Ottawa, but was living temporarily in Montreal.

Abraham Nathan, 57-year-old merchant, was taken to hospital where his condition was reported not critical. He was being treated for shock and leg injuries.

Police said the truck, owned by O. Beaudry and Sons and driven by Phillipe Clement, 23, was travelling south on Cathedral St. when it ploughed through a red light, clipped the rear end of a truck heading west on St. James St. and then smashed into Boisvert's car.

"My brakes didn't hold," Clement told police. "I saw the light at St. James changing and stepped on the brakes, but the air went out of them. I was coming down in second and pulled—my brakes didn't hold. It was too late then."

The truck slamming into Boisvert's car, travelling east on St. James St., then struck the Nathan car and flung Nathan to the street.

Boisvert's car was then carried into the intersection finishing north on Cathedral St. and crushed between the two. Another truck was also hit.

Sergeant Leo Plouffe arrived on the scene soon afterwards. "The first thing I noticed were the burning wires," he said. "I grabbed some tools, cut the wires and put out the fire just before it reached the gasoline. It would have been some explosion."

LABOR REPRESENTATIVES MEET FOR MURDOCHVILLE DEMONSTRATION

Violence flared yesterday at Murdochville, Que., in lengthy strike at the Gaspe Copper Mines Ltd. Labor representatives from various parts of Quebec, are here shown meeting in front of the legislative buildings in Quebec City, prior to their departure for Murdochville, where they picketed the mines. This picketing resulted in a clash in which six men were injured and three cars overturned.

London Girl, 16, Wrecks Car To Escape Kidnapper's Knife

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A terrified 16-year-old girl, kidnapped at knifepoint in her own car at a busy intersection in the heart of the city, deliberately crashed into another car.

Cecile Fox, daughter of pawnbroker Nathan and Mrs. Fox of London, verged on hysteria when she first screaming but unharmed in the accident while he himself holds.

Mr. Diefenbaker also named four parliamentary assistants.

Mr. Monteith, a Stratford accountant, has represented Perth since 1953. Veterans Minister A. J. Brooks, Progressive Conservative Brunswick's Royal riding, had held the health portfolio on a temporary basis. Hon. Paul Martin held the post in the former Liberal administration.

Farms, Not Industry, Require Tariffs States Goodfellow

TIMMINS (CP) — Agriculture Minister Goodfellow of Ontario says farms, not industry, need federal government protection from foreign competition.

He told a Porcupine Chamber of Commerce dinner Monday night that farming is suffering from a hangover of Sir John A. Macdonald's 19th-century policy of high tariffs to protect and create new industry. Tariffs are taxes on goods brought into Canada from abroad.

"The time was when farming was the principal occupation and we had to subsidize industry. Now the time has gone when industry needs protection. It is the

Canada's Wheat Exports Down 260,000,000 Bushels

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's wheat exports dropped in the last crop year as sales declined both to International Wheat Agreement customers and those behind the Iron Curtain.

Trade Minister Fleming said Monday the estimate over-all shipments skidded to some 260,000,000 bushels in the year ended July 31, compared with record sales of 523,273,000 a year previous. Exports averaged about 282,000,000 bushels in the last eight years with the high of 385,500,000 reached in 1952-53.

The drop occurred despite a sizeable 12-cent-a-bushel Canadian price decline. Some of this drop was due to dollar exchange fluctuations and some because of federal policy. Current Lakehead prices for No. 1 northern wheat is $1.61 a bushel, compared with $1.73 a year ago. In 1953 Canadian wheat was quoted at $2.03 at the crop year opening.

For many years the International Wheat Agreement had been a bone of contention between authorities as a stabilizing force to reduce world wheat surpluses and others as a threat to bring some security for Canadian farmers.

But because the existing 47-country IWA has been sharply criticized by Russia, Canada's chief buyer, has refused to enter the pact. Under the current three year agreement signed last year Canada accepted a lower export quota—reduced by one-third to 99,700,000 bushels—in line with a smaller over-all IWA market.

However, Canada seemed to have difficulty finding customers for even this small quota. Her sales to IWA customers totalled 102,526,000 bushels. It would take 132,000,000-bushel quota. Other exporters are Australia, Argentina, France and the U.S.

Of the whole 293,500,000-bushel IWA market shared by the six countries, 247,700,000 bushels of sales were sold.

Today the new crop year which opened Aug. 1, quotas have remained unchanged. Canada entered the new crop year with unprecedented stocks of some 722,000,000 bushels, 140,000,000 more than last year. Canada accents only dollars for her wheat. The U.S. also will insist on dollars for wheat for other goods, provides long-term credit and accepts local currencies.

Along with a decline in IWA sales Canada experienced a sharp drop in shipments to Iron Curtain countries. In the 1955-56 crop year, Canada sold about 40,000,000 bushels to Communist countries. Shipments fell to nothing in 10,000,000 last year.

Mr. Fleming also will undoubtedly continue to exercise a major influence on the market.

She is the world's biggest buyer and the top buyer of, Canadian wheat. Last year post-war year Canada has sold her as much as 150,000,000 bushels to the U.S.S.R. The first 11 months of the last crop year, Canadian exports to that country dipped to 72,000,000 bushels, down from 90,000,000 in the year previous.

INDIANS TO VOTE

WALLACEBURG, Ont. (CP)—About 550 Indians on Walpole Island near here will vote Sept. 3 to decide whether they will allow oil explorations of the island. Earlier this year, an oil company bid $40,000 for exploration rights. However, Indian agent Fred Hall said if the proposal were approved, any oil company could bid for the rights.

CANADIANS WILL PAY HIGHER TRAIN FARES

Increases Possible By September 1st

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians in many parts of the country, will be paying higher train fares—possibly by Sept. 1.

The board of transport commissioners has approved a railway request for authority to increase passenger fares by 10 per cent.

But the full boost likely will apply only on first class travel while coach fares will increase by five per cent.

Chairman C. J. Campbell of the Canadian Passenger Association said in Montreal the regional rates fares will rise are "pretty well spread across Canada." The association applied last fall for the boosts on behalf of some 41 railways, bus and steamship lines in ways in Canada on matters of common interest.

Mr. Campbell said trans-Canada fares and commuters fares—against, and even one reason for abandoned Canadian farms and a shift in population from country to city.

Mr. Goodfellow said a lifting of tariffs would come in the provincial government will lack profits producers find their costs mounting and settle their own prices. The farmer might get a better deal that way, he said.

Raging Mob Rips Apart Offices In Union Building

Sacking Comes After Labor Men Leave Murdochville

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (CP) A raging mob of 100 men Monday night ripped apart the offices of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) in this strike-torn mining community, then overturned and battered cars, automobiles and a truck.

The sacking of the union's offices, on the main street of this isolated Gaspe Peninsula town, came shortly after 450 labor delegates from all parts of the province had ended a protest demonstration that ended when police, using tear gas bombs, broke up a stone-throwing clash between the visitors and 200 non-strikers.

All the windows in the union equipment was heaved out of windows and cars carrying pro-union strikers were overturned. Tires were slashed and upholstery torn out.

The wild - eyed group, many carrying blackjacks and knives, was met by a 30-men provincial police squad, rounded up and ordered to their company bunkhouses. The men were told they would be dangerous with guns if they moved from the building.

NO INJURIES

There were no arrests, no injuries and no property damage except to the offices and vehicles.

The violence broke out earlier in the day when the stone-throwing incidents occurred as a result of a pitched battle between non-striking employees of Gaspe Copper Mines Limited and the visiting labor delegation.

The delegation was headed by top labor officials, including Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, and Gerard Picard, president of the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor.

They formed a motorcade of 70 cars and three buses which left Quebec City Sunday. They arrived here early Monday and set up picket lines.

Some carried placards with the slogan "The union is here to stay." One of the principal purposes of the demonstration was to get permission for the USWA to picket.

INSULTS EXCHANGED

Police gave special permission for the demonstrators to picket during the 24-hour period. When the lines were set up a group of non-striking employees, standing "in a high elevation overlooking the mine gate, began exchanging insults with the union members.

Should Play 'All Shook up' And Get Butter

LONDON (AP) — Red China's farmers are learning that Communist rule and collectivism have known for a long time: Cows go a lot more milk under the influence of soft, sweet music.

Radio Peking, quoting the official People's Daily, said that Communist farmers have thus increased the output of their cows by 16 per cent, but "when the music stopped or became too noisy, the milk output dropped."

U.S. Air Force Doctor in Balloon Enjoying 'Ringside View of Heaven'

CROSBY, Minn. (AP)—"I have a ringside view of the heavens— it is indescribable."

This was the message early today from a United States Air Force doctor still riding a huge balloon aloft after setting an altitude record of 100,000 feet— about 18 miles—Monday in his first 15 hours aloft.

Maj. David G. Simons said by radio that the night heavens ranged from deep violet to jet black and that he had an excellent view of the aurora borealis.

The polyethylene bag 200 feet long and 200 in diameter, was launched from a 450-foot-deep mine pit Monday. It was tracked by radar to a point over Webster, Saskatchewan, South Dakota, at 11:30 p.m. It had travelled some 235 air miles in the first 14 hours.

In a brief radio comment, Simons reported viewing the western shore of Lake Michigan, from a point above Brainerd, Minn., and Fargo, N.D., a distance of some 450 miles. He said that by looking closely he could make out the earth's curvature.

Aside from condition reports, Simons has been busy with scientific data to be used in evaluating space problems for future flights and a brown in Glanmore Gallery. CP Cable Toronto.

Accused Given Six Months on Liquor Charge

Pleading guilty to a charge of unlawfully keeping liquor for sale at his home, Spencer Kirkey was sentenced to six months in jail by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in city magistrate's court this morning.

In addition Magistrate Wills declared Mr. Kirkey's house a public place, giving the police the right to enter it without a search warrant. It was Mr. Kirkey's second offence.

In other city magistrate's court action two young men were remanded until August 27 on charges of breaking and entering.

According to police, James Edward Riley, 19, and Kenneth John Reid, 22, were apprehended Sunday at the community swimming pool canteen with a shopping bag, packed with cartons of chocolate bars, other candy and peanuts, in their possession.

Barry Edward Lockwood, 18, Willowdale, was also remanded until August 27. He is charged with unlawfully having a dangerous weapon in his possession Saturday.

Cedrick Maracle pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a motor vehicle while his operator's licence was under suspension. He was fined $25 and assessed costs of $3.50.

Charged with driving while intoxicated Saturday, Clifford A. Carmichael pleaded not guilty. He was remanded to Friday, August 23rd.

Sidney Twp. Barn Burns

Fire of undetermined origin Monday afternoon destroyed a small barn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Vader, 2nd concession Sidney township, with about $75 worth of hay and a rooster going up in flames.

No animals were in the barn at the time of the blaze.

The fire was first noticed by a neighbor who turned in the alarm. No insurance was carried on the building.

City firemen answered the alarm but could do little to save the building.

Firemen answered two grass fires yesterday, one to Bowell street and the other to the Carrying Place Road.

This morning the reels were called to the rear of Woolworth's Store where a fire was of suspicious origin.

A cigaret butt was said to have been the cause of the blaze, which burned the rear cushions of the auto.

Clarence A. Jones, Picton, Sent to Trial for Murder

PICTON (Staff) — Clarence A. Jones, 52, prominent Picton grocery store operator, was committed for trial here Monday on a charge of murdering his wife, Mary, 54, last July 17th.

Mr. Jones was committed for trial by Magistrate T. Y. Wills of Belleville, following a 45-minute preliminary hearing in which only three witnesses were called. It is expected Mr. Jones will stand trial at the Prince Edward county fall assizes scheduled to commence on October 28th.

Every seat in the Prince Edward county council chamber was occupied as the hearing got under way, showing the interest of Picton and district citizenry in the charge against one of its prominent citizens.

It is the first murder case in Prince Edward County since the Tweddle case back in 1929.

Mrs. Jones' body was discovered July 18th at Jones cottage on Lake Ontario road, killed by a bullet which entered her neck and passed through the body.

Clarence Jones is being defended by Fred L. Ward of Picton, assisted by G. A. Martin, Q.C., prominent criminal lawyer from Toronto. Crown counsel is Alex Hall, county attorney for Ontario county.

MANAGER GIVES EVIDENCE

First witness was Harold W. Haddon, manager of Mr. Jones' Picton store.

Mr. Haddon told the court that at 7.15 on the morning of July 18th he had received a call at his home from Mr. Jones asking him to come to the store.

He did so. Mr. Jones had met him at the door and quoted him as saying: "I have got bad news for you. I shot Mary."

"I asked him what had happened and if there was anything I could do," Mr. Haddon went on. He said Mr. Jones then asked him to tell Leonard (Mr. Jones' brother) and George Pollock (chief of police of Picton).

WENT TO COTTAGE

Mr. Haddon said he had gone to the police and later with Chief Pollock and Constable Bolster of the Ontario Provincial Police, had gone to the Jones' cottage on the Glenora road.

He said they had looked in a window and saw an arm protruding from beneath a sheet on a day bed. They had then gone inside and found Mrs. Jones dead.

Mr. Haddon had seen no fire-arm at the cottage but to a question from Crown Counsel Alex Hall, said Mr. Jones had owned several rifles.

"Did he have a .303?" asked Mr. Hall.

"Yes," was the reply. "He had shown it to me."

"When you were speaking with Mr. Jones on the morning of July 18th was there any mention of a .303 rifle?"

"Yes," Mr. Haddon replied "I think I asked him what had been used and he answered the .303."

Under cross examination by Defence Counsel G. A. Martin, Q.C., of Toronto, Mr. Haddon said that Mr. Jones had been fond of his wife.

"And he used to consult her about things, is that correct?" asked Mr. Martin.

"Yes," was the reply.

Next witness was Dr. William Douglas Hay, Kingston, provincial pathologist for this section of Ontario.

Dr. Hay said he had conducted a post mortem on the body of Mrs. Jones starting late in the afternoon of July 18th.

LONG IRREGULAR TEAR

He said there had been a wound in the left side of the neck and a long irregular tear over the right shoulder blade four inches in length.

He had traced the wound which he said went at a 45 degree angle down through the wildpipe, into the right chest and upper lobe of the right lung. The third rib had been splintered and the shoulder blade shattered.

"My conclusion was that a bullet of considerable size and speed had passed through and out of the body," he said. He said he had seen no powder burns where the bullet had entered.

"How long would the woman live?" asked Mr. Hall.

Dr. Hay replied that considerable time would last within half an hour and death would be within an hour.

He had died at the time of death about 24 hours before commencement of the autopsy.

Asked by Mr. Martin under cross examination if there was any conclusion as to how close the gun had been, Dr. Hay said there was no way to tell, reiterating that there had been no powder burns.

Cpl. Herbert Bolster of the Picton detachment of the O.P.P. said he had been contacted at 8:15 on the morning of July 18th. He had gone to the Jones' cottage and looking through a window had seen a person lying on a couch with arm showing and the feet on the floor The body was covered with a sheet and there were bloodstains on the bed.

FOUND RIFLE IN COTTAGE

He said he had found a .303 rifle in one room of the cottage. The rifle was in an upright position just inside the door. The rifle is now at the RCMP laboratory in Kingston.

The corporal said three bullet holes had been found in a bedroom and window sash but could not say if they had been made by the same bullet. No empty or metal tip of a bullet had been found on the window.

To a question as to whether he had found any cartridges, the corporal replied no.

However under cross examination by Mr. Martin, Cpl. Bolster said he understood two empty shell cases had been found in the cottage by Sergeant Reg. Rackham, Belleville O.P.P. police photographer.

"Yes," was the reply, "both liquor and beer bottles."

Further questioning regarding the shell cases brought out that one had been found under the day bed and the other in the kitchen.

NO CARTRIDGES IN GUN

There had been no live cartridges in the gun but the corporal had been found in the cottage, Cpl. Bolster said.

Crown Counsel Alex Hall closed his case observing that he believed a prima facia case had been established.

"Have you anything to say?" asked Magistrate Wills, referring Mr. Jones to stand before committing him for trial.

"We have no statement and no witnesses to call", replied Mr. Martin.

Throughout the hearing Mr. Jones appeared at ease although at times he rested his head in his left hand and lightly tapped the arm of the chair with his right hand.

HARRY REDFERN
(Kirkland Lake — Belleville)

In ill health for some time, Harry Redfern, 84 St. Charles Street, Belleville, retired C. N. R. engineer, died in Kirkland Lake General Hospital on Monday afternoon. Although Mr. Redfern maintained his home in this city he had spent many of his retired years visiting his family in many parts of the country. At the time of his death he was visiting his son in Kirkland Lake.

The late Mr. Redfern was born in England, 80 years ago and came to this city in 1911, where he joined the old Grand Trunk Railway. He became a fireman, and later a driver, and retired and worked out of this terminal for many years, the last few pulling the fast passenger trains. He retired in 1942. He was well known in railway circles and in this community both by the management and his fellow employees and his death will be sincerely regretted by a wide circle of friends.

He was a member of Christ Church and fraternally was a life member of Loyal Lodge A. F. and A. M. and the Loyal Order of the Moose No. 1008. Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Thomas (Margaret) Hetherington of Ottawa, and three sons, Harry Redfern of Ottawa, Jack Redfern of Kirkland Lake and Cecil Redfern of Lethbridge, Alta. Also surviving are eleven grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Resting at the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home, 60 Victoria Ave., at Church Street. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Few Incidents as Dairies Start Wholesale Deliveries

Wholesale delivery of milk by the dairies was undertaken in Belleville and Trenton this morning for the first time since the milk delivery strike nearly four weeks ago but the delivery was not accomplished without incident.

In both centres, at Reid's Dairy in Belleville, and at Riverside Dairy in Trenton, strikers demonstrated by marching around delivery trucks as they left the dairies.

In both Trenton and Belleville a picketer was taken to hospital after allegedly being struck by a vehicle.

Taken to Belleville General Hospital by Bush's Ambulance was George Gill, 294 Front St., who was said to have been struck by a car at Reid's dairy. Mr. Gill went home after a check-up.

Ray Trenton a picketer, Charles Tavigno, business agent of the milk delivery men's local, is said to have suffered an arm injury when struck by a delivery truck. He was about to leave the strike-bound Riverside Dairy.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Tavigno is said to have fallen to the pavement writhing in pain and was taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Strikers at Trenton said that charges may be laid against the driver of the truck, while at Belleville police are also investigating the incident but Police Inspector J. C. Hayes said no charges would be laid today.

Strikers at Reid's Dairy in Belleville occurred just before eight o'clock.

As the two loaded delivery trucks were ready to leave to start the wholesale deliveries to stores, picketers were said to have mustered around them. A dairy employee drove up in his car and his vehicle is said to have been jostled by the strikers. As the car was being driven away Mr. Gill is claimed to have been struck and fell under the bumper.

At noon Belleville police said that all was quiet at the dairies and no further incidents had been taken place.

Jenkins' Yacht Winner of Wills Trophy

Jim Jenkins sailed his 6-meter yacht "Rutta II" to victory over a fleet of nine yachts to win the Wills Trophy on Sunday afternoon. The race was held in Big Bay over a six-mile triangular course with a start and finish off Massassaga Point. Course was buoys to port with a southwest wind at 15 to 20 knots.

The yachts were closely grouped all down the first leg to Big Island and several rounded the first mark with overlap. On the second leg of the course, a broad reach to round a race buoy off Salmon Island, the boats held their closely grouped position behind the leader Rutta II. The final leg to the finish line was a dead beat to windward which scattered the fleet over a wide area as the yachts split tacks in an effort to get the most favorable conditions for their boats. The elapsed times of the contesting yachts were as follows:

Rutta II 1.21.26 — Jim Jenkins.
Tafun 1.22.02 — Ian Morch.
Valkyrie II 1.25.33 — Bill Greaves.
Naiad 1.32.33 — Frank Foley.
Winddrift 1.33.22 — Jack Sills.
Seahorse 1.34.28 — Harwood Wickerson.
Viking 1.34.21 — Freeman Burrows.
Halcyon 1.38.00 — Harold Seldon.
The Hartey! 1.50.00 — Ernst Kneisel.

The Wills Trophy, won this year by Rutta II, was presented by Colonel P. H. Wills on behalf of Wills Hardware in 1951 for annual competition for keel yachts over 21 feet. Each year a special race has been held in Big Bay for this beautiful trophy which is a large silver ornamented punch bowl.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market took another backward step today during heavier morning trading. It was the seventh decline in the last eight sessions.

Trading was the fastest since July 2. Volume at 11 a.m. was 999,000 shares compared with 587,000 at the same time Monday.

Industrials, base metals and western oils all lost at least a point on their indexes. Golds were virtually unchanged.

Observers said the decline, the trend of which was set by Wall Street, was a combination of technical factors and the new crisis in the Middle East.

Industrial losses ranged to four points, led by Hayes Steel at 4 up 30 cents to $3.30.

Windsor Council Tries to Block U.S. Atom Plant

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The federal government will be asked by Windsor to try to delay construction of an atomic power plant across the Detroit River about seven miles north of Monroe, Mich.

City council Monday night decided to make the request after George Burt, Canadian director of the United Auto Workers, said the plant could be hazardous. Mr. Burt said Amherstburg was in an especially dangerous position because of prevailing winds but he said Windsor and Detroit "belong to Windsor, Detroit and Toledo."

Council resolution asks the federal government to "intervene on the highest diplomatic levels" with the U.S. to postpone construction of the plant until more is known about the process to be used.

Hunt for Soldier After Two Cars Found in River

DES JARDINVILLE, Que. (CP)—Police launched a search for a soldier from Petawawa, Ont., after two cars were recovered from the Ottawa River at this community about 90 miles northwest of Ottawa.

One of the cars, sighted by 11-year-old Roland Sawyer as he swam off the dock here, is believed to have been driven by Edgar Wright, a soldier with the Canadian Armored Corps at Petawawa military camp. The other car is believed to be a rental car.

Wright, holidaying here with his wife and five children, has been missing since last Thursday. He was recently transferred to Petawawa from Meaford.

Skid marks were found extending 150 feet to the dock's edge. A green metal suitcase, clothing and black beret were in the car believed to be Wright's.

Fourth Birthday Of Belle Haven Club Observed

The Belle Haven Rehabilitation Club celebrated its fourth birthday with a picnic supper under the trees at Oak Lake, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. Clarke, 2 Woodlands Acres.

The main attraction for the children was driving with Mr Clarke in his outboard.

Mrs. C. F. Moore presented Mr. W. B. McMurray with a leather, initialed travelling case from the members of the club in token of their appreciation for his assistance in transportation.

Also from Mrs. C. F. Moore a personal gift of a hand bag to Mrs. McMurray.

The members presented Mrs. F. M. Clarke with a tea pot, which, luckily, she already had a replica to in a cake plate, whereby stood a delicious birthday cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Clarke herself.

Everyone left with contented smiles and deep warm thanks to a splendid family for having given them a day to be remembered, in the conclusion of a happy week for them as Belleville Agricultural Society had kindly invited them to the opening day of their "Fair" where one also obtained some work which gave him encouragement.

Junior Charkers Stage Chicken Barbecue Party

PICTON — Nearly five hundred attended the chicken barbecue sponsored by Prince Edward-Lennox Junior Farmers at the fair grounds, Saturday night.

The supper, which included a half chicken for each, cooked over a charcoal pit, was served at long tables in the main building.

Afterwards the crowd moved to the agricultural and Recreation Centre near by, where an enjoyable program was given with Robert Williams presiding. A welcome was extended by Marilyn Fox, president of Prince Edward Junior Farmers and Miss Jean Barber led in a sing-song. A Junior Farmers' orchestra, in amusing regalia, played "When the Saints Come Marching In," "Walking My Baby Back Home," and "Five Foot Two."

Arthur Parliament and Allan Wardell presented a humorous skit. Miss Kay Homan, Hastings County, who is vice-president of the Ontario Junior Farmers' Association brought greetings and congratulations to the Prince Edward group on the success of this venture, the first held here.

Wearing appropriate costumes and playing in the building of a Model A Ford, the Charlston was performed by Joan Robertson, Arthur Parliament, Barbara Dick, Dick Foster, Bob Barber and Bill Pettingill. An encore was demanded.

Marilyn Fox contributed a vocal solo and Roger Redner a song with piano accompaniment. Arthur Parliament and Barber read the story Allan Vandelet, Arthur Parliament and Ted Foster enacted an hilarious baseball story.

A square dance team of Gertrude Parliament, Allan Vandelet, Barbara Dick, Laverne Way, Barber, Evelyn Wight, Jean Barber and Ken Wright put on a smart dance with Laverne McConnell as caller. The men were in blue and white shirts and the ladies wore black and white skirts.

Following the program there was dancing in the centre hall until midnight with music by Dunlop's orchestra.

Armed Bandits Steal $30,000 At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Police say three armed bandits who took between $10,000 and $30,000 from the Notre Dame de la Paix Caisse Populaire (credit union) in suburban Verdun Monday have helped in their getaway by three men in a second car.

Within two minutes after the bandits entered the credit union they had scooped up the money and were on their way in a dark grey car.

We have information that the three holdup men met three companions waiting in another car," said Detective Captain Raf Priestly. He said several persons had witnessed the car getaway. Police later found both cars abandoned.

The Verdun Caisse Populaire was the fifth held up in the Montreal area within three weeks.

Something Wrong

CHICAGO (AP)—A dozen persons came forward with claims for injuries they said they suffered in a Chicago Transit Authority bus which had a minor collision with a truck Monday night.

Authorities said the bus had only eight passengers.

Shot in Head Man Refuses To Tell Name

TORONTO (CP) — Police said today a man who refused to identify himself is in hospital here following a 2-mile car chase north of it along Highway 10 from the Cooksville area to Ground Branch ton on Toronto's northwestern outskirts.

Constable Maurice Strickland pursued a man in a car at speeds up to 80 miles an hour and ended the chase by pumping six shots at the fleeing car.

The sixth shot hit the man in the head. His car, which police believe was stolen from the Aylmer area, left the road, crashed into a tree stump and rolled over.

The suspect was charged with driving while under the influ ence. Fingerprints have been removed from his body.

Police also said the fleeing car shot around one police road block south of Brampton, narrowly missing two policemen, and roared by two other policemen in Brampton who tried to flag down the car.

The chase started about half a mile east of Cooksville when Constable Strickland was served on the Sudbury police force, became suspicious of a car.

Limit Evidence In Libel Trial At Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Prospects of a parade of celebrity witnesses were dashed Monday with a ruling that evidence would be limited to articles that had been read in a confidential magazine libel trial.

The decision came after statuesque, red-haired Mylee Andreason, 22, took the stand to testify that she was the unnamed friend in the September, 1956, Confidential article "What the Saints Come Marching In," "Walking My Baby Back Home," and "Five Foot Two."

Arthur Parliament and Allan Wardell presented a humorous skit. Miss Kay Homan, Hastings County, who is vice-president of the Ontario Junior Farmers' Association brought greetings and congratulations to the Prince Edward group on the success of this venture, the first held here.

Wearing appropriate costumes and playing in the building of a Model A Ford, the Charlston was performed by Joan Robertson, Arthur Parliament, Barbara Dick, Dick Foster, Bob Barber and Bill Pettingill. An encore was demanded.

Marilyn Fox contributed a vocal solo and Roger Redner a song with piano accompaniment. Arthur Parliament and Barber read the story Allan Vandelet, Arthur Parliament and Ted Foster enacted an hilarious baseball story.

A square dance team of Gertrude Parliament, Allan Vandelet, Barbara Dick, Laverne Way, Barber, Evelyn Wight, Jean Barber and Ken Wright put on a smart dance with Laverne McConnell as caller. The men were in blue and white shirts and the ladies wore black and white skirts.

Following the program there was dancing in the centre hall until midnight with music by Dunlop's orchestra.

Windsor Nurse Found Dead After Tooth Extracted

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A post mortem will be performed today on a 25-year-old Windsor nurse whose body was found Monday night in the attic of her home.

Detectives investigating the death of Mrs. Catherine Wagner, said her husband, Anthony, discovered the body about 9.25 p.m.

Dr. Peter Salkewich, whose office and residence is in the same house and who employed the nurse since 1953, told detectives he had extracted a tooth for Mrs. Wagner about six hours before she was found dead.

Dr. Salkewich was called to the attic by the nurse's husband. He injected a drug which stimulates the heart and administered artificial respiration. He then called an ambulance service to rush oxygen to the scene.

He told police that he found the nurse kneeling on the floor in front of an attic window. She was bleeding from the mouth.

Dr. Salkewich told police he gave Mrs. Wagner drugs before and after extraction of her tooth.

BAD AVERAGE

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—Police gave 402 cars safety tests here and found that 43 per cent were unsafe to drive.

BIRD GETS ESTATE

Louie, the feisty, 97-year-old macaw, holds the key to five of the choicest lots in downtown Victoria. Under terms of a will left in 1949 by his late owner, Miss Victoria Wilson, Louie and some other birds must be cared for until their deaths out of $400,000 estate before the residue goes to charity. Until the death of Louie, who eats a daily diet of bananas, the estate cannot be sold. Macaws are believed to live more than 200 years if well cared for. Young Boy Shot by Brother Dies en Route to Hospital

TRENTON (Special) —Roger Palmer, aged six, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Palmer, residing five miles north of Trenton off the Wooler Road, died en route to the Memorial Hospital today after being wounded by a shot fired by his brother Robert, 17, from a .32 calibre revolver.

It is understood that three of the children, the victim and his brothers Robert and Leonard, aged nine, were playing in the yard close to the house when Robert fired a shot which hit Roger, who was sitting on his tricycle not far distant. The bullet entered the boy's shoulder and travelled to a vital part of the body. The child was hurried to the house by the other children and Mrs. Palmer and the ambulance called, but the boy died on his way to hospital.

It is stated that the older boy secured the revolver around Wooler and the parents were aware the boy had the gun. The accident was investigated by Cpl. L. Lyle of the OPP detachment at Brighton and up until press time no charges have been laid.

Besides his parents, the boy is survived by three brothers, Roy, Robert and Leonard, and a sister, Miss Joan, 15.

Britain to Defend Only Bomber Bases If Nuclear War Comes

CANBERRA (CP) — In a nuclear war Britain will defend only her bomber bases, not the whole country, Prime Minister Duncan Sandys told today.

The British minister told a press conference in the Australian capital that the latest types of RAF fighters could not bring down a greater proportion of enemy bombers than during the last war.

But because a few enemy bombers carrying hydrogen bombs might get through, this proportion was no longer good enough.

"That is why we have taken a very bold step in deciding not to defend the whole country but to defend only our bomber bases.

"I must pay tribute to the people of Canada for the part readiness with which they have accepted these harsh but inescapable facts."

Sandys also said Britain is working on a long-range missile more advanced than anything in the United States.

Sandys had been asked whether American and Russian guided weapons programs were ahead of Britain. He replied that although the U.S. is several years ahead of Britain on the ballistic rocket, the British long-range strategic missile rocket will be of far more advanced type.

"That has been the tendency with all our atomic weapons. We do not try to duplicate what the Americans are doing. We try to get along with the next stage."

He told Australian defence planners Monday that Britain intends to develop a powerful missile of nuclear and guided weapons.

EASY THEFT

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)— Zoo officials say they intend to keep a tight watchdog for the zoo after two reporters visited the zoo one night and reported they could easily have released 125 animals including bears, buffalo, goats, porcupines and deer.

HOT RODDERS

LONDON (CP)—Hugh Parsons, chairman of north London juvenile court, complained that a "spreading wave of joy-riding in borrowed cars by juveniles. Far too many boys under age (17 years) are taking vehicles and driving them about."

Court Orders Happy Fellow Not to Whistle

CLAREMONT, Calif. (AP)—An abatement has been slapped on a jolly fellow who says he has been whistling ever since he was a small boy.

That's just the trouble, claim some of Ed Bachelor's neighbors who, seeking a modicum of peace and quiet, lodged a disturbance-of-the-peace complaint. A policeman called and asked Ed to have to knock off the whistling.

The officer said, privately, that it all seemed silly to him—he had never thought he'd have to tell a man to stop being happy.

"I guess I whistle because I have a wonderful family and a job I like," said Bachelor, "but if I'm disturbing someone I'm going to do my best to cut it out."

Bachelor has a plan. "Since the police cannot act now, my wife has arranged to have a bowl of gumdrops around the house. You can't eat gumdrops and whistle at the same time, you know."

The complaining neighbors say they hope so.

Father, 2 Sons Drown in Lake At Huntsville

HUNTSVILLE, Ont. (CP) — A 62-year-old father jumped into the water in a vain effort to save his two sons after their overturned outboard motor boat foundered Monday on the Lawrence Lake, miles southwest of here. All three were drowned.

David Rankin, a farmer from nearby Aspdin, stood on shore near Dwight Centre and watched the two, Malcolm, 29, and Alfred, 27, loaded shingles and nails in their boat. Witnesses said Rankin told the load across the lake to a cottage they were building.

When the sons started the motor of the 14-foot boat, the stern submerged and the boat sank 100 feet off shore.

The father, a one-time district swimming champion, plunged into the water to save his sons.

MANIED LIFE

An uncle, Harry McArthur, 77, who saw the accident from a distance, said: "There was no splash. The last I saw of the two boys, they were down, stacking out of the water."

Besides his father and Malcolm, a non-swimmer, were recovered close to shore in the six feet of water. The other son's body was recovered two hours later.

Police said witnesses thought the senior Rankin suffered a heart attack.

David Rankin is survived by his wife, two other sons and two daughters, both married. Malcolm and Alfred were both unmarried.

Gets Attention

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)— Mrs. Elsa Schenkel, a waitress at a taxi clerk, dropped her pencil Monday and got fast action from 10 males.

The 10, all policemen, showed up when Mrs. Schenkel, in picking up the pencil, accidentally triggered the holdup alarm.

Stubborn Pigeon Thrice Ousted From Girl's Bed

TORONTO (CP) — A determined pigeon which tried to raise a family in someone else's nest was finally evicted Monday.

Stella Jolner, 21, returned to her room three successive days last week to find twigs and sticks arranged in the middle of her bed. She threw them out.

Stella caught a pigeon building a nest on her bed Saturday, again the homesteader was evicted and a screen installed in the bedroom window.

The pigeon found another open window Monday and made its way to the bed, where Stella found it squatting on an egg.

"I'm not going to sleep on the floor so a pigeon can have my bed," Stella said, shooing the bird out again. Only the egg remains.

Ottawa Valley Crops Badly in Need of Rain

OTTAWA (CP) — A $1,000,000 farm-crop loss for the Ottawa Valley is forecast unless a 65-hour downpour of rain comes within the next few days.

Experts at the Dominion experimental farm here said Monday only rain soon can avert widespread crop failure in the agricultural belt between Pembroke, on the Ottawa River, and Brockville, on the St. Lawrence.

They said there seems no hope of further grain growth, even if rain comes. Much of the corn on high ground or sandy soil has stopped growing. Gardens, tomatoes and root vegetables are at a standstill and ripening is at an early stage.

The drought in Eastern Ontario is going into its second month. There were only 1½ inches of rain in July and no appreciable rain so far in August.

Reports from rural areas are that well water is at the lowest level in 20 years, and has even petered out on the St. Lawrence. Prayers for rain were offered in many churches Sunday.

FLAW IN THE ARGUMENT

Brig. T. G. Gibson, the Canadian Army's Western Ontario area commander, is almost certainly an excellent soldier, but we suspect that he may be a poor psychologist.

Brig. Gibson says that "juvenile delinquency would disappear if the youth of today were presented with enough challenges in day-to-day living."

Now there is just enough truth in this observation to make it plausible. With Brig. Gibson, we believe that much so-called delinquency is nothing more serious than high-spirited boys and girls seeking a thrill — and taking the wrong way of obtaining it.

There is, however, all the difference in the world between saying that some, or even much, of the delinquency is the result of a lack of challenge to youth, and maintaining that all of it could be eliminated by banishing boredom.

Brig. Gibson makes out a very good case for his argument, when he says that of 1,270 cadets in camp at Ipperwash, only two have had to be sent home for disciplinary reasons.

One could quibble and point out that two delinquents out of 1,270 is still something short of the disappearance of delinquency. One could raise the point that Brig. Gibson, in the final analysis, has an easy task — he just washes his hands of those boys he cannot handle and sends them home.

The real flaw in his argument, though, is that he is not dealing with youths as a whole, but merely a small, select group. Few boys with a tendency towards delinquency would place themselves under the discipline imposed on cadets in the first place.

BIOLOGICAL ACOUSTICS

The International Committee of Biological Acoustics -- now there's a nice collection of ten-dollar words to describe a bunch of people interested in the cat's meow, not to mention the dog's bark and the rooster's crow.

Seems that last year a group of scientists from various countries assembled at Pennsylvania State University to discuss the "problem" of the roaring of lions, the chirping of crickets and other assorted sounds. As a result of their deliberations, animal sounds have been "taped" and will be kept on record in a world collection to be housed in the Library of Natural Science at Cornell University, in the U.S.

This is not the first use of the tape recorder by biologists. Indeed, the volume of recordings of the way in which birds, animals, insects and even fish communicate by sound was rapidly becoming unmanageable, much of it being stored in laboratories not easily accessible to researchers. The proposed library will provide an international repository containing a wide selection of animal sounds from all parts of the world.

If anyone is tempted to regard the project as strictly for the birds, it strikes us that the library would provide the answer to at least one pressing problem which most of us face every year. Along about the end of February, when we are all sick of ice and snow and slush and are wondering whether we can possibly hold out until spring puts in her customary tardy appearance, we write to the Library of Natural Science and obtain the loan of a variety of recordings - - the buzz of ten million mosquitoes who have discovered a Quinte resident sneaking out of the oven-box of his home after dusk during a July cool spell, the lowing of the neighborhood cats on a May night, the laugh of the dog population playing among the peony shoots and the Bronx cheer of the pickerel schools as they spurn worms and minnows tossed onto the waters by the hungry fishermen. All this should make February a little more endurable than it has been in past years.

SURPRISED

The Ottawa Journal reports that a few members of Parliament have been shocked to discover that their offices have been taken away from them, temporarily.

"Forty of the 250 offices available to members have been loaned for administrative purposes of the Universal Postal Union meeting," says the Journal. "Members affected had been informed by the Commons staff, but not all had checked their mail."

A nice point arises.

Should it be argued that a member of Parliament too lazy to open his mail does not need an office, anyway?

Or, on the other hand, should it be maintained that any member so far behind in his work that he has not time to open all his mail cannot possibly afford to be deprived of his office, even temporarily?

No One Came For Full Year

Hamilton Spectator

One of our biggest social problems today—and one which receives little enough attention amid hectic anxieties about the increase in crime, the peccadilloes of teenagers and the irresponsibilities of motorists—is the frightening growth of loneliness which gnaws at the heart of a big proportion of our population.

And not only the elderly are victims, often the middle-aged and the young are afflicted.

In London the other day a woman died in a tiny apartment. She left a diary with the same entry for every day of the last year of her life. The entries simply said: "No one came."

The modern state, which we are all busily building, emphasizes physical well-being, but pays more lip-service to what is equally—and perhaps more important—those warm, human relationships which gave richness and meaning to the lives of our grandparents.

But the state is not entirely to blame for the prevalence of loneliness.

In the midst of our strivings to keep pace with something or other (no one knows exactly what, but it is labelled "progress" or "modernity") are we not losing our own heads? Grasping the shadow instead of the substance?

Apartment dwelling; "streamlining" homes so that they resemble the foyer of movie theatres rather than places in which human beings live, love, laugh and quarrel; driving farther and farther in bigger and bigger cars; seeing new fashions through windshields and windows; and making only personal acquaintances in relationships — are not these also factors in the breakdown of true, wholesome social life?

City life is impersonal, and the bigger a city grows the more its social groups shrink into islands in which loneliness is born.

In Toronto, a family of three lay dead in their home for several days before they were discovered.

A study of this problem was made recently in Buffalo, but the findings of the committee charged with it could apply to any major city in the Western world. The committee reported that loneliness was a "distressing and widespread" problem, affecting about 1,500,000 people who lived by themselves.

A solution might be the provision of more social clubs and community groups that would help to break down the artificial barriers that modern modes of living have erected.

But even this would be only partially effective. Friendships cannot be created artificially, naturally and are based upon intricate compatibilities rather than upon casual encounters. But clubs would offer opportunities.

The solution seems to rest with the individual, and it cannot be said to be found in a society in which speed is a fetish and leisure is sought, if sometimes virtues developed from "do-it-yourself" handbooks provided by enterprising publishers.

Doctors And Misters

Manchester Guardian

Controversy rages in the British Dental Journal over the question whether British dentists should like their American colleagues, be called doctor. It looks as though the "antis" are both more numerous and equipped with more and weightier arguments.

As one of them points out, the average British dentist (whether he has a physical claim to the doctorate or not) the only "real" doctor. And surgeons, even those who in the public eye be known as "Mr." through a minority may hope in time to alter this to "Sir", or even "Lord."

The foreigner must find English usage in this matter somewhat confusing. Many holders of degrees in philosophy or science seem to feel that it would be bad form to parade them. Or maybe there are afraid of being mistaken for medical practioners and called in on emergency accidents and confinements.

But there seems to be an increasing tendency for scientists working as such to follow the continental and American and Continental fellows and boldly announce their learning.

May Reduce Diesel Fumes

St. Thomas Times Journal

Only the oldtimers know what, if any, inconvenience was suffered from woodburning locomotives in the days of steam, perhaps some wood smoke and sparks cause discomfort, but nothing compared with soot, cinders and smoke from steam engines and fumes and sediment from diesel engines along with odors from both types.

It is quite likely that something will be done before long by diesel locomotive manufacturers to reduce the nauseating fumes when a diesel passes by, but no one is to worry about soot, smoke and cinders from diesels. It plays hell with eavestroughs and will through the frames of closed windows.

In some localities all such disagreeables might almost be blamed on the railways as hotels, factories and other large business ventures have big furnaces, from which, the so-called smog emanates. Much research is being done to eliminate the nuisance and clean air belts and in cities or places is in prospect. An improvement will be welcome.

THE PACKSAD

By GREGORY CLARK

With the pickling season only a couple of weeks away, I would like to tell you about my grandmother, Louisa Greig and her three friends, Auntie Turnbull, Mrs. Ammon and Mrs. Mallon.

My memory places them as very old and venerable ladies in black satin gowns and lustre, with bonnets encasing their tidy old heads, and they all being widows. Men died younger, fifty years ago.

I suppose they were in their sixties. It was their custom, all through the year, to meet every Wednesday at somebody's house; the home of a niece, nephew, son, daughter and when they ran out of these, they elected the home of some dear friend of any of their friends, who are often closer than kin.

They arrived carrying their aprons and pet cooking utensils, such as a favorite paring knife or a measuring spoon, for their black satin shopping bags.

After greetings, they proceeded at once to the kitchen and took over. They took over the use of the day, and the day-spanned jamboree of cooking, baking, pickling, preserving, preparing you ever imagined. It was their hobby, their recreation and their joy. Their nieces, ladies, in an unobtrusive way, were endeavoring to keep alive the ancient Canadian culture they had inherited from the pioneer ancestors. Cookery.

No incense rises.

Eggs May Get Plastic Shell

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

What good, asks Junior, does a cold bath do? Mom, Dad and answers do not convince him. In fact, Dad's remark that it is "hot" is here's an answer that will not convince him either, for, as he says, it is not hot.

Then how can took a cold bath laid 17 eggs in five days.

Previously she had been laying an egg every other day, which is about par. But one day the temperature in the barn rose above 100, and she passed out. Her owner threw a bucket of water over her head to revive her. After that she started her laying spree. Some days she laid three eggs, some days four. John Delaporte, the New York poultry physician. What made the hen feel conspicious, or what, he doesn't laid an egg since.

You can try this story, if you want to, to convince Junior that he should take a cold bath, but don't be surprised if it lays an egg.

There are hens that lay an egg a day or better, for a while anyway. Eggs have been reported of two a day. But that's rare. You see, eggs have shells that are never permitted to lay eggs without a shells, their job is to clothe the chick. The professor says that it takes, on the average, 18 hours for an egg to form and be laid. If it hours for the shell and eight for the rest of the egg. If all the time spent on shell formation could be saved, maybe a hens could lay three times as many eggs.

So there's a problem for scientists to tackle. They have done much with chickens to speed up their growth, protect them from various afflictions, give them the right nutrients, and so forth. In Beltsville, Md., poultry experts have produced small turkeys with a far higher proportion of white breast meat. But egg-laying seems to have been somewhat neglected.

Everything seems to be done with plastic nowadays, so it will not be surprised if a way is found to feed hens the making of an eggshell, so that they can concentrate on the filling.

British Eggs Scrambled

Cleveland Plain Dealer

This is nice business if you can get it. First you have to have a chicken farm and specialize in egg production. Then you sell all the eggs to the Government for 67 cents a dozen. But if your want any eggs for your own personal use, you don't take them out of the nest and buy them in the store and buy them back your own eggs or 52 cents a dozen.

That is the scrambled egg situation in Britain, it's explained by William Henry Chamberlain, in The Wall Street Journal. It seems that producers sell to the Government subsidy has engendered confusion to such an extent that foreign exchange must be used to pay for imported eggs. Thus, the surplus eggs are being dumped into Continental Europe countries today.

All this, of course, is on a small scale compared with the surpluses of American agricultural products which, existed by subsidies that were too long continued, after it no longer was necessary to stimulate agricultural production during wartime. It is just another example of what happens when government planners mess around with the law of supply and demand and find they can't repeal themselves when conditions change.

It rattles the conductor of this column if you can imagine him as an amiable character at any time — to receive telegrams or social notes, for instance, which he has to sign. Such messages automatically go into the basket to wait until all routine queries are disposed of.

Here's one telegram, for instance:

"Having difficulty to witness birth of our baby expected soon stop can you send me information which would help me see the delivery or to find a hospital nearby where I might be able to go in thank you.

(Signed) ——

Advocating, as I do, that the place for a man is at his wife's side at the wonderful moment when their baby is being born, you may wonder why the telegram irked me.

It was because the fellow said he wanted to "witness" the birth.

Does he think it would be a good show? Or does he suspect his wife or the hospital might play some trick on him if he is not there to keep everything above-board?

This senseless spirale reminds me of another instance of a similar "difficulty" — a man demanded that the hospital staff admit him to the delivery room; and when they very politely refused, he created a disturbance and picketed the hospital — until the police moved him away.

Again I say home is the safest place to have a baby. It is also home no one can put asunder a man and his wife at any time, if your home is the right kind for baby, then the time to decide whether husband shall remain with wife during the great miracle is six months before the baby is due to arrive.

In six months or less, intelligent people should be able to canvass the doctors in the community and find a doctor who believes a good husband should be at his wife's side when the baby arrives.

"If a father chooses to obliterate himself — well, he can be cut out by a prudish wife, both will pay the price."

An Illinois pastor quotes the foregoing from Dr. Grantly Dick Read's "Childbirth Without Fear" (Harper and Bros., $2.75) and asks:

Why is it that the medical profession of today is so opposed to procedures that would make for emotional and spiritual maturity of patients?

The head of one obstetrical and gynecological department answered the pastor's query when he explained why husbands and wives act asunder is because nineteenth century, lying-in-institutions. "Husbands are often in the hospital while everything disturbed and interfere with doctors' work," he said. In these institutions every one from the head man and the head nurse down to the janitor and receptionist regards husbands with amusement if not contempt — and what else do husbands deserve? Men — or perhaps we should say boys — are known to remain ignorant of everything pertaining to childbirth. Husbands remain in care of the baby, may put on the Gary Cooper or Jimmie Stewart act — but they have no dignity! A man with dignity is not easy to push around.

NOBODY OF DISTINCTION

Jesus, the man who has changed the whole course of history, was himself uneducated. He began His great movement by transforming the world by gathering about Him men of no edication or position. What would most of us have done had we stood in the position Jesus stood a thousand years ago? Undoubtedly we would have tried to draw to us the best and most esteemed people of the time. Given the task of changing the face of the earth we would have sought for bigness, education, and high position. But Jesus did precisely the opposite and gathered about himself a group of nobodies.

Would anyone but Jesus have thought of founding His Church on a man like Peter? How immature is the fact that living in an age of sophistication and culture, Jesus did not choose as helper a single sophisticated or cultured man. The world leaders of that time probably laughed ironically at the rag-tag Jesus group and found Him, and the pretense He made of world conquest. This man — we can hear them say — is really ridiculous. Who does He think He is and what does He think He can accomplish through the riffraff that follows after Him?

Well — read history. Peter, the Big Fisherman, stands large on the pages of history. And so do his associates.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE GLORY OF MEMORY

I have not been blessed in being given an exceptional memory. Names I meet, as evidenced by the fact that even my dearest friends have names I often momentarily forget. But I really remember the important things in these friends, and all that they have meant to me. That which went into the formation of their characters, the outstanding experiences, however, I recall as though it happened but yesterday! I am of the opinion that God thought all this out, and so we are privileged to recall the events and happenings of our youth to give ripeness to our old age.

Nothing is more tragic than to lose one's memory, for it is by this unable to continue and gain inspiration when so many of the events of life are behind them. Youth is very wonderful for it is so seeded with happy experiences that the impact is not fully appreciated until, low and behold, it is gone.

Old age forgets, but youth comes to furnish re-enforcements. I am always inspired by youth, for its memory is before me, and there is glory in it. I worry about the teen-agers. They are the salt of the earth and they are the carriers of memory. It is good to get their fragrance of thought and their activity of mind. They will come out all right. I was what they are.

Some of us are fortunate in our allotment of time. Memories fade with years. Even the events of our beloved remain to give us hope and faith. Memory opens the door, and lifts the shades so that the passing memories may be viewed and reviewed. Memories have a glory of their own to offer. Let us treasure well the events and happenings of our youth to give ripeness to our old age.

Nothing is more tragic than to lose one's memory, for it is by this unable to continue and gain inspiration when so many of the events of life are behind them. Youth is very wonderful for it is so seeded with happy experiences that the impact is not fully appreciated until, low and behold, it is gone.

Old age forgets, but youth comes to furnish re-enforcements. I am always inspired by youth,

Police Protect Negro Family Moving to Home

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (AP)—A Negro family has moved into this all-white community under police protection.

Some families Monday greeted the family's arrival with jeers and stone-throwing.

"All I want to do is be a good neighbor and I hope others do the same," said William J. Myers, 34, in his new ranch-style home.

Monday night 42 state police-men kept some 350 protesting neighbors in this development of 15,000 houses two blocks from Myers' home.

Rocks were hurled, and a policemen and a news photographer were struck. One man was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct.

SHOUTS TO CROWD

Police Lieut. J. M. Wicker shouted over a loudspeaker:

"You have struck one of my men. I will not tolerate this. I give you 10 minutes to get back to your homes."

Twenty-two troopers lined up with riot sticks and forced the crowd back. The sticks were used on one resident as Wicker said was curative officers and resisting the police line. Identified as Donald Walker, 34, a truck driver, he was fined $10 after pleading guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct.

By midnight, all but a handful of the crowd had returned to their modernistic low - slung houses which are a Levittown trademark. The police force was cut to four troopers guarding the Myers home through the night.

Even Bones Smashed Beyond Recognition

ISSOUDUN, Que. (CP) — The transport department has almost completed the job of digging up the remains of a DC-4 airliner which crashed here Aug. 11 with 79 persons aboard.

Parts of the plane are being gathered to help investigators determine the cause of Canada's worst air disaster.

J. O. Moury, crack government investigator, says it appears that the bulk of the Maritime Central Airways plane has been recovered from its soggy bog grave at a nearby swamp.

However, he said, it will take "another day or two to determine how we stand—we must be sure nothing is left behind."

RECOVER ENGINES

The four badly - mangled engines, recovered from the gaping crater created by the crash, will be sent to the Canadian Pratt and Whitney plant near Montreal.

Provincial police have the job of recovering the shattered remains of the 73 passengers and six crew members.

Most of the remains had to be buried in a common grave about three-quarters of a mile from the crash site because they were shattered to bits.

"What else could we do?" said police lieut. Martin Healey, "even the bones were pulverized beyond recognition."

Minor Baseball

Rollins Construction evened their two-of-three bantam baseball series with Parkdale last night at one game each by handing Parkdale a close 4-3 defeat.

The deciding game is slated for Parkdale grounds tonight at 6.30 p.m.

The winners plated two runs in the fourth frame to take a 4-1 lead. An error, walk and the winner's only two hits, by Cameron and Carson, gave Rollins their two runs.

Paul Zakos pitched for the winners, allowing five hits. He fanned ten while walking seven.

Mills and Stratton hurled for Parkdale, Mills the loser while giving up both hits. Stratton took over in the sixth.

A pair of neat unassisted double plays by Rollins' Dahl, aided the winners' cause considerably.

Stratton tripled for Parkdale with singles going to Goodfellow, McGrimmon, Moreau and Stratton.

Cameron and Carson had the Rollins' two safeties, both one-baggers.

Parkdale	100 000 3—3	5 3
Rollins	110 200 x—4	2 0

Elliott Motors downed Parkdale 10-1 last night to sweep their peewee baseball semi-final series in two consecutive games.

Fred Spafford hurled the victory, giving up four hits, fanning ten and passing 14 batters.

R. McBride was clobbered for 10 hits in the five innings he was test to accept the Parkdale loss. He fanned none and walked five.

Spafford hit a three-run homer in the third, D. Lucas smashed one in the second with men on base and W. Woods also hit for the circuit with one on in the second to help the winner's attack.

R. Rushlow had a triple, double and two singles, D. Lucas a homer and two singles, W. Woods a homer and double, Spafford a homer and single, A. Lucas a double and single, C. Benzon and P. Emerson two hits each and B. Goodfellow one to rack up the Elliott 11-hit total.

T. Locke tripled in defeat with L. Mullins, Railwell and M. Mullins also hitting safely.

'Near-Beer' Will Not Be Sold At Exhibition

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian National Exhibition officials say they have turned down a $6,000 offer to sell "near-beer" at this year's show.

They denied Monday rumors that thirsty midway patrons would be able to purchase the 2½-cents-a-glass light beer, brewed in Saint John, N.B., and the United States.

W. H. Collings, chairman of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario, said he had been assured the CNE wouldn't contrive in any way to "break the law," in selling the low-alcohol brew. Even a cereal brew imported from the U.S. and containing one-half of one per cent alcohol would not be sold at the CNE, he said.

Shipments of beer reputed to contain 2.4 per cent alcohol—slightly less than the 2.5 per cent alcohol defined as coming under LCBO jurisdiction—recently were banned after tests by LCBO chemists.

Mr. Collings' statement came on the heels of an announcement by a spokesman for Independent grocers in the Windsor area that they would attempt to import "near beer" from the U.S., specially diluted to take it out of LCBO jurisdiction.

Sent for Trial On Murder Count

THROLD (CP) — Thomas Arthur LaPlante, 22, of Hamilton has been committed for trial in connection with the July 10 killing of Edwin Jones of Hamilton, a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect.

LaPlante, arrested in a Cincinnati, Ohio, suburb July 23, was charged with murder. Jones' stabbed and bruised body was found on a side road near here July 1.

LaPlante was committed Monday following the reading at a preliminary hearing by Magistrate H. D. Hallett of a statement given to provincial police inspectors by LaPlante after his arrest.

The statement was not read aloud because crown attorney C. F. Forrestall of Welland requested that it not be released to the press.

Mrs. Veronica Maga of Hamilton, wife of the co-proprietor of the drug store robbed the same night Jones was killed, identified her handwriting on a scrap of cardboard box found not far from Jones' body.

Turkey Dinner Marks 50th Anniversary of Quinte W.I.

The Quinte Women's Institute celebrated its 50th anniversary in the form of a turkey dinner in Shannonville hall, on Wednesday evening; the ladies of Shannonville W.A. catering for the occasion.

The hall was nicely decorated for this special event with a banner in gold lettering with the words "50th Anniversary," and beside this was a placard with the words of the opening ode of the Institute.

The tables were decorated with vases of yellow mums and purple bachelor buttons, with matching table napkins, and lasen with turkey, dressing and all the special good things to go with it.

After all had partaken of this fine repast which was enjoyed to full measure, Mrs. K. Vivian, president, opened the program, and extended a welcome to all the 97 officers, members and guests. Mrs. Vivian said she was delighted to be the president on such a special occasion of the 50th anniversary of this Women's Institute.

The program consisted of a lovely piano solo by Miss Joan Clazie, a 4-H Club girl; Mr. E. Sandercock proposed a toast to the Quinte Women's Institute, complimenting them on this outstanding get-together and said these gatherings helped to hold an institute together." He congratulated the three charter members: Mrs. J. Garbutt, Mrs. F. Bennett and Mrs. N. Brown. The men responded to the toast.

Mrs. J. Garbutt, first president, who celebrated her 50 years ago, was called next and said she was made the first president of this Institute on August 2nd, 1907. Mrs. Garbutt was also presented with a life member in 1956. She concluded by asking all to sing "The Old Grey Mare."

Miss Geraldine Mowers, district president, brought greetings from her Institute and said how she enjoyed being with everyone on this special occasion.

A solo followed by Mrs. Bruce Portt, who accompanied herself on the guitar, which was much enjoyed.

CO-OP INSURANCE

Mrs. F. Perry, chairman of the Federation of Agriculture, was the next speaker, stating she was delighted to be able to come and speak on behalf of herself and husband. She concluded her talk by advising all farmers to take advantage of the co-operative insurance.

Mrs. J. Parrott, pianist of the Institute, rendered a piano solo, "Auld Lang Syne," which was very appropriate for the occasion, as it was the birthday of two members, Mrs. H. Grills and Mrs. W. J. Tufts. All sang "Happy Birthday" to these ladies.

Mrs. C. Holmes, past provincial president, was the next speaker, who started her Institute work in Melrose Institute which is the mother Institute of the Quinte Women's Institute, and was pleased to see so many of the Melrose ladies present. She also extended congratulations to the girls of the 4-H Club who, she said, some day will be Institute members.

The Rev. J. Robinson, minister of Shannonville church, was a guest and he congratulated the Institute on the fine work they were doing and also to the W.A. for the fine dinner they had provided.

A skit was put on by two ladies of the Melrose Institute, Mrs. Clare Wesse, who is president of Melrose Institute and Mrs. J. English, entitled "The Trials and Tribulations of the Working Girl," which was humorous and fully enjoyed by all.

The oldest member of the Quinte Women's Institute, Mrs. M. B. Wesse, was asked to speak and tendered a vote of thanks to all who took part in making the evening such a success, especially the speakers and entertainers, also to the Shannonville W.A. for the fine dinner they had served so nicely.

A lovely birthday cake was passed, which was specially decorated for this occasion. Mrs. Clifford Reid, past president, took pictures of the cake, along with the first president, Mrs. J. Garbutt, the present president, Mrs. K. Vivian and the district president, Miss Geraldine Mowers.

One minute's silence was observed for all the deceased members after which the gathering wended its way home, each one taking memories of a special occasion not too soon to be forgotten.

Women's Activities

TRINITY W.A.

MADOC —A most enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mrs. Ford Tumelty on Thursday where the members of Trinity United W.A. motored out for their August meeting. Mrs. Perry Bronson, the president, was in charge and extended to all a hearty welcome. The meeting was opened in the usual manner, followed by a business period.

Mrs. Bronson took charge of the Devotional period assisted by Mrs. W. McCoy, who read the lesson from the 93 Psalm, with the president giving the comment.

The program was to be given by all taking part, but owing to the lateness of the evening, Mrs. Bennett gave a humorous reading and Mrs. Albert Smeper, who was priviledged to attend the conference held in Renfrew, gave some of the highlights of the meetings she attended which were interesting and informative on the proceedings of the conference.

A pleasant social hour followed with the hostess serving bounteous refreshments.

Corduroy has moved out of the sports and casual class and finds itself at home in the most elegant surroundings. New York designers are making much of fine, velvety corduroy this season, using it even for handsome theatre coats, as well as most attractive and dressy suits. Here is a handsome suit of wide wale beige corduroy worn with its blouse of cream colored silk broadcloth, a fall, 1957, and year-around idea. A banding of the corduroy is the tailored finish for the cardigan jacket. The long-sleeved blouse is tucked down the front.

Bay of Quinte Golf Club Lady Members Have Big Weekend

This past weekend was a big one for the lady members of the Bay of Quinte Golf Club with local entries participating in both the ladies' annual field day at Kawartha, and the Mr. and Mrs. Day at Picton.

The largest entry in a district tournament this season, 184, turned out for the Kawartha meet. Belleville golfers picked up but one award with Mrs. Clarke James taking 3rd low net in the third flight.

Two door prizes went to Bay of Quinte players, Mrs. Steve Bowerman and Mrs. J. B. Creegan.

Eighteen Bay of Quinte club couples took part in the annual Mr. and Mrs. Day at Picton, where Mr. and Mrs. Steve Bowerman, last year's trophy winners, were honored. The Bowermans returned the trophy which they won last summer and were presented with a beautiful rose bowl for permanent possession.

TROPHY RETURNS TO BELLEVILLE

The trophy will return to Belleville, however, since this year's winners, Mr. and Mrs. Jonsson, are also members of the Bay of Quinte club. Mr. and Mrs. Jonsson had the low net scores for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. P. Sevens, of Belleville, captured the 2nd low gross while Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Waite, Quinte, took the 2nd low net.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Diamond brought another award to the Bay of Quinte club by winning the hidden hole competition.

Novelty prize winners from Belleville included: Mrs. Harold Hendricks, who took an award as the shortest lady in the tournament, and Mr. Ralph Ketcheson, the shortest gentleman.

Following the competitions, the host Picton club entertained with a delicious dinner, greatly enjoyed by all present.

English Girl Enjoys Trip Across Lakes

WINNIPEG (CP)—An English girl from Croydon who paddled her canoe 3,400 miles down rivers and across lakes from Calgary to Winnipeg said today it wasn't really rugged.

Holding out her hands, 21-year-old stenographer Ruth Theed said "See, they don't even have many callouses."

She was accompanied on her expedition by her collie, Stormy.

"All he did was sit in the front of the canoe and sleep."

Miss Theed said she undertook the trip because she wanted a close look at the Prairies. "It had already been done by motorbike and horseback so I thought I'd try it by canoe."

The main waterways in her trip were the Bow River, the South Saskatchewan the Assiniboine, the Qu'Appelle and Lakes Winnipegosis and Manitoba. In between these waterways she hitched rides with any traveller who was going her way and could transport the canoe.

MIRRORS AND LIGHTS PLAY BIG PART IN THE QUEST FOR BEAUTY

Only with a magnifying glass used in strong light can make-up errors be detected.

Of all boudoir accessories the most important, it seems, are often given the least thought. We refer especially to mirrors and lights. It is an absolute impossibility, for instance, for a woman to do a proper make-up job if she doesn't have proper lighting in her room. The mistake most make is to have a lighting system which is "soft and glamorous." This is fine for background effects but not for make-up jobs. Because the cosmetics you apply under such conditions will appear far different when exposed to the bright light of day.

Colors change perceptibly under different lights, so the smart thing to do is to apply your make-up under the same light that you'll be facing when you go out to meet your public. If you're going to be outdoors, take your mirror to the window and apply your make-up here. With the daylight strong on our face, you'll be able to tell if you're applying too much or too little; and whether it will look artificial when on step outside. If you're going out for an evening under soft lights, "put on your face" in light approximating that in which you will be wearing it. In this way you'll avoid the tragedy of leaving your boudoir beautifully made-up in your own estimation and glancing in a mirror later to find that even you can spot the artificiality of your looks.

Good mirrors are important too. Discouraging as the reflection may be at times, mirrors are a necessity — and we mean mirrors in the plural. For instance, every home needs a full-length mirror. It gives you a head-to-toe view, enabling you to check your entire appearance before stepping out. You'll need a small make-up mirror, too. You can buy such mirrors backed by a strong electric bulb. A three-way mirror is also a good bet because it helps you to see yourself as others will see you coming and going.

For job like eyebrow tweezing, a magnifying mirror comes in handy — especially if you're afflicted who wear glasses. Without your specs, you need a magnifying glass to show up tiny hairs that otherwise may escape notice.

Movie stars are always careful to be seen in the best possible light. They avoid harsh lights which show up every little line and wrinkle, every tiny blemish. And, when they're not going to appear under the soft, flattering glow of candlelight, where skin defects would not be obvious, they take precautions shih as we've outlined. For they know, and well, that any make-up job poorly done is a definite beauty liability. So take a tip from Hollywood where so much is done, literally, "with mirrors."

Cabbage Rolls Score 100%

By Mary Moore

The meal I was preparing had to have all of these specifications: 1 Good if leftover. 2 Undamaged by waiting. 3 Excellent flavor. 4 Require no watching. 5 Low cost. 6 Filling and nourishing. The answer was cabbage rolls or stuffed cabbage leaves or Gumbki or Kol dolmer or whatever you call it.

I have (nearly) one count against it: patience is required in separating the cabbage leaves. But I solved or avoided that problem by working from two heads—one of which was already removed outside bright green leaves. The coarse outside 4 or 5 I used for a cover for the rolls, copying Ella Villa's Finnish mother. Use all of the dark sound green ones for the wrap. The hard centres left over I will use for cabbage salad over the weekend.

CABBAGE ROLLS

At the meat counter I chose a cardboard boat marked "meat loaf combination," containing beef, pork and veal and costing 45c per lb., weighing 1 lb. 10 oz. for 74c. When I had it at home I mixed with it ¾ cup raw rice, 1 ground Spanish onion, 2¾ teaspoons salt, and, if desired, 1 chopped garlic clove, ¼ teaspoon pepper. While I was mixing it the easily separated outside leaves — 14 from 2 heads — were on parboiling in a big pot. They must be barely soft enough to be pliable and roll. Two or 3 minutes boiling is ample. Drain well. Spread them out on the counter and divide the meat mixture into them in little rolls. Enclose the meat by folding the leaf over from the sides then rolling up snugly. Place open side down, close together in large baking dish. They may be layered. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Pour over them 2¾ cups canned or raw chopped tomatoes. Or, better still, ½ cup tomato paste (6-oz. can is only 11c) mixed with 2 cups boiling water. Cover with lid or do as Ella's mother does, cover with 3 or 4 washed huge outside cabbage leaves. Bake 2 or 3 hours at 275 deg. Fahr. Or if you're in a hurry they may be baked at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1½ hours. Pete and Danny had worked for 10 hours building a concrete and stone block wall and were starved. They loved these. Three were left over and I made some the next day when I went to Stratford to see "Hamlet" with Wanda and Bill, and he reheated them in the top of the double boiler. He reported that they were even better on the second day. You decide.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU NEED TO USE SOME INITIATIVE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm a young man of 22 years of age. My problem is where to go to make the acquaintance of members of the opposite sex. I'm a member of the YMCA and I participate in church activities.

It's true there are a lot of young ladies everywhere, but a young man can't just go up to a girl on the street, in a store, or wherever she might be and ask her for a date. So what can you suggest? — G.A.

Doesn't the YMCA to which you belong have dances and other recreational activities to which young women are invited? Most Y's do these days. And how about those church activities? Every church has a group of the organizations whose members are of both sexes. Surely, in that way, no harm or nothing of this kind? And if it doesn't, how about enlisting the interest of some of the other church members in forming such a group?

How about that hobby of yours? Is it one that would interest young women as well as young men? If not, then I suggest looking around and finding, or starting, some group in town — perhaps a camera club, for instance — in which both sexes participate.

All this means that there are two definite steps you can take to improve matters:

1. Do a research job on what goes on in your town and list any clubs and other organizations which have a mixed membership. Then pick out two or three whose programs interest you the most and which promise the most social opportunities.

2. If you don't find what you're looking for in the way of organizations, have the initiative to line up some people who could help you start something lively and worthwhile.

You are only one of many young people who have complained to me of the lack of opportunity to meet other young people. But all too few realize that such opportunities rarely seek out the individual; that the individual must seek out the opportunity.

One or more thing. Since you belong to the YMCA, and also take part in church activities, you must at least have friends among the young men.

Why not perfectly frank with one or two you know best and ask if they don't know girls to whom they could introduce you? Most young men have sisters, girl relatives or girl acquaintances, so see what you can do along this line — if approved, pleasant way. If there are, as you say, a lot of young ladies everywhere," there's no reason in the world why you shouldn't be able to meet some of them.

It's nothing against you if you are a stranger in a town, as I gather you must be. But it does not speak too well of your intelligence or initiative if you can't find a way to stop being one.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WELL ANYWAY, IT'S A PRACTICAL PLAN!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are two aunts of a niece who is away at school and who plans to be married there. All her relatives live here. We would like to give a shower for her, but because of the great distance from here, she would not be able to be present. Would it be proper for us to give a shower for an absent guest of honor? And if so, who should open the gifts, her mother or her sister? — Two Aunts

I'm fairly sure that you don't really expect me to assure you that your plan for this Shower for an absent guest of honor is "proper." To begin with, it isn't considered "proper" for such close relatives of the bride to give a bridal shower. Let's face it . . . it's a very good practical idea, your idea to gather shower gifts for your niece, and I'm certain that the relatives will be willing to "come to the aid of the party." Fahr. Or if you'd like the best possible appearance, you "should make it a very informal party" invite only the relatives, verbally or by telephone . . . and at the re-unite-relatives-get-together, loving and warm-hearted toast to The Aunts, dear relatives of ours so cherished by all of us gathered here today . . . to wish her every happiness in her marriage." Then instead of having the gifts opened the paying, I suggest you send them "as is" to your niece. However, if you prefer to have them opened at the shower, her mother might be chosen as the "proxy."

Mother's Helper

THE WAXED containers in which you buy milk or cream can be made into disposable ice cylinders for those picnic potshakes. Fill them with water, close the flaps tight, put them in your freezer. When chilled and frozen solid, you can pack them where they're needed without the risk of soiling food or other foods.

Wonderful Wool Jersey

By ALICE ALDEN

Wonderful wool jersey is expected to capture more wardrobe awards than ever this year. From France comes a flattering afternoon dress fashioned of fine, supple jersey which was knitted on 28-gauge machines and then worked into a delightful dress. We like, especially, the side shirring of the fine fabric that borders a panel accented with pearl buttons in the same taupe color of the dress.

96 Guests Attend W.I. Banquet

SHANNONVILLE — On Wednesday evening, in the United Church Hall, the officers and members of Quinte Women's Institute, with their husbands and friends, enjoyed a banquet.

It is 50 years since the Quinte Institute was organized and a lovely anniversary cake was served. Toasts, speeches, instrumental music, vocal solos, and a humorous skit by Melrose Ladies furnished an enjoyable program.

Shannonville Women's Association catered for the banquet and 96 guests sat down to the well laden tables.

'Henitentiary' Produces 1,300 Eggs Each Day

ESSEX, Ont. (CP) — Douglas McBeth and his brother William have turned the production of eggs into a life-or-death business for their 2,600 hens.

The hens in what they call their "henitentiary" must have a production record of at least 50 per cent—one egg every two days —or off they go to somebody's roasting pan.

The hens however have everything in their favor. They live in a building that measures 30 by 160 feet, holding 1,200 wire cages. The project, filled with pullets, cost $1,200 and "it was the best investment we ever made," says Doug.

WORK AS TEAM

The "henitentiary" has helped eliminate fowl diseases and boosted production. Weather has little effect. When it's cold or warm, production averages more than 1,300 eggs daily, and the percentage of "culls" is less than one in 100.

For the McBeths the "egg factory" is a family affair. The work of feeding, gathering and cleaning eggs is done by team work.

Mrs. McBeth leads off the parade through the barn each morning. Her job is to record the pullets which fail to lay an egg. he uses a clothespin to mark the failure. Too many failures and the hen is released from egg laying.

Doug and his seven-year-old son, Ronald, follow on her heels. They gather the eggs for trays on the gathering cart and in 30 minutes the work is completed.

Then they go back to the start of the line and the 30-minute job of feeding begins. Three hundred pounds of specially-ordered feed is placed in the hoppers daily. Running water is available to the hens at all times.

SYSTEMATIC PLAN

The cages are built three feet from the ground, to save bending over. The floor of the cages is inclined, so that the egg rolls forward, away from the hen, reducing the need for cleaning the eggs and cutting down breakage.

The McBeths also have a scientific program for replacement. In a special pen, young pullets are raised from day-old chicks, obtained from a hatchery.

Over the year, about three-quarters of the hens will be replaced to make room for more productive birds.

Mr. McBeth is more than pleased with the venture.

"We started poultry-raised farming, and results have exceeded our expectations," he said. "Right everything included it costs us $36 a day to feed and maintain the egg factory. So far we have had wonderful results, and we're thinking of expanding."

Ready for Sleep After Paying $15 Ambulance Bill

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A nearby Denfield man slept so soundly Saturday night that his wife thought he had taken a full box of sleeping tablets. She ran a mile to the nearest telephone to call police.

Police and ambulance man managed to awaken him. He assured them and his wife he had taken only four pills.

He was ready for sleep again after paying the balance fee—$15.

Tosses $800 Into Street, Gets $600 Back

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — In the first mass test ever conducted here — unintentionally, that is — Providence residents proved that they are to a large degree honest.

On Saturday night Gordon Reid, 36, superintendent of an apartment building, in an outburst of generosity sparked, he said later, by Reid troubles, spiked drinks, tossed $800 in small bills from the apartment roof.

Traffic was tied up as men, women and kids snatched at the shower of greenbacks.

When Reid explained the money was not his and that he really did not mean to toss it away, people read the story in the Sunday Journal and started returning the money. By Sunday night $5 men, women and children had returned $600.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — Tommy Gray, of Delora, spent a few days last week with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Gray.

Mrs. Jack Spencer entertained about 30 ladies and girls at a girl's shower for her friend former neighbor, Miss Marilyn Reid of Bateman Settlement, in honor of her approaching marriage. Guests attended from Stirling, Bateman Settlement, Springbrook and Rylstone.

Mrs. Murray and his mother, Mrs. Jane Murray, of Cobourg, and Ajax; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rollins, Doreen and Marilyn of Foxboro, and Mr. and Mrs. Morton and Janice, of Mount Pleasant were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. Will Stanton and family. Earlier in the day some of them attended the Foxboro picnic at Oak Lake.

Wayne Milne is spending a few days with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Milne, at Blackwater.

Barbara Milne returned home from a visit at Blackwater and Lindsay last week.

Gore

GORE — Belleville was the Mecca for all last week. Of special interest was the Junior Farmer and 4-H Club department of the Fair. The encouragement given to the district's future farmers is well worth while.

The local Farm Forum held its annual picnic at Presqu'ile on Sunday last with a large crowd of members and friends enjoying a pleasant get-together in such an ideal picnic setting.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. Morden of Peterborough, spent Saturday with his sister, Mrs. S. Fox and family.

Mr. and Mrs. V. O'Hara visited his parents at Port Hope on Sunday.

A group of former Belle Telephone girls with their families enjoyed a picnic at Presqu'ile on Sunday. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Green and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Pulver.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redner, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Redner and Mr. L. Brickman and Miss Audra, motored to Niagara on Wednesday and visited Mr. and Mrs. Everett Daboll and little Chris.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Hatfield were in Toronto during the weekend. Mrs. D. K. Redner spent the weekend in Oshawa with her daughter, Mrs. Gerrits and family.

The August WMS meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Leon Ward with a good attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Pulver with their guests, Mrs. A. Pulver and Miss Sheila of Peterborough, spent Tuesday at the Sand Banks.

MANY COATS

There are 6,700 coathangers on board the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of England.

Albury

ALBURY — Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Williamson, of Consecon, spent a recent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Beaford Peck.

'Booster Club' For Hockey Team To Be Formed

Everything points to a successful meeting for organization purposes of the Booster Club for the Senior "A" hockey team to be held in the city hall chambers on Wednesday evening starting sharp at seven-thirty.

At this meeting officers for the year will likely be elected and a program laid out that will be rigidly followed. The Booster Club, when it is formed and active will be entirely in the hands of the members. The purpose of the club is to assist in projects that will assist the hockey team but over which the hockey management will have no control.

This club is not being formed simply for the male sex to have an outlet for their enthusiasm. The fair sex are cordially invited to attend the meeting and take an active part in the discussions and it is to be hoped many will turn out. The Booster Club at Whitby is a going concern and when the local club is formed probably some good pointers can be obtained from this organization. As Wren Blair of the Dunlops has often said "I do not know how we could have got along without the efforts of the Whitby Booster Club." Remember the time and place, Wednesday night at the City Hall.

Rollins Oust Shannonville

Rollins Construction shaded Shannonville 7-6 last night in the deciding game of their OASA bantam series. They will now meet a Peterborough club in the second round, the first game slated for Peterborough on Thursday, the second here Saturday.

Lorne Fitzpatrick hurled for Rollins, allowing seven hits while D. Ellis gave up eight on the loser's mound.

Shannonville built an early 4-1 lead before Belleville tied it with three in the third. They plated another marker in the fourth and two in the sixth while Shannonville finished with a pair in the seventh.

Roger Ling spearheaded the Rollins at bat with a home run and a single while Ryan also homered. The other safeties went to O'Brien, Williams, Fitzpatrick, Allenby and Butcher.

Hull topped the Shannonville hitters with a home run and single, Marcle also homered with Lewis, Brant, Green and Barberstock each bagging one safety.

The teams: Shannonville — D. Hill, D. Hull, D. Lewis, G. Marcle, M. Brant, D. Ellis, W. Barberstock, R. Akey, C. Green.

Belleville: J. O'Brien, R. Williams, L. Fitzpatrick, R. Ling, B. Ryan, C. Allenby, T. Bowers, T. Butcher, T. Cooney.

Little Benny's Notebook

Mrs. Columbo the cleaning lady went away for a vacation, and, ma said to pop, Mrs. Columbo sent a friend of hers to take her place on Thursdays, but she's a rather shifty eyed and I dont know if I can trust her. I wouldn't want to start missing little objects from various rooms, she said.

You cant depend on first impressions, pop said. I remember a girl who was ready to marry me at the drop of an engagement ring, but she was bow legged so I took a dim view of the idea, and then later I found out she was a wonderful cook and had half a million dollers in her own name, he said, and ma said, What girl was that for land sakes?

It's not gentlemanly to name names, so I'll just call her Priscilla Illspriss, pop said, and ma said, Mrs. Columbo assured me that this woman was the sole of honor and cleniliness, but still, I dont know.

Her shifty eyes may hide a steadfast heart, pop said. There was another girl I'll call Florabell Bellaflora. She had a freckle as big as a dime on the very tip of her nose, so I termed her down, and years afterward I learned that she is so handy with tools her husband never has to lift a finger in their house. After all, my dear, I even get the wrong impression of myself some mornings when I first look in the mirror, but after my coffee I realize it was only my imagination, he said.

I see what you mean, William, ma said. I mean I have days like that. Oh well, I think I'll let her come, she said.

Whitby Dunlops Sign Four for European Trip

WHITBY (CP) — Wren Blair, manager of the Allan Cup champion Whitby Dunlops, announced Monday he has signed four more top players. This brings the number signed to nine, of which eight are members of last season's club.

The latest are high scoring left winger Fred Eicher, defencemen Harry Sinden and Alfie Treen and centre Bobby Attersley.

Dunlops, who play in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A eastern group, will represent Canada in the world hockey tournament in Oslo, Norway, in February, 1958.

Point Anne Wins Over Lakefield

The Point Anne Cementmen plated a pair of runs in the seventh inning to hand Ray Judd and Lakefield of the Peterborough softball league a 2-0 setback in an exhibition tilt there last night.

Bobby Hull on the Cementmen's mound and Judd battled through six runless frames before Point Anne broke through. Gerry Goyer started the rally with a solid single and Hull won his own game by slamming a double off the right field screen. He went on to third on a passed ball and scored on Pat Gilmour's fly ball to centre.

Ted Batchelor prevented Lakefield from scoring at least two runs when he twice made tremendous shoestring catches and turned them into double plays in the Oo-point outfield.

Bob Hull allowed six hits, fanned five and walked two for the win. Ray Judd gave up three hits, set 19 down on strikes and walked none.

Hull had a double and single and Gerry Goyer a single for Point Anne while Neil Wasson collected two of the Lakefield safeties.

Hamilton TiCats Picked To Win Title As Big Four Opens On 2 Fronts

Defending Montreal Squad, Riddled With Injuries, Will Meet up and Coming Argos

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The defending champion Montreal Alouettes open their 1957 Big Four Football Union schedule tonight with apprehension because of injuries to key players, but coach Doug Walker may resort to a "secret weapon."

"We did that at Wake Forest and it worked" Walker said when asked if he would produce a secret weapon to offset what he calls "The worst string of injuries I've seen in 10 years."

Definitely on the shelf for tonight's game against the reconstructed Toronto Argonauts are imports Harry Sabcock, Billy Shipp and Joel Wells, and homebreds Doug McNichol and Tom Moran.

Half a dozen other players are suffering from sore ankles and shoulders, and assorted other miseries.

TOUT TICATS

In the other season-opener tonight, the high-touted Hamilton Tiger-Cats—chosen by many to finally unseat the Alouettes this year—visit Ottawa to tackle the Rough Riders.

Cats' hopes rest mainly in the hands of ball - handling wizard Bernie Faloney, taking over at quarterback, and hard-running backfielders Cookie Gilchrist, Ralph Goldston, Tony Pajaczkowski and Eddie Macon.

But Hamilton's popular selection as the team most likely to replace Alouettes was thrown into doubt when the team dropped an early 15-15 tie against Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in an exhibition.

Faloney guided Edmonton Eskimos to the first of their three straight Grey Cup titles in 1954. He returned after a tour of duty with the U.S. Army.

PFEIFFER WILL START

Ottawa coach Frank Clair said he will start end Al Pfeiffer, recently cut by Toronto after a stormy pass-catching stay.

Also available are centre Ron Pawlowski, guards Hardiman Cureton and Larry Hayes, tackles Ken Vaughn and Tom Jones, and bobby Simpson, quarterbacks Hal Ledyard and Tom Dimitroff, fullbacks Don Brandon and Tom Lewis and halfback Bobby Cross and George Brancato.

An important absentee will be injured halfback Jim Roseboro, who Clair figures will make Ottawa a contender.

At Montreal, Alouettes — as usual—will go with Sam (The Rifle) Etcheverry's pitching arm and the speedy gaiting of halfback Pal Abbruzzi as their main assets. with ends Red O'Quinn and Hal Patterson to gather in Sam's passes.

BACKFIELD STRENGTH

Halfback Johnny Majors from Tennessee may provide added backfield strength, and tackles Norm Hamilton, Bill Hudson and Al Makowiecki are counted upon to strengthen the Montreal line.

Toronto's revised lineup probably will present the following for tonight's game: centre Werner Stoneberg, guards Bill Albright and Chuck Weeks, tackles Daley Allen and Dick Fortis, ends Menan Schriewer and Leo Black, quarterback Tom Dimitroff, backs C. R. Roberts — a standout as USC — Dick Shatto and Tom McCormick, and flanker Pete O'Carro.

Any of the backs or ends could be replaced by Argonaut pass-defenders Art Powell, Boyd Carter and Al Dekdebrun, said coach Hamp Poole.

Relatively free of injuries, Argos count on a strong defence to halt Etcheverry and friends. The Scullers pulled a surprise 40-30 win in an exhibition game against Walker's athletes last week.

11 Out of 132 Able to Beat Par in Round

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Only 11 players out of the 132 entered beat par Monday in the first 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying round of the Canadian amateur golf championship at St. Charles Country Club.

In contrast, 19 under-par scores were recorded Saturday in two rounds of play by 32 Willingdon Cuppers. After today's second round, the low 64 go into match play Wednesday.

The golfers claimed the main reason behind the higher scores was the placing of the pins. In an attempt to toughen the course for the qualifying rounds, Royal Canadian Golf Association officials generally moved the pins back on the greens and, on some holes, shifted the tees.

The new setup failed to hamper the game of 39-year-old Alex Stoneham, a member of the touring British Walker Cup team who blasted his way to a 6,377-yard layout in a five-under-par 67.

HAD SEVEN BIRDIES

Long, straight drives, accurate iron shots and deadly putts carried Thirlwell, English amateur champion in 1954 and 1955, to seven birdies and a one-under-par 35 and two-under 34, which included seven birdies and nine pars.

Walker Cup teammate Joe Carr of Dublin, Ireland, and Canadians Ralph Bain and Bert Tiechurst, both of Vancouver and Gary Cowan, Kitchener, were the only others able to beat 70. Each had a three-under-par 69. Bain and Tiechurst were members of the British Columbia team that won the Willingdon Cup matches here Saturday. Cowan, 1956 B.C. amateur champion, was low man in the 36-hole interprovincial team competition with 139.

Bracketed at 70s were two 20-year-old golfers — Alex Sheppard of Sutton-on-Ashfield, Notts, England, another Walker Cupper, and George Knudson , of Winnipeg.

OTHER PAR BUSTERS

Philip Scrutton of the British team; Chuck Perdue of Miami Beach, Fla.; Bob Fair and Ted Homenuik, both of Winnipeg, rounded out the par-beaters as they carded one-under 71s.

At even par were Bob Kidd of Vancouver, a third member of B.C.'s winning squad, and Ian Caldwell, 17, of Leicestershire, England, also with the touring British.

Grouped with 72s were four Americans—Earl Larson of Minneapolis, Bud Nelson of Fargo, N.D., Edward Meister Jr., of Willoughby, Ohio, and Gene Cochran of Minneapolis—and seven Canadians — Otto McKnab and Glen Harvey of Winnipeg, Neville Best of Montreal, Clarence Stevens of Dartmouth, N.S., and Doug Silverberg of Calgary, Jim Harper of Edmonton and Gordon MacIntyre of Vancouver.

Hurler Tosses One-Hitter to Beat Elgins

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ed Mirer took his time arriving but when he did put in an appearance Listowel Legionnaires of the Senior Intercounty League found themselves with the mitt. The big righthander from the University of Michigan did not sign with the Legionnaires until July 1 (he had to finish his college semester) but since then has won six games in seven decisions.

Monday night he tossed a one-hitter at St. Thomas Elgins as Legionnaires defeated Elgins 4-0 and moved ahead 3-2 in the best-of-seven league semi-finals. It was the second time in the playoffs Mirer has beaten Elgins' ace Johnny Ambrose.

FANNED 12

Mirer, who struck out 12, had a no-hitter going until the ninth when pinch-hitter Russ Brown doubled, moved to third on Ed Berrington's error on a ground ball and scored when Ambrose grounded out.

In Great Lakes-Niagara action, Tonawanda Chicks forced a playoff with Niagara Falls Kerrits by trimming London Majors 9-3. It was Chicks second win in as many games with the league-leading Majors.

Chicks will meet Niagara Falls Kerrios in a sudden-death playoff with the winner going on to meet Welland Sellmans in the league semi-finals. Majors play Hamilton Beavers in another semi-final series.

Goodbye New York

Giants Decide to Relocate Ball Franchise in Frisco

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—It's all over but the shifting. The Giants, after three quarters of a century in New York, have decided to relocate their baseball franchise in San Francisco.

The official move will be made some time between Oct. 1 and Oct. 31, the specified time when such action may take place. The Giants are not expected to make the 3,000-mile trek across the country alone. In all likelihood their long-time interborough rivals, Brooklyn Dodgers, will move to Los Angeles.

President Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers was not available for comment but in an announcement regarding the Dodgers' intentions is expected to be made next week when the club's board of directors meet to consider a move to California next year.

DECLINES COMMENT

Everything points in that direction. Giant president Horace Stoneham, who announced the board of directors' 8-to-1 vote of approval for the club's shift to the west coast, declined to discuss the possibility of the Dodgers following in his footsteps. Another Giant official, who declined use of his name, said emphatically:

"You can bet all the money you've got the Dodgers will be in Los Angeles next year."

Stoneham's reason for recommending the Giants' transfer was simple and direct—poor attendance. Only once since the San Francisco offer was "too good to pass up," the Giant head said.

"We had to go now," he said. "Otherwise if we had waited until our lease at the Polo Grounds expired in 1962, there probably wouldn't be a good place left to move. Another thing, if we hadn't acted as quickly as we did, some other club would have beaten us to San Francisco.

"ATTRACTIVE OFFER"

"They made us such an attractive offer, we just couldn't turn it down."

The "attractive offer" included a 45,000-seat stadium to be built by the city of San Francisco, a rental of five per cent of the attendance, plus ownership of the concessions.

"We plan to play in the Seals stadium next season even though I have been told the park might be ready in 1958," said Stoneham. "Even now with its limited capacity (42,000), I'm certain attendance will be well over 1,000,000. Together with a $1,500,000 guarantee we are to receive from concessions with Skiatron, which will telecast our home games on a pay-as-you-see basis, I can visualize a more profitable year than any we've ever had in New York."

"I have asked Mayor Christopher of San Francisco to have the contract drawn up immediately. I'll be on the coast Friday with a week to sign it."

HAVE PERMISSION

Having already received permission from the National League to move to the west coast Stoneham said there was no need for another league meeting. He emphasized he had authority to make the move regardless of the league meeting.

There are still several technicalities to be worked out, however. The Pacific Coast League territory must be purchased from Boston Red Sox, who operate the San Francisco franchise; negotiations with the coast league must be initiated, and indemnity must be paid to the league and its members.

Should there be disagreement over what is a "just and proper compensation," he entire matter will have to be arbitrated by a seven-man board headed by the commissioner of baseball, Ford Frick.

Negotiations with the Red Sox already are under way, Stoneham said.

The move marks the fourth major league franchise shift in five years. Boston Braves moved to Milwaukee in 1953, St. Louis Browns to Baltimore in 1954 and Philadelphia Athletics to Kansas City in 1955.

Edmonton Gives Roughriders Second Straight Shellacking

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Edmonton Eskimos are back where everyone expected to see them—atop the Western Interprovincial Football Union, undefeated after their first two games.

The Grey Cup champions gave Saskatchewan Roughriders their second straight shellacking with a 37-7 count Monday night while at Calgary the Stampeders won their league opener 8-1 by opening up a 1-1 game with British Columbia Lions in the last quarter with a single, followed by a touchdown on their last play.

Thus after the first weekend of WIFU action, Edtx are alone in the lead with second spot shared by Stampeders and Lions., who thumped Roughriders 44-20 at Vancouver Saturday. Saskatchewan joins the winless Winnipeg Blue Bombers, defeated 21-14 in their only game so far by Edmonton.

Frank Filchock's Riders, touted as Eskimos' toughest opponents this year, were a long way off the pace Monday night. Their chief albi was a line weakened by the loss due to injuries of tackles John White, Calen Lasck and Martin Ruby.

NEVER IN DOUBT

The outcome was never in doubt. Young Edmonton quarterback Don Getty moved the Eskimos along the ground and through the air virtually at will in the first half.

He threw touchdown passes to Jackie Parker and Rollie Myles, both running from halfback spots, and to fullback Mike Lashuk.

Parker galloped 95 yards to score on a sensational kick-off return after taking Miles' handoff and fullback Normie Kwong went over the line for the other Edmonton touchdown. End Joe Mobra kicked four converts and end Bill Walker booted three singles.

Roughriders', only touchdown came on Ken Carpenter's line plunge. Halfback Reg Whitehouse had his convert blocked by tackle Reed Henderson. Larry Isbell punted for a single.

THROUGH THE MUD

In the mud at Calgary, Stamps' longer kicks left them with an edge. The more than 10,000 fans who trooped to Mewata Stadium despite a pervasive downpour made wild as Calgary blocked a B.C. field goal attempt from 14 yards out with less than 30 seconds of playing time left.

Centre Chuck Zickefoose picked up the loose ball for Calgary, and raced down the field for the touchdown. Glen Christian kicked the convert after the final gun, but was wide.

Lions' Vic Chapman kicked a single for Lions as the only point when first quarter, but Stamps tied the game with his first single in the second and put Stampeders in front to stay early in the fourth quarter. The third was scoreless.

Braves, Cards or Dodgers Dead If They Shoot Blanks On Last Swing of Circuit

By ED. WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

That's a weird game of Russian Roulette, with a strange twist, Milwaukee, St. Louis and Brooklyn are playing at the moment in the National League pennant race. You're dead if you shoot a blank.

Braves, even with a 6½-game lead, can't afford to ease off. Cardinals, in second after their worst slump in a decade, can't afford anything less than a quick winning string. And for the third-placer, Dodgers, it's Brooklyn against the world with nobody a pushover any more.

That's the picture as the west makes its final tour through the east this season — and its last stand at the Polo Grounds, where New York Giants are starting to pack for the trip to San Francisco.

Braves, who lost three of four games to the last weekend's winning 10 in a row, have a six-game edge on second place St. Louis but collected only 7 games left to play to Cards' 38. Dodgers are eight games down on the side with 36 remaining.

That's the last column that rules out Cincinnati and Philadelphia from anything more than audience value. The fourth-place Redlegs are 10 games behind in the lost totals with 38 left—three with St. Louis, six with Milwaukee and five with Dodgers. The fifth-place Phils have lost 19 more than Milwaukee with 37 remaining, with Brooklyn, seven with St. Louis and four with Milwaukee.

Braves, who open their eight-game tour with their final game at Pittsburgh tonight, have an edge over each of the eastern clubs, but have their best record, 7-5-1, against the last-place Pirates.

THREE-GAME SERIES

Cardinals open at the Polo Grounds with a twi-nighter in a three-game set with the fifth-place Giants who have won 11 of their last 14.

In 5th other National League games, Cincinnati meets Dodgers in a twi-nighter at Brooklyn and in a twi-nighter at Chicago where Sam Jones, riding a six-game winning streak, play two at Philadelphia.

If there are any die-hards left who insist New York Yankees don't hate the American League flag locked up with their 7½-game lead, the champs' current western trip ought to be the convincer. Yanks open a three-game set at Kansas City tonight. They are 16-1 against the As.

RED YE SECRET

The "race" in the American League is with the last, with Boston Ted Williams carrying a .392 average into the week-end series at Yankee Stadium trailing at .385. Williams opens the tour at Cleveland with a fat .500 against the Indians. Mantle has hit a .421 clip against Kansas City.

There was only one game in the modern Monday and Kansas City defeated Washington 5-3 with a combination of long shots. Tom Gorman (5-7) who hadn't had a complete game in almost a year and hadn't pitched a shutout since 1951, beat Indians on a four-hitter—riding in on an RBI single by Tim Thompson, and Wes Covington (6-6), going back to July 23, Ray Narleski lost it with a five-hitter for a 9-3 record.

'REAPIN' LOU SIGNS

NEW YORK (AP)—Lou Fontinato, New York Rangers hard-checking defenceman, Monday turned in his signed contract for the coming National Hockey League season and advised the club he already is in shape.

"I've been doing some tough constructive work," Fontinato wrote from his home in Guelph. He is the first Ranger player to come to terms.

Cannifton Nips Latta 4-3 for Second Victory

Cannifton Clippers climbed back into the fight for the South Hastings baseball league championship last night by shading Latta 4-3 in the fifth game of their four-of-seven series.

Latta leads the set three games to two with the sixth scheduled for Cannifton on Wednesday night at 6.30 p.m.

Cannifton did it the hard way last night, scoring their runs in the top of the eighth inning and losing in the bottom.

Latta lead. Latta netted all their runs in the third frame and Cannifton plated singletons in the second and fourth.

Cord Oliver toed the rubber for the Clippers, stopping Latta on seven hits over the route. He fanned six out a pair and walked but one. Hugh Petrie had his battery mate.

Stan Reid tolled for the losers and was tagged for 11 safeties. He fanned seven while walking but two. O. Glass was his relief.

Latta was charged with five errors in the game, cause while Cannifton bobbled but twice.

Forsythe clubbed three singles and is able to spark the winner's attack. Harvey Stollicker and Oliver contributed two apiece each with the others going to Sheffield, Cole and Forsythe.

Frank Ray had a double and single and Reid collected two base hits for Latta. Stan Reid doubled with Steward and Wayne Glass connecting for one-baggers.

The teams — Cannifton: Baker, Petrie, Stollicker, Sheffield, Cole, Forsythe, Oliver. Moore, Forster, Barker.

Latta: Parks, Glass, Steward, G. Cope, Sullivan, F. Ray, W. Gowe, S. Ried, H. Meeks, R. Reid.

Floyd Patterson Ready to Meet Pete Rademacher

SEATTLE (AP)—This is tapering-off day in the champion's camp as Floyd Patterson winds up training for a Thursday bout with challenger Pete Rademacher the "most heavily publicized fight in 20 years."

Some 20 miles way, at Issaquah, challenger Pete Rademacher planned one more session of heavy work today before breaking camp. The Olympic heavyweight champion's final view, Wash., and Columbus, Ga., retains his air of quiet confidence as fight time nears.

Although the majority of his bouts are amateurish, he had 79 and won all but 7—were booked by three two-minute rounds, the 210-pound challenger said Monday night he has no qualms over the prospect of going 15 three-minute rounds against the champion.

"I've watched Patterson five times on television. I know his style. I feel I'm ready to meet any type of attack the champion may select and I plan to let him set the pattern."

Marlene Easily Wins Round In U.S. Open

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (CP)—Golf-loving Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto tees off today in the second round of her defence of her United States women's amateur title.

The power - packed brown-haired native of Fonthill rewon easily through her first - round match Monday, defeating Elizabeth Brand of Sacramento 7 and 5.

The 22-year-old veteran of international tournaments was two over par on the 33-36—74 layout, but she overwhelmed her opponent with crackling wood shots and deadly approaches.

Marlene won the title at Indianapolis last year, defeating Joanne Gunderson of Kirkland, Wash. 2 and 1 in the finals. She is the first native-born Canadian to have won the title.

ONLY ONE LOSES

Three of the five other Canadian starters also won their first-round matches, and one had a bye into today's play.

Mrs. Jean Ross Calgary topped Mrs. George H. Nash of Concord, Calif., 4 and 3.

Rosemary Neuncorf of Toronto crushed Stella Mouw of San Bernardino, Calif. 6 and 5. Betty Stanhope of Edmonton got through the first round without playing.

Calgary's Mary Gay defeated Gloria Feltmer of Hollywood, Fla., 2 and 1.

Mrs. H. L. Mussells of Caughnawaga, Que., was the first Canadian entry to lose, dropping her match 4 and 3 to Judy Bell of Wichita, Kan.

The 19-year-old Miss Gunderson set herself up as a leading favorite for this year's title by defeating her Mrs. Charles Cary of Oakland, Calif., 8 and 6.

SET ALREADY

One feature of today's play is set already. Pat Lesser of Seattle, the 1955 champion, had a bye in the first round, then advanced into the third round by default when her opponent withdrew.

Canadian pairings for today's matches are:

Mrs. Streit vs Jan Tarble, Los Angeles; Rae Milligan vs Mrs. Dorothy Stamps, Pleasanton, Calif.; Betty Stanhope vs Judy Anderson, Sacramento; Mary Gay vs Mrs. Phillip Cudone, Montclair, N.J.; Rosemary Neuncorf vs Mrs. Jane L. Cadotte, Long Beach, Calif.

Move Spells End Of Coast Loop

SEATTLE (AP) — Decision of New York Giants to move to San Francisco spelled the end of the Pacific Coast League.

Indemnities will be paid, the amount to be determined by negotiation, but Pres. President Leslie O'Connor has declared the loop "will not fight" the westward migration of the National League.

With the Giants' board of directors voting the move to San Francisco, the next step anticipated is for Brooklyn Dodgers to name Los Angeles as their 1958 home.

Last to the minors will be San Francisco, Los Angeles and Hollywood, for sure. Probably last will be San Diego and Sacramento. There is talk here of a northern league with perhaps a double A classification two notches below that of the present PCL. Included as an alignment might be Spokane, Victoria and other cities in the area.

San Diego finds itself isolated. The blanket of major league talent from Los Angeles would cover the area.

Ma McGraw Has Only Memories Left of Giants

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — The bespectacled, grandmotherly little lady sighed today as her memories sped back over the decades.

"I guess all I have left now is memories," said Mrs. John McGraw sadly.

Mrs. McGraw is the widow of John Joseph McGraw, the Little Napoleon who ruled the destinies of the New York baseball Giants with a hand for 30 years.

Mrs. McGraw didn't want her beloved team to move and she was upset when she found that the board of directors had voted to move the franchise to San Francisco next year.

"It's one of the most tragic things that ever happened to me" she said. "I just can't imagine that I'll never again watch the Giants at the Polo Grounds. The Giants have been my life. Why, I don't know what I'll do with myself."

WON 10 PENNANTS

Little Napoleon died in 1934. He led the Giants to 10 National League pennants and three World Series titles. He was the first baseball manager to win pennants in more than one league.

Mrs. McGraw never forgot the club.

In the intervening years, she has taken her accustomed seat near the Giant dugout at least three times a week during ball game stands.

"Old-time Giant fans know me and bring their children to talk to me," she recalled. "They want me to tell them about Mr. McGraw and his teams.

"I guess I am happy because it keeps Mr. McGraw's memories alive. The children are pleased because they know they are talking to someone who knew first hand about the wonderful Giant teams of the past."

CELTIC BLANKED

GLASGOW (Reuters) — Rangers defeated Celtic 3-0 in the first round of the Glasgow Football Cup here Monday night.

Long Branch Pontiacs Top St. Catharines

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Long Branch Pontiacs took a 5-0 lead over St. Catharines Athletics in Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior A playoffs Monday night, scoring a 13-8 victory in the second game of their best-of-seven series.

The third game is at Long Branch Wednesday night.

Larry Huse and Bert Russell paced scoring honors for Pontiacs with three goals each. Steve Kapasky and Floric Tomchisen had two each, Peter Buse, Jake Rawson and Clark Pulford had single.

For St. Catharines, defenceman Gary Hind was the only two-goal man. Singles went to Bill Allan, Dave Hall, Norm Corcoran, Al Frick, Ted Howe and Garry Moore.

Bell and Perez Battle to Draw In Ten Rounds

NEW YORK (AP)—A bustling 10-round draw today earned Lulu Perez and Bobby Bell a return bout at St. Nicholas Arena, Sept. 6.

Matchmaker Teddy Brenner signed the two to a 135-pound contract as a reward for their good show in the fight at St. Nicks Monday night.

Bell, who was outweighed 135½ to 128½, finished strong in the last two rounds to gain the even split.

Referee Petey Della had Bell, of Youngstown, Ohio, ahead 5-4-1. Judge Mike Dardovitch had Perez, of Brooklyn, in front 7-3. Judge Leo Rodak had the first half of the 10 rounds and 6-6 in points.

Perez, a 12-5 underdog, piled up big lead in the first half of the fight. He scored with sharp left hooks to the body and head and shook Bell with a right to the jaw in the second round.

Bell, a 25-year-old veteran of 73 pro fights, applied the pressure with a steady attack in the final two rounds to gain the draw.

Neither was satisfied with the verdict. Bell said "I thought I pulled it out in the last two rounds."

Perez said "I won it big. I had the fight won early."

VEES GET OUTFIELDER

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — New York Yankees today sent outfielder to Richmond Virginians Monday in an effort to bolster Vees' lagging hopes for the International League pennant.

Bob Hunt, a 22-year-old power hitter, was directed to report to Virginians from New Orleans and is expected to arrive today, the day on which the player limit in the IL goes up to 26.

Hunt was batting less than .275 and had hit home runs for the Southern Association New Orleans team.
